THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

—Lent began on Wednesday.
—Phillipsburg children have the measles.

—Monday's snow was the deepest of the season.

—Millheim has three borough tickets in the field.

—The Knights Templar of the State will conclave in Wilkesbarre, in May.

—S. H. Diehl, of Willowbank street, is able to be about again after a few days illness.

—The residence of Dr. J. M. Smith, at Tyrone, was totally destroyed by fire last Friday morning.

—Daniel Garman, the retired hotel proprietor of this place, celebrated his 73rd birthday on Sunday.

—Miss Lillian Maitland, of Curtin street, has just returned from a pleasant visit among Williamsport friends and relatives.

—Miss F. Wrye and Miss Emma A. Meese, both of Lovellville, this county, were married in Tyrone on Tuesday afternoon.

—Achenbach, the Bishop street caterer, will serve the collation at the dedicatory services, at State College, on Wednesday.

—The attraction at the opera house Monday evening, Feb. 20th, will be "Forgiveness" in which Frederick Bryton will appear in the title role.

—Judge Rhoads, who has never recovered from the paralytic stroke he had last September, is so low that no hope of his recovery is entertained.

—Rev. Charles T. Steck, one of the finest looking men in the state, transacted business and shook hands with friends in town the fore part of the week.

—Thos. F. Watt Esq., Passenger Agent of the Western district of the Pennsylvania rail-road company, was in Bellefonte between trains on Tuesday morning.

—Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bullock are happy over the arrival of a little daughter. It is their first born and of course mother and father are extremely proud.

—The class of '95, of the Pennsylvania State College, banqueted at the Fallon house, in Lock Haven, last Friday night. The Lock Haven papers say they had a lively time.

—During the intense cold period of the month of January the water in Bellefonte's beautiful spring did not vary a degree in temperature from what it was last August when the mercury reached 100° in the shade.

—Harry Sanders, a respectable, industrious young colored man, is a candidate for the office of High Constable. He would make a good official, if elected and everybody should vote for him. He needs the revenues of the office and should have them.

—Seventy-five boys from State College attended the "Pirates of Penzance" on Tuesday night. They came down in sleds and occupied the four front rows in the orchestra circle, where they improved their time flirting with the chorus girls.

—Prof. Raubitschek instructor and lecturer on optical science will be at the Bush House Feb. 20th to the 25th, where he will be pleased to examine those whose vision is impaired, without charge, and to fit with glasses all who are in need of them.

—A letter from our good Democratic friend, Abel Campbell, of Austin, Potter county, informs us that he is well and prospering. His letter leaves no doubt in our minds that he is still the Democrat, staunch and true, that he was when living in Centre county.

—A big freight wreck at Beech Creek, on last Saturday morning, demolished two freight engines and twelve cars. The accident occurred in the cut near Beech Creek town, on the Beech Creek R. R., and no one was hurt except one engineer who had his leg slightly injured by jumping.

—Alfred Potter, better known as "Kinny" is home visiting his relatives in this place. He is located temporarily at DuBoise where he is awaiting the time when he will start on the road again with a show with which he has been traveling for several years. He is said to be a great colored comedian.

—A curious phenomena, in connection with the late storm of snow and sleet, was the chaff that fell with the same. Where it came from, is a query. But that it fell can be vouched for by several of our citizens who noticed it. It was an interesting topic for discussion, and several theories were advanced, but it is one of those mysteries of nature, which cannot be satisfactorily explained.—McVeytown Journal.

DEDICATORY SERVICES AT STATE COLLEGE.—On Wednesday, February 22nd, the new Mechanic Arts building, at State College, will be dedicated to the promotion of the science of Mechanical Engineering. The occasion will be a notable one in many ways. Prominent men from all parts of the country will participate. The building to be dedicated is said to be one of the finest ever erected for such purposes; certainly it is the handsomest and most perfectly appointed building on the campus of the Pennsylvania State College.

The ceremonies of the formal opening of the new building will take place in the College chapel at 2 o'clock. The programme being as follows: Presentation of the building to the board of trustees, Gen. James A. Beaver, chairman of building committee; Acceptance of the building on behalf of the College, Col. Francis A. Jordan, president of the board; Addresses—"The State and Higher Education," Governor R. E. Pattison; "The Educational Benefits of Scientific and Technical Training," Gen. Francis A. Walker, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; "Education in its Relations to Our Government," Hon. John W. Noble, secretary of the interior; "The practical Spirit in Modern Education," Dr. J. G. Schurman, president of Cornell University; prayer and benediction, Rev. W. A. Houck, of the Bellefonte M. E. Church.

