THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

The house of W. H. Gardner on the ridges near Howard was destroyed by fire last Saturday night.

Ex-Judge Orvis has been out of town recently examining some slate works lately established near Carlisle.

The water was turned on from the new reservoir at Centre Hall last week, and the new works are a success in every way.

Cards are out for the marriage of Harry Jenkins and Miss Jennie Luckenbach, both of Bellefonte, to take place on Tuesday evening, 22nd inst.

The fireplugs of Bellefonte have been painted white, which improves their appearance. It is an idea of Superintendent Rine, and a good one.

Meyer G. Guggenheimer, formerly of Bellefonte, is now associated with Shoneman Bros., importers of dry and fancy goods, at 116 North Eighth street, Philadelphia.

The annual session of the Central Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod, which was held at Philipsburg last year, convenes on October 1st at Duncannon, and will last about one week.

Maitland has completed the stand-pipe, which is made of boiler iron, and it will be put up at the reservoir. It is our opinion that to have any effect it should be on the other side of the town.

The Centre baseball club of this place went to Centre Hall last Saturday to play against the players of that place and were unsuccessful by a score of 9 to 4. It was a well contested game.

For attempted assault upon a little girl one day last week a Curwensville citizen barely escaped lynching at the hands of the enraged residents of that quiet borough. The fellow is now quartered at the county jail awaiting indictment.

A correspondent in the Philadelphia Times from Northumberland county recommends Governor Pattison to appoint Prof. D. M. Wolf, of this county, State Superintendent of Common Schools. Mr. Wolf would certainly make a competent incumbent.

The Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's Association will hold their first annual meeting and trap shooting tournament at Williamsport, from September 29th to October 2nd, only residents of the state being allowed to enter. $2,000 in prizes have been offered and the championship of the state will be decided at that time.

A swindle which has been carried on successfully of late in some sections is thus explained: "Persons visit the town and call from house to house asking to see the sewing machines, and if the machine is a certain kind they take out the shuttle and put it in their pocket, refusing to give it up unless the owner pays them for an alleged infringement on their patent."

Mrs. Joseph Bitner's recent death at State College was caused by an attack of neuralgia of the heart and stomach, a disease to which she was subject. Her maiden name was Baumgardner, daughter of Christian and Catharine Baumgardner, of Pleasant Gap. Her age was 35. She had many loving friends, and left a husband and two children to lament their sore bereavement.

There being an effort to have a Sunday train put on the road between Tyrone and Clearfield for the convenience of the traveling public and for the delivery of the mails, especially the Sunday papers, petitions are being circulated by the ministers of the different denominations protesting against this innovation upon the sanctity of the Sabbath. They are freely signed by many prominent and influential citizens.

Rev. Dr. Laurie, of the Presbyterian church of this place, returned to his home on Tuesday morning from his European trip, after an absence of nearly three months. In the evening a reception was given him in the chapel connected with his church in which some seventy-five members and other friends participated. An address was made by Mr. James Milliken, after which there were handshaking and other demonstrations of a hearty welcome home.

The new Presbyterian church at Centre Hall will be dedicated on the 27th inst., a week from next Sunday. Eminent ministers from abroad will be in attendance. Rev. D. K. Freeman, D. D., of Huntingdon, Pa., will deliver the dedicatory sermon on Sunday morning. Services leading up to the occasion will be commenced on Wednesday evening, the 23rd, and continued every night until the Sabbath. The aim will be to make a series of evangelistic sermons, by which it is earnestly hoped all will be benefited.

The Grangers Picnic Again!

Fair Weather and Good Speakers Attract Thousands of People. Gov. Pattison Fails to Come. Exhibits Poor but the Crowd Formidable.

Scenes at Grange Park.

Harvest is past, and once more the season of gaiety and festivity for the farmer and his friends is at hand. The crops are almost garnered and nought but the myriad shocks of golden topped corn is left to complete the yield of a most prolific season. The sad chirp of the katy-did and cricket and the rapid waning harvest moon are true harbingers of the approaching winter, and with them come the Grangers to celebrate the end of their work season in a grand jubilee.

This, the second annual picnic and exhibition held in Grange Park, the new home of Centre County Patrons of Husbandry, has so far surpassed any of the preceding gatherings in number of visitors and exhibits that we cannot but wonder whence all the people came.

