N. F. GERMAN RHEUMATIC CURE.

NO CURE, NO PAY!

MONEY CHEERFULLY REFUNDED

For any case of Rheumatism it fails to cure, if read according to directions. Read following testimonial of an eminent Centre county physician.

GATSBURGH, Centre County, Pa., Aug. 9, 1932 To the N. F. German Rheumatic Cure Co., Tyrone, Pa.

GENTLEMEN:—I had suffered with Rheumatism for many years, when, at the advanced age of seventy-seven years, your cure was recommended to me. I had tried upon myself everything known to me (I am a doctor of fifty years experience) and had despaired of ever being cured. Your remedy was taken according to directions, and after using the second package, the disease left me entirely and no rheumatic pain or ache has troubled me since.

I can recommend it without hesitancy to all afflicted with the disease, and being familiar with the ingredients contained in the compound, can recommend them as being non-injurious to the constitution, and as being the most efficient blood remedy known.

Truly Yours, DANIEL BATES, M. D.

DR. SCHENCK'S

Mandrake Pills have a value as a household remedy far beyond the power of language to describe. The family can hardly be true to itself that does not keep them on hand for use in emergencies.

Is the only vegetable substitute for that dangerous mineral, Mercury, and it while its action as a curative is fully equal, it possesses none of the perilous effects.

In Constipation, Mandrake acts upon the bowels without disposing them to subsequent Costiveness. No remedy acts so directly on the liver, nothing so speedily cures Sick Headaches, Sour Stomach and Bilio-ness as these

The Calamity Prattlers.

A Stinging Rebuke to Partisan Calamity Howlers.

The attitude assumed by the Transcript has evoked considerable discussion, and, in the main, our position, relative to the financial trouble and its immediate cause, has been conceded to be well taken. Men of all classes have agreed with us that the semi-panic of today is a senseless one, and has been participated upon the country for partisan purposes by a partisan press. The panic peddlers have unnecessarily alarmed the timid and raised a corner in money-belts and old stockings; they have also created a silly scare in manufacturing circles in regard to the tariff. The tariff scare is as near causeless as anything can well be. Tariff reform will certainly come; but there will be no change in the tariff laws that will disturb, to any appreciable extent, a single legitimate industry. Protection to a considerable degree will always be maintained.

The panic peddlers know, if they know anything, that no people are so timid as those who have by hard work, and often by economy bordering on penuriousness, saved a little money. They are ever in fear of the proverbial rainy day. At the first sound of alarm, with a distrust of the banks and saving funds. They want to finger their money, to look at and fondle it. Who can blame them? It is their little all; but who does not blame those who, for their own base purposes, engendered the mistrust, fostered the depression and encouraged the panic? However, there is a light in the window for our erring editorial brethren.

There is still time for them to make amends. Whether they will show the requisite courage and come humbly forth and say they have sinned before the people and against the party, the early future must disclose. There are multitudinous opportunities offering now for them to rectify the harm done. Improvement is every where. Banks that were supposed to have opened their doors; mills that had been shut down are in active operation; sunshine and gladness are banishing the gloom and depression. Let the carpers, the croakers and the mar-alls call attention to displayed headlines and optimistic editorials to the great betterment of affairs; let them be at least as eager to build as to raze, and applause shall be theirs—not loud and long at first, because injuries cannot be condoned at once; but if they continue to be truthful and keep on in the good work the commending acclamation will increase in volume and forgiveness eventually come. They have surely done harm enough to be eagerly willing and sufficiently brave to do a little good. To be sure they can not claim all the votes they have lost with their withering walls and woolf words, but they can keep a good many from going over to Mr. Cleveland's party, and they ought to do it.

Many of them have shown a contrite spirit by unqualifiedly indorsing the President's grand and glorious message, and thereon we base a hope for further good from them. Brothers, come home; don't let the light in the window sputter and flicker out.—Phila. Transcript, Rep.

Takes a Hopeful View.

Comptroller Eckels Says the Situation Might be Termed as Starvation in the Midst of Plenty.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Comptroller Eckels takes a very hopeful view of the financial situation. He authorized the publication of the following statement as representing his views on the subject:

"The situation as it stands might be very appropriately termed the starvation in the midst of plenty, for such is the exact truth. The volume of currency in the country is greater than in any recent year, and yet none is to be had except as it is bought in the market as a commodity pure and simple.

"If the workmen of the country, the farmers and others, draw their deposits from the national savings and other banks in the immediate future as they have in the immediate past they will cause their own financial embarrassment, for labor and produce cannot be purchased without money, and money cannot be had if the owners thereof insist upon hoarding it.

