THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

—Millheim wants a water works.
—Hard P. Harris is in Philadelphia on business.

—James Harris and Charley Cruse are conducting a dancing class in Bush's Arcade.

—John Schrock and wife, of Tyrone, spent Sunday at the old home in this place.

—The first day of Spring brought James L. Murphy, of Pine Grove Mills, to town on business.

—The Bellefonte opera company will sing the "Pirates of Penzance" again on the evening of April 14th.

—The Loveland area works, at Lamar, which were recently destroyed by fire will be rebuilt on an enlarged scale.

—Willis Weaver moved to Millheim on Wednesday to get ready to open his hotel, the National, at that place.

—Robt. Loyd Esq. of Philipsburg, who has been dangerously ill for some time is regaining his health, we are glad to say.

—Rev. D. Y. Brouse, of Cameron, Pa., was one of the Methodist ministers from Centre county, who likes to read the WATCHMAN.

—The wild geese have been flying northward all week. Another barbing of Spring. The first robin was seen here on Friday morning.

—The members of the Bellefonte bar are to be entertained, this evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Reader at their home on Allegheny street.

—Sunday was one of the most perfect days of the season yet. Dr. Voe, the prophet, said that we were to have the most violent storm of the year.

—Rev. Samuel Creighton the pastor of the Pine street Methodist church, Williamsport, will soon move to a farm, he owns in Nittany Valley.

—To-morrow, Saturday, at 1 o'clock, Geo. N. Brandon will make sale of his horses and stable fixtures as well as a few articles of furniture. The sale will take place in the Diamond.

—Among our very pleasant visitors this week was that fine Irish gentleman Mr. Martin Hogan, of Unionville. Mr. Hogan is advancing in years, but he is as jolly as he can be for all that.

—Reports from all sales, for which the WATCHMAN printed bills and advertised, are to the effect that the articles all sold well. Remember this, those of you who will sell out next spring.

—William Hoover, the Curwensville man, who started last fall to push a wheelbarrow around the country has not been heard from for some time and it is feared his vehicle has run away with him.

—Noticeable Tyrone visitors to conference were Rev. John D. Stewart, Mrs. W. F. Taylor, Mrs. Ogle Burley, Misses Ada Hoffman and Cora Ewing, Dr. C. M. Ewing, F. D. Beyer and Jesse Stewart.

—Herman Anspach, a travelling man of Evansville, Ind., died suddenly from blood poisoning on Tuesday morning. Deceased was forty-six years old, and a brother of Mrs. Abram Baum of this place.

—The Philipsburg Methodists are indignant at the removal of their pastor, Rev. T. S. Wilcox, to Pine street church Williamsport. He had been in Philipsburg only one year and in that time did a wonderful work.

—Because of his unwillingness to be bullied by corporations seeking borough patronage, and his refusal to become a tool in their hands Squire J. H. Sanford has resigned his seat in the Philipsburg council.

—Instead of remodeling an old school house the Lock Haven school board has decided to tear it down and build a more modern one. Robert Cole, Bellefonte's promising architect, has presented the accepted designs.

—J. F. Roundtree lost a valuable horse by death early Monday morning. While we sympathize with Mr. Roundtree at his loss, yet we had to smile when one of his neighbors told us the horse was dead before he commenced doctoring it.

—Mr. George Ford, the Philadelphia gentleman, whose well rounded bass voice charmed the audience at the Presbyterian organ recital last January, was in town on Friday. He is a mercurial tailor at 116 S. Tenth street, in the Quaker city, and was soliciting orders for spring goods.

—While walking along Bishop street, on Tuesday afternoon, Miss Nancy Newell tripped and fell on the pavement, dislocating her hip. She is quite old and suffered severely in consequence. Friends quickly went to her assistance and she was taken home in a conveyance, where she is resting easy.

GEORGE N. BRANDON BANQUETTED.

—Perhaps there is nothing quite so satisfactory to a man who, after having passed a number of years in a certain community, finds when he comes to depart therefrom that his mode of life and his fellowship with men has been such that his going will be sincerely regretted. One feels that he has not lived in vain if he is beloved by a single soul, and how much greater the appreciation when a body of a town's most representative men gather to express a substantial tribute of esteem when one of their number has concluded that the time for severing the ties of friendship, which daily contact has strengthened, has come.

