THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

—The county jail has but one inmate a boy.

—Monday was a beautiful day but Tuesday: Oh, my!

—Boalsburg and vicinity is having a diphtheria scourge.

—Kitty Rhoades, in repertoire, at the opera house next week.

—Miss Lettie Slover is quite ill at her home on West High street.

—The inexpensive part of the old fashioned doughnut is the hole.

—Will P. Brew is home from Pittsburgh on a short vacation.

—Next Tuesday, March 7th, the License court of Centre county will convene.

—The Senior Class of the Pennsylvania State College banqueted in Lock Haven last Friday night.

—The McCuley brothers are re-papering and painting the offices on the first floor of the Court House.

—Mr. Al Myerly, of Struble's station, was in town Thursday on a business and pleasure trip combined.

—Mr. D. P. Houser, of Linden Hall, was one of the strangers in town Thursday who did not forget the printer.

—Miss Mary Linn, of north Allegheny street, returned from an extended visit to Philadelphia, on Friday evening.

—The Bellefonte Furnance Company's plant will be put in operation about the middle of April. Repairs are going steadily on.

—Mrs. Anna Christian, of Washington, D. C. was among the friends from a distance who attended the funeral of Major Reynolds.

—The columns of the WATCHMAN are open for the expression of the ideas of any of its readers on matters of social and political interest.

—Col. James Milliken, of New York, than whom few men are better known in this place, attended the funeral of the late Wm. F. Reynolds.

—William S. Furst evidently is as popular at school as he is at home for he has just been elected president of his class in the Law department of the University of Pennsylvania.

—The old willow tree that has stood for a century or more on the McBride corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets has been cut down. The place looks strange since the old landmark is gone.

—Mrs. Orbison, Mrs. Margaret Wilson, Miss McCalmont and Mrs. Stine left yesterday for Philadelphia, to attend the annual meeting of Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church.

—Wednesday, March 15th, will mark the beginning of the sessions of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal conference in this place. Three hundred and fifty ministers will be here.

—A fire in Charly Green's smoke house, on St. Paul's street, back of the colored church, caused some little excitement and brought the fire companies down High street on a double quick, yesterday morning.

—The farmers of Clinton county will hold an institute, at Lamar, to-day and to-morrow, March 2nd and 3rd, at which Prof. H. J. Waters, of State College, and D. F. Fortney of this place will be among the speakers.

—The report going the rounds of the press that every post office in Centre county is now reached by rail is an untruth. Centre county has six stage lines, but we'll admit they are in a rather dilapidated condition.

—Cards are out announcing the marriage of Harry Cooke, second son of John W. Cooke, to a Philadelphia girl. The ceremony will be performed on the 9th inst. The bride elect is a Miss Hall who was a class-mate at State College.

—Company B. 5th Reg. N. G. P. left last evening at 5:20 for Washington. The boys were dressed in their new uniforms and made a neat appearance when they left. They joined the other companies of the Regiment at Tyone.

—The death of John Yocum occurred at his home, in Milesburg, on Saturday morning last. Deceased was a veteran of the Mexican war and was 78 years of age. He was buried on Monday, a squad of Co. B. N. G. P. administering the honors of war. Not a known relative survives him.

—As announced in last week's WATCHMAN attorney John Kline and Miss Kate Olewinski were married at the bride's home, on Willowbank street, Wednesday afternoon, and took possession at once of their new home on Bishop street instead of going on the regulation bridal trip.

MAJOR WILLIAM F. REYNOLDS' DEATH.—After having been confined to his home, at the corner of Allegheny and Linn streets, for about two weeks, battling with a disease which had been wearing at his wonderful constitution, for three years Maj. Wm. F. Reynolds, one of the best known, certainly the wealthiest man in the county, died at twenty minutes before three o'clock last Sunday afternoon. Having passed the seventy-ninth milestone of a prosperous life he fell a victim to fatty degeneration of the heart. Always active, remarkably so for a man of his years, and apparently healthy to the last he was stricken in the way so common to men of such age. For several years past he had been subject to attacks of heart trouble, but after a few days rest would be about seemingly as well as ever, but the disease was incurable and only bided the time when its ravages would predominate over the strength of the man.

