

To Farmers. J. S. WAITE & CO. BELLEFONTE, PA.

We do not claim to be finished mechanics, but we simply say to our customers and competitors that we use better stock and employ none but good mechanics to manufacture our fine line of

CARRIAGES, or BUGGIES, or SURREYS & SPRING WAGONS.

The best proof is that we find ready sale for our new goods, which show our competitors do not. A second carload of celebrated Conklin Wagons now on hand, and the largest stock of implements ever brought to Bellefonte.

We are glad to have Farmers call any time to examine these goods, and if you find it will be an advantage to deal with us we will be ready and willing to promptly replace any defective parts, as we fully guarantee all goods sold and handled by us.

We make a specialty of Repairs and Repair Work on all kinds of Buggies and Wagons.

BARGAINS in BARGAINS

CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, AND SPRING WAGONS, at the old Carriage stand of

McQUISTON & CO., NO. 10 SMITH STREET adjoining the freight depo

We have on hand for sale the best assortment of Carriages, Buggies, and Spring Wagons we have ever had. We have Dexter, Brewster, Elliot, and Thomas Coll Springs, with Piano and Whitechapel bodies, and can give you a choice of the latest patterns of wheels. Our work is the best made in this section, made by good workmen and of good material. We claim to be the only party manufacturing in town who ever served an apprenticeship to the business. Along with that we have had forty years' experience in the business, which certainly should give us the advantage over inexperienced parties.

In price we defy competition, as we have no Pedlers, Clerks or Renters to pay. We pay cash for all our goods, thereby securing them at the lowest figures and discounts. We are determined not to be undersold, either in our own make or manufactured work from other places; so give us a call for Surries, Phaetons, Buggies, Spring Wagons, Bunchboards, or anything else in our line, and we will accommodate you.

We are prepared to do all kinds of REPAIRING on short notice. Painting, Trimming, Woodwork and Smithing. We guarantee all work to be just as represented, so give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. Don't miss the place alongside of the freight depot.

"Take it Out of That." "Uncle Silas" Reynolds Gets Even With Hotel Clerk.

"Diamond Joe" Reynolds, who, next to Commodore Davidson, was the most prosperous and famous of the Upper Mississippi river boatmen, a quarter of a century ago, had an elder brother Silas, who was a rich and erratic as himself, the difference being that whereas "Diamond Joe" was given to rather flashy apparel, "Uncle Silas" was given to rather plain and simple. The elder brother lived on a vast farm at Sugar Grove, in Illinois, and his constant companion—cousin, is just the word—was a man named "Uncle Tom" Judd, who looked and was a good deal like "Uncle Silas." These two men were familiar figures about the old Board of Trade in Chicago. Both were tall and slim, and seedy. Each carried a long hickory pole, with bark on, as a staff, and "Uncle Tom" almost always had a basket on his arm because he could not bear pockets in his clothes.

One night the two old cronies missed their train, and were compelled to remain in Chicago, so they went to the Palmer House, which was then the newest pride of the city by the lake. The night clerk was a dapper young man, with an air of elegance and importance hovering about him. When he saw the two seedy old dodgers reach for the register, he accosted them with:

"Have you any baggage?" "He was told that they had not—nothing but Uncle Tom's basket.

"You will have to pay in advance, I suppose you know," said the pretty young man.

"Yes," said Uncle Silas, slowly. "I suppose you would," and with graceful but misleading alacrity, he went down into his trousers pocket and fished up a purse which he began to unwind.

"What is the cheapest room in the house?" he asked.

The clerk named the figure.

"All right," said Uncle Silas, "take it out of that," and he laid down a $1,000 bill.

The clerk at once put on his other manners. He was very sorry he had made so grievous a mistake. Of course he could not change the bill; but that made no difference, he said; they could have anything they wished.

"Can't change it, eh?" said Uncle Silas.

The clerk repeated that he could not and did not wish to.

"Well, Tom," said Uncle Silas, quietly, "come on, let's go to some first-class hotel. I told you we'd have trouble if we came to one of these cheap places," and the two men, out plunking their stuffs down on the marble tiling as they laughed along down the gorgeous corridor.