On Monday evening fifty-two of Bellefonte's most reputable citizens, men representing every branch of industrial interest in our town, sat about a richly set banquetting board in the dining room of the Brockerhoff house. Very little was said and the expectant look on the countenances of all seemed to indicate more plainly than words that the party was not complete. Presently the hall doors swung open and two gentlemen were seen on the threshold. They were George N. Brandon and William C. Heinle Esq., the expression of the former was a study, indeed, completely abashed by the undreamed of scene that greeted his eye, while a glad smile lighted up his face as the reality began to dawn. The latter's beaming countenance told all too plainly that the scheme to banquet Mr. Brandon in his own hotel had proved even more successful than anticipated.

Mr. Heinle escorted the guest of honor to a seat at the right of the head of the table and then, after a sweeping glance down along the two rows of faces, he began explaining to Mr. Brandon why all those people were there and what had been the incentive to bring them. The fact is that for five years George N. Brandon has catered to the wants of the guests of the Brockerhoff house in a way which his own success bears the best testimony. He came to Bellefonte, from Easton, a complete stranger who by his gentlemanly manner at all times, charitable disposition and indefatigable determination to take care of his own business quickly won a place in the hearts of many Bellefontes. Realizing that the time had come when Mr. Brandon was to depart his friends could think of no more fitting way of expressing their esteem for him than to banquet him. When Mr. Heinle had concluded, he responded very feelingly and assured his friends that that moment was one of the most satisfactory of his life.

The banquet was served under the direction of Mr. Henry Yeager, the veteran caterer, and was all that could have been desired. When the last course had been gone through with toast-master Heinle called on many of the gentlemen for responses to toasts he proposed. Among them were Representative Jas. Schofield, John M. Dale Esq., S. H. Williams, J. A. McCargue, John C. Miller, John G. B. Kinsloe, editor of the Lock Haven Express, J. A. Feidler, William Levan, Moyer Lyon, Col. Dunham, William and Lew Grauer, J. M. Neubauer, the very affable gentleman who will succeed Mr. Brandon as proprietor of the Brockerhoff house, and others. All of the responses were in that happy vein that betrayed only too well the feeling of high esteem that is cherished here for the man in whose honor it was given. The whole affair was a delightful success.

Mr. Brandon will leave Bellefonte about the 1st of April for the new town of Spangler, where he has built a large hotel which he hopes to make quite a summer resort. The best wishes of the WATCHMAN go with him.

A LONG DRAWN-OUT CASE.—A special term of court is now sitting in this place, Judge Wilbur F. Sadler, of Carlisle, presiding. The case being tried, for there is only one to come before it, is that of the Tyrone Mining and Manufacturing Co., vs. James Cross, which involves about four hundred acres of rich ore lands lying in Patton and west Ferguson townships, this county. It first came before the court in 1887, the suit having been brought as early as April, 1884, but a settlement was effected and it did not come into the courts until three years later. At that time the Company won and the court refused a new trial. An appeal was carried to the Supreme court in Oct., 1888, where the ruling of the lower court was reversed. At the December court it was tried here and Cross won, again an appeal was carried to the Supreme Court and again in 1890 it reversed the decision of the lower court. The case was taken up at the September Court, in '90, and Cross won again. An appeal was made, a year later, before Judge Krebs who granted a new trial and it has now been going on since Monday, with poor chances of ending before next week.

It is a valuable piece of land hence the costly litigation. The ablest lawyers in this district have been employed and many of the best known surveyors of the State have been called as witnesses. Judges Cummings, Simonton and Krebs, have already ruled on it and now Sadler is hearing the testimony.

—The current report that the Curwensville Lumber Co., was in a strained financial condition was a canard.

—Curwensville visitors to conference were R. D. Swoops, J. R. Irvin, C. E. Patton, F. L. Arnold and H. B. Thompson.

—The Renova Press, the sprightly little daily, which began life last fall has suspended because of the ill health of its boy editor, E. P. Kirk.

—Editor Harry A. Thompson, of the Mt. Union Times, accompanied by a Mr. Rex were conference visitors who called at this office. Both were pleased with the WATCHMAN's home.

—A very distinguished looking stranger on our streets during the week has been Ex-Senator S. E. Peale, of Lock Haven. He is interested in the Cross case now being tried at court.