The day will close with the mid-winter assembly given under the direction of the class of '93. It is expected to be the largest dance the College boys have ever had and eleven hundred invitations have been sent out for it. Stopper and Fiske's Williamsport orchestra will furnish the music. It has been engaged to play during the dedicatory services also. The list of patronesses for the dance includes the following: Mrs. Robert E. Pattison, Mrs. John W. Noble, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. James A. Beaver, Mrs. William A. Buckhout, Mrs. A. O. Furst, Mrs. John A. Woodward, Mrs. William Thompson, Jr., Mrs. George W. Atherton, Mrs. D. H. Hastings, Miss H. A. McElwain, Mrs. John A. Orvis, Mrs. Louis E. Reber, Mrs. Henry P. Armsby, Mrs. Luther R. Kelker and Mrs. Charles W. Roberts.

The reception and class committees are made up respectively as follows: Mrs. George W. Atherton, Mrs. James A. Beaver, Mrs. Louis E. Reber, Miss H. A. McElwain, Mrs. D. H. Hastings, Mrs. William Thompson, Jr. and Mrs. John K. Orvis. Hays W. Mattern, John K. Furst, R. B. Mattern, Fred Dale and John Foster.

THE SPRING CREEK FLOOD.—The heavy fall of snow last Thursday night which turned to rain early Friday morning made the largest flood in Spring Creek, at this place, that has been seen since the big flood of 1882. At that time the raging waters and ice carried away the old Valentine trestle, which spanned Spring creek just above the B. & L. Railroad trestle and it, being carried down with the torrent, swept the High street bridge, at this office. The car shops dam broke and for awhile the greatest alarm was felt by people who lived near the stream.

That memorable flood was on Sunday and the water in the press-rooms of the WATCHMAN office was seven feet deep. All of the presses were submerged and when the water fell what had been one of the best ordered printing establishments in the State was altogether one of the slimiest, and most forsaken looking places one could imagine.

In June of 1876 there was a rain flood that carried about a foot of water into our press rooms and the fact that it was entirely from a rain, which had ended a dry season, the flood was a great surprise. Again in '89 the time of the awful Johnstown disaster the waters in Spring Creek got very high but at no time did the WATCHMAN office get more than sixteen inches. In 1891 a spring freshet brought the water up to our floors and succeeded in administering a coat of mud to everything within its reach but since then, until last Friday, Spring Creek has been comparatively harmless.

The surprising part of the last week's flood lies in the little snow or rain there had fallen to make it. This is explained, however, by the fact the ground was covered by a hard ice and all the water that fell ran off instead of percolating the ground. At eleven o'clock Logan's branch began to rise and by three in the afternoon it was overflowing its banks all along its course. The Spring Creek flood came on them and at four o'clock it was raising at the rate of six inches every hour. By evening it blew up cold and the water began falling again.

TEMPERANCE REVIVAL POSTPONED.—Joe Hess, who was engaged to conduct the Temperance campaign here commencing Feb. 19th, (next Sunday,) is unable to fill his engagement having been stricken with paralysis; and the parties under whose auspices these meetings were to be held (the W. C. T. U. and the B. T. U.) being unable to fill this date by any other speaker the meetings are postponed for the present. They expect to name another date in the near future.

—Northumberland had a prize fight on Monday night last.

—Frederick Bryton in "Forgiveness" at the opera house, Monday night, February 20th.

—The Watsontown shoe factory has secured the contract to furnish one thousand pairs of hand sewed shoes to the U. S. Navy.

—The grand jurors of the Quarter sessions court of Huntingdon county investigated the methods of training and punishment of the Reformatory at that place, on Wednesday.

—Renova's chief of police, Lee Berry, has been arrested on a charge of trespass, assault and battery preferred by a Mrs. Flora Daugherty, whose house he entered at an early hour on Jan. 15th in search of a man.

—Emory E. Herr, the insurance man, is moving his family, this week, to Indianapolis, Ind. where he has accepted the state agency for the Vermont Life Insurance Co. We are sorry to have Mr. Herr go, but the position pays much better than his Bellefonte one and his brother J. M., who has sold out his shoe store will be the company's agent at Indianapolis.

