THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

____Mrs. George W. Jackson is visiting friends in the Quaker city.

-----Street crossings of vitrified brick blocks are being tried in this place.

- Keeping the feet warm is going a long journey on the road of health. -----The home minstrel company will delight Bellefonte audiences during institute week. ---- Martin Hayden's "Held in Slavry"-Co., includes some really first class artists in its cast.

-H. C. Musser, chief burgess of Millheim, will move to Livingston, with all these virtues she has her faults Montana, on January 1st.

-Miss Kate Lieb has just drawn $5.025 insurance on the life of her brother, the late David M. Lieb.

-S. H. Williams has been re-appointed Quarter Master of the 5th Reg. N. G. P. Henry Quigley will succeed himself as Adjutant.

-Mr. and Mrs. George T. Brew, of Staunton, Md. are visiting at the home of Mrs. Brew's father, Mr George W. Jackson, on Linn Street.

-Mr. Charles McCafferty, of Washington, D. C., and his son Charles Jr. of Bradford, were Bellefonte visitors litter the streets, while ash barrels and during the early part of the week.

_A slight fire in the offices of the Valentine Iron Co., was discovered at four o'clock Tuesday morning and extinguished before much damage had been done.

-Buy your Christmas presents from the home merchants. They are we do not know. Yet when we come to the ones who contribute to the general look at the question in the only light prosperity of a community and you should do the same.

-While piling lumber at the Phœnix planing mill, on Tuesday morning Thomas Donachy was caught under some falling boards and narrowly escaped serious injury.

_____ In buying Christmas presents remember that odd pieces of furniture are among the most acceptable things you can give anyone, and E. Brown, Jr., has every thing in that line at his Bish-beautiful or desirable. While we are in sympathy with everything nice that is said about cur beautiful town, yet we desire to call the attention of these laudors to a few facts, lest some of the strangers whom they have been impressing drop in on them unawares either to find them bare-faced liars or fools of the first water.

Bellefonte is undoubtedly a pretty town and no one with any sense will dare deny it. Nestled snugly in the bosom of the Nittany and Muncy mountains, supplied with a never failing stream of pure lime stone water, surrounded by the most fertile farms in the country she can well be proud of a reputation for health and wealth which is almost as wide as it is substantial. Yet and ones which every citizen should be ashamed to acknowledge. The streets .-- Bellefonte thorough-practical impossibility. As it is, though nature does double work for us, we are ready to venture the assertion that there is not a town in the State whose inhabitants manifest as little substantial interest in its appearance as do those of Bellefonte. Scraps of paper. old tin cans, store boxes, barrels of seaweed and dry grasses, and oyster shells, boxes line the curbs as though waiting to review some parade.

Whose fault it is that such unsightly evidences of our sloth are allowed to stand, from one year's end to another, right in full view of all and especially the first thing to catch a strangers eye, possible it simmers down to an understanding between council and the street commissioner. The two being about equally blamable. Several years ago an ordinance prohibiting ashes being piled on the streets was passed. Straightway every person who had been making a public dumping ground out of the streets procured a box or a barrel and that same box or barrel has been standing on the edge of the side walk, or in the gutter, ever since. Now the question arises : Will council -----Williamsport and Elmira merue we gave complete proceedings at court up to the time of adjournment. Though court adjourned on Thursday -Dr. T. T.