The formal opening of the grounds, which took place on Saturday last at three o'clock, was not characterized by anything of an unusual nature, but was simply the time which had been set for the opening of the tents for occupancy. All afternoon and evening merry parties of campers were coming onto the grounds and soon smoke could be seen curling away from the rear of the tents. Then the honest hearted country boys and girls were called to supper and bed. Did we say bed? Well, no, not exactly, for when we retired we saw little knots of them grouped about under the lights, with mouths just far enough ajar to afford convenient darting places for all the bugs attracted by the glare of the torches.

Sunday morning dawned with a heavy mist enshrouding the whole valley, but when the sun came peeping over the head of Brush mountain, impressing the rosy kiss of a new morn on hill and vale, the fog rolled away and once more the pretty little tented field was in view. Soon it was astir and everything gotten in order for the Sunday services which were held in the large auditorium. Rev. W. E. Fischer officiated in the morning, Rev. Baskerville in the afternoon and Rev. S. Eisenberg in the evening. At each service the large tent was comfortably filled, and considering the size of the crowd everything was as orderly as could be expected. Many visitors were present during the afternoon, but a light shower which passed over the grounds shortly after dinner diminished the size of the crowd somewhat.

Having staid out rather late on Sunday night, for the girl we took home from church insisted on our sampling the cider and pumpkin pies which her thoughtful mamma had brought along, we were loath to leave our cot in the morning, and lying there in a light slumber we experienced one of the most peculiar sensations it has ever been the lot of this humble reporter to bear. From out the blurred jabbering of bustling women, the hum of machinery, and other unearthly noises, we heard the organ of a "merry-go-round" clearing away from "Annie Rooney" into "McGinty," and then ere we had time to realize the awfulness of the onslaught, we heard the lever pressed and out came "Comrades," in which Francy Speer joined with a vociferousness that called out the whole police force of the camp, and when the organ turned off into "See that their graves are kept green," Francy dozed again and was asleep.

The week opened with the best evidences of success for both picnic and exhibition, for every train brought car loads of machinery and various articles for display. All day the sound of the hammer resounded through the camp and busy workmen were hastening to get things in shape as early as possible. While there were many visitors on the grounds the crowd did not seem large, as everyone was engaged at some work or other and very little time was given to the gaieties which characterized the latter part of the week. About headquarters, grand master Rhone and his able assistants could be seen giving directions to the many inquiring exhibitors and tenters.

Very commendable features of this year's camp government are the efficient police force and stringent regulations concerning the sanitary condition of the place. A number of new hydrants and several large sinks are among the improvements in this direction.

During the course of the morning we were enabled to see inside the four new buildings which had just been completed and were then thrown open to the occupants. They are large frame structures, after the model of the other Park buildings, ornamented with fancy little cupolas, and, while not expensive, nevertheless afford ample room for exhibits which must be protected from the storm. Inside they are plain, but comfortable, and, with the decorations which those who occupy them usually put up, they present quite an attractive appearance.

As our work for the day was purely of an investigating nature, we roamed about the grounds, not failing to notice the many little improvements which had been made for the convenience of the patrons. Among them the hitching posts and watering places for horses, the three large boarding houses, the railroad shed for baggage and express, and many other little things which do not count much in the general run, but which nevertheless are indispensable to the well managed and successful picnic. Monday was verily a getting ready day, and when Tuesday morning dawned every one was prepared to begin the week in earnest.

The Picnic began in earnest this morning. Hitherto the time had all been spent in fixing up, but when Tuesday was ushered in everybody was ready and waiting to begin the celebration. Every incoming train brought its quota of merry picnickers, and by noon there must have been five thousand people on the grounds. The crowd was an unusually orderly one and the many police about the grounds found very little to do.

At 2 o'clock the Exhibition was formally opened, in the auditorium. The opening had been set for the morning at 10, but the threatening condition of the weather induced the committee to postpone it until the afternoon, when, after prayer and an introductory by Leonard Rhone, I. S. Frain, master of the county Grange, delivered an interesting talk. He was followed by Col. Jas. F. Weaver, County Lecturer, who concluded the meeting with a very able address on agricultural interests.

In the evening a good audience assembled to hear Samuel R. Downing, Deputy county Lecturer, whose talk, "Unity in organization means ultimate success," was greatly appreciated. After Mr. Downing had finished, Miss Brewer, the elocutionist from Delaware county, delighted the audience. This concluded the pleasure for the day and all retired well satisfied.

If nature had made the day according to the most exalted ideas it were possible to embody in an order, it could not have been more beautiful than was Wednesday. All the valley aglow in the sunshine, and the camp flags aloft on the warm September breeze, one could scarcely imagine a more beautiful rural scene. The delightful weather conducive to bring fully eight thousand people to the grounds, and an interesting throng it was. No better basis for character study than the different faces seen on Grange avenue, the varied expressions portraying only too well the nature of the soul within.

