When Rudyard Kipling was a boy in India he used to read St. Nicholas, and now he takes his turn at bringing delight to the thousands of young folks who read it to-day. He has written for St. Nicholas a series of remarkable stories of boy and girl life in the jungles and wild life. THE CENTURY MAGAZINE

IN 1894. The greatest of all the magazines. 2000 PAGES OF THE BEST LITERATURE. 1000 ILLUSTRATIONS BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS OF THE WORLD. The program of the new volume of The Century Magazine, beginning with the November number, is one of rare interest and a real treat to the reader. The chief serial feature is a New Novel by MARK TWAIN.

The most dramatic story ever written by America's greatest humorist. Like several of Mark Twain's stories, it has for its scene a steamboat town on the Mississippi River forty years ago. "Pudd'nhead Wilson" is the chief character, the hero of the story, furnishes much of the fun that one naturally expects to find in a work by an author of "The Innocent Abroad," but he appears in quite another light in the murder trial which forms the thrilling climax of the story. The plot introduces a novel and ingenious employment of science in the detection of crime, and the characters are well drawn and their every action is interesting. The Century will contain A SERIES OF SUPERB ENGRAVINGS OF THE OLD DUTCH MASTERS;

Articles on HUNTING OF PIERCE GAME; ARTISTS' ADVENTURES, by leading American artists, with their own illustrations; Articles descriptive of IMPORTANT EXPLORATIONS, in all the great continents, including the adventures of two young Americans who traversed Asia on bicycles; A novel series on TRAMPING WITH TRAMPS;

How a young man, disguised as a tramp, traveled over America and learned all the secrets of the "profession"; IMPORTANT PAPERS ON MUSIC, by the greatest living composers and musicians; Unpublished Letters by JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL;

Short stories and novelties by all the leading story writers, essays on timely subjects, humor and fun in the "Lighter Vein" department, etc., etc. THE GREAT CHRISTMAS NUMBER contains a sermon by Phillips Brooks, seven complete stories, a magnificent array of full-page engravings, a new picture of General Grant, letters from Edwin Booth, etc., etc.

The Possible Outcome of the War in Morocco.

Some years ago a careful student of the European situation made what seemed a paradoxical assertion that a general war was as likely to start in Morocco as on the Danube or the Rhine. It begins to look as though there might be some ground for the statement, now that the contest between the Spanish defenders of Melilla and their Rifian assailants is assuming, daily, larger proportions, and imposing burdens which must severely tax the resources of the Madrid government.

What seemed at first a local disturbance, which seemingly, might have been quelled by prompt and vigorous measures, will now require an army corps and a fleet of war ships for its suppression. The expenditure of tens of millions of dollars which such a display of force will call for, could not be met by Spain, already on the verge of bankruptcy, unless she had the assurance that the disbursements would be made good, either by a pecuniary indemnity or by territorial compensation. There is no doubt that, when the Rifians are beaten, and the outworks of Melilla made secure, Prime Minister Sagasta will demand that adequate amends be made to Spain by the shereef of Morocco for the loss of life and outlay of money to which she has been subjected by inability to control his nominal subjects. A pecuniary indemnity the shereef can pay, for he is known to have a large amount of treasure stored in vaults of his place at Morocco, but it is improbable this will satisfy the Madrid government, coerced, as it will be by the unusually excited state of public opinion. The traditional and well earned hatred with which, for almost twelve centuries, the Spaniards have regarded the Moor, has not been so severely inflamed since the capture of Tetuan as it now is, and no ministry would be forgiven, if it failed to seize the present opportunity of gaining a considerable concession of territory. It is believed that the claims of the Madrid government would be backed by the French, who desire a westward extension of their Algerian frontier, who look forward to the eventual partition of Morocco between the Spaniards and themselves.

It is here, of course that the Morocco question becomes one of European interest and threatens. England has repeatedly declared that if the Mediterranean and the Atlantic coasts of Morocco are to be divided between European powers, she must have a part; and sooner than miss a share she would defend the shereef against aggression. She would be content, perhaps, with Tangier, which she possessed in the time of Charles II; for this, in conjunction with Gibraltar, would give her the absolute control of the entrance to the Mediterranean. But it is precisely Tangier and the contiguous territory which, in the eyes of France and Spain, constitute the most precious morsel of the shereef's possessions; and this would never be suffered to fall into English hands without a fight. We see, therefore, that the moment a demand that seems reasonable even in view of the shereef's inability to control the Rifian tribesmen, it will be scarcely possible to avert a collision between England and the one hand and Spain, backed by France, on the other. In such an engagement, England could easily secure the assistance of the triple alliance, by making certain reciprocal engagements, and France could as certainly count upon the support of Russia. That England would be forced to contract intimate relations with the triple alliance seems evident from the admission of English naval authorities that the combined force of France and Russia in the Mediterranean at present considerably exceeds that of England in the same sea.

It will be observed that there is something like logical concatenation in the process by which a petty outbreak in the mountains near Melilla is made to appear as leading to a general war. If the first step be taken, that is to say, if a demand for a territorial indemnity be pressed by Spain, it seems probable that every other step in the process would follow as we have indicated. As to the first step, it seems evident from the present temper of Spanish people that Sagasta's bill will be succeeded by his old conservative rival, Senor Canovas del Castille, unless he forces the shereef to Morocco to atone for the Melilla affair, not only by a pecuniary indemnity, but by a considerable territory.

