"La Santa De Cabora."

Something About the Young Mexican Girl Whose Powers of Healing are so Wonderful.

A despatch from the City of Mexico says: Considerable excitement has been created at Guaymas, in the State of Sonora, by the arrest of a young girl called Teresa Urrea, who for some time past, has, on account of the marvellous cures effected by her, been an object of veneration in that primitive locality. Teresa is now twenty years of age, of tall, slight and delicate build, with a dark olive complexion, and singularly expressive and penetrating black eyes. Cabora, her native place, is a small village of some three hundred inhabitants buried in the heart of the Sierra Madre. Her father is a well-to-do farmer, who has been it is said, almost impoverished by the crowds of pilgrims who have assembled from all parts of Sonora and Lower California, and have claimed his bounty.

The most conspicuous edifice in the village is the parish church of San Antonio de Padua, one of the old mission stations established in the colonial period by Franciscan Friars.

Teresa, as a child, used to remain for hours praying in this church, but it appears that nothing in her condition distinguished her from other girls in her position. She was quiet and industrious and dutiful, and somewhat given to religious contemplation. Her curing powers were developed some two years ago, and soon her fame spread far and wide over the Pacific Slope of this Republic. Crowds of pilgrims trooped to the once quiet village of Cabora to receive Teresa's healing touch. Indians from neighboring States often camped in thousands on the hillside, as the house accommodation in the village proved totally insufficient for the crowd of devotees.

Eminent medical authorities testify the completeness and permanency of many cures wrought by this remarkable young girl. Some physicians who have studied the case of Teresa are capable of self hypnosis. At all events, her touch was a cure. Her very glance alleviated painful symptoms. Her pale, spiritual face, her magical touch, the inspiration which glowed in her young face, completely fascinated all who approached her. Throughout rural Mexico there is a widespread belief in witches, the Indians regarding "las Brujas," as they are called for light on mysteries, remedies for disease and fortune-telling. There is also much dread of the spells which these witches may cast over people who have incurred their enmity; so, in Sonora, those were not wanting who regarded Teresa Urrea as one of the most powerful of witches. She had been seen at nightfall ascending to the clouds, disappearing above them, and it was even said, she rode on forked lightning. She was, it has been related, cousin to a mighty spirit, who had given her power over earth, air, and fire.

Her fame has spread over the country and her gifts are not doubted by those who have examined all the evidence. She appears to be a girl of a singularly sweet nature, given to meditation and mystic dreams and visions. In the course of time the authorities of the State of Sonora began to grow distrustful and jealous of the increasing authority and influence acquired by Teresa over the large masses of Indians. The gathering of large numbers of native tribes in whom discontent is latent and who still keep alive the fierce spirit of their ancestors and are in constant intercourse with the Yaquis and Mayos, who periodically rise in open revolt against the Mexican authorities, began to be considered a menace to public tranquillity, more especially as the Indians assembled at Cabora, under the magical influence of Teresa, were constantly wrought up to a high pitch of religious excitement, in which it would not have been difficult for a bold leader to engage them in any desperate and dangerous enterprise.

Not long ago a group of 300 Mayo Indians attacked the little town of Navajo, and it was observed that during their assault on the place their war cry was "Viva Teresa! Viva la Santa de Cabora!" It is not known that Teresa investigated this movement, or that she even had any knowledge of it. It is more probable that the Indians used her name merely on account of the veneration with which they regard her, and in the belief that it would act as a password to the triumph of their rebellion against the duly constituted authorities.

But the authorities of Sonora deemed it wise to attempt to break the influence of which Teresa was the centre, and with the view of investigating whether she had any actual share in the Mayo rebellion she was arrested and taken for the first time from her native village to Fort Guaymas. Thence she was conducted, accompanied by her father, Thomas Urrea, to Nogales, on the American frontier, and it is now reported that she will be brought to this city. It is now hoped that by the removal of Teresa the ferment of popular excitement which for the past two years has been growing more and more active in the neighborhood of Cabora and, indeed, all over the State of Sonora, will gradually subside.

All for a Barley Corn.