William F. Reynolds, the third son of Thomas and Mary Reynolds, was born in the little town of Millinville, Columbia county, Pa., on the 9th day of June, 1813. His early education was limited to information that he could pick up about his home, for when but sixteen years of age he embarked in the mercantile business in Berwick, Columbia county, a town that boasted scarce half a dozen houses at that time. An ambition that heralded his future success led him from Berwick to Selinsgrove, Union county, whence he moved to Danville, Montour county. He was successful in the latter place, but insatiable desire for a faster accumulation of wealth led him to take the advice of a friend and in 1841 he came to Bellefonte. It is said with a capital not reaching $10,000 in amount he began the business here which resulted in ranking him the wealthiest man in the town.

Various successful ventures made it possible for him to retire from the mercantile business and in 1856 he began devoting his time exclusively to his landed and iron interests in the county, but the business, though lucrative, was not as active as he desired and in 1859, having associated with himself Mr. George W. Jackson, he founded the banking house of Wm. F. Reynolds & Co., which flourished under his judicious guidance until September 1890, when Messrs. George W. Jackson, D. H. Hastings and F. W. Crider succeeded him and organized the firm of Jackson, Crider & Hastings bankers.

He was the largest individual owner of farm land in the county. Many thousand of Centre's most fertile acres are divided into the eighteen well ordered farms which he called his own. The great white barns with their red roofs and little turrets, the comfortable tenant houses and well appointed surroundings that greet the eye of the stranger in Benner township can, nearly all of them, be spoken of as the property of the late Maj. Reynolds, whose careful management brought them into their present high state of cultivation. He was a farmer for the money that was in it, but never considered the money spent on improvements as anything other than a good investment, consequently his land is among the most valuable in the county.

From raising grain he naturally branched out to its manufacture into bread stuffs and for a long time was owner and operator of the large Phoenix flouring mills in this place and of the old Rock Forge mill. The former he renovated and made one of the leading roller mills in the State. Not until quite recently was the roller process introduced in the latter, the management of which he retained to the last, though George W. Jackson succeeded him in the Phoenix several years ago.

His natural money making powers were wonderful. A dollar never went into his hand but to be doubled. As a merchant, as a banker, as a farmer, and as a miller his one record was success, and he it said to his credit, that in all the career that raised him from the hospital beginner, on a capital of less than $10,000, to the retired man commanding over a million and a half, he never caused the property to be sold from one of his creditors.

For forty-nine years he was a member of the vestry and a warden of St. John's Episcopal church, at the corner of Allegheny and Lamb streets. His munificence the church always enjoyed and his gift of a rectory in 1877 was evidence that his christian spirit was substantial in its work for God.

In 1879 he presented the town with the wonderful spring from which the name, Bellefonte, is taken. Having become its owner through successive litigation and seeing, since under the Smith deed of 1807 and the Harris deed of 1823, the town had "the right to use only such water as would flow through a three inch pipe from it and that for domestic purposes only," he recognized growing demands and presented the spring to the town. It now supplies eight thousand people with water, furnishes several manufactories with motive power, railroad engines with water and enough flows away to slake the thirst of a million of people daily.

Maj. Reynolds was a bachelor and a

Democrat. He was methodical in his daily life and frugal in his habits. His later years were spent almost exclusively in the companionship of his nephew W. Fred Reynolds, a son of the late Hon. Samuel Reynolds, of Lancaster, who has cared for him in sickness and been his active agent in business. His home is a handsome structure of Hummelstown brown stone and was perhaps the most costly in town.

His three brothers Elisha, Samuel and Thomas have preceded him but recently in death, but the others, John and Charles, and his sisters Ann and Sarah died when they were quite young.

Information gleaned from the most reliable sources places his wealth at about one and one half million dollars, mostly invested in bonds and first mortgages. He owned 5000 acres of farm land in Centre county and aside from the tenement houses necessarily on them he owned thirty others. The title of Major was acquired through service on the staff of one of the early governors of the State.

