It is estimated that England's wheat crop for this year is about 55,000,000 bushels, or less than two bushels for each inhabitant. She must purchase at least 150,000,000 bushels more from some outside source.

The Swiss utilize all portions of the milk, and especially the skim milk, which is handled in the same manner as when making skim milk cheese. The product is then pressed, dried and ground, being used as food for all class-

The man who puts the inferior fruit at the bottom of the basket, or the poorer vegetables in the middle of the barrel, with the most attractive on the top, as a sample of the whole, should not complain if the returns from the commission merchant correspond with the entire articles of the basket or barrel. As a rule the merchants usually examine all goods received, as their reputations are also at stake.

Judging dairy and butter cows by "points" has given place to actual tests and private tests will soon be of no value, as the demand is growing for tests made in public. If breeders desire to improve their stock they are now compelled to breed from tested cows, and the pedigrees made known not only the breeding, but the quality, as each family is advertised in the tests as well as the results of the performances of individual members thereof.

Land plaster is a substance that is useful in many ways, and a barrel of land plaster should be in every stable, ready for use. It assists in preventing dampness by absorbing moisture, and a handful of plaster, sprinkled in the stalls, not only adds light but prevents loss of ammonia and assists in arresting foul odors. With such a cheap and valuable substance as dry land plaster within the reach of all, it is al most strange that its use is not more general.

Apply lime to the land now, as it is only slowly carried down by the rains, and it should be dissolved as, much as possible before spring. The air-slaked lime should be applied when in a fine condition, and the sooner the better, as the longer the lime is retained before application the greater the proportion which unites with the carbonic acid of the air and forms carbonate of lime, in which condition it is insoluable. When freshly slaked the lime is a hydrate, and is then soluble. The tendency of lime in the soil is to go downward; hence it is only necessary to broadcast

The frost, may occasionally come unawares upon late tender plants, and do a little damage, but the benefits derived from frost is much greater than is known by all. Severe, cold weather affects the soil as well as warmth, and both heat and cold are more effectual in their work when assisted by moisture. The farmer should put the frost at work and have his soil pulverized through his agency. EFFECTS ON THE SOIL.

There is in all soils portions that cannot be pulverized by the use of the soil being stony. Even the stones however, are disintegrated to a certain extent if they are exposed to the air and moisture, for the large boulders on some farms have been cracked by simply drilling a few holes in the top, leaving the rains and frost to finish the work. When a clod of hard earth is saturated with water and the weather becomes cold every particle of the clod is separate from the next by the expansive power of the frost, and as soon as contraction occurs by raising of the temperature the clod fall to pieces as a fine powder. The frost has then done that which would be difficult to accomplish with implements.

PLOWING IN FALL AND WINTER.

Most farmers prefer to plow in the spring, but by so doing they fail to derive the benefit of the soil being pulverized by the frost. Unless certain conditions of the soil are unfavorable to winter plowing there is no reason why a field should not be plowed during a favorable time in fall or winter, and then again cross plowed in the spring. The cost of plowing is an item to be considered, but the thorough condition of the soil in the spring, when it has been plowed in the fall, and exposed to the frost will lessen the necessary labor after the seed is put in the ground for the crop.

LEAVE THE SOIL RIDGED.

The land should never be harrowed in the fall, but simply turned over with the plow. The frost will then do the rest. In the spring the pulverizer will perform the work in place of the plow. By leaving the land in ridged turrows a greater surface is exposed to the frost and it penetrates down to the subsoil. Every time the weather changes by be-coming warm and then freezing again, the soil is pulverized more, and when the plow or pulverizer is used in the spring, the work will be easy and the land in as fine condition as a gar-What the farmer should do is to give the trost a chance to get down into the ground by breaking up the surface of the land with a plow. It will not injure damp soils to plow them, it it is done before the spring opens, for no matter how tough and wet the soil may be, the expansion and contraction, due to the alternate freezing and thaw ing, is sure to reduce it to pieces. Plowing should be done now, before the ground is frozen hard.

Why the Sky is Blue.

The explanation of the blue of the 'vaulted canopy above us" is not to be sought in the fact that the air, or its constituent particles, reflect the readily refrangible rays of short waved length and let the less refrangible long waved rays through. The short waves of light -the blue color-are much more strong-ly reflected than the long waved red ones. Lord Raleigh has proven the blue reflected in the light from the sky to be fourfifths times stronger than the yellow color and six sevenths times stronger than the red. The violet is six-eights times stronger than the yellow or about nine-tenths times more intense than the long waves or red light.

