McQUISTION & CO.,

NO. 10 SMITH STREET adjoining the freight depot

We have on hand for sale the best assortment of Carriages, Buggies, and Spring Wagons we have ever had. We have Dexter, Brewster, Ellipse, and Thomas Coil Springs, with Piano and Whiteoak bodies, and can give you a choice of the above patterns of wheels. Our work is the best made in this section, made by good workmen and of good material. We claim to be the only party manufacturing in town who ever served an apprenticeship to the business. Along with that we have had forty years' experience in the business, which certainly should give us the advantage over inexperienced parties.

In price we defy competition, as we have no Pedlers, Clerks or Runts to pay. We pay cash for all our goods, thereby securing them at the lowest figures and discounts. We are determined not to be undersold, either in our own make or manufactured work from other places, so give us a call for Surries, Phaetons, Buggies, Spring Wagons, Buckboards, or anything else in our line, and we will accommodate you.

We are prepared to do all kinds of

The London Times says that a novel application of electricity has recently been made in elephant catching.

It relates that "at a recent capture of forty of these animals, when the last of their unwieldy bodies had passed the entrance into the khedda, the signal for barring their exit was given, instantaneously and without a word spoken, by means of an electric wire."

Medicinal.

VERY IMPORTANT.

The importance of taking a good Spring Medicine cannot be overestimated. The changing weather affects the human system in such a way that it is now in great need of and especially susceptible to the benefit to be derived from a reliable preparation like Hood's Sarsaparilla. To make your blood pure, give you a good appetite, and make you strong, this spring you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best

SPRING MEDICINE.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla is invaluable as a spring medicine; it invigorates the whole system and tones up the stomach, and since I became acquainted with Hood's Sarsaparilla I always take several bottles in the spring, and as occasion requires, the rest of the year." L. U. GUNAS, Aurelia, Iowa.

GOOD HEALTH AND ENERGY.

"We have been using Hood's Sarsaparilla in the family for several years. I do wish that every family had it in the house, as it would make times better, i. e., every one would have more confidence and energy after taking a few bottles. Good health and energy improve business, poor health the reverse; if all took Hood's Sarsaparilla there would be no dull times. I will always use it and advise others to."

The Force of Habit.

It was after dinner in a well-known Boston hotel. A popular Commonwealth avenue physician had been dining with a few professional cronies, and as the cigars were lighted, the talk drifted to the tobacco habit, first in its effect upon smoking large, and then upon its peculiar effects upon various individuals.

"I know a man," said the elder physician, whose income, by the way, runs into five figures, "in fact, he is now in my employ, who is the victim of the strangest whim in regard to the use of the weed that ever came under my observation. He is a Scotchman about sixty years of age. Twelve years ago he deserted from the English navy and came to this country, when I gave him a position as coachman."

"One morning I went into the stable and noticed that a hole about two feet square had been cut in a partition between two stalls, and a little shelf had been nailed up underneath it. I wondered what on earth it had been done for, but Donald was away at the time, and when he came back it slipped my mind."

"It was as much as a week afterwards before I had occasion to go into the stable again, and when I did I found Donald standing on a stool, leaning his elbow on the shelf, with a long clay pipe in his mouth, smoking away like a good fellow, and blowing the smoke through the window he had cut. Upon my questioning him he told me that of the twenty years he had passed in her majesty's service ten of them had been passed on board a powder ship, where the rules against smoking were very strict."

"During all this time he had been accustomed four times a day to stand upon a chest and lean out of a porthole to smoke, so that no one could smell him, and when at last he took French leave he found that he could not get any satisfaction out of a pipe unless indulged in in the old posture, and so from that day to this, you can find him after each meal and for half an hour before going to bed, standing on that stool, blowing the smoke through the little window."

Potter Palmer's Two Engineers.

I know a good story about Potter Palmer which has never yet been published. One day Mr. Palmer went down into the engine room of his hotel and in some way got into a dispute with the engineer. Mr. Palmer ended the matter by telling his employer to go to the office and get his salary and get out.

Now, this engineer had been in Mr. Palmer's employ fifteen years, and knew every pipe, wire, and rope in the big hotel. The manager of the house, who, by the way, is now a St. Louis landlord, was greatly put out when the faithful employee told him the "old man" had "fired him."

"Jim," said the manager, "I don't want you to go. We would be in trouble if a new man took your place. I'll tell you what to do. Go and shave off that mighty beard you wear, dress up in your Sunday clothes, and go and strike the 'old man' for your old job."