—The latest reports from Clifton Springs carry the glad intelligence that Joe W. Furey is slowly improving in health. His physicians say that perfect rest and time will effect a permanent cure.

—Four horses, two colts, five cows, two calves, a lot of ducks, oats, hay, implements and harness were burned up by the fire that destroyed Mrs. Alexander Ale's log barn, near Warrior's Mark, early last Friday morning.

—A Curwensville Democrat went down to Cleveland's inauguration and upon his return was met at the door by the nurse, who held a new girl baby up to the wondering gaze of its pa. Not assayed by the presence of the little stranger he asked: "Girl or boy?" "Girl!" replied the nurse. "Name it Ruth then" said the father.

—George Hutchinson Esq., and wife, of Warriors Mark, spent Sunday in town, guests of the Brockerhoff. Mr. Hutchinson was Sergeant-at-Arms of the House during the last session of the Legislature and now holds a position in one of the Departments at Harrisburg. They dined with General Hastings Sunday evening.

—Among the new advertisements this week will be found that of the Wrought Iron Range Co., of St. Louis, Mo., which is about to introduce its wares into Centre county. Mr. S. T. Brashear, its gentlemanly agent, has his headquarters at Beech Creek whence he will work over the entire county.

—Mr. Thos. F. Gramly, one of Harris township's best citizens and most reliable Democrats, has pulled up stakes, and is now running a livery, feed and sale stable in Punxsutawney. There are few better fellows than Mr. Gramly anywhere, and it is the earnest hope of the WATCHMAN, that he may find his new location both pleasant and profitable.

—Thos. J. Riley, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Mr. Johnston, wholesale liquor dealers in Philipsburg, were in town on Tuesday to lift their liquor license which was granted by the License court two weeks ago. Ex-mayor Stuart Brouse and Lewis Grauer were showing them around town and venturing the assertion that they had a pleasant day.

—After setting up his business here Mr. W. T. Sterrett departed for his home in Miriam Park, Minn., on Wednesday evening. He sold his property at State College, the one occupied by the late Joseph L. Mitchell, to Mr. W. C. Patterson, Supt. of the Experimental farm at the College. Mr. Sterrett just stayed long enough to impress all those who had the pleasure of meeting him most favorably.

—An exchange tells of a lady who decided to scare her husband, who was quite a hard drinker, so that he would reform. To do this she procured a costume of a devil that had been worn at a masquerade. The next time the erring spouse came home feeling happy she quickly donned the costume and as he opened the door she stepped forward and said in sepulchral tones: "Come with me—I am the devil." The result rather startled her, as the response that greeted her was: "Zat so? Shake, ol' boy. I'm your brother-in-law. I married your sister."

—John R. Clarke, who will deliver his "To and Fro in London," in the Court House one week from to-night, is no expert. He has been before the public for nineteen seasons, and from all parts of the country come the most flattering reports of his ability. To those who heard him during Institute week, he lectured in the Court House the night the home minstrel held forth in the opera house, we need not commend him, for it was hearing him once that prompted the W. C. T. U. to get him again, and while he comes here under his management his "To and Fro" is by no means a temperance lecture; but a popular success, abounding in song, fun, pathos, descriptive passages, stories of real life, bits of autobiography and sketches of great men.

AN ANSWER TO MILLHEIM READERS.—On Wednesday a letter, bearing the Millheim post-mark came to this office. In it was a question concerning the fence laws of the State. One of our Millheim readers claiming that no fences at all are necessary under the present law, the other contending that the law does not apply to outside fences—that is, fences along the public roads. In answer to their query we beg to make the following statements.

What was known as the general fence law was repealed by the Republican Legislature in 1887 and since that time there has been no law requiring land owners to fence any part of their property.

The fence question was an issue in the last fall's Legislative fight in this county and the WATCHMAN explained the situation many times during that campaign.

Several cases have been tried in court here, and before justices in different parts of the county, which have sprung directly from the fence question. In all of the cases suit was brought by property owners who had let their fences go down and as a result neighbors' cows, pasturing along public roads, trespassed on the unfenced land. They were promptly penned up and damages were allowed.