LaFontaine, in one of his fables, tells of a barnyard fowl that scratched up a gem, while scratching for corn. Not knowing its value, he gave it to a stone cutter for a barley corn. Thus do many persons throw away the priceless pearl of health. A "trifling" cough is neglected, then comes Consumption, then death. Stay the cough or look out for a coffin. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure catarrh in the head, bronchial or throat affections, or lung scrofula (commonly known as the consumption of the lungs). If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it will cure, or the money paid for it will be refunded. It is the only guaranteed cure.

—Java has more thunder storms than any other region in the world.

A Wise Young Woman.

Young Adolphus Fitzwilliam, he loved a fair maid. But to ask her to marry him he was afraid, Because of catarrh, which she had very bad; So much so that often the youth was quite glad To omit, at the parting, the kiss of the lover. The reason of this she set out to discover, "Catarrh makes me loathsome. It's fatal to love."

O, darling Adolphus, by all that's above, I vow I'll not lose thee if something there is To drive out catarrh and to sweeten a kiss. So this wise young woman began searching for a cure, and good luck attended her. She found Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, at the drug store, and felt convinced that a preparation with the proprietors had such confidence in that they were willing to offer to pay $500 for a case they cannot cure, but be worth trying. She bought it. She tried it. It cured her. And when Adolphus kissed her at the altar last week, her kiss was as sweet and pure as roses in June.

Girls, a word of advice: If you want a lover to stay a lover, you must get rid of catarrh. Do as this sensible girl did, and get the only sure remedy for this disgusting and dangerous disease—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

An Armless Painter.

There is an armless man living in Antwerp who paints, using his toes, and who is above the average as a copyist. In the gallery he is as much of a show as are the pictures. His indifference to surroundings leads an observer to forget that this is a creature of flesh and blood and soul. But one woman saw deeper. She was sitting near when a letter was handed the artist. He took it in one foot and a dexterous toe of the other slit a side of the envelope open. The letter came and was read, with a visibly fallen face and distressed look. The armless man evidently had bad news. He refolded the sheet, a toe gliding along the edges creasing them exactly as you use your thumb when in a meditative mood. Then the foot came up to the breast pocket and tucked the letter in. This was all done so easily that it seemed impossible these feet were not hands, but when a foot flew up to the face and with the back of the big toe brushed a tear from the armless man's eye, then, indeed, he ceased to be a machine. His sorrow seemed deeper than other men's sorrows. He arose slipped his feet into low shoes and went sadly out. It was a pathetic picture, to be always hung in the memory gallery beside the Rubens and the Quentin Matsys canvasses of the Antwerp Museum.

A LITTLE GIRL'S EXPERIENCE IN A LIGHTHOUSE.—Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trecoot are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach Mich. and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones."—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a bottle free at Parrish's Drugstore.

A Cloud Burst.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., June 20.—A cloudburst in Gorman valley, this county, last night caused great damage to crops and swept away fences, bridges and outbuildings on farms. On Plum run Robert Kalenbach and family were fleeing from their home which was inundated. He had his 6-months-old child in his arms and fell. The child was recovered this morning half a mile away. No other lives were lost. The barn of George Thompson, in Dunstable township, was struck by lightning and burned with its contents, including two horses. The loss is estimated at $4,000. Partly insured. The loss to farmers cannot be estimated as only meager particulars have been received so far.

—Cholera infantum has lost its terrors since the introduction of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. When that remedy is used and the treatment as directed with each bottle is followed, a cure is certain.

Mr. A. W. Walters, a prominent merchant at Waltersburg, Ill., says: "It cured my baby boy of cholera infantum after several other remedies had failed. The child was so low that he seemed almost beyond the aid of human hands or reach of any medicine." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. P. Green, Druggist.

—My catarrh was very bad. For thirty years I have been troubled with it—have tried a number of remedies without relief. A druggist advised Ely's Cream Balm. I have used only one bottle and I can say I feel like a new man. I make this voluntary statement that others may know of the Balm.—I. W. Mathewson, (Lawyer), Pawtucket, R. I.