Funeral services were held in St. John's Episcopal church, on Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Revs. Benton, rector of St. Johns, and Kline, of Allentown, officiating. The honorary pall bearers were E. C. Humes, John Blair Linn, Daniel Garman, Austin O. Furst, Adam Wagner, D. H. Hastings, George W. Jackson, William Harper, F. W. Crider and Wilbur F. Reeder. The church vestry was represented by Wm. Zeller, Winfield Montgomery, Dr. J. D. Seibert and Dr. Geo. F. Harris. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

His will in substance was as follows: His nephew W. Fred Reynolds is appointed residuary legatee. $100,000 and two farms is bequeathed to Fred's brother Samuel Reynolds Jr. and Fred's three sisters each get the interest on $50,000. Mrs. Pierpoint gets the interest on $20,000 which reverts to her son Thomas at her death. She is a daughter of the late Thomas Reynolds. Mrs. Halcomb gets the interest on $20,000 and her daughter $10,000 on the event of her marriage. To all servants who had been in his employ ten years or more he gave $250 each. All the rest of the immense estate goes to W. Fred Reynolds. Register Roop will get about $2,500 out of the work he does on the will.

—Kitty Rhoades all next week at the opera house.

—At the recent election Millinville voted to bond the town to the amount of $85,000 to build a much needed water works.

—Mrs. A. W. Hafer who has been sick all winter is so low that no hope of her recovery is entertained.

—Rev. R. H. Gilbert, of Tyrone, lectured on "From Sandy Hook to the Golden Gate" to the people of Curtin's works last Friday night.

—The favorite with Bellefonte theatre goers, Kitty Rhoads, will hold the boards at Garman's opera house all of next week. She will appear at every performance and a change of bill will be made nightly.

—Mr. John W. Cooke left on Monday morning for a two weeks visit in Philadelphia. It is stated that he was married to a Miss Hahn Tuesday. Mr. Cooke is the proprietor of the celebrated Woodland coal mines, at Woodland, Clearfield county.

—Eustis Grimes who is now private stenographer to Secretary of the Commonwealth W. F. Harris, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Edward Shoemaker in this place. For a number of years Eustis was connected with the Bellefonte Furnace Co., and has many friends here who were glad to see him.

—Stephenson's business college in Williamsport, closed its doors on Tuesday. The principal and his family walked off on Monday night and nothing has been heard of them since. The fifty or more scholars have departed to their homes. Mr. Stephenson was superintendent of a Sunday school and leaves debts amounting to $3000 it is said.

—If people who want marriage, death and other notices of interest to appear in the WATCHMAN would only remember that they are too stale for publication when several weeks old, there would be less wondering why certain communications never appear in print. If you have an item of news we will be glad to get it, but send it in before it grows whiskers.

—The people of Bellefonte have a rare treat in store for them during the session of the approaching Central Pennsylvania Conference. Rev. Dr. A. J. Palmer, of New York, will deliver his great lecture in the opera house, March 17th, at 7:30 o'clock, on Company D. or "The Die No More." Later at night after Gen. O. O. Howard had listened to this lecture in the afternoon at Silver Lake he said to Chaplain McCabe, "I cannot get over the spell of that lecture. It is on me yet."

IT IMPRESSED ONE SENATOR AT LEAST.—The Greensburg Daily Tribune of last Saturday contained a letter from Senator John H. Brown, of Grapeville, who ably represents the 39th District in the State Senate, in which he pays quite a compliment to the Pennsylvania State College. Even though he missed the dedicatory services he must have been thoroughly pleased with his visit. The following excerpt from his letter will convey an idea of the impression he received.

"Having returned last evening from a pleasant visit to State College in connection with the dedication of their handsome new engineering building and also the meeting of the Senate and House sub-committee on roads, it occurred to me your readers might be interested in knowing something of the proceedings on those occasions, as well as our journey to and from the place.

