Rio Seems Doomed.

It is Again Bombarded by the Rebel Fleet.

NEW YORK, October 11.-Advices received here concerning the war in Brazil are of a startling nature and new complications are reported. The Herald's correspondent at Montevideo cables the following, dated last night:

Admiral de Mellos has once more opened his firing on Rio de Janeiro, and the capital is in a state of panic. The fact that the bombardment still continues is thought here to be due either to a perfidious breach of promise on the part of Admiral de Mellos, or, what is more likely, to the fact that President Piexoto has refused, as he said he would, to dismantle his batteries, and has persisted in shelling the ships, and thus drawing their fire upon the capitol of Brazil.

Much anxiety is felt in Rio to know what action President Cleveland will instruct Minister Thompson to take with regard to the question of supporting the Argentina and Chilian ministers in Rio in their protests against the diplomats belligerents. They have raised the cry, "America for the Americans," and assert that this is just the time when the Monre doctrine should be unmistakably asserted. They declare that other American governments are well able to do all the interfering that is necessary between the Brazilian contestants, and they are looking to the leader of American nations to come to the front now and assert herself.

While those who are most familiar with the situation are still in doubt as to what course Minister Thompson will decide to pursue, they believe he is opposed to the proposed intervention of European powers, and that he will finally act in concert with the legations of Chili and Argentina. Only Uruguay, among the South American nations, represented in Rio, remains neutral in this matter.

> -Andrew Rankin, the Karthause Justice of the Peace, and all-around confidence man, who is now serving a term in the Clearfield county jail for embezzlement, received word last Thursday that his wife had died at side of his dead wife until after the funeral. Two of Rankin's sons are dangerously ill with typhoid fever. The wily 'Squire is well known here in Bellefonte, where his wedding took place. It will be remembered that he fell in love with a woman, whom he met at Haag's hotel here, while he was engaged as a witness on the Andrew's murder case. His many escapades are familiar to the readers of the WATCHMAN.

> SHE WAS IN NO DANGER OF CATCH-ING IT .- The following juicy little story is being told at the expense of a Penns Valley school teacher, who had doubtless read of the cholera and yellow fever scares until she became so worked up as to get frightened at anything.

A young lady school teacher, teaching not many miles from this place, has such an inordinate dread of contagious On Wednesday, October 18th, diseases that she sent a little girl home the other day "because she said her mother was sick and had symptoms of something alarming. The next day she presented herself at school with her finger in her mouth and her bonnet swinging by the string and said: "We've got a little baby at our house, but mama told me to tell you that it isn't catchin'." The teacher blushed slightly and said she was very glad and told the pupil to take her seat."

> PROF. JOSIAH JACKSON OF STATE COLLEGE IS DEAD. -The following item clipped from the Chester Times, of Wednesday, brings sad news to the community of State College.

> "Professor Josiah Jackson, of the Pennsylvania State College, died last evening quite suddenly at the residence of his sister, Dr. Hannah J. Price Broad and Madison streets. Professor Jackson has been suffering from heart trouble for some time, but his condition had not been regarded as critical, and he was on a leave of absence from his duties at State College on account of his health. He came to this city a few days ago to spend some time with his sister, and she was with him when the fatal stroke came. Prof. Jackson was a man of very fine held the professorship of higher mathematics in the State College, in Centre county, where he was very highly respected. He was rated as one of the leading mathematicians of the State. He was born about sixty-four years ago, mother's side being connected with some of the best known names among and his death is the first break in the family. The funeral will take place on Saturday and the interment will be made at

MARRIAGE LICENSES.-Issued dur- Longwood Meeting House, near his Pine Grove Mentions. birth place, in Chester county."

Professor Jackson was the oldest member of the college faculty and was so beloved by the student body, during all his years of connection with the institution, that his death will cause genuine sorrow in the hearts of those men whose contact with him told them of his noble individuality. He led the simple, unassuming life of a Friend and it was his kindly interest in all about him that proved the charm of his being. His work as a professor was always of a high order and to his indefatigable labors many of the graduates of P. S. C., who are now finding prominence in various engineering pursuits owe much of their success. In his death the Pennsylvania State College has lost a man, who by reason of the esteem in which he was held by every one and the love borne him by alumni and student of the institution, will perhaps never be replaced. His kind, though firm, manner found its reward in softening the wayward spirits of many men who came into his charge; and articles may be handed in not; later to them their alma mater has lost the star of its of organism.

A widow, three sons and one daughter, who is the wife of Prof. L. E. Reber, of State College, mourn the loss of a ing where he was placed in jail, charged husband and parent whose sad death has left a wound in the hearts of many now scattered o'er this broad land.

S. A. Dunlap and wife are receiving the congratulations of their neighbors upon the arrival of a young daughter at their home

Miss Maurie Campbell, Miss Clara Walker, Levi Walker Esq., and Oscar Bowersox are this week in attendance at the World's Fair. Miss Nancy Gill of Bellefonte, who has been an invalid for some months, will spend the winter with her sister Mrs. Ward in this place where she is now staying.

Mrs. F. E. Meek, who some days ago had a paralytic stroke is reported slowly improving. The hope of the WATCHMAN is that she may long be spared to her family. Lawrence Fox, one of Shingletown's nimrods in the beginning of the season brought down the first deer and has been busy dealing out the savory meat ever since to his friends.

The new Presbyterian parsonage, on the old burned site, is about completed, receiving its second coat of paint of white color, with orange trimmings. When completed it will present rather a cosy appearance among the uptowners.

We are glad to note the improvement of Capt. J. H. Stevens, who about one week ago re ceived a partial paralytic stroke which affected his speech and right side and for some days he was unconscious and unable to speak, but at this writing is better. He is now able to converse with his family. It is hoped a collapse will not soon follow.

The last month has been one of unusual activity among our sportsmen for small game. Hundreds of the frisky tribe were killed. J. D.
