Two American Ladies to Whom the Gods Have Been Very Kind.

Constance Penimore Woolson Inherited Wealth Genius and Beauty, but is Wedded only to Literature—Mrs. Julia Caroline Ripley Dorr.

The poet is not without honor in his own country, as the prophet is said to be, and so Cleveland still prides herself on a sort of claim to Constance Fenimore Woolson. True, the poet-author was born in Claremont, N. H., lived in Florida during the years when she was best known to Americans, and has for some time lived in England, but grew up, and developed and fitted to become famous in Cleveland.

Cooking stoves and literary taste made the Woolsons famous many years ago. Charles Jarvis Woolson joins two talents not often found in one person. He taught school in Virginia and edited a paper in New Hampshire when but a youth, but in early manhood took up the trade of manufacturing in iron where his father left it and carried it to a far greater success. He married at Cooperstown, N. Y., Miss Pomeroy, a niece of Benjamin Cooper, and so their daughter received his name along with a large share of his talent.

Constance was already noted as a contributor to the local press, and soon made an arrangement with the Harper's in whose pages the world first read "Anne," "East Angels," and other productions of less note. All her writings show her a lover of nature and a sympathizer with the unfortunate, as well as something of a worshiper. But her heroes and heroines are largely of her own personal selection, consisting of those who deserved success, but failed to secure it. Pages of prose would not set forth so clearly as she has done in the first and last stanzas of her poem, "Hero Worship."

"He is not what you think." O judges wise, Can we not have Valhalla of our own Within our hearts, where all the souls we prize Shall sit in state, each on his royal throne? What matter if we do not always choose The few whose names, well weighed, ye write above?

As laurels worthy, do ye then refuse Our hearts free right to honor whom we love? What is one false among a thousand true— A thousand opening lives so well begun? "He is no hero, as you think," say you? Well, then, our faith shall help to make him one.

Back, judges, to your work of weighing, slow, The dead ye desire to fame's cone above. But leave us free to worship here below With faith and hope the living whom we love.

Miss Woolson is forty-four years old and quite alone in the world since the death, in 1879, of her mother, to whom she was devoted. One fact often noted in her writings is that while they show a wonderful familiarity with nature in Ohio and Florida, New England and the northern lakes and other places where she has traveled, they do not show a special interest in the old land where she has lived a dozen years.

Another poet authoress who began to write in childhood is Mrs. Julia Caroline Ripley Dorr, whose first published production was a poem sent to the Union Magazine with her knowledge by her husband, who was delighted to find in his new wife a literary genius. That was in 1848, and Mrs. Dorr still writes occasionally. She was born in Charleston, Feb. 12, 1825, her father William Young Ripley, being a native of Vermont, and her mother one of a French family who fled from Hayti at the time of the slave insurrection. She was reared chiefly in Vermont, and in 1847 married Seneca R. Dorr, to whom the country is indebted for urging his wife to enter the literary field at once.

Her first prose tale was "Isabel Leslie." It appeared in Sartain's Magazine in 1848 and gained the prize offered for that year. She has lived in Rutland, Vt., since her marriage, and has been a widow since 1884. Her descriptive writings have a charming simplicity, which is also the chief beauty in her poems, as shown in this extract from her "Treasure Ships."

All spoils of the earth ye bring— From the isles of far Cathay, From the fabled shores of the Orient, And realms more rich than they. The prisoned light of a thousand gems— The gleam of diamonds, the lustre of Luster of silver and sheen of pearl, Shut up in the narrow hold.

How she managed it. "I've changed my mind," said he. "Well, I'll let you know what we'll do," said she. "It folks know that it's there as has given me up I shan't be able to get another ship, but if they think I have given thee up then I can easy get another chap. So we'll then the banns published and when the wedding day comes the person will say to thee, 'Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?' and you must say, 'I will,' and when he says to me, 'Wilt you have this man to be thy wedded husband?' I shall say I willna."

The day came, and when the minister said "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?" the man answered, "I will."

Then the person said to the woman, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" and she said, "I willna."

"Why," said the young man, furiously, "you said you would say, 'I willna.'"

"I know that," said the young woman, "but I've changed my mind since—Wade's Fibre and Fabric."

The Bible as History.

