Indian Canoe Building.

"While visiting one of the small towns along the Susquehanna," said J. H. Mallett, of Hagerstown, "I was greatly interested in the way the Indians built their canoes. It is really wonderful how these aboriginals can, with the crudest means, and with a few days' work, convert an unwieldy log into a trim and pretty canoe. One Monday morning I saw a buck building a fire at the base of a large cedar tree, and he told me that this was the first step in the construction of a canoe that he intended to use upon the following Saturday. He kept the fire burning merrily all that day and far into the night, when a wind came up and completed the downfall of the monarch of the forest. The next day the man arose betimes, and borrowing a cross-cut saw from a logger, cut the trunk of the tree in twain at a point some fifteen feet from where it had broken off, and then with a dull hatchet he hacked away until the log had assumed the shape of the desired canoe. In this work he was helped by his squaw. The old fellow then built a fire on the upper part of the log, guiding the course of the fire with daubs of clay, and in due course of time the interior of the canoe had been burned out. Half a day's work with the hatchet rendered the inside smooth and shapely. The canoe was now, I thought, complete, though it appeared to be dangerously narrow of beam. This the Indian soon remedied. He filled the shell two-thirds full of water, and into the water he dropped half a dozen stones that had been heating in the fire for nearly a day. The water at once attained a boiling point, and so softened the wood that the buck and squaw were enabled to draw out the sides and thus supply the necessary breadth of beam. Thwarts and slats were then placed in the canoe, and the water and stones thrown out. When the steamed wood began to cool and contract the thwarts held it back, and the sides held the thwarts, and in a few moments the canoe was complete, without a nail, joint, or crevice, for it was made of one piece of wood. The Siwash did not complete it as soon as he had promised, but it only took him eight days."—Spokane Falls Review.

His Watch Chain Once Saved His Life.
Col. A. D. Gwynne, of Memphis, carries a chain that has a history closely interwoven with his own, for it is a relic of the battle of Shiloh, and brings to mind a time when the gallant Colonel might have yielded up his life in the cause of his country but for the same button. It was an old brass button of the Federal pattern, for at the time the battle of Shiloh was fought the Confederates did not possess a button peculiar to their own uniforms. Col. Gwynne keeps it brightly burnished, and its every indentation is as plain as on the day it was turned out of the factory. In the pride of its youth it was puffed out, that is, it was globular in form in the middle, but as it appears now the conceit has been taken out of it by the ball that struck it and flattened it. At the head of the Twenty-sixth Alabama Regiment of cavalry Col. Gwynne took a foremost part in the battle of Shiloh, and it was in the thickest of the fight that, when leaning over in a charge, a ball tore through the front of his cap, grazed past his nose and struck the first button on his coat, glancing thence to his right arm, which was shattered, so that for some time he was laid up for repairs. But he never forgot the button that saved his life, and ever since it has hung from his watch chain, slightly disfigured, but therefore the more honored.—Memphis Appeal-Avalanche.

No Rest for Weary Women.
Mrs. Brown (pale, weary and half-distracted)—"That's the ninth girl I've had with a month, and she just threw a flatiron at me."
Mr. Brown—By the way, a party of us today were trying to evolve a scheme for co-operative housekeeping. Our plan was to rent a small family hotel, hire our own servants, do our own mending and share the expenses.
"That's grand! It would be just like living in an absolutely perfect hotel, and at half the cost. Oh, I'm delighted! Who will go with us?"
"Well, there's Jinks, for one."
"His wife doesn't move in our set."
"And Winks."
"Mrs. Winks is a scandal monger, and you know it."
"And Minks."
"Catch me living under the same roof with that woman."
"Well, there's Binks, husband of your friend Mrs. Binks."
"Very nice in company, but they say she's a terror at home."
"And there's Fink's."
"And Mrs. Fink's is a regular old cat."
"And Pinks."
"Hub! Mrs. Pinks and her two pretty daughters, with no thought but dress and the theater! Nice ones they'd be to keep house with."
"And your dear friend Mrs. Kinks."
"She didn't return my last call, and I've dropped her."
"But what shall we do?"
"Get another girl."