Ready in Three Weeks. Ways and Means Committee Preparing the New Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—One of the majority members of the committee on ways and means this morning said that he fully expected the majority would have the new tariff bill so far advanced that it might be submitted to the minority members at a called meeting within three weeks.

According to the order made by the house just before adjournment the minority will then be allowed ten days within which to prepare their views for publication along with the majority report. It will necessitate some rapid work on the part of the minority if it is expected that they shall undertake in this presentation of their views to dissect and discuss the bill in detail, but if this is not attempted the ten day period will suffice for the preparation of a general argument against the proposed tariff reform measure of the majority.

Emblems of the Apostles.

The medieval artists, having no idea of the personal appearance of the Saviour's followers, adopted a set of signs, or emblems, for each, which soon became familiar to all. The emblem of Peter was either a large key or two keys crossed, which is readily explained by referring to the words of Christ (Matthew xvi. 19), "And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven." The emblem of Paul was a sword and a book—the latter to remind the beholder that he was a teacher of men; the former to indicate that he was beleagued with a sword. St. Andrew was usually figured standing by a cross shaped like a letter X, that being the form of the cross upon which legend says he was crucified. The emblem of St. James the Great was either a sword—referring to the fact that he was also beleagued—or a pilgrim's staff, he being a great traveler.

St. John's emblem was a caldron, referring to his experience in the boiling oil. St. Philip's emblem is an enigma. It was a spear and a cross, yet it is known that he was hanged. St. Bartholomew, who was "flayed alive," is represented with a knife and his skin hanging over his arm. Matthew's emblem is a square, supposed to have some reference to Christ's calling. St. Thomas, having been "pierced with a dart," is pictured carrying a spear. The emblem of James the Less was a club, he having been "beaten to death with a faggot." St. Matthias an ax, he having been beheaded. Simon's emblem was a saw. The legend says "he was sawn asunder."—St. Louis Republic.

The Ferris wheel proved a bonanza to its owners. Exactly 1,453,611 people paid to ride around the immense circumference during the four months of its operation, as reported to the annual meeting of the stockholders heretoday. The receipts at 50 cents each amounted to $726,805. After paying the $200,000 due on bonds, the company divided $426,805.50 with the Exposition. The company had over $150,000 left above operating expenses, the principal part of which was divided among stockholders at to-day's meeting. No action was taken on the removal of the wheel and for the present it will remain in Chicago.

THE BEST PLASTER.—Dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on over the seat of pain. It is better than any plaster. When the lungs are sore such an application on the chest and another on the back, between the shoulder blades will prevent pneumonia. There is nothing so good for a lame back or a pain in the side. A sore throat can nearly always be cured in one night by applying a dannel bandage dampened with Pain Balm. 50 cent bottles for sale by F. Potts Green.

The witty Irishman, when told by a doctor that his liver was almost gone, said, "Faith it's glad I am, it's allers bothered me!"

The liver more than any other organ, is the index of the body. With a morbid liver the whole system is out of gear. Most powerful for the restoration of this "certain health," is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Its action is direct, prompt, effectual! Recommended by eminent physicians, it has gained a universal reputation as the "Great Liver Regulator!" Correct the liver, and you cure many ills! The Corinth canal, says United States Consul George Horton, of Athens, will abridge by 185 nautical miles the route of vessels bound from the Adriatic to Constantinople, and will save 95 in the case of vessels bound from Mediterranean ports.

The new mansion which Cornelius Vanderbilt has erected for himself, and on which he is spending $5,000,000, will, it is expected, be opened with a grand function on New Year's eve. The new dwelling is of Spanish design, and from Central Park suggests the Palace of the Luxembourg, and but for many towers, might easily be taken for a copy of the Chicago Post Office. It contains 100 rooms. The Plumbing has been the most expensive feature, and the marble swimming bath will cost $15 to $20 a day for filling. All the other bath rooms have porcelain tubs and are exquisitely tiled. The ball room and "company" dining rooms are immense in size and very richly decorated.

POSITIVE PROOF OF THE POWER OF HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA AS A BLOOD PURIFIER. CURES THE SEVERAL CASES OF SCROFULA.

No form of scrofula is more dreaded, more tenacious or more difficult to cure than gotto, or swellings in the neck, often growing to enormous dimensions. The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures this severest form of Scrofula, absolutely proves its great merit as a blood purifier. Read this: "Garretville, N. Y., April 17, 1893. 'C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell: Mother has derived such marvellous benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla that she wants me to write about it. A year ago the grip left her with

Then her neck began to swell and became very unsightly, she could not keep anything on her stomach; she was rapidly running down, and we were very anxious about her. We read of a case of gotto cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and she decided to try this medicine. IMPORTANT—If you cannot read this print distinctly by lamp or gaslight in the evening at a distance of ten inches, your eyesight is failing, no matter what your age, and your eyes need help. Your sight can be improved and preserved if properly corrected. It is a wrong idea that spectacles should be dispensed with as long as possible. If they assist the vision, there is no danger of seeing too well, so long as the print is not magnified; it should look natural size, but plain and distinct. Don't fail to call and have your eyes tested by King's New System, and fitted with Combination spectacles. They will correct and preserve the sight. For sale by F. C. R