Leaving the main line of the P. E. R. at Tyrone, on the 22nd inst., the journey was made over the Bald Eagle Valley railroad to the beautiful mountain city of Bellefonte. Our train being behind time we arrived here just in time to miss the train over the branch road that takes you to State College, twenty miles away.

This caused us some delay here, but finally, at 8 p. m., Representative Swartz, of Monroe, and myself, left by a special car, expecting soon to arrive at our destination. Very heavy snows, however, had fallen and it was greatly drifted so that it required five hours to make the journey. Large gangs of Italians, in the employ of the company, coming to the aid of the train and shoveling out a way for it. This was traveling under difficulties, but we finally arrived at about 1 a. m., having missed the evening exercises.

Upon our arrival a brilliant scene greeted us. At the capacious armory of the College, we found probably a thousand people assembled, including prominent officials and public men from all over the State, as well as from adjoining States, with their wives, sons and daughters assembled as the guests of the class of '93 of the College in their mid winter reception. To the strains of what seemed the sweetest music I ever heard, the immense throng were 'tripping the light fantastic toe' and creating a whirling maze of youth and beauty that nearly made one's head swim.

We were received by Gov. Pattison and his staff in full uniform, assisted by Governor Beaver, who by the way, is the same affable, polished gentleman he has always been, and does not look a day older than when he visited your town, and made such an able address, some seven years ago.

Having been ushered in among all the beauty and grandeur of the evening, I, for the first time, almost wished that I had been possessed of a 'full dress' suit, something I was not so fortunate as to possess. I guess, though, for a plain old 'country jake,' like me, and at my time of life, a dress suit would be somewhat out of place.

Owing to delays of trains and other hindrances we missed the dedicatory exercises of the building devoted to the department of engineering, but a visit to it the next day showed it to be a magnificent structure which has been erected at an expense of over $300,000. In fact the whole institution is a place of great interest and we found much pleasure in visiting it. Over twenty buildings in the various departments are found, the main building being a mammoth and imposing stone structure five stories high. These buildings are surrounded by a fine farm of several hundred acres and the value of the buildings and farm, with the college equipments is estimated at $1,100,000.

We visited the various departments of college and experimental farm work. The stables are models of order and in the dairy we tasted of the cheese and butter made on the spot.

We were kindly entertained by President Atherton and the faculty, who spared no effort to make it pleasant for us. In the administration of the affairs of the institution Dr. Atherton displays great efficiency and executive ability and under his care this institution is rapidly becoming an honor to the State whose property it is."

OFF FOR WASHINGTON.—Yesterday morning at 6:20 a jolly party of Centre county Democrats left this place, via Lewisburg, for Washington, where they will cheer when Grover is wheeled along in the inaugural parade. The party included E. Y. Sultz and wife, Mayor J. C. Meyer, A. S. Garman, Chas. R. Kurtz, county Register John A. Roop, county Treasurer James Gramley, Aaron Williams, H. B. Shaeffer, Walter Garrity, and James Noll, of this place; D. C. Keller, of Centre Hall; G. H. Leyman, of Roland; Samuel Noll, John Mullinger, J. S. Tressler and Henry Noll, of Pleasant Gap; T. F. Kennedy, of State College; and P. F. Bottorf, Michael Hess, W. J. Meyers, Fred Myers and H. M. Krebs, of Pine Grove Mills, and several Millheim gentlemen.

—Clearfield is to have a novelty works.

—Mr. David Young, of Petersburg, Huntingdon Co., and Mr. Wright, of Pine Grove Mills, were among our visitors yesterday.

—The forge shops of the Loveland axe company, at Lamar, Clinton county, were burned early Sunday morning. Loss $5,000 with a $8,000 insurance.

—Monte Ward, who will captain the New York base ball team this summer, is in town enjoying the quiet of country life and the hospitality of relatives.

—The Clearfield Lumber Co., has just purchased ten thousand acres of virgin forests from A. C. Hopkins. It makes this company the owners of nearly all the hemlock standing in Clearfield county.

—Prof. T. E. Kinkaid, U. S. N., who has been doing government work at Cramp's ship yards, in Philadelphia, has been detailed as assistant professor of mechanical engineering at State College.