Prof. Charles W. Shields, of Princeton, in an essay, "Does the Bible contain Scientific Errors?" writes as follows concerning the historical characteristics of Scripture: "The prophets and evangelists were not versed in the art of historiography, and did not write history philosophically, nor even always chronologically. Their narratives have many little seeming discrepancies as to dates, places, names, and figures. The line of the patriarchs is yet to be traced, amid conflicting chronologies, with historical accuracy. Persons and events do not always appear to synchronize; as when it is stated in the 'Book of the Kings' that Abahaz was forty years old on coming to the throne, nor even of the Popes have we been clearly ascertained. No one can read Bossuet's 'Universal History,' or even Bancroft's 'History of the United States,' without losing himself in chronological puzzles. The English historians Clarendon, Neal, and Burnet narrate the execution of Charles I. with substantial agreement, but from the most varied dogmatic points of view. There are obvious misprints in some editions of Hallam's 'Constitutional History,' which could not have been in his manuscript. There may be trifling mistakes in some English translations of Neander's 'Church History' which are not in the German, as well as grave misconceptions in some of his critics, which are neither in the English nor in the German. In like manner, as to any supposed inaccuracies in the 'Chronicles' and the 'Gospels' the fair presumption is, that they are not errors of the inspired text, but mere errors of transcription, or errors of translation, or errors of interpretation, or, simply, still unexplained difficulties. It is the business of historians, not of theologians, to stand up for the Bible, not to impeach them; and thus far such criticism, as applied to the sacred historians, instead of impugning the scientific accuracy of Holy Scripture, has only confirmed it by unexpected coincidences and ever growing certitude."

Good Looks.—Good looks are more than skin deep, and depend upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. Farmers and stock-raisers wanted to occupy the best and cheapest vacant farming and grazing lands in America. These are common every year in the Red River Valley and other localities where land costing $10 an acre produces $20 to $25 worth of grain. Fine sheep, cattle and horse country in America. Millions of acres of Government Land still to be homesteaded convenient to the railway. Information and publications sent free by F. I. Whitney, St. Paul, Minn. 36-32.

The Land of Sunshine. A Unique Country where the Skies are almost Never Clouded, while the air is Cool and Bracing, like Perpetual Spring. As an anomalous southern resort, by reason of the fact that there can may escape summer heat no less than winter cold, New Mexico is rapidly becoming famous. Averaging throughout the entire territory 5,000 feet in altitude above sea-level, and characterized by dry air which, unlike a humid atmosphere, is incapable of communicating heat, the temperature in midsummer remains at a delightfully comfortable degree through the day, and at night becomes invariably brisk and bracing. The sunshine is almost constant, yet the most violent out-of-door exertion may be undertaken without fear of distressful consequences. Sunstroke or prostration are absolutely unknown there. It is an ideal land for a summer outing. Its climate is prescribed by reputable physicians as a specific for pulmonary complaints, and the medicinal Hot Springs at Las Vegas are noted for their curative virtues. The most sumptuous hotel in the west, the Tonopah, is located at these springs. Write to Geo. J. Byrne, 723 Monmouth Block, Chicago, for "The Land of Sunshine," an entertaining and profusely illustrated book descriptive of this region, the most picturesque and romantic in the United States. 37-38-39

Tourists.

It May Be Interesting to Know.

That when excursion rates are made to Chicago for people who live in the East, to enable them to attend the World's Fair next year, it is contemplated by the Western roads to also make excursion rates from Chicago to a principal business and tourist points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, so that those who desire to spend a few weeks among their friends in the Great West, may have an opportunity of doing without incurring much additional expense. It may be well to consider this subject in advance of actual time of starting, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co. has issued maps and time tables and other instructive reading matter, which it will be glad to furnish free of expense upon application by postal card addressed to Geo. R. Pott, District Passenger Agent, Williamsport, Pa., or to Geo. H. Hean, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

The Titan of Chasms.

A Mile Deep, 15 Miles Wide, 217 Miles Long, and Painted Like a Flower.

The Grand Canon of the Colorado River, in Arizona, is now for the first time easily accessible to tourists. A regular stage line has been established from Flagstaff, Arizona, on the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad, making the trip from Flagstaff to the most imposing part of the Canon in less than 12 hours. The stage fare for the round trip is only $20.00, and meals and comfortable lodgings are provided throughout the trip at a reasonable price. The view of the Grand Canon afforded at the terminus of the stage route is the most stupendous panorama known in nature. There also a trail at this point leading down the Canon wall, more than 5,000 feet vertically, to the river below. The descent of the trail is a grander experience than climbing the Alps, for in the bottom of this terrific and sublime chasm are hundreds of mountains greater than the Alps range.