No Comparison.—What's the matter now? called a Newark mother as her eight-year-old came to the gate howling.
"Bin grabbed by a bull-dog!" he shouted between his sobs.
"Lor, but what a start you gave me! I didn't know but what you'd been overtaken by a mosquito! Don't make such a fuss as that about a nip from a bull-dog!"—New York World.

The Queer End of a Snake Fight.

WARSAW, June 15.—One of the most exciting contests ever witnessed occurred at the depot of the Georgia Midland railroad.

The contest was between Ernest Lower's pet king snake and a little green snake, known as a "garter." The snakes were about of equal size and length, and it was hard to tell for half an hour who would prove the victor in the contest. After racing around the cage for some time, the king snake caught the green one about six inches from the head, slipping himself around his adversary and getting his mouth closer and closer to its head. The green snake while kept its mouth wide open as if in an effort to get its head too large to go into the king snake's mouth and thereby thwart its effort to swallow him. This effort proved futile, for soon the head of the king snake was firmly wedged into the mouth of the green one. At this point of the game another and more stubborn contest took place. In the cage are two wires—one running perpendicular and the other horizontal. Twisting itself around the perpendicular wire the green snake tied itself into various hard knots. Mounting the horizontal bar, or wire, the king snake began the work of unfastening the coils of the other by continued pulling and swallowing. When the feat was accomplished, with the exception of about a half foot of the tail, it looked like the king snake would be defeated, but with the same manœuvring the tail was untied, and the job of swallowing was completed. After finishing the task the king snake looked wonderfully pleased, and raced around eyeing the spectators for some minutes.

Pungent Points.

The devil has lots of silent partners in the world. A great many people get into the swim who can't swim. The hill of life has never been graded, and never will be. A pessimist is a man who says it hurts to have teeth pulled. If we are true to the present, we can expect much of the future. Does any man ever know when he stops being agreeable and becomes a bore? Suspicion of wrong doing breaks up more homes than actual wrong doing. There are a thousand and one ways to make money; there is only one way to save it. The sooner we learn the fallibility of all human kind, the sooner we respect ourselves. The best friends a man has are those who are never called upon to prove their friendship. No man ever forgot to charge his friends up with the things he promised to do for them. When women obeys man, she is his delight; when man obeys women, he earns her contempt. Love is a sacred matter; but it is difficult for a woman to make her fourth or fifth lover believe it. If a man can learn to forget himself, he is in a very fair way of earning popularity by remembering others. If it gags a man to kiss a man, why does it not gag a woman to kiss a man? Women are much nicer than men. There probably never was a woman who did not demand that her husband be as good as were his love letters. The girl who says she will never marry except for money, is the very first girl to make a fool of herself for love. Fool a man, if you enjoy it, but you will have to be on your guard every time you see him for the rest of your life. So many people have the look on their faces as if they had been allowed one last strike at something, and missed it.

The nice things a man says to a woman before he marries her, is called upon to prove every day after he is married. A man can usually tell his own fate by going out and looking at the weeds on the grave of a friend who died a year ago. If you have a friend who can be influenced either by the kindness or the fear of your foes, you had better abandon him.

TEA ICE CREAM.—Make one pint of very strong tea, mix it with half a gallon of new milk, add one pound of sugar and one teaspoonful of extract of cinnamon, set it on the stove, and let it simmer slowly until the sugar is all dissolved, then set aside to cool, then freeze.

THE REPORT COURTEOUS.—"And I say," said Lord Spindleshank, "why is it you Americans always have your hands in your pockets?"
"Very simple reason. We want to keep foreigners from picking 'em."

The tombstone man elevated his eyebrows inquiringly.
The doctor who had just come from the fine house round the corner, shook his head decidedly and passed on.

Hundreds at a Dog's Funeral.

WARSAW, June 15.—For a number of years Col. J. B. Dodge has been the owner of a most beautiful and intelligent shepherd dog. He was very friendly with children. Two years ago Frank, while interviewing another dog on the railroad tracks, was run over by a passing train, crushing one of his hind legs and cutting off his beautiful tail. On Thursday Frank, who had become quite decrepit, was struck by a train, killing him instantly.