An Indian Challenge.

Two tribes of Indians in the upper part of California had as boundary between their districts a low ridge where the streams headed. If you should go to where one of these streams, Potter river, rises you would see still standing a tall pile of stones beside a never falling spring. On one side of this cairn was the territory of the Romo Indians, and on the other were enemies, the Chumai. These tribes were enemies, and were often at war. When the Chumai wished to challenge the others to battle they took three sticks, cut notches round their ends and in the middle, tied them at the ends into a fagot and laid it on this cairn. If the Romo accepted the challenge they tied a string around the middle of the three sticks and left them in their place. Then agents of both tribes met on neutral ground and arranged the time and place of battle, which took place accordingly.

A Kansas paper tells an interesting cow story. The cow in question recently lost her calf. After it died, she transferred her affections to the fourteen year-old son of her owner, for whom she manifests a strange fondness. She licks him just as she would a calf, and no one but the boy can do anything with the dumb creature. The other day the lad had occasion to go to town, and as he remained away until after milking time, his sister put on a suit of his clothes and went into the barnyard and succeeded in deceiving the cow until she (the cow) happened to see the boy coming up the road, when she kicked the pail over and made a bound in the direction of the youth, showing the most unmistakable evidence of delight.

A Modest Opinion.—Father—Now Peyton, my boy, who are really the best behaved members of your class?

Peyton—Well, pa, I think that Tom Pickett and I are; but, to tell the truth, I sometimes have my doubts about Tom.

Father—How many in your class?

Peyton—There's Tom and me.

A Friendly Tip.—Tramp—Please, mum, I haven't had a bite to eat for most a week. I've a meazel of teeth, mum, but they don't seem to be of much use to me.

Experienced Housekeeper.—There is a dentist down street who pays ten cents apiece for good teeth.

A Pleasant Program.—Mamma—Mercy me! Don't take so much candy.

Little Dot—But you said I could have some candy for taking that medicine.

"Of course, but so much will make you sick again."

"Well, then I can take some more medicine and have some more candy, can't I?"

Explaining the Item.—Client—You have an item in your bill, "Advice, Jan. 8, $5." That was a day before I retained you.

Lawyer—I know it. But don't you remember, on the 8th I told you you'd better let me take the case for you?

Client—Yes.

Lawyer—Well, that's advice.

A Game for the Young. I will now describe a game in which the mind is brought into play.

First of all the stage coach. The players seat themselves in a circle. That one of them who is the best hand at making up a story is chosen to be driver. If none of the boys feel equal to the position a grown person may fill it. Then to each one is given the name of something in connection with a stage coach or the harness—such as pole, whiffletree, thorough brace, trace, collar, reins, etc. Every player having received a name, the driver takes his stand where the whole circle is under his eye, and proceeds to relate a thrilling narrative of the adventures of a coach on a rough and muddy road in the dead of night, which should simply be a harrowing record of disaster.

Whenever the word pole, whiffletree, collar or reins comes in the players bearing those names must spring from their seats, turn completely around and sit down again. Whenever the word stagecoach is mentioned all the players must jump up, turn around and then promptly in either case entails a forfeit, and when the story is ended the forfeits are to be dealt with in the time honored manner.—J. McDonald Oxy in New York Herald.

Ten Years a Victim of Catarrh. How a Cure Was Found After Every Thing Else Had Failed.

If cases like the following can be cured, certainly there is hope for all. This patient had been growing worse in spite of all treatment for ten years, and had reached that terrible condition known as the third stage of catarrh (astrophic catarrh). The offensive breath and dry scabs forming in the nose, and cracking in the ears, describe a condition which is considered by most physicians as hopeless. The case is given in the words of the patient:

"KYLE, TEXAS, March 21, 1891.

"For ten years I have been a sufferer of that dreadful disease, chronic catarrh. The doctors all pronounced my case to be catarrh in its worst form. I took many kinds of treatment, but nothing seemed to benefit me in the least. I lost all confidence in medicine. At last I heard of Per-na. I commenced to use it, and soon found relief. I continued until I was completely cured, and am now entirely rid of all catarrhal symptoms. I would give ten dollars a bottle for Per-na rather than be without it. It has restored me to perfect health.

