In Memoriam.

Mr. James Ardery, of Martha, after a sickness of four months, quietly passed away on Sunday evening, Sept. 20th, aged 66 years, 9 months and 27 days.

As the curtain of night was falling, his spirit took its flight to that eternal city, where sorrow and suffering is unknown. During his sickness he was a great sufferer, although he was perfectly resigned to his Master's will.

He was a true Christian. To know him was to respect him. His motto was to treat all men as he wished to be treated and would rather be wronged than wrong another. He lived on the farm improved by the Ardery's a century ago, when the valley was first settled, and it was the home of his childhood as well as of his declining years.

Ralph Glenn Hunter, born Feb. 9th, 1891, died Sept. 10th, 1891. Tenderly brush the nut-brown hair. Back from the brow as white as snow. Fold the hands on the silent bosom.

The following letters remain in the Bellefonte P. O. unclaimed, Sept. 28th, '91. Minnie Davison, Miss Verdilla Kautz (2), Edward Lindsay (2), Mr. James Moyer, Miss Edith Myers, Mr. G. A. Nicol, M. B. Runkle.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

Mrs. Mary Hallow Footie, who first came before the public as an illustrator, and later as the author of "The Led-Horse Claim" and other novels of Western life, has written a new story which will be one of the serial features of the coming year of the Century.

The October Century will contain a front-piece portrait of Rudyard Kipling and an article on his work by Edmund Gosse. Mr. Gosse says that Kipling was born in Bombay, in Christmas week, 1865, and is therefore only in his twenty-sixth year.

Gen. H. V. Boynton, the well known Washington correspondent, has written an article on "The Press and Public Men," which will appear in the October Century.

One of the most important articles of the month will be an article on James Russell Lowell by Edward Everett Hale in the October number of the New England Magazine.

A new feature has just been introduced in the New England Magazine. It is, "In a Corner at Dodsley's," a gossip about writers and books by Walter Blackburn Hart, which is as frank and unconventional in tone as any of the political articles from his pen that have made his name familiar.

Harper's Magazine for October opens with the first of two papers on "Carlo in 1830," by Constance Fenimore Woolson. This article, which comprises the best description of the Egyptian capital yet written, is copiously illustrated after photographs and from drawings by the most accomplished artists.

The fiction of the number includes the continuation of George du Maurier's "Peter Ibbotson," with fourteen characteristic illustrations by the author; the conclusion of Mr. Howells's "An Imperative Duty," a striking story, entitled "A Legend of Sonora," by Hildegard Hawthorne; and "An Unfinished Story," by Richard Harding Davis, a remarkable piece of literary conception.

The chief feature of the number however is an article on Cincinnati by the man who is most capable of preparing something interesting on that city—Murat Halstead—illustrated by sketches by Jacques, who visited Cincinnati for that purpose.

"Drans on Dehem." Gedichte in Pennsylvaniaish Deitch bel'n Charles Calvin Zeigler, von Brushvalley, Pa. Leipzig: Druck von Hesse & Becker, 1891. This is the title of a very neat little book received from the author, who, by the way, is personally known to many of our readers in the county, having been a teacher years ago in Brush and Penn's Valleys.

The distance of the horizon is governed by the height of the eye above the earth or sea. On the sea, with the eye at a height of five feet, the distance would be three miles; at sixty feet in height, ten miles.

Rochester Clothing House.

The week of celebration is gone. The Firemen have had a rousing convention and the Grangers and their friends have doubtless had a great Picnic last week, but what is it in comparison with the one you are invited to up at the Rochester Clothing House, where you take your basket empty and bring it away full, while the contrary was the way at Grange Park. There are no "Fakes" at the Rochester. Every exhibit is honest. The eagles on your dollars will scream for freedom when they see the counters. Come while the hour glass of bargains is still running.

EVERY PATRIOT should read a good newspaper. In the selection of a newspaper many considerations should govern. First, it should be one of the endeavors to give all the news without prejudice. It should be neatly printed on good paper. It should be independent—in favor of all that is good, upright, clean. Such a newspaper is

THE PATRIOT, printed in Harrisburg. It is under new management—enlarged, handsome, bold in the right, fearless in denouncing wrong; it is always and unswervingly Democratic. It is the only Democratic newspaper at the State Capital. It makes a specialty of Department News. It is the only paper in Central Pennsylvania that receives and prints full Associated Press Reports, obtained by it over its own wires. It publishes such articles as Special Correspondence, from all points tributary to Harrisburg, all the Harrisburg News, Fashion Notes, Household Hints, Domestic Recipes, Society Gossip, Scientific, Humorous and Political Articles, Short Stories and Sketches. Its Market Reports are complete, both as to Finance and Commerce. Its Live Stock Markets are prepared specially for The Patriot, and have only been successfully imitated by one other newspaper in the State. The Saturday Sermon of Spurgeon, London, is a great feature. The Patriot's warlike pencils turned out of the locked up. To this end it heartily urges the election of Wright and Tilden as the only means to stop the plundering of the public treasury.

The Weekly Patriot, 8 pages, is only $1 a year. It maintains the best features of the daily, including the Spurgeon Sermon. First take your home paper, then it. Send for circulars and sample (free) of either daily or weekly. Liberal rates for campaign or otherwise. Address THE PATRIOT COMPANY, D. J. ORR, President Harrisburg, Pa. JOHN G. ORR, Treasurer 36 37
