

A TRIBUTE TO STATE COLLEGE.—Mr. Hiram Young, of the York Dispatch, attended the recent commencement exercises of the State College and speaks in the following eulogistic terms of that institution which has taken its place among the leading colleges of the United States:

"The state college promises to become very popular. Its appliances for giving a most practical education are unequalled by any college of English and classic training. We had visited this college a year ago. We find the progress and the preparations most extensive. The State has again appropriated $150,000 to complete and extend its usefulness. This college is destined to rival the great Cornell Institute of New York and that class of schools of practical training. The boy or girl graduating at the State College comes out prepared to fill a place of usefulness or to at once fill a situation in some profitable business. Study is combined with work, and habits of industry combined with knowledge, science and skill at this school.

The location is away from the temptation of city life, on a large farm. The college has laboratories, work shops, ladies' department, professors' homes and other apartments. To be convinced of the value of this growing important state college, it is well to visit it, and get correct and full information. The intelligent and interested visitors must come away most favorably impressed with the importance and great future of our State College. Agriculture, mechanics, English and the classics, all are most thoroughly taught. The great growth of these industries and the wealth and progress of State and nation demand in the growing future that the State keep up with the progress in supplying its youth with such a great practical college of learning."

PATRON'S PICNIC AND EXHIBITION.—The 18th annual picnic and exhibition of the Patrons of Husbandry of Central Pennsylvania will be held in Grange Park, at Centre Hall, Centre county, Pa., the week of the 14th to 20th of September. This popular gathering and encampment was attended last year by over 20,000 people, and the indications already are that it will be much larger this year, as upward of 100 tents are already engaged and every week brings in new orders. Tents are furnished ready put up and floored at reasonable rates to all who may desire to camp—entirely suited for private families.

Boarding can be had at reasonable prices at boarding houses on the ground or in private families in town. Hotel accommodation ample to suit all. Hacks and carriages running constantly from hotels to the park, also to the summit of Nittany mountain, from which there are the grandest views found in Central Pennsylvania.

FAMOUS PENN CAVE.—Acconmodations are also provided for those in attendance to visit the famous Penn Cave, only a few miles distant, which is entered by means of boats. Carriages and hacks are run daily to and from Grange Park to the cave to suit visitors or excursion parties.

There is no better opportunity anywhere in the State for manufacturers to exhibit and advertise their wares. The majority of the exhibitors sold out their entire exhibits last year, and established numerous agencies and secured large sales as the result of their exhibiting at the Patrons' Picnic in Grange Park.

Fine stabling for the exhibition of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, poultry, etc., on the grounds. It is proposed this year to put up a suitable building for the exhibition of agricultural and horticultural products, with rare and useful plants, showing the process of growth and production.

Ample arrangements have been made for all the tents that may be needed for the shelter and protection of the people at reasonable rates, but tents should be as much as possible engaged in advance so as to enable the committee to secure a sufficient number of them.

A full and ample water supply is furnished free for running heavy engines and machinery, also for stock and domestic use, as the resources for water supply and pipings will be much enlarged over that of former years.

A daily paper will be published on the grounds. Excursion railroad trains will be run hourly for the accommodation of the people.

Admission free, and those desiring can go into camp on Saturday, September 12. Religious services will be conducted on the grounds on Sunday.

For further information correspond with Tom Leonard Rhone, Centre Hall, Pa., who is general manager.

—Frank Gray, of Huntingdon, a young man, while in an intoxicated condition was instantly killed early Sunday morning a week near Petersburg. He boarded Oyster express that morning at Huntingdon but was put off at Petersburg. It is supposed he was struck by a fast train while sleeping on the rails. His body was cut up into small pieces, the only thing by which he could be recognised was the color of pieces of his coat. His remains were gathered up and taken home and were interred at four o'clock that afternoon.

Cleveland and Harrison.