A recent ruling of Judge Furst is to the effect that a property owner is required to fence against his own cattle only. That is if he wants to pasture he must build fence or provide some way of keeping his cattle on his own land or be prepared to pay damages if they trespass on a neighbor's property. Under this ruling you will readily see that the law does not require you to fence an inch of your land and it will award you damages if cattle or other outside agents causes it.

In conclusion we would say that under the law now in force no fences whatever are required. Along the public roads nor anywhere else, and if any person's stock gets on your land you have a legal right to pen it up and hold it until the owner of the same pays all costs. Upon his refusal to do this the law provides a way for disposal of the trespassing animal.

THEY VISITED THE COLLEGE.—On Tuesday the Senate appropriation committee visited the Pennsylvania State College and made a hurried, though careful, examination of the manner in which the institution is conducted. The committee arrived in this place, from Lock Haven, in the morning at 10:25 and was taken direct to the College by a special engine. The return was made in time to connect with the 5:20 mail for Huntingdon.

A WATCHMAN reporter interviewed several members of the committee and found them well pleased with what they saw at the College and it is highly probable that among other improvements to be made soon there will be a beautiful grand stand and athletic club house erected on Beaver field.

The members of the committee were: George Handy Smith, of Philadelphia; W. S. Smith, of Lancaster; L. R. Kefer, of Schuylkill; W. R. Crawford, of Venango; John Upperman, of Allegheny; J. M. Woods, of Mifflin; E. Becker, of Philadelphia; W. R. Meredith, of Armstrong; A. F. Bannon, of McKean; N. B. Critchfield, of Somerset; J. S. Fruit, of Mercer; A. D. Markley, of Montgomery; M. C. Henninger, of Lehigh; M. E. McDonald, of Lackawanna; H. D. Greene, of Berks, and S. J. Logan, of Crawford.

TWO KILLED AT TYRONE.—Last Saturday morning was one freighted with railroad fatalities to people living along the Pennsylvania railroad, near Tyrone. In the early morning James A. Jacobs, aged 20, a brakeman on a local freight was found dead on the railroad tracks. It is supposed that he fell from his train and was killed.

A short time afterwards Owen McGraw was driving a horse and cart across the tracks when the animal shied at the Atlantic express, throwing McGraw out in front of the train. It cut his head entirely off.

Before either one of these unfortunate were killed a big freight wreck occurred near Barre, in Huntingdon county. M. S. Smith, night operator, turned the wrong switch and a "double header" going west collided with a freight going east. Twenty-one cars and three engines were piled up. One of the firemen was buried under the wreckage. Four wrecking crews labored all morning to clear the tracks and by afternoon trains were running through. The passenger train on the Bald Eagle Valley road was over two hours late in reaching this place in consequence of the wreck.

A BELLEFONTE HONORED.—At a regular meeting of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Implement Dealers Association, held in Harrisburg on Tuesday, Col. Wm. Shortridge, one of the managers of McCalmont & Co.'s extensive interests at this place, was elected president of the association. Mr. Shortridge has always taken an active interest in agriculture and its modern appliances and this honor is worthily bestowed.

—Out of fifteen prisoners sentenced in the Blair county court, last Saturday, five of them went to the Huntingdon reformatory.

—Go to E. Brown Jr.'s for your wall paper.

—The town of Patton, Clearfield county, saw its first train on St. Patrick's day. The train ran into the town over the Cambria & Clearfield road, a branch of the Beech Creek, which was completed that day.

—Have you seen E. Brown Jr.'s stock of wall paper.

—Rev. W. McKnight Williamson, father of ex-Senator Williamson and the oldest Presbyterian clergyman in the State, died at the residence of his son-in-law, W. H. Woods, Esq., in Huntingdon, Tuesday afternoon at 5:30, after a protracted illness. He was aged 93 years and 21 days.

—Call and see E. Brown Jr.'s stock of furniture and wall paper.

—W. M. Brugger, of Pennfield, Clearfield county, was in town Thursday looking after business matters. He had been engaged in the livery business in Pennfield for ten years, but has just sold out to go into business at Elmira, N. Y. His parents' home is at Unionville.

FOR RENT.—A seven room two story brick house on Burnside street, Reservoir hill, with an acre of ground attached; hard and soft water on the premises; all modern conveniences. Also an eight room 2 1/2 story dwelling house on Allegheny street, between Logan and Bishop. Inquire of E. Brown, Jr.