"Because of this hoarding the efforts being now put forth by the government and the banks have not as yet made the impression upon the public mind which ultimately must result from them. A perceptible change should be apparent shortly, for within the coming week more currency will be issued upon bonds deposited to secure circulation by banks than in the same period of time for some time.

"I can't but have a reassuring effect upon the public to know that from August 1st to 12th $28,908,250 of currency were ordered printed, bonds to the amount of $12,111,350 deposited to secure circulation and currency to the amount of $5,578,405 actually sent from the comptroller's office.

"When to this is added the fact that $20,000,000 of gold is ordered from abroad, and so must be over, there is a certain good ground for hope of relief from a condition which is wholly the result of unreasoning fear.

"It might be just as well for the money hoarders, who desire to sell their money at a profit, to study these figures and get their money upon the market at once, for within a very brief period it will be so much of a drug, through over supply, that the premium upon it will disappear.

"The condition which hampers the various interests of the country being an abnormal one, many means which are under right conditions would not be called into action have, through the very necessity of things, been resorted to. Thus in the large cities unusually large volumes of clearing house certificates have been issued, while, in others, certified checks have been made to take the place of currency which has been improperly diverted from business channels.

"The people in a large measure can give the relief needed by unlocking their deposit vaults, untying their old stockings and making the banks of the country the places for the safe keeping of their money, instead of their beds and cellars. If they refuse to do this they certainly ought not to complain of inconveniences which they can but will not remedy."

Monuments of the Boundary.

There have recently been received at the Mexican border two carloads of Government freight consisting of the new line monuments and other necessities for the work of definitely marking the boundary line between the United States and Mexico. On the old monuments iron plates are to be affixed by means of bolts, on which is inscribed in raised letters: "Repaired by the Boundary Commission, created by the Treaties of 1882-1889. The destruction or displacement of this monument is a misdemeanor punishable by the United States or Mexico." The new monuments are of iron, six feet high from base to top of square, and six feet six inches high from base to apex. The shafts are tapering, being about twenty inches square at the base and ten inches at the top of square, the crown tapering to a point. On one side of the shaft in raised letters is the following: "Boundary of the United States (under which an American eagle appears), treaty of 1853, re-established by treaties 1882-1889. The destruction or displacement of this monument is a misdemeanor punishable by the United States or Mexico." These latter monuments will be bolted on to a concrete base, two feet thick by three feet square and placed about two miles and four-tenths apart. The eastern (or El Paso) end monuments are placed two miles and six-tenths apart. The camp of the United States boundary commission is placed about half a mile south of the line.—Dallas Texas News.

Grafting Arms.

A Feasible Surgical Operation May Be Undergone by a Tacoma Man.

Theodore Lee, the armless newsdealer, who went east recently with a vague idea that he could get arms grafted on his stumps, has been heard from by the St. Paul Pioneer Press. He has been inquiring among specialists regarding his case, and he finds that he may yet grafted his arms, from the arms that are grafted from a healthy man or woman, and the hope is held out to Mr. Lee that he may find some person condemned to be hanged, for instance, who would, for $1,000 say, to be given to relatives or charity, allow an arm to be amputated for grafting purposes. Mr. Lee has, in substance, been informed that the splices would be made just above the elbow joint.

When Mr. Lee has found a person who will submit to the operation they will have to be brought together in such a position as to permit of the arms of both, which are to be operated upon, being placed in plaster paris casts, so that they cannot be moved. Then it is proposed to cut the back part of both the arms, also cutting through the bone. The arm that is to be grafted on to Mr. Lee's stump, or that portion of it that is cut away at the first operation, is to be adjusted and fastened to the stump and allowed to remain until it heals and there is evidence of circulation between the stump and the part that is grafted on. The second operation will be cutting of the remainder of the inside portion of the arm, together with the artery and the nerve. The operation, it is proposed, however, is not to be undertaken until the surgeons are satisfied that the circulation through the part of the arm already grafted on is sufficient to nourish and support the new forearm.

A Natural Bridge of Agate.

A mining expert sent to investigate some Arizona properties for Denver capitalists reports the finding of a most remarkable natural bridge formed by a tree of agatized wood, spanning a canyon 45 feet in width. The tree had at some remote time fallen and become imbedded in the silt of some great inland sea or mighty water overflow. The silt became in time sandstone, and the wood gradually passed through the stages of mineralization until it is now a wonderful tree of solid agate. In later years water washed and ate away the sandstone until a canyon 45 feet in width has been formed, the flinty substance of the agatized wood having resisted the erosion of the waterflow. Fully 50 feet of the tree rests on one side and can be traced, but how far its other side lies buried in the sandstone cannot be determined without blasting away the rock.—Jewelers' Journal.