Senator Kenna Says They'll Head the Respective Ticket Again.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, an avowed free coinage advocate, said to-day: "The heads of the tickets will be Cleveland and Harrison again. To my mind there is no doubt, who the Democratic candidate will be. It is in the air. All the signs point to Cleveland. Some Democratic Senators are opposed to him, but that is all there is to the opposition. It is confined to politicians.

The great mass of the people want Cleveland, and in the end their wishes must prevail. I believe that Cleveland is stronger to-day with the rank and file of the party than he was when he left the White House. He is identified with the question which is to form the issue in the campaign of next year, the great question of wringing from the people millions of money for no legitimate purposes of Government. That is bound to be the issue next year, and on it the Democrats will win.

"The other question is an important one, but it will be subordinate to the tariff question. While the masses of the party believe, no doubt, as I do, that free coinage of silver would be a good thing, they will not turn away from Cleveland because he takes a different view of the question. On all the other great questions of Democratic policy he is sound, and besides this the people believe him to be strong, courageous, honest and patriotic. He gave the country a magnificent administration of the Government, and he will be the man to lead the Democracy to victory in 1892."

The Pennsylvania Railroad's Second Seashore Excursion.

The first seashore tour, which left here Thursday, July 9th, was a most successful one and many persons who were unable to secure space will avail themselves of the second tour, which leaves Pittsburgh, Thursday, July 23d. This tour offers a choice between Atlantic City, Cape May, Sea Isle City, or Ocean City, as the rate is the same for each.

The excursion tickets good for ten days are to be sold at a rate of $10.00 from Pittsburgh, and at correspondingly low rates from other stations. A special train of Parlor Cars and Day Coaches will leave Pittsburgh at 8.50 a. m. for Philadelphia, stopping at all important junction points, where connections will be made with trains from branch lines. Passengers will spend the night in Philadelphia and proceed to the seashore by regular trains of the next day.

On account of the desirability of the seashore points, the liberal limited low rate of the tickets, and the fine equipment of the special train, this excursion presents the most attractive of summer outings.

Tickets will be sold from stations named below, and train schedule will be as follows:—

Letter from Rev. John Hewitt.

To the Editor of the WATCHMAN.

Your paper has brought me the news concerning my former home in Bellefonte for more than six years and I am constrained to acknowledge that I should feel lost without it. The reflection that since making this my home more than two years ago I have made no acknowledgement of your courtesy and kindness quite startles me.

If any information concerning these parts will interest your readers you may use the following. When first I saw this city in the spring of 1885 it had a population of about 20,000. At least that much was claimed. The United States census of 1890 gave it nearly 55,000. But this did not include the suburbs of West Lincoln, University Place, Bethany Heights and Havelock. If these had been included it would have reached 70,000. At any rate the growth of the past year fully justifies the claim for that number now. What do you think of seeing a town of 20,000 increase its population in six years to 70,000?

It is true Lincoln is the capital of one of the greatest states in the West and it has much advantage from that fact. But it is a great commercial city as well. Its railroad facilities, equal to those of any city in the Missouri Valley except perhaps Kansas city, have brought it to the front as a manufacturing centre and a distributing point, all now it stands in this respect almost on an equal footing with Omaha.

Six years ago, when I came to Nebraska, Omaha was no larger or more important place than Lincoln is to-day. What may Lincoln not become? The other six years? But besides its commercial importance Lincoln has another. It is a great educational center. Here are the State University with its five to six hundred students and the Wesleyan University, Cotner University (Campbellite) Union College (Adventist) and the Nebraska Conservatory of Music, with as many more students, making at least one thousand in all.

A further addition is now being made to the city by a military academy. The object and four members of my vestry advanced the money to erect all necessary buildings. The materials used to construct the buildings are Colorado red sandstone and brick. The site is three miles exactly from the center of the city, nearly one hundred and fifty feet higher than the principal business street, commands a view of the country around in every direction for a distance of fully twenty miles and is reached in fifteen minutes from the heart of the city by electric motor cars which leave every half hour. The increase of real estate values is illustrated by the fact that residence lots half a mile from our academy which we sold six months ago have since been disposed of at double their cost.

