Why Buchanan Never Married.

He Had a Love Affair in Early Life, but it Ended Abruptly.

A Minneapolis lady told me the other day the true reason why James Buchanan, the fifteenth President of the United States, never married.

"When I was a girl and a young lady at home I used to know Mr. Buchanan quite well. Father was one of his intimate friends, and used to spend a good deal of his time, nearly all of his Sunday afternoons, at his country place, Wheatland, about a mile from Lancaster, Pa., and it was near this little city that President Buchanan lived (when "at home") and died. I quote her own words:

"He told my father about the love affair. I've heard it dozens of times. He was engaged to Miss Coleman in Lancaster, and there, too, lived Miss Rose Hubley, also very much in love with him and mortally jealous of Miss Coleman.

"The course of true love was running smoothly for the lovers until Miss Hubley came between them. Mr. Buchanan had been out of town on business, returned late one afternoon to the city and on his way home passed by where Miss Hubley lived. She called him into the house and was there some minutes, then went directly home to get his supper.

"The course of true love was running smoothly for the lovers until Miss Hubley came between them. Mr. Buchanan had been out of town on business, returned late one afternoon to the city and on his way home passed by where Miss Hubley lived.

America's First Strike.

"Do you know that this government had been in existence over fifty years before such a thing as a strike was known among the laboring people?" asked Frank Grasser, of Cincinnati, as he leaned thoughtfully against the cigar stand at the Occidental.