BUYING HER SPRING GOODS.—Mrs. Robert Gilmore left last evening for the eastern cities, where she will purchase her line of Spring millinery. Her new store-room in the Brockerhoff house block will be a marvel of beauty on her return. She intends opening a complete line of ribbon, laces, gloves and hair goods in addition to her extensive millinery. Watch for the notice of her return and then attend her opening.

EDERHART FAMILY REUNION.—There will be a gathering of all the Eberharts, Everharts, Eberhardts, Eberharts, and Everharts, during the World's Fair, to which all people bearing any one of the above names are invited and at which time the general family relationship will be traced. It will take place June 15th, at the hotel Le Grand, 39 to 45 Wells street Chicago, where after a royal banquet speeches will be made and a general good time guaranteed to the big family. For particulars we would advise our readers who feel interested to address Uriah Eberhart, Chicago Lawn, Ill.

—Yesterday morning William T. Hillibish, of this place, received a telegram that stated that his older brother, Joseph, who had been in the hardware business in Bradford, Pa., for years, was ill and could not recover. An hour later the sad intelligence of his death was received, but no explanation as to its cause. He was the third son of the late Nicholas Hillibish of this place and leaves a wife, two sisters, Mrs. Roland Cheeseman, of Washington, D. C. and Martha, who lives here, and five brothers John, Edward, George, and Frank, of Canton, Ohio, and William of this place. He is said to have been very prosperous in business. Deceased was born on the 11th of April, 1848. His widow was a Miss Hildrith, of Emporium.

FORGED CHECK ON THE FIRST NATIONAL.—For some time sharpers have been at work in Lock Haven passing worthless checks. Sometime ago we mentioned the fact that the firm name of J. A. Harper & Co., of this place, had been forged for small amounts and the checks paid by Lock Haven merchants. The sharpers usually go into a store, purchase a small bill of goods, and offer a check of a larger amount for payment, receiving the difference in cash. When the merchant presented the check at his bank for payment he found it to be worthless.

These scamps have been keeping up a systematic robbery in this way, forging the checks on Williamsport, Tyrone and Bellefonte banks.

On Wednesday evening two of the sharpers went to Elliott's clothing store in Lock Haven, the one ordering a suit and offering as deposit a check on the First National Bank of Bellefonte, payable to Clyde J. Thomas and signed by A. G. Morris, the lime-stone operator, of Tyrone. It was for $16 and the forged, asked for the difference of $8, between the amount of deposit and the price of the suit, to be paid him in cash. This Mr. Elliott refused and kept the entire check. He was not satisfied that all was right and telephoned up here only to find out that Mr. Morris does not keep an account here and that the check was a forgery. Lock Haven police are hard at work on the case.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE PREACHERS.

An exchange publishes the following bit of news which will doubtless tickle many of our half starved, unpaid ministerial brethren: The Supreme court of Pennsylvania has decided that a minister has a right to pay himself wages out of the money collected by him for church purposes. The dispute was a matter of $500 a year. The minister paid himself $1,500 a year; the church thought he should have but $1,000. The court declared that $1,500 was none too much for a minister and awarded him that sum.

—Wall paper of all kinds at a very low figure can be had at E. Brown Jr.'s.

A VENERABLE COLORED MAN GONE.—Shortly after ten o'clock, on Saturday morning, all that was mortal of the venerable George Sims passed into eternity. He had been in failing health for three years and his death, at the advanced age of ninety years, was not unexpected. He came to Bellefonte in 1838, having run away from his owner, in Maryland. His erect figure made him one of the most noticeable of our colored residents. Three children Mrs. Wm. Mills, Mrs. John Emery and George, with their mother, survive him. Funeral services were held in St. Paul's A. M. E. church on Tuesday afternoon.

—Hon. Thomas Murray, of Clearfield, was an interested conference visitor.

—Furniture at lower prices at E. Brown Jr.'s than any place in Centre county.

—Lyon & Co. are closing out their entire winter stock of Overcoats, Ladies' Coats etc., at cost. Now is the time to buy an excellent garment cheap.

—Latest novelties in Spring clothing for Men, Boys and Children. The best suit in the market for men at $10.00. Tailoring a specialty.
