GATSBURG, Centre County, Pa., Aug. 9, 1892 To the N. F. German Rheumatic Cure Co., Tyrone, Pa.

GENTLEMEN:—I had suffered with Rheumatism for many years, when, at the advanced age of seventy-seven years, your cure was recommended to me. I had tried upon myself everything known to me, (I am a doctor of fifty-one years experience) and had despaired of ever being cured. Your remedy was taken according to directions, and after using the second package, the disease left me entirely and no rheumatic pain or ache has troubled me since.

I can recommend it without hesitancy to all afflicted with the disease, and being familiar with the ingredients contained in the compound, can recommend them as being non-injurious to the constitution, and as being the most efficient blood remedy known.

Truly Yours, DANIEL BATES, M.D.

News From Jackson Park.

Man, Fair Visitors.—To Be a Reclamation in—Rites Free, Thousand People Ride Around the Circle 550 Feet in Diameter and Experienced a Queer Sensation.

The steady increase of strangers at the fair is becoming more noticeable each day and the daily attendance is growing at a rate that convinces the exhibition officials that the enterprise is destined to be a financial success.

Members of the central administration are discussing the advisability of having a 25 cent admission day at the fair, and the chances are that half rate will be tried a week from next Sunday.

THE FERRIS WHEEL REVOLVES. Midway Plaisance was a moving mass of humanity when the revolving creation of George Washington Gale Ferris, of Pittsburg, Pa., started first for the 5,000 invited guests and then for thousands of Exposition visitors who had been patiently waiting to take a ride in the monster circle of steel and iron. It was a great day for the civil engineering profession in general and Inventor Ferris in particular. All of the 5,000 invited persons were elevated slowly to a height of 250 feet, and by a gradual, indescribable motion lowered through space to the five platforms.

While the guests were gathering, the Iowa State band, perched in the topmost car of the wheel, high above the promenade on the roof of the Manufactures building, played patriotic and popular airs. The wheel revolved a few times to show the thousands watching it the motion and safety of it. Robert W. Hunt, president of the Ferris Wheel Company and architect of the Administration building, welcomed the guests and said he had been connected with many engineering enterprises, but never before had he known such a gigantic piece of machinery to start so smoothly. Great applause followed the president's address and three cheers with a tiger were given for Mr. Ferris.

Mr. Ferris told how, at an informal dinner in a Chicago restaurant, he had conceived the idea of having the engineering profession represented at the fair in a striking manner and planned the building, welcomed the guests and said he had been connected with many engineering enterprises, but never before had he known such a gigantic piece of machinery to start so smoothly. Great applause followed the president's address and three cheers with a tiger were given for Mr. Ferris.

Canada's Cheese Exhibit. Canada has outstripped its competitors in the June exhibit of cheese. The big eleven cheese, manufactured at the Dominion Experimental Station at Perth, Ontario, under the supervision of Professor Robertson, has been tested by the judges.

In their report they say that the flavor is remarkably good and the body extra fine, and the six 1,000 pound cheeses exhibit, welcomed the guests and said he had been connected with many engineering enterprises, but never before had he known such a gigantic piece of machinery to start so smoothly. Great applause followed the president's address and three cheers with a tiger were given for Mr. Ferris.

The United States Signal Service Bureau has made arrangements with the officials in charge of the captive balloon to make three or four ascensions each week for the purpose of making scientific observations. By means of the balloon the weather officers can attain a height of over a quarter of a mile and they hope to make observation and discoveries that will be of great advantage to the service.

THE JAPANESE GARDEN. The world's fair, abounding as it does in enlightening revelations, affords few more interesting than the little Japanese tea garden, located on the sloping of the lagoon near the French marine cafe. Though purely exotic, this garden, if one may form an estimate from the class and extent of its patronage, has caught the fancy of discriminating tourists, for nowhere on the fair grounds can an hour's respite from wearisome sight-seeing be more pleasantly employed. Attending ladies and gentlemen, assisted by discreet household servants, with suavity and winning smiles welcome visitors and invite participation in the refined luxuries of Japanese home life. In this, as in all the rest of their contributions to the great international exhibition, these people have shown remarkable enterprise, sparing neither labor nor expense in making them attractive.

Surrounded by a tall bamboo fence, the garden is shaded by spreading trees and laid off with walks, flower-beds, pond, stepping stones and artificial hills, interspersed with rustic seats, storks in bronze and real Japanese porcelain lanterns, besides being decorated with dwarf trees, Japanese and American flags, bright-colored paper lanterns and hanging baskets. They have native azaleas and tea plants growing there. The ornamental lanterns, which resemble large vases standing amid the growing plants, and which are requisite to the furniture in the tea house, which is very valuable, is the property of Mr. Sano, president of this tea colony. It is said to be worth $20,000. Mr. Sano, a wealthy gentleman, in the possession of one of the rarest collections of Japanese curios extant, a considerable portion of which he has brought with him to these shores.

The lady who serves you with shicha or informed tea take the requisite number of cups and fill with water that is hot, and while it is cooling she places some tea leaves in the teapot and pours the contents of all of the cups over them. This is allowed to stand only a brief while, when it is again poured into the cups and served. In taking tea leaves from a caddy Japanese ladies use a piece of ornamental bamboo in lieu of a tea-spoon. These bamboo spoons are heirlooms, for besides their expensive decorations, which run as high as $50 or $60 in value, they generally have drawn on their surfaces their own history, recording names of original and subsequent owners.