Abraham Lincoln: When leaving his home at Springfield, Ill., to be inaugurated President of the United States, made a farewell address to his old friends and neighbors, in which he said "neighbors give your boys a chance." The words come with as much force to-day as they did thirty years ago.

How give them this chance? "Up in the northwest is a great empire waiting for young and sturdy fellows to come and develop it and 'grow up with the country.'" All over this broad land are the young fellows, the boys that Lincoln referred to, seeking to better their condition and get on in life. Here is the chance!

The country referred to lies along the Northern Pacific. Here you can find pretty much anything you want. In Minnesota, and in the Red River Valley of North Dakota, the finest of prairie lands fitted for wheat and grain, or as well for diversified farming. In Western North Dakota, and Montana, are stock ranges limitless in extent, clothed with the most nutritious of grasses.

Its fruit farming region is wanted there is the whole state of Washington to select from. To reach and see all this the Northern Pacific Railroad passes through a country unparalleled. In crossing the Rocky, Bitter Root and Cascade mountains, the greatest mountain scenery to be seen in the United States from car windows is found. The wonderful Bad Lands, wonderful in graceful form and glowing color, are a poem. Lake Pend d'Oreille and Coueur d'Alene, are alone worthy of a transcontinental trip, while there are the fisher's Ultima Thule. The ride along Clark's Fork of the Columbia River is a daylight dream. To cap the climax this is the only way to reach the far famed Yellowstone Park. As for comfort and service of the Northern Pacific Railroad furnish trains and service of unsurpassed excellence. The most appropriate and comfortable Palace Sleeping cars; the best dining cars that can be made; Pullman Tourist cars good for both first and second class passengers; easy riding Day coaches with baggage, express, and postal cars all drawn by powerful Baldwin Locomotives makes a train fit for royalty.

Those seeking for new homes should take this train and go and spy out the land ahead. To be provided with a CHAS. S. FEE, G. P. & T. A. St. Paul, Minn.

FOR BRONCHITIS

"I never realized the good of a medicine so much as I have in the last few months, curing which time I have suffered intensely from pneumonia, followed by bronchitis. After trying various remedies without benefit, I began the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the effect has been marvelous, a single dose relieving my cough, and securing a good night's rest."—T. A. Higginbotham, Gen. Store, Long Mountain, Va.

LA GRIPPE. "Last spring I was taken down with la grippe. At first I was completely prostrated and so difficult was my breathing that my breath seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid."—W. H. Williams, Cook City, S. Dak.

LUNG TROUBLE. "For more than twenty-five years, I was a sufferer from lung trouble, attended with coughing so severe at times as to cause hemorrhage, the prostrations frequently lasting three or four hours. I was induced to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking four bottles, was thoroughly cured. I can confidently recommend this medicine."—Franz Hofmann, Clay Centre, Kan.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR YOUNG FOLKS. John G. Whittier long ago wrote of St. Nicholas, "It is little to say of this magazine that it is the best children's periodical in the world." Edward Eggleston, the author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," says of it, "There is not one of the numbers that does not stir the curiosity, lift up the memory, stimulate thought, and enlarge the range of the imagination." Founded in 1873, and from the first number edited by Mary Mapes Dodge, St. Nicholas is now entering upon its twentieth year. The most famous writers have contributed to its pages in the past, but never has its editor been able to offer a better program or a more distinguished list of contributors than for 1892.

There is to be a series of illustrated papers on "The Leading Cities of the United States,"—the story of each city told by a prominent resident. Edmund Clarence Steadman will write of New York; Thomas W. Higginson of Boston; New Orleans will be described by George W. Cable, and Baltimore by President Gilman, of the Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Lyman Abbott will tell the story of Brooklyn, and other cities will be treated by other famous men. There will be articles on the World's Fair, and a number of pages of funny pictures and home-own verses.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the well-known author of "The Birds' Christmas Carol," will contribute the leading serial for St. Nicholas during the coming year. The November number opens with a three-page poem by John A. Whittier, which has in it some of the most beautiful lines the good Quaker poet has ever written, describing the visit of a party of young girls to his home.

The School Journal says, "Place St. Nicholas in your household, and you need have no fears for the lessons taught your children." The magazine is the greatest aid that the teacher and the conscientious parent can possibly have. It entertains, and at the same time educates and instructs. The subscription price is $3 a year. Remittances may be made directly to the publishers, The Century Co., 33 East 17th St., New York. 37-45 37 48