—Miss Mamie St. Clair, daughter of postmaster St. Clair, died at her parents home in Unionville, on last Saturday night. She was a prepossessing young woman of twenty-one years of age, but that dread disease Consumption blighted what gave promise of a beautiful and useful life. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

—The Presbyterian congregation was somewhat surprised last Sunday to find out that it was still one thousand dollars in debt for the improvements that were made recently in the interior of the church and for the pipe organ. Ten thousand dollars was considered a liberal estimate of the proposed plans. That sum was soon raised, and every body was happy at the thought of no indebtedness; but it seems that first class work comes high, for the estimate instead of being high was just one tenth too low and the announcement Sunday was like a thunderclap.

—The New York World said of Frederick Bryton's new play: "Forgiveness" is one of the best combinations of humor and pathos in melodrama that we have. It holds an audience spell-bound, and it does it with the simplest and most natural means. Mr. Bryton, who is a remarkably handsome man, carried the female portion of the audience with him, not alone by his manly bearing and picturesque costumes, but by his naturalness and his intense fervor. He wins the sympathy of his spectators at once, and in the third act arouses them to unworldly excitement by his meeting with his enemy and his simple bravery and determination.

—One of the star attractions of the season will come to the opera house next Friday night, February 24th, when Charles L. Davis and his company will appear in the celebrated comedy-drama "Alvin Joslyn." It is a delineation of country life and from it Mr. Davis has already realized several fortunes. The "Alvin" theatre, in Pittsburgh, the finest in the United States, is the home of "Alvin Joslyn" and was built by Mr. Davis. He has decided to go on the road again with his company and manager Garman has been fortunate enough to secure him. We have no hesitancy in recommending the play to the patrons of the Opera house for Mr. Davis is an actor of world wide reputation and his company will be of the finest. Don't miss it.

—Men of every race, at all times, in all stages of civilization, have respected the dead—a universal sentiment in which there is nothing surprising, as this respect or veneration is founded upon love; a love that seeks to follow the soul beyond the gates of eternity—a love that desires to keep alive the memory of the deceased; a love that would fain bid defiance to the envious tooth of Time and leave a lasting memorial of the beloved.

The day after Miss Martha Keller's death—five months ago, the question arose among her young friends, how can we express our love and sorrow? and at once a window for light and beauty in the Reformed church, of which she was a member, was suggested and at once it was acted upon.

Last Friday afternoon the window, which had been put in place in the west side of the church was unveiled with appropriate services. All the schools had been dismissed in honor of the event and the addresses made by Rev. M. O. Noll and Judge Furst were pleasing tributes to a beautiful life and character. The window was designed by Miss Annie Doris, of Huntingdon, and is so rich in coloring and design that it will constantly be, to the beholder an object lesson and to the young woman who died in the very spring-time of life, a beautiful memorial from her young friends of Bellefonte.

AMATEURS IN COMIC OPERA.—On Tuesday evening in Garman's Opera House, the "Pirates of Penzance" was given by some of our young people for the benefit of the Academy and although it is one of Gilbert and Sullivan's oldest operas, it had never been heard in Bellefonte before and was therefore a most enjoyable surprise to those who did not realize the possibilities of the opera or the capabilities of the company.

When the curtain went up the pirates were celebrating Frederick's, H. F. Harris, twenty-first birthday with a general good time, after he had announced his intention of leaving them forever Ruth, Miss Grace Furey, his nurse who was determined to marry him, explained the mistake whereby he was apprenticed to a pirate instead of a pilot. When the pirates left the stage they gave Frederick Ruth who begged him to love her; but the appearance of General Stanley's numerous daughters saved the situation and Ruth went off in despair. Mabel, Miss Marie Meek, the youngest daughter, fell in love with Frederick, who warned the girls that the pirates were coming. They embraced the opportunity, however, and all went well until General Stanley, N. S. Westbrook, appeared. In the second act, Frederick, his brave (?) policeman and General Stanley had more or less trouble with the Pirate King, Philip Waddle, and his followers, until finally all were conquered and the curtain went down on a group of satisfied daughters and policeman, principals, and pirates.

The whole entertainment was excellent for amateurs, and we doubt if any one has ever seen a group of prettier chorus girls on any stage. Miss Grace Furey was exceptionally good and while she does not pretend to be a vocalist, her voice was perfectly clear and her acting fine. Every member of the company deserves special mention; but as we cannot discriminate with all so good, we will publish a letter from one of our most able critics, who kindly sent us his opinion of the opera.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN: Since attending with great pleasure the performance of "The Pirates of Penzance" at Garman's Opera House last evening it has occurred to me that possibly because of the prominent part taken by members of your family in the performance, the mention of the event in your paper might through a desire to avoid the appearance of sounding your own praises be inadequate. Will you kindly allow me a little space, therefore, in your paper. It is not my purpose to give a detailed account of the performance. I hope you will give in addition to what I shall say in a general way, a complete report of the occasion.

