

The Next Senate.

Equally important as the contest over the presidency Tuesday was the political complexion of the next senate. That body now embraces forty-seven Republicans, thirty-nine Democrats, and two Farmers' Alliance men—a Republican majority of six over the combined opposition.

The returns of the legislative elections show the loss of two seats by the Republicans—New York and Wisconsin—and leave four seats in doubt, three of those being now held by Republicans and only one by a Democrat.

Curious Atlantic Gales.

A Passenger Lost on the Voyage of the Arizona. LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Arizona, which left New York on October 29, reports one of the most stormy passages that she has ever encountered.

On Tuesday last a passenger of the name of Walter Ruby got caught in one of those volumes of water, and being unable to resist its fury or catch hold of anything to steady himself, he was swept overboard.

Notwithstanding the storm the steamship was delayed for some time to attempt to rescue the man, but he never came to the surface.

The accident caused much gloom among the passengers, who kept below for the greater part of the voyage.

English Cars Must go.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The disaster to the Scotch express on Wednesday has revived as nothing else could have done the agitation in favor of abandoning the little boxes on wheels in which Englishmen allow themselves to be trundled about the country.

American summer visitors have little knowledge of the discomforts of English railway travel in cold weather. The cars are not heated, and travelers go about encumbered with rugs.

Important Meeting of Methodist Ministers. HARRISBURG, Nov. 7.—An important meeting of distinguished Methodist divines, comprising eighteen bishops and others of the general committee of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Education society of the denomination, is being held in Grace church.

Mrs. Talmage is Not Insane. NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage and his wife returned to their home in Brooklyn this afternoon. Both were indignant over the statement printed in sinuating that Mrs. Talmage was insane. She was in robust health.

More Fatal Than Cholera.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Some uneasiness has been caused throughout Europe by the news of the appearance of the Black Death, which has followed on the heels of the cholera in Turkestan. In the town of Askabad alone 1,300 persons in a population of 30,000, died in the week ending September 29.

A Pauper Inherits a Fortune. PITTSBURG, Nov. 7.—Information has just reached here from California that Barney Dunning, an inmate of the city poor farm here for twenty-two years, has fallen heir to an estate valued at $300,000.

Hanged her Child by the Thumbs. TRENTON, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Kate Lorenzo of No. 1011 South Clinton avenue, has been held for the Grand Jury, charged with having hanged her three-year-old child up by the thumbs for an hour.

Burgess McLuckie Resigns. HOMESTEAD, Pa., Nov. 7.—Burgess J. McLuckie, who left here about three months ago and went to Youngstown, Ohio, tendered his resignation to council to-night. McLuckie was prominently identified with the strike and is wanted here on charges of riot and aggravated assault.

Furniture Company Assigns. BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The Boston Furniture company, 782 Washington street has made an assignment. Liabilities are estimated at $106,000 and assets nominally at $110,000.

Reid Loses His Home District. WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Whitelaw Reid has failed to carry the election district his farm is in, which has always gone Republican. Mr. Reid's district gives Cleveland and Stevenson a plurality of four votes.

Books, Magazines, Etc. The November Century is the first number of the forty-fifth volume and of the twenty-third year of this magazine, which, while preserving the general characteristics which have given it vogue, is striking out freshly into new paths.

School Reports. The following is the report of the Centennial school of Halfmoon township, for month ending Oct. 28: Pupils enrolled, male 12; female 10; total 22.

St. Nicholas begins a new volume—the 20th—with the November number, and is fortunate enough to have an exquisite poem by Whittier to show at the threshold. The poet's recent death gives a tender interest to the beautiful lines:

For what must be I calmly wait, And trust the path I cannot see— That God is good sufficient me. And when at last upon life's path The curtain falls, I only pray That hope may lose itself in truth, And age in Heaven's immortal youth.

Kate Douglas Wiggin begins a serial in St. Nicholas for November. It is a bright and wholesome story, called "Polly Oliver's Problem." John Burroughs assists in making the November St. Nicholas bright and attractive by a valuable but pleasing account of a young marsh-hawk.

The following books are announced as ready for publication by Harper & Brothers: "The Story of the World," by George William Curtis, with one hundred illustrations by Albert E. Sterner; "Daisy Miller, and An International Episode," by Henry James, illustrated by H. W. McKivier; "The Prince of Paris," by Theodore Child, illustrated; "A Tour Around New York," by John F. Mines (Felix Old-boy), illustrated; "Along New England Roads," by W. C. Prime; "An Earthly Paradise," a novel, by Eva Wilder McGlasson, illustrated by F. V. DuMont; and a new revised edition of William Black's "Maid of Dares."

The November New England Magazine is largely a Whittier number. The frontispiece is a fine rare picture of Whittier, taken about 1855, while he was in the full maturity of his intellectual power, and in the full vigor of life.

The old and the new.—The November number of Peterson's Magazine admirable in point of illustrations, contents, and general appearance. "Charlotte Corday," by Virginia G. Sully, is a most interesting record, and is beautifully illustrated. "A Mountain Passion-Flower," by Ella Higginson, is an intensely dramatic story, and the accompanying pictures are very effective.

The editorial staff embraces Frank Lee Benedict, editor; with Miss M. G. McClelland, Octave Thant, and Howard Seely, associates. Names that will prove a guarantee for its excellence; while the low subscription rate of $2.00 per year will appeal to the common sense of the reading public.

A cleverly painted head of a Mulatto Child, by Otto Toaspen, is one of the three Color Supplements to The Art Interchange for November. The subject is comparatively new and the artist has treated it in a masterly way.