—The good people of Osceola have announced their intention of having two gala days this year. The 4th of July will be the first and a reunion of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, in September, will be the second.

—The marriage of O. S. Hoover, of Philadelphia, to Miss Milliss Younger, of the same city, was solemnized at 62 east One Hundred and Thirtieth street, New York city, on Thursday, February 16th. The groom is well known in this place where for years he was the agent of the Adams Express company.

—On and after April 1st the name of the post office at Murray, Clearfield county, will be changed to Kermmoor. The change will be made because of the similarity of the words Murray and Muncy when carelessly written, and consequent inconvenience in mail delivery.

—Major John Wynne, mayor of Lock Haven, died at his home in that place Monday morning at five o'clock. He had suffered several weeks from a stroke of paralysis that proved fatal. Deceased was seventy-five years old and was on the Pennsylvania railroad company's retired list, having served as train dispatcher at Lock Haven for twenty-five years.

—In conversation with a Lock Haven Express correspondent a Nittany Valley farmer said that wild turkeys are starving on account of the deep snows having covered the ground for so many weeks. The turkeys enter the farmer's orchards, fly upon the apple trees and with their wings hammer the limbs of the trees until the frozen apples fall, which they eat to appease their hunger.

—Mr. William Sterrett, a successful ice dealer of St. Paul, Minn., and a Centre county boy by birth and education, was in town this week transacting business and greeting old friends. He came east to attend the funeral of the late Joseph Mitchell, at State College; but on account of a wreck was several hours late in getting to Tyrone thereby missing the morning train, the only one by which he could have gotten to the College in time.

—Randolph Bryant, familiarly known as "Doc" to Bellefonte people, was found dead in bed at his home in New Kensington, on Sunday morning, where he had been working ever since the Bellefonte glass factory closed. Nothing is known as to the cause of his death, having retired on Saturday evening apparently enjoying his usual health. He was married to a daughter of William Fisher, who lives on half moon hill. His widow and two brothers, William and Joseph, survive him.

DON'T BITE AT THIS.—One of the latest swindles practised in this part of the country is an advertisement of a steel engraving. It reads like this: "Cut this out and send $2.50 and you will receive a beautiful steel engraving, 'The Landing of Columbus.' This engraving is authorized by the government and is an exact copy of the work of one of the great masters." Some man from Gordon answered it, and received in return a Columbian postage stamp. A great many people have been victimized in this way. Look out for it.—Ashland Telegram.

—A farmer from the lower end of Nittany Valley drove into Lock Haven for a load of lime one day last week. Having loaded his sled he started for home. The Beech Creek railroad crossing, at Castanea, was reached without trouble, but there the snow had melted off the crossing and his team was unable to draw the sled over the tracks. To add to his predicament the whistle of an approaching freight train was heard just at the time the horses stalled. There was but one thing to be done and that was to unhitch. This the farmer did and barely escaped with the lives of his team. The monster engine plowed through the sled scattering the lime in all directions and whitewashing the whole train.

WHAT THE COUNTRY EDITOR DOES FOR THE COMMUNITY.—An exchange in writing about the lack of appreciation which marks the work of the average country editor quotes Governor Francis, of Missouri as follows:

"Each year the local paper gives from $100 to $1,000 in free lines to the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The editor, in proportion to his means does more for his county than any other ten men; he ought to be supported, not because you like him and his writings, or not supported because you don't like him and disagree with his writings, but all should support a local paper because it is the best investment a community can make; it may not be brilliantly edited or crowded with thought, but financially it is more beneficial to the people than the teacher or preacher. Understand me, I do not say morally or intellectually, but financially; and yet on the moral question you will find most of the local papers on the right side. To-day the editors of the home papers do more for the least money of any men on earth."

—Lyon & Co. are closing out their entire winter stock of Overcoats, Ladies' Coats etc., at cost. Now is the time to buy an excellent garment cheap.

—Latest novelties in Spring clothing for Men, Boys and Children. The best suit in the market for men at $10.00. Tailoring a specialty.