I feel also that it is fitting that who is, as I am unconnected with the active management of the Bellefonte Academy although deeply interested in its welfare, should express a few general impressions that have suggested themselves. The object for which this entertainment was given, viz., for the benefit of the Bellefonte Academy, is certainly a most worthy one—indeed, that is or should be in the eyes of every true Bellefonter, preeminently so. Starting with this very worthy object in view, the zeal, energy, and enterprise displayed by the performers and all connected with the management, as evidenced by the good results obtained, are in the highest degree commendable. No such performance as last night's could be given without a very great amount of hard work on the part of all concerned. The earnestness and intelligence displayed in the rendition of the different parts was marked, and the company moved together as a whole in excellent style. The applause that arose from the audience after the singing of some of the inspiring choruses was altogether spontaneous and well deserved and it was a just tribute to the excellent work of each and every member of the company and to the company as a whole. The costumes and the stage setting were very tasteful and added not a little to the success of the performance.

Any one having the slightest appreciation of the varied requirement of operatic singing must understand something of the difficulties that surround the rendition of leading roles when in a light opera, I feel, therefore, that Bellefonters should be proud of the success of Miss Marie Meek in her role of "Mabel" and Mr. Harman P. Harris in his role of "Frederick." They had difficult tasks and they succeeded admirably. They certainly have the congratulations of the audience. Miss Meek's appearance and bearing were exceedingly good. Her acting and singing were equally good and she fulfilled the requirements of her part in a most pleasing manner. Her fine enunciation was particularly noticeable.

Bellefonters are certainly much indebted to Miss Grace Furey, of Altoona, for her valuable aid. It was, I believe, because of her confidence that the undertaking would be a success that the attempt was first made. Ably aided, as she was, by the indomitable efforts of Miss Emma Hughes and Mr. James R. Hughes. The plans were evolved, the company was gathered together, all the joined hands with zeal in a common effort and the result was a marked success. Miss Furey's ability is well and favorably known in Bellefonte and we desire to thank her for her exercise of it not only in her rendition of the part of "Ruth" but for her invaluable services in general.

The aid of Mr. N. S. Westbrook and of Mr. J. M. Dugan, both of Altoona, was also inestimable. Mr. Westbrook's rendition of the part of "Major General Stanley" was thoroughly satisfactory. His acting and singing were excellent and his evident experience, no doubt, added greatly to the feeling of confidence and repose displayed by the whole company.

It is not my desire to particularize in regard to a performance where the success attained was so largely due to the acting, singing and bearing of the whole company, but I cannot close without mentioning the commendable performances and admirable appearances of Mr. Philip Waddle, as the "Pirate King," Mr. James R. Hughes as "Samuel" his lieutenant, and Mr. Charles Noll as Police Sergeant. Miss Emma Hughes, Miss Ella Twimire and Miss Blanche Hayes appeared very charmingly as "Kate," "Edith" and "Isabel" three of General Stanley's daughters. And I cannot refrain from mentioning the rest of them also by name, and the reader, who was also a spectator, may recall, as he reads each separate name, the distinct loveliness that made up this galaxy: Miss Sara Valentine, Miss Millie Smith, Miss Winifred Meek, Miss Bernice Moore, Miss Aurora Moore, Miss Grace Lukenbach, Miss Lulu Hoy, Miss Rose Fox and Miss Henrietta Butts.

And now that I have lost my self-restraint to this extent, notwithstanding my intention not to particularize, how can I refrain from mentioning by name that noble band of Pirates and that many squad of policemen? They were: Messrs. Thomas Brew, Charles Houck, James Harris, Charles Cruse, Samuel Newling, George Brandon, George Meek, Malcolm Laurie, Charles Dorworth, George Bayard, Henry Lyon, Bert Bayard and Charles Bosner. They filled their parts most commendably and each and all of them added greatly to the success of the performance.

It should also be said before closing that great credit is due to Mr. Dugan for his untiring efforts as musical director. Miss Emma Hughes and Mr. George Brandon were aided materially by him in the preparatory work. Without the aid of these three the undertaking could not have been the success it was.

There is only one occurrence during the evening to be regretted and that is the silly and ill-mannered hisses of certain persons in the audience in response to the inspiring, enthusiastic college yells and plaudits of our welcome visitors, the goodly band of students from the State College. They added interest to the occasion by the generous way in which they turned out in large numbers even under difficulties, and their college yells were given in a gentlemanly and appreciative manner and simply added to the gaiety of the occasion and should have been received in the same spirit in which they were given.

