

A female ball team played here on Tuesday. About two hundred men and boys watched them cavort over the Glass Works meadow. They won from the team they played with by the score of 8 to 6.

Mr. Adam Baum and family, of Philadelphia, cousins of Mr. Abram Baum of this place accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Koester, of Jersey Shore, have been spending the heated term at the Brockerhoff house.

Last Saturday Ned Chambers, having grown tired of "bachelors ball," started to Chester county, where his wife and family have been visiting for four weeks. They are all expected home this evening.

Dr. Hafer is again ahead with his peach crop. Last year the delicious fruit he left at this office led us to suppose that he must have been the possessor of a Garuda stone and the ones he brought in yesterday morning confirms our belief.

Fred Ramey Esq., of Altoona, one of that kind of whole souled people who make friends of all they meet, transacted business at the State College on Thursday. The only trouble with Fred is the idea he entertains that men like himself should be Republicans.

An attempt at a general jail delivery was frustrated by deputy Sheriff Wysotsky, at Clearfield, on last Sunday. George Miller, a horse thief, had succeeded in sawing a lock off of the door leading into the jail yard and was about to escape, when the eleven other inmates, when he was driven back at the point of a revolver.

A DEATH AT MILLHEIM.—Until last Saturday evening Mary L., the beloved wife of Squire John H. Reifsnider, of Millheim, withstood the ravages resultant from an attack of the Grip some time ago, then the light of her life went out and her soul was wafted on the wings of faith to the portals of heaven. Deceased had been ill for a long time and while her death robs a husband of a loving wife and two children of a tender mother she is now beyond the pale of physical ills. In the community in which she lived she was known as a woman of kind heart and amiable disposition. Her many charitable acts, as well as her zealous church work will be remembered by those who will keep her deeds ever in their minds.

Funeral services were held from her late home on Wednesday morning. Deceased was 55 years old.

SUICIDE AT PHILIPSBURG.—The lifeless body of Nicholas Lockey, a minor employed at Baltic mines, was found on the railroad siding at the rear of Fryberger's mill, in Philipsburg, early Wednesday morning. The chief miller discovered the body in a kneeling posture on the track and thinking a man drunk went to arouse him, but upon turning him over he found that he was dead.

Coroner H. W. Buckingham was notified and after impelling a jury which examined the body the following verdict was rendered:

"That having examined in the case of the death of Nicholas Lockey, we give it as our opinion, after a patient investigation and the examination of several witnesses well acquainted with him and his family, that his death was the result of a cause or causes not wholly known, while suffering from temporary aberration of mind within two days past frequently threatened to commit suicide, as well as to take the life of others."

While the man was working at the mine Monday he took a chill quit work and went into Philipsburg where he drew his money. Drink was resorted to and he began threatening to take his own life as well as that of many others. Domestic troubles are ascribed as the possible cause of his rash act, while some think he fell on the track and died from a rush of blood to the head. A wife and two children survive him at Ashcroft.

The Grange Before Congress.

How often I have wished that every member of the Grange—yes, every farmer in the United States—could be here in Washington and see and hear the "illuminated" and rapidly passing busy days and nights. For a number of years I have been more or less a looker-on during the sessions of Congress, and I have noted with pleasure and pride the slowly rising tide of official and representative feeling in favor of the interests of agriculture. There was a day when we had only "Farmer Alken," of South Carolina, to stand in the midst of the Grange, with all that it represents for the American farmer. For years he battled bravely and well, and fell at his post on the field of honor. Would that he could now come back and note the change. A few years since we had eleven farmers on the roll of the House of Representatives, and now one in the U. S. Senate. Now, six brave champions fully startle the "illuminated" club of our House of Lords, with their outspoken words asking justice and only justice, "a fair field, and no favors" for the tillers of the soil; while Sixty-five farmers, with a goodly number of other real friends able and willing to wage our battles for "equality before the law," fill seats in the House of Representatives, and they are being heard from also.

And then what a change has come in the manner in which our National Committee on Legislation is received. I wish time and space would permit me to tell of the grand, good work Bros. Brigham, Rhone and Trimble, with the other patrons they call to aid them from time to time, are doing. They are here and everywhere. For weeks they have been working night and day. No general's headquarters in the midst of an active campaign was ever more full of business than Bro. Trimble's office. With clerks, aids and messengers all busy. Letters and telegrams coming and going. Orders being drawn and issued. Circulars, petitions and memorials being prepared, printed and sent out to all parts of our country. Congressmen and others, interested for or against us, being received. Going before the various committees of Senate and House for "hearings," sometimes all the committee and their helpers in the room of one committee; again divided up, a part before one committee, and the others before another committee at the same hour, always granted respectful hearing, often given extra time and urged to stay longer. What historic paintings some Grange artist could paint if he could look on and catch the inspiration of some of these meetings, for instance, several hearings before the House Committee on Agriculture on dealing in "futures," when our little band of plain farmers stood up and pleaded the cause of millions of farmers against the large delegation of millionaires grown rich through gambling in our crops, and having with them their well paid judges and lawyers to aid their side, and try by cross-questioning, etc., to brow beat our patrons.

It has been conceded by members of committees of both House and Senate, and by audiences filling the rooms almost to suffocation, that members of our Grange Committees have made the best and most convincing speeches against dealing in "futures" and "options," and in favor of the free coinage of silver.

Bankers and members of boards of trade cannot beat our farmers in a fair fight, notwithstanding their numbers, and the money they spend. Shakespeare says: "Thrice is he armed who hath his quarrel just." Then our Patrons' band has been before other committees advocating "free delivery of rural mails," and it is "coming."

Among the most pleasant and successful interviews held by official committees, have been those with the Secretary of Agriculture, and through him with the Chief of the Weather Bureau. All that the Grange has asked for is being most cheerfully granted and an earnest desire expressed to co-operate with us in all these lines. Then the Postmaster General set a special time for a conference, and it also was of the most pleasant character. Gen. Wannamaker is more than half a Patron in his desire to see Free Delivery of Rural Mails, Postal, Telegraph and Telephone Service, and Postal Savings Banks.

Tens of thousands of circulars, memorials, etc., have been sent out and are still going, intended to reach every Subordinate Grange in the land. Now, if each and every office will do his duty and do it promptly, the heavy labors of the Grange workers here will not have been in vain. Remember that good generals alone never won a battle, every soldier in the ranks must stand up bravely to his work and never falter.

The brighter days for agriculture are surely coming. We will have legislation on finance and on all the important questions our Order has for years been discussing and it will be favorable to our side. The work of long year is bearing its fruit: public sentiment and a majority of Congress are on our side—no mistake about it. We have elected friends (or, as Jay Gould once put it, "favorable men") on all parties representing the country, and we learned how to represent our just claims, and how to hold ourselves.