Our street car service is now nearly perfect, all lines, with a single exception, being operated by electricity, and I think we have thirty-seven miles of it altogether. The street lighting is perfect, the Thompson-Houston system of arc lights being used all over the city with a lamp in every alternate crossing.

As to water there is abundance and of the best quality, notwithstanding our close proximity to Salt Creek and a large salt basin. All things considered there is no city anywhere in the west of equal size whose prospects are as bright as those of Lincoln; none where investments will render as ready and as rich returns. The drought which settled upon the western part of the state last year of course affected its trade somewhat. But it is a fact that Lincoln rendered more assistance to the drought-stricken than Omaha. Thanks to the kind providence there is abundance of the state were never brighter than they are now. And neither the drought nor the Alliance legislation had any decidedly injurious effect upon its progress. During the winter there was a temporary lull in investments by eastern capitalists, but it was only temporary. The tide has set in again, and confidence has been fully established. Only last week a block of forty acres just outside the city limits was sold to an eastern gentleman for $85,000. The opportunity for such investments here just now are similar to those which Omaha offered five or six years ago, and whoever will take advantage of them cannot make a mistake.

It may interest some of the St. John's Church people to know that Beatrice, the city to which Rev. Mr. Davis has been called, is the third city in the state, with a population of 15,000; full of life and energy, and, in proportion to its size, the wealthiest in the state. We are having plenty of rain this year, and where "corn is king" that means plenty of king.

Come and see us. The President called on us recently and went away pleased. Your different political views cannot make you think less of a country like this than he does. And by the way in concluding let me remark upon the contrast between the President's last visit and a former one. He was here just before he was nominated and could scarcely draw a corporal's guard to hear him speak. On his recent visit he carried the capitol grounds would scarcely hold the throng. It turned out to see him, and my democratic thirteen year old boy sang a solo for his entertainment.

JOHN HEWITT.
Lincoln, Nebraska, July 7th 1891.

Obituary.

In Benner township, July 7, 1891, John Lutz, aged 68 years, 10 months and 27 days. The subject of the above notice was a faithful husband, an affectionate father and a good citizen. He spent the last twenty-four years of his life on one of Maj. Reynolds' farms, and was true to every trust committed to his keeping. One year before his death his youngest son was killed by a hay-fork, as many of your readers no doubt remember, and this calamity coming upon him so suddenly and without his having anything to do in shorting his own life. At least he never rightly recovered from the shock, and the sad thing was that in Bellefonte one day last winter, he fell from his wagon and broke one or two of his ribs. From that time on he never entirely well, other troubles setting in and causing his death on the above named date.

He was buried on the 9th inst., according to the rites of the Reformed church of which he was a faithful and devoted member. It was the privilege of all the members of the family to be present at his funeral; six of his seven sons carrying him to his last resting place. It is the pleasure of the writer of these lines to lay this wreath upon his grave as a personal friend and as one for whom he always showed great devotion. May he rest in peace.

Pine Grove Mentions.

Postmaster Heberling is off duty this week in attendance at his regimental reunion, the 4th regiment, P. V. Vols., at Williamsport, where we trust he is with the boys feeling loyal and happy and having a good time generally.

Miss Weaver, of Harrisburg, accompanied by her best fellow, are the guests of D. G. Meek and wife, where they have been royally entertained.

Harvest is about ended this week, when most or all the golden sheaves will be gathered in. After harvest hay making is in full blast and an unusual amount of acreage is being gone over, the crop being a light one.

Mrs. Gillafore, of Altoona, and Mrs. Garman of Williamsport, are visiting their large circle of relatives here amongst associates of their girlhood days.

Miss Lib Carter, who recently moved with her father, Mr. Jacob Carter, to Altoona, was, we trust, happily married soon after the dawn of day in that city last Monday morning. The bride is a most excellent young lady, of a most kind and winning disposition. The groom we do not know, but he can heartily congratulate himself on his good luck, and we hope has means enough to maintain a wife in comfort if not luxury.

