THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whiteman, of Philipsburg, spent Sunday in this place.

—Please note change of day and date in advertisement of Dr. Salm at Bush House.

—Mr. Ed. Kittell, formerly a clerk in the Bellefonte Furnace Co's office in this place, is back to fill his old position.

—Mr. James R. Rose, of Allegheny, who has a large circle of acquaintances in Bellefonte, is visiting George L. Jackson.

—The river boom at Curwensville broke at seven o'clock last Thursday evening and two million feet of logs ran through.

—Mr. John McDermott who is probably known to every body in this community is dangerously ill at his home on Bishop street.

—At the regular meeting of council on Monday night the Borough bonds were sold to W. F. Reynolds in five twenties. The $100,000 were placed at a four per cent rate.

—The firm of Brinton, Duncan & Barnes general merchandise dealers, of Philipsburg, has disposed of its store. Edwin Weller, of Havana N. Y. being the purchaser.

—Hon. Henry W. Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal and perhaps the foremost Democrat of the country lectured in Lock Haven on Monday night.

—It is said that General D. H. Hastings has been suffering considerably with his throat of late. Some affection has necessitated his refusing all invitations to speak until he gets better.

—John C. Noll, Esq. returned from a short visit to Washington, D. C. on Monday night. He went down to help hunt up quarters for the Bellefonte delegations who will attend the inauguration.

—John Kline, Esq., one of Bellefonte's rising attorneys, will be married next Wednesday evening, to Miss Kate Olevine, second daughter of the late Samuel Olevine, of Willowbank street. Mr. Kline is attorney for the Sheriff of this county.

—The teachers of Spring, Benner, Boggs and Walker townships will hold a local institute at Valentine's M. E. church, on Saturday, Feb. 25th. The teachers of adjoining townships are requested to attend, as an interesting session may be expected.

—H. M. Overpeck, a prominent Milton merchant, was killed in that place last Thursday night, by a train at the Broadway crossing. He was literally torn to pieces and was only identified by his watch and some shreds of clothing that were picked up. His arms are still missing.

—John L. Keating, a young man who is offering our people some rare bargains in good books, delighted the congregation at St. John's Catholic church, last Sunday evening, with a tenor song. His voice is rich and has a good range. Mrs. Arthur Brown sang two delightful solos.

—On Tuesday last Mr. John L. Kurtz, Cashier of the Centre County Bank, was married to Miss Harriette L. Thomas, of Lewisport, at the Continental Hotel in Philadelphia. The wedding was very quiet and the happy couple will be "at home" at the Bush House after March 15th.

—B. C. Achenbach, the Bishop street baker, confectioner and caterer, out-did himself at the collation served the guests of the Penna. State College on Wednesday. His tables were artistically set and the menu was all that one could desire. Mr. Achenbach is earning quite an enviable reputation for himself in this line.

—Sophia Esford, the young Houtzdale girl who it was supposed ran off with James Mooney several weeks ago, has returned, but claims that she was not with the runaway husband and absconder. She left at the same time he did and as they had been very good friends previous to their departure her story is not generally believed.

—Rev. Dr. Gill, professor of Mental and Moral science at the Pennsylvania State College, filled Rev. Houck's pulpit, in the Methodist church, Sunday and delivered the regular annual sermon on Foreign Missions. His discourse at the morning service was as able as it was novel in its presentation and the learned divine transported his hearers to a God-land, which he thinks inevitable, and there entertained them with the simplicity of a wholly christian civilization. His English was exceptional and while carrying the argument of a theologian was so simple that a child could understand.

A FEW THOUGHTS FOR HUSBANDS.

—The much mooted question "is marriage a failure" has almost worn itself out before the eyes of the reading public, yet every day some fresh evidence which seems to substantiate the statement arises from some source. However strong the argument or convincing the proof the better judgment can never be brought to believe that this wedding of man and woman, a divine decree, is an institution which has failed to keep pace with the rapid strides of civilization. It was born with man and is identical today with its constitution at its birth. It is the one thing of which we know that has never changed and can never change.

Though the hustle, bustle life of the later days and the growing tendency to make marriage as much of a business transaction as possible seems to have degenerated its sacred rites there still exists as much sentiment in the old love as there ever was but men are so much taken up with business that they seem to forget the wives who are left at home to wonder how they could have been so completely deceived into believing that the warm hearted passionate lover who wooed them could ever develop into the distant, thoughtless man whom they now call husband.

The following few squibs from an exchange contain some wholesome advice to husbands who are inclined to forget their families in the rush of business.

Don't take it for granted that if your wife wants a little change she will ask for it.

Don't forget that the sunny side of a woman's nature cannot outvie coldness, indifference and neglect.

Don't meddle in the affairs of the house. The man who gives out the week's wash and counts the cost of every household move is an unmitigated nuisance.

Don't forget the patient little woman you call your wife was once your sweetheart. A caress now and then or a tender word costs so little and means so much to the woman of your choice.

Don't make a bolt from your 6 o'clock dinner table to your club and leave the poor soul who would like to enjoy your society to the horrors of an evening alone. Remember that the tenderest mother and the most untiring housekeeper would enjoy an occasional change from nursery and home duties.

A PROPHECY AMONG US.—As a WATCHMAN reporter was crossing the Diamond last Friday morning his attention was attracted by a dapper looking gentleman who was standing looking wonderingly at the big gold fish on the steps of the Court House. Its nose pointed directly north-east and when the gentleman began to realize that his studied expression had drawn quite an audience around him he looked around and said cheerily, "Good morning, a beautiful morning, ain't it, but the biggest snow storm of the season will be here in a few hours." Some of the passers by looked at each other and smiled, others stopped to talk about politics and the weather prognosticator poked his hands deeper into his pockets and strode off down town.