ONE OF THE AUDIENCE.

Bellefonte, Pa., Feb. 15th.
—The flood in the Bald Eagle, on last Friday, caused considerable damage at Lock Haven. The paper mill had to suspend work for a few days on account of the water.

—Rev. J. R. Davies, the Tyrone minister who was called to the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian church, in New York city, has received the degree of Ph. D. from Lafayette college.

—The Huntingdon car works were sold at sheriff's sale, on Friday last. Messrs. Roberts, and Scott, of Philadelphia, and K. Allen Lovell, of Huntingdon, having been the purchasers. They paid $23,000 for the works. This was the third time they have been sold by the sheriff and it is probable that they will now be dismantled.

—Mr. Samuel White, who lives in Bush's addition, seems to have at last found a successful exterminator of the farmer's pest, the Canada thistle. Just what ingredients go to make up his composition we have been unable to find out, but many who have used it say that it quickly kills the thistles and one application will reach clear down to the roots: J. A. Hazel, Watson Struble, F. S. Hevery and a number of other reputable gentlemen throughout the county have tried it and testify to its work.

HUMANE ADVICE.—During the unsettled condition of our streets, which will probably continue from now until the first of April, horse owners should avoid in all cases tying their animals besides gutters filled with water from the melting ice of the streets. No more cruel act could be innocently perpetrated upon the horse, than to fasten it to a post, where it is forced to stand with its feet and lower limbs in ice cold water. It is to be hoped that all horse owners will read, and make a note of this important warning, thereby saving the horse much suffering.—Ex.

WHEN QUININE WILL BREAK UP A COLD.—"It is surprising," says a family physician, "how certainly a cold may be broken up by a timely dose of quinine. When first symptoms make their appearance, when a little languor, slight hoarseness and ominous tightness in the nasal membranes follow exposure to draughts or sudden chill by wet, five grains of this useful alkaloid are sufficient in many cases to end the trouble. But it must be done promptly. If the golden moment passes, nothing suffices to stop the weary sneezes, headache, chief using, red nose and woe begone looking periods that certainly follow."—Ex.

MARY LEATHERS NEFF.—Died at the residence of her son, Jos. L. Neff, of Roland, Jan. 31st, 1893, aged 76 years and one day. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Smith, who delivered a most beautiful and expressive sermon from the text "They all died in the faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth." Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather a large concourse followed the remains to their final resting place, in the cemetery at Curtin's.

Mrs. Neff leaves three children, Joseph, Thomas and Elizabeth, and a number of grandchildren to mourn her death; besides three brothers, Jacob, Samuel and B. T. Leathers and one sister, Mrs. P. W. Barnhart. She was a member of the M. E. church for 47 years and in that time lived a true, devoted, christian life, as became a consistent member. Her life work here is ended, and she has now gone to reap her reward and to enjoy the pleasures of the blast. Though she has gone she has left behind a beautiful christian example, that will remain long in the memory of those who know her. Well may we echo that beautiful passage, "Blessed are they that die in the Lord."

DO NOT WEARY HIM.—When a young man calls upon you, take in at a glance his apparent habits, study his likes and dislikes. At the same time, should you find out any particular hobby of his, do not weary him by persistently talking and making him converse all evening in that one strain. This is tedious and a young man does not go out to be bored to death; he would, rather spend an interesting evening at the club, or a bright, pleasant hour or so at a pretty, winsome Miss Jones' house, or over at a Miss Smith's where he knows he will always find a lot of pleasant company and jolly companions with their merry jests and their witty sallies.—Ex.

SIXTEEN COUNTIES OUT OF DEBT.—An exchange in looking over the annual report of Thos. J. Stewart, secretary of internal affairs of Pennsylvania has found there are sixteen counties which have no debt of any kind. These are Bradford, Centre, Erie, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Lawrence, Lehigh, Luzerne, Northumberland, Pike, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Venango, Washington and Wyoming, while the counties of Bedford, Bucks, Cambria, Carbon, Clarion, Crawford, and Indiana show a marked increase in the amount of their county debt.

—Alvin Joslyn, with Charles L. Davis in the cast, will be at the opera house, on Friday night, February 21st.

—Lyon & Co. are closing out their entire winter stock of Overcoats, Ladies' Coats etc., at cost. Now is the time to buy an excellent garment cheap.

—Latest novelties in Spring clothing for Men, Boys and Children. The best suit in the market for men at $10.00. Tailoring a specialty. MONTGOMERY & CO.
