Uncle Sam to War With Chili! Cipher Telegrams are Flying

WASHINGTON, September 28.—Complications have arisen between the United States and Chili. How serious cannot now be stated, but a friendly grave cause a hurriedly called consultation at the executive mansion, this morning, between the president and his chief advisers in the state and navy departments. Acting Secretary Wharton called early, closely followed by Mr. J. W. Foster, Secretary Tracy and Commodore Ramsey, chief of the bureau of navigation, navy department. The consultation lasted until after 12 o'clock, Secretary Tracy remaining with the president until 1 o'clock.

Commodore Ramsey came out with several press copy books, containing official cablegrams and the book containing the official cipher of the navy department. Acting Secretary Wharton also had official papers. He said, in answer to a question as to whether matters had assumed a serious phase in Chili, that he could not say anything on the subject. To a foolish question if war had been declared, he said: "No." Commodore Ramsey would say nothing about the subject of the conference, and Private Secretary Halford was not ready to admit that anything out of the ordinary was going on in the adjoining room occupied by the president as his office.

Official circles the news from Chili—that a cordon of soldiers had been placed around the house of the American minister, that entrance could only be obtained to it by passport furnished by the Junta, and that American citizens were being arrested in the streets of Santiago—was considered serious business, and while no official confirmation of the news can be obtained, it is generally credited.

It is known that as far back as last Friday a long cipher cablegram was received at the navy department from Captain Schley, commander of the United States ship Baltimore, in Chilean waters. A copy of this was immediately sent to the state department. Since then cablegrams between the state and navy departments have been passing with increased rapidity, but the contents of none of these communications have been furnished to the public. The haste and activity about the executive mansion today, in view of all the known facts, has caused, therefore, considerable anxiety.

The fact that today is also "Department Day" at the executive mansion, has given the president full time to confer about Chilean matters, as he denies himself to all callers.

At present the United States naval force in Chilean waters consists of one vessel—the cruiser Baltimore, the San Francisco touched at Callao, Peru, last week, on her way northward, with Admiral Brown in command. An effort was made by the navy department to communicate with her, but she sailed for Acapulco, Mexico, Friday, before the cablegram reached her. Her bottom is very foul and the vessel would be almost unseaworthy unless docked and cleaned. There are no other modern vessels on the Pacific side that could be dispatched to Chili, and it is assumed that Commodore Ramsey was called in to consultation by the president for the purpose of explaining the exact extent of the resources of the navy department.

It is conjectured here that the matters under consideration at the conference were statements from Minister Egan and Captain Schley of the recent occurrences in Chili, which are also conjectured to accord with a special dispatch from Valparaiso printed in the New York Herald this morning. In brief, this dispatch was to the effect that three United States citizens had been arbitrarily arrested in Santiago by order of the Junta. That a cordon of police had been placed around the United States legation building; that access to the legation had been controlled by the Junta, and, finally that the United States minister to Chili was being harassed and annoyed in his efforts to care for American interests. Just what Captain Schley had to communicate to the navy department cannot be learned from any of the officials, but it is surmised that it related to the treatment of the refugees or that the bitter anti-American sentiment in Chili, resulting from the seizure of the Itata, has revealed itself in hostile or unfriendly demonstrations towards the officers and men of the Baltimore. However this may be it is certain that the officials of the state and navy departments are not alarmed at the situation, and if the conference was called to devise a means of meeting any emergency it is apparent that the persons who participated are satisfied that this had been done.

Improvement in Passenger Coaches.

To what extent luxuriousness in the equipments of passenger coaches will go is an interesting subject for speculation in railroad circles at present. There has been a most noticeable improvement in the direction of better accommodations within the last decade, and especially has this been apparent within the last year or two. This does not apply to the great through lines only, but is noticeable on the smaller roads. On the trunk lines the competition is keen and the traveling public so discriminating as to necessitate the catering to a marked degree to its unexpressed, yet none the less plain desire for fine accommodations. As a result many of the best coaches in use now are miniature drawing rooms in point of upholstery and general furnishing, and the more ordinary coaches and cars are finely equipped and are a vast improvement on those in use a decade ago. Where this adornment will stop is not now apparent, as railroad companies are still vying with each other in a desire to excel. The traveling public is being benefited thereby.

DELICATE CUSTARD.—Four one pint of boiling milk over the yolks of three eggs, beaten with three tablespoons of sugar; flavor with vanilla or nutmeg, stir in the stiff whites, and bake in a moderate oven. Set the dish in a pan of water while baking.

The duchess of Winchester is fond of cricket, and at a game played between two elevens of ladies at her country place in Cheshire she scored a remarkable success as a bowler.

