

Pine Grove Mention.

Mr. James Wagner, of Tusseyville, accompanied by several lady friends, was the guest of Mrs. D. G. Meek last week.

Communion services will be held in the Presbyterian church next Sunday. Preparatory services, Saturday morning.

A series of interesting meetings are being conducted by Rev. Glover, in the M. E. church, in which much interest is being manifested and an unusually large attendance.

One of the most pleasant social gatherings of the season was that at the residence of Wm. R. Neft last Wednesday evening. After the partaking of a will prepared lunch, at which all did justice, a social good time was enjoyed by all who had the good fortune to be present.

Two of our town dads who transacted business in Tyrone, last Saturday, evidently thought a late train left for Penna. Furnace when they were compelled to hoof it with their fare paid and tickets in their pockets ready to leave, early on Sunday morning weary and tired, but wiser.

Mr. Weber recently butchered a cow that had evidently been fed on solid food, as among the contents of her stomach were found a handful of broken nails. We would suggest to our Bostburg neighbors that mureted Tincture of Iron given in 1/2 doz doses is for many purposes the very safest agent.

On Monday night last, a collision occurred in the darkness of the night by which Frank Swab and Orlando Thomas accompanied by his wife ran together on a bridge. Both rigs on repairs from brush, but fortunately no bones were broken. She is getting along nicely.

Wedding cards are being distributed at our post office announcing the marriage of Miss Viola Kramme, one of Tusseyville's most accomplished and refined ladies, to Chas. W. Swartz, of the same place. The nuptials will be performed at the bride's home on the evening of the 21st, at 7 o'clock, in the presence of a large number of guests.

The Oak Grove school house was burned on the evening of the 9th inst., soon after nightfall. It was fired at several different places under the building. A window was broken open and the stove over set, but the teacher, Miss Mattie Ewing, had left the fire die out at 3 o'clock so no harm could come from that. Parties who arrived early at the fire could see the wood inside the wall in which several entrances had been effected. About twenty dollars worth of school books, beside the Sunday school library, went up in the flames. The building was insured to the amount of four hundred dollars.

News Notes From Howard.

The late fall of snow, was the occasion of much merriment, at the school.

It is a common sight here to see a man worth $150,000 driving a coal wagon and actually loading and delivering.

Eugene Kline shot a turkey weighing 13 1/2 pounds last week. This was live weight, and demonstrates the abilities of this man, who is barred from all prize contests, which speaks for itself.

On Monday last, fire destroyed the residence of Frank Weight, at Jacksonville, together with the household effects. This will prove a hard blow to the occupants of the building as well as the owner.

Book agents seem to be on the war path all at once. Misses Smith, Bowers, Blanche Tipple, McCallum, and Messrs. Wm. Tipple and H. S. Freeman, (the latter being the last to appear) having argued with our read desks.

Mrs. John Swab, of Mt. Eagle, died about 12:15 Sunday night, from a complication of diseases. Nearly every physician around had been called at different times to no avail. She was buried at Curtin Tuesday morning.

Chester Moore is thinking of making a long speech next Christmas, if he can get someone to listen. Don't do it, Chet, or that fellow will put your name in the papers and then you will have to make it whether you want to or not.

Peter Robb, Sr. has been on the sick list for some time past. It seems that even those whom we love and worship best must also be laid up at times, but so long as we reap a splendid harvest in due time what do we care or why should we.

Upon the occasion of some very hard bread being placed where her cat could eat it, the lady's husband remarked, you had better do with it as I do with my watch sometimes. She replied, what's that, my dear? And that cruel husband, who by the way lives on a prominent street here, and is well up in mathematics and supposed to be in rich circumstances replied, "soak it, my dear, soak it."

Mr. Ike Riggle, employed at the forge here town, was seriously hurt about the face and chest through some fault or other and had to lay off for awhile. It was some time before he could use his arms but we are pleased to quote a favorable sign of rapid recovery. Mr. Riggle is a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M. 533, of Lock Haven, which tended to his wants, as well as committees of from the Howard Council 89.

Next to death by burning at the stake, there is probably no pain so hard to bear as a right smart old-fashioned toothache. It will make most men rave and talk as bad as when they are putting up stove-pipe. Women as a rule keep more quiet but you cannot always tell what they think. Toothache generally comes on during the night, when it is inconvenient to go to the drugstore or dentist, so you have to grin and bear it.

A better illustration of what a good and dutiful son will do towards the keeping of his parents in time of trouble could not be had than when Charles Keener's mother was ill, he walked 3 miles every night and at different hours to procure the necessary medicine and help. Surely he deserves merit for his deep affection, but his interest in humanity and suffering the tiresome travel on foot at any time of night deserves commendation from all sides.

Mr. Spotted Wolf, who travelled last year with the Indians who had such fine shows here last summer, has stated in business for himself at Canaster, N. Y. This noble, christian Indian was made a personal friend of the writer during his short stay here, as a reason of his gentlemanly conduct, and though I never questioned him in regards to his following the road, presume it to be because it seems to be the most suitable business for him to engage in for the time being. It is not known whether he will be here again or not, but if he does come, he holds his chances against all others about even. He is the tall Indian, the one who did the talking.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the Bellefonte P. O. Dec. 14, 1892. Mrs. Julia A. Moore, Mitchell J. Garbriel, George McAlpin, Mrs. Elizabeth Page, Edward Parry, Mrs. Harriet Reed, William Swart, H. E. Simmons, William Toles, Miss Wagner.

When called for please say advertised. J. A. FIEDLER, P. M.

CAMPBELL.—Leah J. Campbell died the 1st day of December, 1892, at her home in Milesburg. She was aged 17 years, 8 months, and 15 days. Her ailment was inflammatory Rheumatism and palpitation of the heart.

We gently pressed her darling lips,
We felt her parting breath,
We gazed upon her lovely face
And asked can this be death?

We laid her body down,
The vital spark had fled;
We gazed again upon her face,
The lovely and the dead.

And that dear little face was there,
So peaceful and so mild,
I could not wish her back again.
But, ah, she was my sister.