An hour later Mr. Palmer was approached by a smooth-faced, neatly dressed man, who courteously inquired if he needed the services of a first-class engineer.

"That's just what I do," was Mr. Palmer's reply. "The man I've had here has been discharged. He had been a long time in the place, but he got sassy. As your papers are all right you can try the place."

That happened years ago, but Jim still holds the fort. Mr. Palmer has never regretted that he "fired" that "sassy Jim" and hired in his place the gentlemanly, smooth-faced man who keeps every thing in such perfect running order.

Treat the Girls.

When a girl is ten years old she should be given household duties to perform, according to her size and strength. For such a sum of money should be paid her weekly. She ought to be able to pocket money, and the knowledge how to spend it judiciously, which can so well be given by a mother to a little girl. She should be required to furnish a part of her wardrobe with this money.

For instance, if she gets ten cents a week she should purchase all her stockings or all her gloves, as her mother's supervisor she will soon learn to trade with judgment and economy. Of course, the mother will see that the sum is sufficient to do this, and yet leave a trifle for the child to spend as she pleases. This will supply a healthy stimulus; it will give her a proper ambition and pride in her labor, and it will give her money properly. As she grows older these duties should be increased with the proportionate increase of money paid for the performance of them. We know of a lady who divided the wages of a servant among her three daughters.

There is a systematic arrangement of their labor, which is done with a thoroughness and alacrity rarely found in a hired help or a daughter who feels that she has to do it with nothing to encourage or stimulate her in the work.

The Telephone Extortion.

How great are the profits of the telephone monopoly is shown by the cut in rates which took place in Montreal when the patents on the Blake transmitter expired. To-day telephone service in Montreal costs but $25 a year, with two competing companies. Even in crowded London the rate is but $50 a year. This country will be compelled to endure extortion under telephone patents until 1893, when it is to be hoped the bars will be let down to competition.

If not, legislative action should be invoked, as in Indiana, where the legal rate for telephone service is $36 a year.

Twenty-six lepers were recently baptized at Furlilla (Chota Nagpore), India, making in all 118 lepers received into the church since the commencement of the asylum there two years ago.

The Big Mascalonge.

The muskallonge, or mascalonge, is the largest member of the pike family, and is found throughout the northern lakes of the United States and in the St. Lawrence river.

The waters in which the muskallonge are most numerous have been fished for many years for pickerel, and bass and perch, without suspicion of finding monsters, but when sieves came into general use specimens were taken and anglers set about devising schemes for capturing the new fish by methods more likely to afford sport than by netting them.

It was at last determined that trolling with a large and brightly colored spoon with strong flights of hooks was the method most likely to insure success.

In taking the fish the angler seats himself in the stern of a skiff, which is moved rapidly along by reedy places or across inlets frequented by small fish. The trolling spoon is left to drag 200 or more feet astern, and goes skittering and flashing along like a particular attractive fish.

The muskallonge, inclined to try to gulp any moving thing, seems to regard the flashing object as a tidbit, and rushes at it vindictively only to find that all is fish that glitters. The steel is implanted in the jaws of the pike and a struggle then begins which is often continued through an hour or more. The fish rushes about furiously, and as long as strength lasts jumps from the water like a salmon or trout. When at last it is exhausted and drawn alongside the boat, it is usually beaten to death or speared.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

BELLEVILLE, PA., Nov. 27, 1890.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vt. Gents—I would like to make known to those who are almost persuaded to use Kendall's Spavin Cure the fact that I think it is a most excellent Liniment. I have used it on a blood-spavin. The horse went on three legs for three years when I commenced to use your Kendall's Spavin Cure. I used ten bottles of the horse and have worked him for three years since and has not been lame.

Yours truly, WM. A. CURL.

GERMANTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 2, 1889.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.

Gents—In praise of Kendall's Spavin Cure I will say that a year ago I had a valuable young horse become very lame, hock enlarged and swollen. The horsemen about here (we have no Veterinary Surgeon here) pronounced his lameness Blood Spavin or Thoroughpin, they all told me there was no cure for it, he became about useless, and I considered him almost worthless. A friend told me of the merits of your Kendall's Spavin Cure, so I bought a bottle, and I could see very plainly great improvement immediately from its use, and before the bottle was used up I was satisfied that it was doing him a great deal of good. I bought a second bottle and before it was used up my horse was cured and has been in the team doing heavy work all the season since last April showing no more signs of it. I consider your Kendall's Spavin Cure a valuable medicine, and it should be in every stable in the land.

Respectfully yours, EUGENE DEWITT.