The chief officer of fashionable society in Washington is a woman who occupies a most unpretentious little shop. She has served every President since the days of Harrison's grandfather. Edward Kearney, the New York millionaire, is next to Judge Hilton, the largest property owner in Saratoga, and he is known as the Earl of Saratoga, on account of his lavish hospitality.

By the death of his stepfather, the duke of Cleveland, Lord Roseberry succeeds to the Battle estate in Sussex, which is worth £7,000 a year, on which is the famous abbey, well known to English tourists. The rustic home in which ex-President Greely died was a cosy, nose covered dwelling of moderate size and unpretentious appearance. It is described as about the sort of a house a fairly prosperous tradesman might live in.

A seemingly miraculous cure of a malignant cancer has been made at Chattanooga, Tenn., the victim having been pointed out in a dream to a certain herb, which he gathered and ate, and is now well. The story is vouched for by men of veracity. Du Maurier, the celebrated artist of Punch, has been induced to number himself with public lecturers, and soon begins his tour. It is stated that his subject will be the "Society Caricaturists of the Nineteenth Century," to which he can do justice.

John A. Logan, Jr., is a notable figure at the race track nowadays. He is of medium height, and he has a natty, well-knit figure. His hair is as dark as that of his father, but his mustache is far from being so martial. He has a fair stable of horses and is well-liked among turfmen.

Between three and four thousand children get astray during a year in the city of New York, but the system of caring for the little odds is so admirably arranged that you never hear of a child dying in the streets for lack of food and shelter, or failing to reach its parents or guardians, unless it has been purposely set astray.

The place to look for stray children is at the police building on Mulberry Street, on the top floor, which has come to be known as the "Sky Parlor," and they are brought from all parts of the city often as many as thirty a day. The children range from toddlers of a year old to those six and eight years. Some of them are so little that they are not able to speak plain, and others are so bewildered that they do not remember even the number of the street where they live, or part of the city. It is on fine days that the largest number of children is registered at the "Sky Parlor," on rainy or very cold days there may be one.

Children get astray in many ways, and the largest number is brought in when a circus parades through the town for the little folks run after it, and often run along with the crowd for a dozen blocks; not thinking that they are getting so far away from home. They also follow hurdy-gurdy men and organ-grinders, national or other parades, and frequently follow a crowd when a policeman is taking a prisoner to the station-house. Some children leave their homes owing to the cruelty of their parents or guardians, and scores of little boys and girls every year run away from their homes at points outside the city, the conductor passing them along when they say they have no money. But the thoughtful conductor questions the child carefully, and if he finds that it is running away from home, he takes or sends it back; or else, on arriving in the city, has it sent to the home of the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children." But a number of the waifs found astray in the streets are put there by parents and guardians, who want to get off to Coney Island or elsewhere for a day or two. An officer who has charge of stray children makes this statement:

"There are hundreds of parents in New York who purposely put their children astray in the streets. A mother, father or guardian sets out for ferry bound for some place out of town, and when a police station is neared, the guardian or parent stops some one in the street and says, 'I have found this child in the street; will you take it to the station, as I have to catch the ferry at once.' The child is too little to explain, and is led off by the stranger to the station, where it is registered. 'This thing,' the officer continued, 'is done to such an extent that it has become a nuisance to the police department. Of course when the parent or guardian returns the child is reclaimed, and many fictitious tears are shed and false kisses given to the little one.'

Lovers Once—Married Now. He finally Wins the Woman He Lost Thirty-five Years Ago.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 3.—James Barnett aged 64, of Burslem, England was married on Thursday evening to Mrs. Sarah Phillips, aged 52, of Mansfield, this county. They were lovers of thirty-five years ago in England, but she married John Phillips instead. Recently Barnett, who had remained single hearted, learned that his old sweetheart had been robbed by death of her husband and children. His letters of sympathy led the widow to ask if he still wanted to marry her. He said he did, but was too poor to come on. Thereupon Mrs. Phillips, who is a prosperous business woman, sent him a draft for a good round sum and invited him to come on and claim her. He came.

THE QUEEN PAWNED HER JEWELS.—Queen Isabella of Spain, pawned her jewels to raise money to fit out the expedition that discovered the new world. Her sacrifice was not greater than is made by many women of America, who deny themselves many things in order to have money to buy Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for their sick husbands or children. This "Discovery" is more important to them, than the one made in 1492. For all diseases of the Lungs, Liver, Throat, or Stomach, the "Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. A trial convinces, its continued use cures. It purifies the blood, invigorates the liver and strengthens and builds up the whole system. Guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for returned.