Exactly ten hours had elapsed when the same reporter had occasion to go from this office to the Court House and by the merest chance he took the same course he had traversed in the morning. As he crossed the Diamond a figure approached. It was completely enveloped in a big storm overcoat and a scotch cap hid the face almost entirely from view. As it passed in the knee deep snow the reporter recognized the prophetic of the morning.

It was indeed a strange coincidence that this man who at nine o'clock in the morning sporting a nobby blue melton overcoat and silk hat, was prophesying a blizzard should have been met just ten hours later in the same place and doubtless chuckling to himself at his success. For in truth the "biggest snow storm of the season" was raging. It began snowing about noon and continued a regular blizzard until Saturday morning.

HE ADVERTISED FOR A WIFE.—AND GOT ONE.—Yesterday morning Register Roup issued a marriage license to John W. Mills, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Mrs. Annie R. Hoffman, of Millinburg, Pa. It was the culmination of a courtship which began by the bride elect's having answered her groom's advertisement for a help-meet which appeared in the papers some six months ago. They met yesterday morning and saw each other for the first time. In this case we hope first impressions are lasting for they were pleased with one another and got married immediately. Girls don't despair. Judicious use of printers' ink will bring you the coveted prize every time. Try the experiment if you are in the matrimonial market.

—Mrs. Monroe Kreamer, who died of consumption at her home on Howard street last Saturday afternoon, was buried Tuesday morning. Mrs. Kreamer, with her husband, came to Bellefonte just a few years ago from Aronsburg. She was only 32 years old, and the mother of four little children, three of whom are living.

THE SPRING ELECTIONS.—The result of the spring elections within the county, as fully as they have been filed in the Prothonotary's office, will be found below. Politically there is but little significance in the returns from any district, policies in many instances being entirely ignored, and personal preferences controlling the vote. We hope that the successful ones will prove efficient and faithful officials—that the people have secured good men to fill the township and borough offices, and that for the ensuing year the tendency to a correct and competent administration of these public duties may be for the better all around.

—Sheridan troop, of Tyrone, will participate in the inaugural parade on March 4th.

—A hungry DuBois man, named Kite, recently ate four pounds of raw beefsteak.

—Col. Charles Duffy, proprietor of the Park hotel in Williamsport, was stricken with paralysis and died on Monday morning. He was walking down street when he fell over dead.

—Perhaps the prettiest building in Lock Haven is the one owned and occupied by the Trust company of that place. It was designed by Robert Cole Bellefonte's architect and should be a valuable advertisement.

—A Hartford paper says that an amateur artist of that town chalked a banana skin on the sidewalk, the other day, that looked so natural that everybody gave it a wide berth, and one old gentleman actually fell down, thinking it his duty to do so.

—The interior of the Irvin House, at Lock Haven, has been remodeled and that best of land-lords, Hon. S. Woods Caldwell, finds himself ensconced in one of the most cheerful and cosiest offices of any of the country hotels in the State. Mr. Caldwell is just the man to grace it and the weary traveler who finds the Irvin has reached a haven where he can rest in comfort and satisfaction.

SNOW BOUND TRAINS.—There was a general tie up of Bellefonte Central trains on Wednesday owing to the fact that several cuts on the road were drifted full of snow. The special that left here at seven o'clock for the assembly at the College did not get there until mid-night and the train that left there at nine o'clock for this place arrived here at three o'clock yesterday morning. At some place there was ten feet of snow and as the grade is so heavy the engine could not push through it. Trains were running nearly on time yesterday.

—Mr. Joseph Mitchell's death, from pneumonia, yesterday morning, at the State College, was not a surprise to his friends, for although he had been sick but little over a week he was dangerously ill from the first and his physicians gave no hope of his recovery. Perhaps no one about the State College was better known or held in higher esteem by those with whom he was brought in contact. For eight years he had filled the office of Postmaster, efficiently and faithfully and had just received the appointment for a third term. He was about 66 years old and was born at the Mitchell Homestead, about two miles from the State College near which he lived all his life. His wife Eliza Thompson, died in July, '90 and he really never recovered from the shock of her death. For many years he had been a member of the Presbyterian church and by his quiet life and his genial and sympathetic disposition had endeared himself to old and young. He will be missed not only by his children, Miss Lydia at home, John and Edward of Minneapolis, Mrs. Christie of St. Louis, and Will of Jeannette, but by students, friends and residents of the State College.

—Charles L. Davis, after one year of retirement from the stage, has consented at the earnest demand of the public and theatrical managers, to play a special engagement of ten weeks in his old play of "Alvin Joslin," which has made him a name-house-hold word from one end of the country to the other, playing in the principal cities, and this has been selected by Mr. Davis as one of his favorites. He will appear at Garman's Opera House, on Friday evening, February 24th. The whole entertainment will be on a grand scale, coming direct from the Alvin theatre, Pittsburgh, Pa., the acknowledged handsomest theatre in the world, of which Mr. Davis is owner and manager, and where he has given his personal attention to getting up the scenery and properties which have been prepared with special care as to detail. Mr. Davis can always be relied on as certain to draw large houses. His peculiar style of comedy seems to be just what the public wants, and his success has been phenomenal. The company has met with praise and the play has been remodeled on such a plan as to leave nothing lacking that may contribute to its power of amusement. Mr. Davis carries all special scenery used in the play, and his hundred-thousand dollar collection of diamonds will be worn in the last act.