The news flew like wildfire among the boys, and they concluded to give him a funeral such as no dog ever had in this part of the country. Selecting a suitable location the grave was dug and a respectable coffin was made, and Frank was placed in it in one of his favorite trick attitudes—that of playing dead. The coffin was then closed and the grave filled up in the presence of fifty ladies and gentlemen, who were attracted by the novelty, and at least two hundred boys. The whole proceeding was conducted with the utmost decorum.

When the Fight Began.

Three or four youngsters were playing on the dock when a quarrel arose. "I ain't no kid," exclaimed one, "and you shan't call me that." "You are, too," urged the aggressor. "I ain't; I'm as big as you are." "You're a kid, just the same." "I ain't neither." "You are." "I ain't." "Yes you are, for I heard my pap say your pap was a regular old goat that came home full every night. And what's a young goat but a kid?" Then the fight began.

A BAD HUMOR CURED.
$5,000 EXPENDED ON DOCTORS AND MEDICINE WITHOUT AVAIL GAVE HIMSELF UP TO DIE.
GOOD WIFE SUGGESTS CUTICURA REMEDIES. USES THEM 7 MONTHS, AND IS ENTIRELY CURED.

I was in the war during 1863-64, and took a heavy cold at Gettysburg, from which I never fully recovered. In 1871 I broke out in sores all over my chest and shoulder, which seemed impossible to cure. I tried all the famed doctors I could find, and to no avail. I expended some five thousand dollars trying to find a cure, but could not, and finally giving myself up to die, my good wife suggested to me, one day, to try the Cuticura Remedies, which were so extensively advertised and used. I followed her suggestion, and am happy to say by diligent application of your Cuticura Remedies for seven months I was entirely cured, after spending five years of time and money without result, and am a sound and well man today. You may refer to me if you wish, as I will tell any one who may call on me my experience.

Medicinal.

CREATES AN APPETITE.

There is nothing for which we recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla with greater confidence than for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache and other troubles of dyspeptic nature. In the most natural way this medicine gently tones the stomach, assists digestion, and makes one feel "real hungry." Ladies in delicate health, or very dainty and particular at meals, after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves longing for and eating the plainest food with unexpected relish and satisfaction. Try it.

DYSPEPSIA.

"I suffered a great while with dyspepsia and tried a good many remedies. A friend urged me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I have now taken two bottles. It has entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and a scurfous affection has also entirely disappeared. I can hardly find words to express my high appreciation of Hood's Sarsaparilla." ALEX. H. MERRIAM, City Hotel, Lancaster, Pa.

BROKEN DOWN IN HEALTH.

"For three years I suffered with dyspepsia, growing so bad that I was at one time completely broken down in health. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla on trial, and seeing that it was doing me good, continued with it. After taking six bottles I gained strength and appetite and was restored to my former health." KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

BELLEVILLE, Pa., Nov. 27, 1890.
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.
Gents—Would like to make known to those who are almost persuaded to use Kendall's Spavin Cure the fact that I think it is the most excellent Liniment. I have used it on a blood spavin. The horse was on three legs for three years when I commenced to use your Kendall's Spavin Cure. I used ten bottles on the horse and have worked him for three years since and has not been lame.
Yours truly,
WM. A. CURL.

GERMANTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 2, 1889.
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.

Gents—In praise of Kendall's Spavin Cure I will say that a year ago I had a valuable young horse become very lame, hock enlarged and swollen. The horseman about here (we have no Veterinary Surgeon here) pronounced his lameness Blood Spavin or Thoroughpin, they all told me there was no cure for it, he became almost useless, and I considered him almost worthless. A friend told me of the merits of your Kendall's Spavin Cure, so I bought a bottle, and I could see very plainly great improvements immediately from its use, and before the bottle was used up the horse was doing heavy work all the season since last April showing no more signs of it. I consider your Kendall's Spavin Cure a very good medicine, and it should be in every stable in the land.
Respectfully yours,
EUGENE DEWITT.

Prices $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors.