A sort of a betwixt and between hat is a sort of rolling sailor, with a top crown set on over a puff of silk, and trimmed with stiff spikes of flowers or the coque's plumes that are coming in to form once more in slender curling rings under the title of Mephisto cigarettes.

—Have you read how Mr. W. D. Wentz, of Geneva, N. Y., was cured of the severest form of dyspepsia? He says everything he ate seemed like pouring melted lead into his stomach. Hood's Sarsaparilla effected a perfect cure. Full particulars will be sent if you write C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

FINE SELECTED BLENDED TEAS.

It is a pretty well settled principal with all expert tea men that the highest perfection in tea cannot be attained from any one kind or variety of tea plant. But that the best value and choicest flavor can be obtained only by a skillful blending of carefully selected high grade goods of different varieties. When teas are perfectly blended the original flavor of each variety disappears in the blend, and from the combination we get something entirely new and much finer than any of the original flavors. We have a new blend of our own. In the preparation of which we have spent considerable time and labor and have also had the aid and counsel of several as good tea men as are to be found in the United States. It is with entire confidence that we offer the goods for sale and unhesitatingly claim them to be very superior both in value and flavor. If you want a cup of ROYAL TEA, try our new blended goods. We also carry a full line of Teas, Oolongs, Japan, Young Hyson, Imperials, Gunpowder, English Breakfast, also several grades of blended goods, and can suit the trade on anything in the tea line. You may not be exactly suited on the goods you are using, and we feel confident that you will be able to get from us just what you are wanting. We sell fine teas at very reasonable prices. Try them. We have a clean dry sugar 8lbs for 30cts. the cheapest sugar ever sold in Bellefonte. Respectfully, SECHLER & CO. BELLEFONTE, PA. 36-45

Saddlery.

SCHOFIELD'S NEW HARNESS HOUSE. We extend a most cordial invitation to our patrons and the public, in general, to witness one of the GRANDEST DISPLAYS OF Light and Heavy Harness ever put on the Bellefonte market, which will be made in the large room, formerly occupied by Harper Bros., on Spring street. It has been added to my factory and will be used exclusively for the sale of harness, and the exclusive salesroom ever used in this town, as heretofore the custom has been to sell goods in the room in which they were made. This elegant room has been refitted and furnished with glass cases in which the harness can be nicely displayed and still kept away from heat and dust, the enemies of long wear in leather. Our factory now occupies a room 16x75 feet and the store 26x20 added makes it the largest establishment of its kind outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. We are prepared to offer better bargains in the future than we have done in the past, and we want everyone to see our goods and get prices for when you do this, out of self defense you will buy. Our profits are not large, but by selling lots of goods we can afford to live in Bellefonte. We are not indulging in idle philanthropy. It is purely business. We are not making much, but trade is growing and that is what we are interested in now. Profits will take care of themselves. When other houses discharged their workmen during the winter they were all put to work in my factory, nevertheless the big (1) houses of this city and county would smile if we compared ourselves to them, but we do not mean to be so odious, except to venture the assertion that none of them can say, as we can say, "NO ONE OWES US A CENT THAT WE CAN'T GET." This is the whole story. The following are kept constantly on hand. 50 SETS OF LIGHT HARNESS, prices from $8.00 to $15.00 and upwards. LARGE STOCK OF HEAVY HARNESS, prices from $25.00 and upwards. 500 HORSE COLLARS from $1.50 to $5.00 each, over $100.00 worth of HARNESS OILS and AXLE GREASE, $400 worth of Fly Nets sold cheap $10 worth of whips from 15c to $5.00 each. Horse Brushes, Cur Combs, Sponges, Chamons, RIDING SADDLES, LADY SIDESADDLES, Harness Soap, Knee Dusters, at low prices. Saddlery hardware always on hand for sale. Harness Leather as low as 25c per pound. We keep everything to be found in a FIRST CLASS HARNESS STORE—no cheapening, over 20 years in the same room. No two shops in the same town to catch trade—NO SELLING OUT for the want of trade or prices. Four harness-makers at steady work this winter. This is our idea of protection to labor, when other houses discharged their hands, they soon found work with us. JAS. SCHOFIELD, 33 37 Spring street, Bellefonte, Pa.
