Farm Notes.

Neglected repairs to fences often result in creating a breechy habit in the live stock that are kept on a farm.

The comic side of farming appears when those complaining of hard times leave their reapers and binders out to take the weather.

The leaves in the pig pen help to fatten hogs by keeping them warm and dry, thus preventing loss of food by saving the warmth of the body.

There are too many farmers still remaining who boast of being practical men at their work, and manifest a holy horror of what they call book farming.

A wool grower says that tobacco water used as a sheep dip does not give so good a luster to the growing fleece as some of the dips that are to be bought already prepared.

The quiet cow, the friendly hen, the peaceful horse, give the largest returns with the least expense. Conquer everything on the farm, including the hired man, by politeness and kindness.

If a man wants to establish a market that will give him the best price possible year after year he must be strictly honest in packing and disposing of his fruit. The rogue is soon found out.

We see it stated that from recent investigations made in the Pennsylvania University Veterinary School it was shown that the chief cause of consumption is the use of the milk and flesh of tuberculous cattle.

Do not expect any breed to lay equally well in summer and in winter. If you insist on a good supply of eggs from November till February, then select a breed noted for the ability to lay in the winter. Do not expect everything of one breed.

Fruit men say that when fruit is barreled, and is to be hauled several miles by team before being shipped, the barrels should be laid down on their sides so that they will not be shaken closer together and thus be left looser in the barrel than when packed.

When tomato vines are nipped by the first frost, it is said to be of great advantage, in ripening the remaining green fruit, to cut off all frosted portions of leaves and stalks, as this prevents the depreciated sap from the frozen parts from reaching and depreciating the fruit.

The American Florist claims to have found an infallible remedy for the cutworm pest. It says use pyrethrum powder, making certain that it is fresh. Distribute it with a bellows at evening time, and in the morning large numbers of the worms will be found lying on the ground dead.

The raising of ducks is only in its infancy in this country. The time will perhaps come when that fowl will be raised as extensively as in China. One of the best reasons for extending the breeding of ducks is the fact that they are less liable to disease than any other breed of fowl.

Small sweet potatoes are superior to corn for fattening pigs, as they contain a large proportion of starch and sugar. The proper way to feed them is to first boil them, adding a peck of bran to each bushel of the potatoes. The refuse roots and all unsalable portions are equal to the best for fattening purposes.

The object of storing crops outside of the barn or cellar is followed to a large extent because the outside room costs nothing and because it entails less work to store a large crop in that manner. But there are times during the winter when the ground is frozen to a depth of a foot or more, and it is then difficult to get at the stored crops for use of stock. The object in pit storing is also to keep the roots at a temperature that avoids freezing or too high a degree of warmth. Cabbages are buried, the heads being cut from the stalks or, the stalks remaining, the roots up. Even apples are sometimes buried.

But little improvement has been made in storing crops of turnips, cabbages, carrots, beets, etc., for winter use, compared with the methods in use in the past. When there is no room under shelter the crops are stored in pits or mounds outside, but there are disadvantages to be met with as well as the advantages of the pit system, and if farmers will try a few experiments in storing crops they will be benefited. Experiments are necessary, as crops that can be kept easily in some sections do not keep well in other places. Apples grown on the Southern coast of New Jersey cannot be kept over winter as easily as apples grown and stored in this State, while the severity of the winter is also to be considered.

Experiments made in Northern Illinois, where the temperature is sometimes as low as thirty degrees below zero, show that all kinds of roots can be kept in bins in the cellars, if the roots are packed in dry sand or earth, a plan which permits of their use at any time. The injury to all kinds of store roots arises more from the rapid thawing after they have become frozen than from the effects of the cold itself, for as long as roots are frozen they will keep, and it has been demonstrated that if they slowly thaw they will also keep well. The sand or earth is intended to prevent sudden changes of temperature. In some sections, where the temperature does not go below zero except occasionally, cabbages are stored with the roots in the ground and the heads out, a covering of leaves being given. The stalks throw off a crop of early greens after the heads are removed. It is not advisable to make radical changes in storing roots, but this is an excellent time to try experiments with small lots, in order to determine climatic effects in storing crops.

To Kill Carpet Moths.

Saturate a large cloth with water strongly impregnated with ammonia. After wringing as dry as possible spread upon the carpet, and iron until thoroughly dry. It is not advisable to press hard, as that flattens the nap of the carpet. Go over the entire carpet in this manner. The hot steam not only kills the little pests and destroys their eggs, but with the addition of the ammonia freshens and brightens the carpet also. To avoid carpet moths: If you find no appearance of moths in your carpet use an "ounce of prevention." In other words, after your carpet has been laid sponge thoroughly in a strong solution of salt and water. It is well, also, to sprinkle salt underneath the carpet, in dark corners, under bookcases, couches, etc., where the carpet is least used. Above all, keep your rooms sufficiently light, remembering that moths should be numbered among those wicked creatures who "prefer darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil."

Pensive and Expensive.

Many a woman shrinks from consulting a physician about functional derangements and weakness and prefers to suffer in silence. She is sad and pensive and her neglect of her ailments will prove expensive. It may cost her her life. One of the most skillful physicians of the day, who has had a vast experience in curing diseases peculiar to women, has prepared a remedy which is of inestimable aid to them. We refer to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the only remedy for woman's peculiar weakness and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturer, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded.

READY COMPLIANCE.—"Stop, sir! You needn't tell your story to me," sharply interrupted the cross-examining attorney. "Address your remarks to the jury."

"Are there any lawyers in the jury?" inquired the witness.

"No, sir."

"Gentlemen," began the witness, with marked emphasis on the word.—Chicago Tribune.

Not a Miracle Now.

Until recently Consumption was considered incurable, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. The cure of Consumption is not a miracle, now. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it, if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. Thousands gratefully testify to this. It is the most potent tonic, or strength restorer, alterative, or blood cleanser, and nutritive, or flesh-builder, known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, "Liver Complaint," and Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, it is an unequalled remedy.

A SAD CASE.—"Hello, Brown, you're looking badly this morning."

"There's nothing strange in that; I've just been unconscious for eight hours."

"Great Heavens! man, what was the matter?"

"I was asleep."

When great preparations were being made in London for the celebration of the Great Queen's Jubilee, loyal citizens anxious to participate were rapidly curing all their aches and pains beforehand, by a generous use of Salvation Oil.

VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA.—"Once tried, used always."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

AWFUL SKIN DISEASE

CHILD A MASS OF RAW, BLEEDING SORES. MIRACULOUS CURE BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES.

A face, from the hair to the neck on both sides, a raw mass of bleeding sores; two little hands and arms in the same condition; a body around the waist of which was a broad band of raw, bleeding eruptions, and from the hips to the feet her toes the skin was so raw as to be absolutely scalding to the sight. Said Mrs. H. A. Sloan to me: "I have tried everything suggested to me on my little daughter, who has been so afflicted almost from birth. I have had three doctors experiment on her, but she seemed to be getting worse every day. I was almost distracted. Every night I had to bandage her all over, and the mittens on her hands to prevent her from digging the raw flesh with her fingers. Mr. Faulkner said he believed that Cuticura Remedies would cure her. He offered to bear the expense. At the time she was worse than I had ever seen her, and there seemed no prospect of recovery. Cuticura Remedies and Cuticura Soap have wrought a miracle. To-day her skin is smooth and fair, and I believe she has entirely recovered." The above is true in every particular, and I refer to Mr. C. W. Woodruff, druggist. J. ROSS FAULKNER, Danville, N. Y.