At 9 o'clock the Woman's meeting was held and presided over by Mrs. Anna M. Holstein, of Montgomery county, and Col. R. H. Thomas, editor of the Farmer's Friend, addressed large audiences.

Two o'clock brought the people together to hear J. F. Ailman, Lecturer for the State Grange, deliver quite a forcible talk on the farmer as affected by the political issues of the day. He was followed by Ex-Governor St. John, of Kansas, whose theme was "Temperance." The Governor's talk was very practical and entertaining, especially to the Democrats in the auditorium, for his views on the tariff, and even on temperance, practically admit that the only relief from disreputable government and the depressed condition of the business world is to be found in Democracy. St. John is a plain, easy talker, whose force lies more in the logic of his discussions than in eloquence. His language was simple though effective, and we venture to say that no one was disappointed.

The evening's entertainment was done away with, owing to some difficulty with those who were to appear, consequently every one was left to enjoy the light of the glorious harvest moon. The night was a perfect one in every respect and we verily believe that half the tenters on that field spent the most of it in front of their tents enraptured by the scene that lay flooded in golden light before them.

"Pattison's Day," according to the programme, but Pattison was not there to greet the thousands who had assembled to see him. Various estimates place the crowd at from eighteen to twenty thousand people, and if you wanted to study the different styles of dresses it was the place to do it. Long tailed basques and short tailed basques. Tails that were sewed on and tails that were made in the piece, and every girl thought her dress prettier than that of her sister. They were all out of sight, especially when they got off the "razzle-dazzle."

Mr. James McSparron of Lancaster county, and Dr. George W. Atherton, President of the Pennsylvania State College, made interesting addresses in the morning. Hon. Mortimer Whitehead, Lecturer of the National Grange, delivered the address in the afternoon, and in the evening the audience had the pleasure of listening to Dr. James Calder, of Harrisburg, and then another musical treat arranged by Miss Brewer, as-isted by the DeMoss Family.

One of the pleasantest features of the day was the banquet given to the Journalists present, by the Journalists' Association of Centre county. It was served by Achenbach, of Bellefonte, and a number of editors and reporters enjoyed the delicacies on the elaborate menu.

Up to the time when we go to press everything is moving nicely, and prospects for a crowd on Friday, "Old Soldier's Day," are very good indeed.

The two most attractive exhibits on the grounds are those of the Pennsylvania State College and McCalmont & Co., of this place. The College has displays from the departments which furnish objects of most interest to the farmers, and its botanical exhibit, while not extensive, adds a freshness and charm to the building which is truly attractive.

McCalmont & Co.'s exhibit of buggies, carriages and implements, which, while not near as large as it would have been had not a misunderstanding with the Grange Committee occurred, is nevertheless proving the centre of much interest. The able proprietors of the concern are receiving hosts of their friends and taking pleasure in explaining the intricacies of the various exhibits they display.

Harry Chaapel, the popular Williamsport florist, has a very pretty floral display in the building occupied by the Pennsylvania State College. The jars of cut flowers which stood about on his tables were admired by everyone and his exhibit of bulbs, etc was interesting.

Hon. A. H. Mylin, State Senator from Lancaster county, dropped in to see us last Friday morning, on his way from State College, which he had visited in company with Mr. William Gingrich, of Lancaster. They had accompanied some new students to the State College, one of whom was a son Mr. Gingrich. Mr. Gingrich is a director of the People's Bank of Lancaster City, of which the late Samuel H. Reynolds was president.

BAD RAILROAD WRECK AT LOCK HAVEN.—Wednesday of last week a collision occurred on the P. & E. road at Lock Haven by which fourteen cars loaded with miscellaneous freight was piled up, promiscuously. The collision was so forcible that one of the engines was completely turned round, toppled over and all smashed up.

Two men were badly hurt, but it is a matter of congratulation that no one was killed outright. James Burd, of Sunbury, engineer of the freight train, was thrown out a considerable distance and had his right shoulder broken, two fingers dislocated and was out some about the head but not seriously. William Barnhart, the fireman, also of Sunbury, was thrown under the boiler of the wrecked engine and would have undoubtedly been killed had it not been that the spot was filled up with a pile of cinders, which gave way and afforded his body room to lie without crushing. He was badly scalded on the breast, legs and arms and when men came to rescue him he was found trying to dig himself out of his perilous position. Both men were conveyed to the depot as soon as possible, where their wounds were attended to by Drs. Watson and Lichtenhaler. Travel was completely blocked and passengers on Erie mail had to be transferred. The work of cleaning the wreck was begun as soon as the proper arrangements could be made.