SIGHT-SEEING IS HARD WORK. "One of the greatest drawbacks to the fair is the walking required to see it. It is particularly hard upon stout persons and women, and toward evening when the crowds begin to leave Jackson Park, the worn-out, jaded appearance of the people testifies to the hard labor their sightseeing has subjected them. The buildings are all so large that the distance between them seems small until you walk it. Before you realize it you have walked five or ten miles and have not begun to see the show. There are nearly 500 miles of walks in the buildings about the grounds.

"The rolling chairs are used by many, particularly elderly or delicate persons, to avoid walking, but they are an expensive luxury. The rate is 75 cents an hour when a uniformed guide accompanies you and pushes the chair along, but when there are two or more persons in the party they can rent a chair for 40 cents an hour and take turns at pushing it themselves. At best however, the chair is unsatisfactory for sight seeing, as there are many buildings in which the chairs are prohibited.

"But one should see the World's Fair. It need not cost more than a couple of week's salary to see it, and there is more to see than they will have an opportunity of seeing again in a lifetime."

Do Babies Eyes Grow? How big are "a young baby's eyes?" We have heard it stated within the last year or two that "a young baby's eye" is as big as a grown person's eye; that the eye does not grow as the body grows; that it is the same size when the baby is born as it is after the baby has grown up to be a man or a woman; that it is born full size, is then as big as it ever gets to be. This statement has been submitted to a number of experts on babies, who generally agree that "a young baby's eye" grows as the body grows, though not in the same ratio. But is it true?

Authorities are sometimes in error. Expert witnesses frequently tangle themselves up in all kinds of contradictory statements of facts; expert physicians do not reach the same conclusions from identically the same basis of reasoning; expert cotton buyers often-times buy when the slumps in the market prove that they should have sold; it may be that the baby experts whom we have questioned upon the subject of baby eyes have spoken with out due consideration. We should like to have the puzzle settled. Do babies' eyes grow. How big is a young baby's eye?

People With Musical Ears. In extolling the value of musical education we ignore the notorious fact that as a rule, those who excel in the knowledge and practice of music excel in nothing else. With few exceptions great musicians are children in every other branch of cultivation. They are deficient in the logical faculty and seem incapable of acquiring exact knowledge. No one ever heard of a musician who was great as a statesman, or as a soldier, or as an orator, or as a writer, or as a lawyer, or as a doctor, or as a master of any department of science. When we bid our girls neglect their books and their studies of life to concentrate their thoughts on the keyboard, we invite them to sacrifice their usefulness for the barren satisfaction of being able to produce more or less musical sounds.

LARGE PEACH CROPS.—Remarkable stories of the prospects of a good peach crop come from Delaware, but the conditions are different from those which prevailed thirty years ago. Then a great peach crop would glut the markets of Philadelphia to such an extent that on Saturday nights luscious peaches could be had by the basketful almost for the asking. To-day the market is greatly extended by means of large it would only mean a wider distribution of the fruit without a ruinous sacrifice of prices in any one place. This is better for everybody. We would like to have good peaches at a reasonable price, but no one should want to see them sold at rates ruinous to the growers, shippers and dealers.

Volcanoes in Washington. The State of Washington is traversed north and south by mountains of lava and lava flows, forming a section of that great system which stretches from Alaska to Cape Horn, and marks upon the surface of the earth probably the greatest geological catastrophe the world has ever seen. To the westward of this range stand three great volcanic peaks, Mount Baker, Mount Tacoma and Mount St. Helena. All are active, but not violently. Several eruptions of Mount Baker are recorded, notably that in 1857, when streams of lava covered the western slopes.

Extra Session Before September. The New York Herald says to-day that it is assured, upon the authority of a personal friend of the president, that he has decided to call an extra session of congress before Sept. 1, and that his intention in doing so is based upon his recent inquiries as to the present attitude of congressmen regarding the Sherman silver purchase act.

The Union of the German Iron and Steel Manufacturers has just published its annual report. The union has 314 members (firms and companies), who control a capital of about 1,500 million marks, and who employ 241,000 men. The condition of business is described to be unsatisfactory, yet it is thought that the worst is over, since things can hardly be worse than they are.

Dr. M. J. Davis is a prominent physician of Lewis, Cass county, Iowa, and has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine at that place for the past thirty-five years. On the 25th of May, while in Des Moines, en route to Chicago, he was suddenly taken with an attack of diarrhoea. Having sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for the past seventeen years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a 25 cent bottle, two doses of which completely cured him. The excitement and change of water and diet incident to traveling often produce a diarrhoea. Every one should procure a bottle of this Remedy before leaving home. For sale by F. Potts Green.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD.—Dr. Austin Flint says in the Forum: "It is probable that a person with an inherited tendency to consumption would never develop the disease if he could be protected against infection with the tubercle bacillus. In the light of modern discoveries consumption can no longer be regarded as an incurable disease. It is no exaggeration to say that Kemp's Balsam, when taken in time, has saved many from consumption.