On last Thursday, the 9th inst., our community was startled by the announcement of the very sudden and unexpected death of Mrs. John M. Homan, caused by heart disease aged forty-three years, two months and ten days. The deceased was in her usual health, apparently the best, and while busily engaged in her domestic affairs she took time to call on Mrs. A. S. Walker, a sick lady, and after administering to her comfort started for home to get supper for harvest men, after which she would return. On her way home she passed the field where the men were at work. She called for help, when her son William came to her assistance. She was apparently resting against the fence unable to utter a word. She was carried to her home where it was found that her spirit had fled, and another headlight of a happy family went out just at 4-30 o'clock p. m. The gentle loving hand of the mother was quietly folded in death's icy clasp in but a few minutes after she had left her sick lady friend. On account of the heated season the remains were interred at the Pine Hill cemetery the following day, and the funeral sermon was delivered the day following by Rev. C. T. Alkoms of the Lutheran church. A number of sisters and brothers, an aged father, Mr. Thomas Strouse, a husband and four children mourn the sudden death of a model woman whose death is irreparable.

A Farmer Robbed of His All.

UNIONTOWN, July 13.—Five masked burglars, heavily armed, entered the house of Farmer William Foster, of Franklin township, on Saturday. After binding and gagging Foster and his housekeeper, the robbers at the point of revolvers forced Foster to give up his savings of twenty years, amounting to over $1,500. The robbers are believed to have been members of the Cooley gang, which has terrorized the mountaintainers of Fayette county for several months.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

"According to St. John," is the striking title of Amelia Rives latest novel, which will begin in the August number of the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

This lady's startling debut in the literary field three years ago is not yet forgotten by the reading public, followed as it was by her marriage and retirement from active work, only occasional rumors being heard that she was employing her more mature mind in originating something of a higher order than that attempted in her earlier efforts. After two years of silence and travel in Europe, her reappearance in the arena of literature will be looked forward to with interest by both the reading and writing public of two continents, as her coming work will designate her standing in the world of letters as either a flashing meteor or a fixed star. Its publication in the Cosmopolitan is a guarantee that it will contain nothing of the kind that excited criticism in Amelia Rives' earlier productions.

—William Dean Howells in his new novel now running in Harper's Magazine broaches that perplexing problem of biology which has to do with the reappearance of types in animal life after the lapse of several generations. The same facts will be briefly discussed from a scientific standpoint by Dr. Andrew Wilson, F. R. S. E., in the August number of the same periodical. In a brief paper on "What is inheritance?" Professor Wilson will not only show that these "reversions" or "throw-backs" are common enough both in animals and plants, but he will explain why they may very naturally be expected to occur.

—A very valuable Supplement will accompany the next number of Harper's Weekly. It will be devoted to some special features of the eleventh census, and will present in tabulated form such facts and figures with reference to the progress, industries, and resources of the different States as are of most general interest to the public. It will be worthy of study and preservation.

"Girls on Horseback" is the title of an important series of papers to be begun in the next number of Harper's Bazar. Having to do with the practical art of horseback riding, even from its beginning by very young girls, the series will commend itself to the attention not only of young ladies and misses, but of their mothers and all others who are interested in this most healthful form of exercise for women.

—Lydia Hersey, of Bridgewater, a new story by Mary E. Wilkins, will be published in the next number of Harper's Bazar, published July 17th. The same number will contain the first instalment of a series of papers entitled "The House Comfortable," by Agnes Bailey Ormsbee. These papers, which will form an attractive feature of the Bazar for several weeks, will treat of a variety of subjects of great practical interest to house-keepers.

—The first instalment of a three-part story called "Diek of Diamond Rock," by J. Macdonald Oxley, will appear in Harper's Young People for July 14th. It is the story of an English sailor-boy, a "mishapite" in the days of "Boney" and Lord Nelson, and it is full of spirited adventure.