A DEAD CHILD BURIED IN A CHICKEN YARD.—On Wednesday of last week Coburn had his sensation, when it was noised about that an infant child had been found buried in a chicken yard. The facts in the case are these: Caroline Wilson, a young woman of 19 years, of Hubersburg, came to Coburn about four weeks ago, making her home with her sister, Mrs. Monroe Kreamer. On the 31st of last month at about noon the girl gave birth to a healthy child. A few hours later the child was dead and that same night the inhuman mother had it buried in the chicken yard on her sister's premises. Mrs. John Rote, a neighbor, who attended the young woman, reported the strange proceedings to Squire Garthoff, who at once reported the matter to District Attorney Meyer at Bellefonte. The latter wired back to have the corpse dug out and a jury ordered empanelled. The body was examined by a physician summoned for that purpose, but nothing could be found to indicate that the child died an unnatural death. It then received decent burial and the Wilson woman was arrested on Tuesday evening on the charge of concealing the death of a bastard child, and was committed to jail yesterday. At this writing the jury had not yet arrived at a verdict as to how the child came to its death.—Millington Journal last week.

The last criminal court in Clearfield county found thirty-two prisoners in jail, most of them awaiting trial.

The large saw mill of Howard & Perley at the foot of Rose street, Williamsport, caught fire about half-past 12 o'clock Friday night and in two hours was totally destroyed, involving a loss of about $50,000. No other property was involved in the destruction.

19 new buggies, 5 second hand, and one 2nd hand spring wagon for sale at bottom prices by McQuiston & Co.

One hundred and six cases of fever are reported from the Fifteenth and Sixteenth wards of Johnstown. Most of the cases are malaria, but many are pronounced to be genuine cases of typhoid. This disease is said to emanate from a swamp within the limits of the town.

We have the largest stock of home made buggies in the county and at the lowest figures for the grade of work. McQuiston & Co.

TRICKY, IF TRUE.—The Karthaus Times is responsible for the following item: Tyrone citizens must like oleomargarine, as we heard a clerk in a store in that town say that the firm he clerks for sells about 5,000 pounds per year. He says that the law requires the name to be put on the package containing the amount sold. To do that they stamp it on the wrapper and wrap the butter in it, putting the name next the butter where it is never discovered by the purchaser. He says they lay rolls of it among rolls of butter, and customers, nine times out of ten, pick on it instead of pure butter, thinking they are buying the pure stuff. The first pays from 12 to 15 cents per pound for it and sells it from 20 to 25 cents per pound.

Novelties in furniture and wall paper are the order of the day at E. Brown, Jr.'s on Bishop street.

SHOT A CRANE.—At the United States Hotel yesterday evening we saw a crane hanging in a window that had been brought over from Loganton by Harry Cole and was the victim of the gun of Clem Herlacher, who shot it in a creek near that place. It measured five feet four inches on the wing from tip to tip and five feet eight inches in length from end of bill to tip of tail.—Lock Haven Democrat.

But what justification was there for killing this bird? It was not a bird of prey, nor was it destructive to anything in which any human being was interested. Nature gave it as much right to live as has the person who found a brutal pleasure in destroying it. Why is it that some people are never so happy as when they have a chance to kill something?

SHOOTING AT SNOW SHOE.—Last Saturday evening during a quarrel between a number of Hungarians at Snow Shoe, John Scinti shot Steve Shinco in the head, inflicting an ugly scalp wound. Scinti was brought to the Bellefonte jail by Constable Haines on Sunday morning.

SENTENCED TO THE PENITENTIARY.—William B. Hamilton, the defaulting Houtzdale bank cashier, was sentenced by the court of Clearfield county, on Thursday of last week, to a term of five years in the Western penitentiary and pay a fine of $1,500. His sentence is regarded as a light one considering his stealing nearly $40,000. Fast living was the cause of his downfall.

GONE HOME.—In memory of Mary A. Fleck, died August 31st.

Op'r Mamma has gone and left us,

To that beautiful land of the bit,

And she dwells with the holy angels,

In that beautiful home in heaven.

Out in the summer sunshine

They carried our Mamma one day;

And under the sweet summer roses,

She is sleeping the long hours away.

Farwell, dear Mamma, a long farewell,

For we shall meet no more;

Thill we are raised with him to dwell

On Zion's happy shore.