"Mrs. M. J. TAMBLEN."

It would be difficult to describe a worse case to cure than the above. The length of time it had run, the fact that it had continually grown worse, and the further fact that it had already developed the symptoms of the dry, or atrophic, state of catarrh, quite impossible to be made with the ordinary treatment.

This cure was effected by internal treatment alone, and no spray, gargle or inhalant was used. The case began to improve as soon as the medicine was begun, and in a few weeks every symptom disappeared, but the medicine was continued a while longer for fear they would return. Not a month passes but that hundreds of similar cures are made by the internal use of Per-na, unassisted by other treatment.

The only reason that there are any failures is either because the catarrh is complicated by some organic disease or the patient does not take the medicine long enough. The majority of people expect to be cured in a week or two of catarrh that has run ten or fifteen years. Such people are nearly always disappointed. Per-na will cure a recent case of acute catarrh in a few days or weeks, but when the disease becomes chronic it takes longer.

During the epidemics of La Grippe Per-na has been in great demand, as it is the only specific known for this disease. Not a single failure has yet been known in the cure of La Grippe where the Per-na was used from the beginning of the attack. In lingering cases of La Grippe, where other remedies failed to cure, Per-na rarely fails to completely restore in a short time.

Colds, winter coughs, bronchitis, sore throat, and pleurisy are all catarrhal affections, and consequently are quickly curable by Per-na. Each bottle of Per-na is accompanied by full directions for use, and is kept by most druggists or will not fail to order it for you if he does not already keep it.

The approach of Spring brings a host of derangements and diseases which require the most careful attention of every person who values his health. A valuable pamphlet on Spring diseases, giving a complete description of their nature and cure, sent free by The Per-na Medicine Company to any address.

Anxious to Nurse.

Dr. Scott Todd had been called in to attend Mrs. Keely, who was ill with pneumonia.

One morning while he was attending her an Irish woman came to the door. "Ez this where Missus Keely lives?" she inquired.

The servant told her it was.

"I hear she ez sick."

"Yes," said the servant.

"Well, me good girrill, shure d' ye go an' tell Missus Keely Oi keem to get a job av narsint her."

The servant told her that they had a nurse already and didn't need another.

"En, what's it that's th' matter wid Miss Keely, did you say?"

"Pneumonia."

"Ye don't tell me now!" An' who ez the doctor to be shure!"

"Dr. Todd."

"Ez that so now? Oi'm jest the woman ye want him. Goo oop an' tell Missus Keely Oi've joost been av narsint one av Dockter Todd's pashunt ez died av that same dissaize."—Atlantic Constitution.

"That tired feeling" is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives a feeling of buoyancy and strength to the whole system.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL REMEDY ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Read proof below.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

BELLEVILLE, Pa., Nov. 27, 1890. DR. B. J. KENDALL CO. GENTS—

I would like to make known to those who are almost persuaded to use Kendall's Spavin Cure the fact that I think it is a most excellent Liniment. I have used it on a Blood Spavin. The horse went on three legs for three years when I commenced to use your Kendall's Spavin Cure. I used ten bottles on the horse and have worked him for three years since and has not been lame.

Yours truly, WM. A. CURT.

GERMANTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 2, 1889. DR. B. J. KENDALL CO. GENTS—

In praise of Kendall's Spavin Cure I will say that a year ago I had a valuable young horse become very lame, hock enlarged and swollen. The horseman about here (we have a Veterinary Surgeon here) pronounced his lameness Blood Spavin or Thoroughpin, they all told me there was no cure for it, he became about useless, and I considered him almost a dead horse. A friend told me of the merits of your Kendall's Spavin Cure, so I bought a bottle and I could see very plainly great improvement immediately from its use, and before the bottle was used I was satisfied that it was doing him a great deal of good. I bought a second bottle and before it was used up my horse was cured and has been in the team doing heavy work all the season since last April showing no more signs of it. I consider your Kendall's Spavin Cure a valuable medicine, and it should be in every stable in the land.

Respectfully yours, EUGENE DEWITT.

Prices $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors.