These relations of intensity must therefore cause the reflected light to appear to be mostly blue. The blue of the the sky is also connected with the phenomenon known as the polarization of light, that color in the colored waves always being polarized in the same direction, which is quite independent of the nature of the turbid particles of the atmosphere. As long as present conditions exist the sky will be of blue colors of varying intensity.

-Turkish toweling is now utilized for rich and unique effects. It is used for cut designs and appliqued upon silk scarfs. The edges of the design are finished with gold thread, and its form is worked in transverse embroidery with bright silk floss.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE

It would be hard for a person who cares for good reading to make a better investment than a year's subscription to The Century Magazine. No region is too remote, no expense too great, if it will only produce what the Century's readers want. This is the policy that has made it, as the Pall Mall Budget, of London, says, "By far the best of the magazines, English or American."

The November number begins a new volume and contains the first chapters of a powerful rovel of New York society, called "Sweet Bells Out of Tune," written by Mrs. Burton Harrison, the author of "the Anglomaniacs." In this story the fashionable wedding, the occupants of the boxes in the Metrope-litan Opera House, the "smart set" in the country house, are taithfully reflected. and the illustations by Charles Dana Gibson, Life's well-known cartoonist, are as brilliant as the novel. In this November number begins also a great series of papers on "The Bible and Science," opening with "Does the Bible contain Scientific Errors?" by Prof. Shields of Princeton, who takes decided ground that the Bible does not contain scientific errors of any moment, and who most interestingly states the case from his point of view. Other articles in this series will include one in the December (Christmas) number. The effect of Scientific Study upon Religious Beliefs."

An important series of letters that passed between General Sherman and his brother Senator John Sherman is also printed in November, which number contains also contributions from the most distinguished writers, including an article by James Russel Lowell, which was not quite completed at the time of his death. The suggestion which Bishop Potter makes in the November Century as to what could be done with the World's Fair if it were opened on Sunday, is one which seems the most practical solution of the problem yet offered.

RINE SELECTED

BLENDED TEAS.

It is a pretty well settled principal with all expert tea men that the highest perfection in tea cannot be attained from any one kind or variety of tea plant. But that the best value and choicest flavor can be obtained only by a skillful blending of carefully selected high grade goods of different varieties.

When teas are perfectly blended the original flavor of each variety disappears in the blend, and from the combination we get something entirely new and much finer than any of the original flavors.

We have a new blend of our own. In the preparation of which we have spent considerable time and labor and have also had the aid and counsel of several as good tea men as are to be found in the United States. It is with entire confidence that we offer the goods for sale and unhesitatingly claim them to be very superior both in value and flavor.

If you want a cup of ROYAL TEA, try our new blended goods.

We also carry a full line of Teas, Oolongs, Japan, Young Hyson, Imperials, Gunpowder, English Breakfast, also several grades of blended goods, and can suit the trade on anything in the tea line. You may no be exactly suited on the goods you are using, and we feel confident that you will be able to get from us just what you are wanting. We sell fine teas at very reasonable prices. Try them.

HARNESS HOUSE.

We extend a most cordial invitation to our patrons and the public, in general, to witness one of the ever put on the Bellefonte market, which will be made in the large room, formerly occupied by Harper Bros., on Spring street. It has been added to my factory and will be used exclusively for the sale of harness, being the first exclusive salesroom ever used in this town, as heretofore the custom has been to sell goods in the room in which they were made. This elegant room has been refitted and furnished with glass cases in which the harness can be nicely displayed and still kept away from heat and dust, the enemies of long wear in leather. Our factory now occupies a room 16x74 feet and the store 20x60 added makes it the largest establishment of its kind outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

We are prepared to offer better bargains in the future than we have done in the past and we want everyone to see our goods and get prices for when you do this, out of self defense you will buy. Our profits are not large, but by selling lots of goods we can afford to live in Bellefonte. We are not indulging in idle philanthropy. It is purely business. We are not making much, but trade is growing and that is what we are interested in now. Profits will take care of themselves.

When other houses discharged their workmen during the winter they were all put to work in my factory, nevertheless the big (?) houses of this city and county would smile if we compared ourselves to them, but we do not mean to be so odious, except to venture the assection that none of them can say, as we can say "NO ONE OWES US A CENT THAT WE CAN'T GET."
