Farm Notes

-Bear in mind that the young trees will need protection from rabbits, mice, etc. Don't put it off until too late this time.

-The strawberry beds should be well mulched in order to avoid having the plants thrown out of the ground when the frost begins to disappear.

-Farmers need not go far to sell their mutton. They should discard pork to a certain extent and supply their own tables with a variety of meat.

-The modern fruit grower must constantly use insecticides. Get all the information possible this winter so as to intelligently combat fruit pests season.

-All of the stock on the farm are kept for profit, and the better they are cared for the greater the profit. Work on the principle that if it pays to keep stock at all, it pays to keep them well.

-Never work butter with the hand, but use the ladle, in order not to destroy the grain. The science of butter making is in handling it after it comes out of the churn, yet this portion of the process receives the least attention.

-The exhibit of Dorset sheep at the great Fair attracted much attention to this breed, and made some acquainted with them who had never seen them before. It is a valuable breed and is gaining friends wherever introduced.

-An experienced cultivator says the expense of setting out and caring for a quarterof an acre of strawberries is not far from $10 a year, not count. ing the plants, and these can be found in abundance after the bed is once started.

-Instead of wasting time bemoan-ing the low price of wheat, we know some farmers who have wisely taken the drug in values to mean that they should give more attention to stock. This is right, because it will help to ward growing better crops of whatever you, may then undertake.

-The best field of cabbage grown this season, in one section, was with-out the use of manure. Commercial fertilizers, applied at a cost of $10 per acre, increased the yield of heads five fold, by weight. The value of the crop is such that the cost of the fertilizer is but a trifle compared with the gain in weight of heads.

-When grain is held back for a higher price there is a loss occurring all the time. It will lose its weight by shrinkage, and rats, mice and weevil will destroy a portion, while there is the loss of interest and the cost of storage, and the price may go down instead of increasing. All of these risks should

Holiday Cheer.

The holiday season is close upon us, and every household in the land is preparing for the plum pudding, and the general feasting and rejoicing. A little good brandy for the mince pie, rum for the pudding, or a little stimulant to keep the spirits up and the cold out, is absolutely necessary for an old time Christmas cheer. One of the most prominent liquor dealers in the country, Mr. Max Klein of Allegheny, Pa., whom we can cheerfully recommend, and who has the reputation for handling only absolutely pure liquors, will sell you the following brands of six year old pure Penn'a Ryes, at $1.00 per full quart or six

RAW AS PIECE MEAT.

SIX MONTHS UNDER THREE DOCTORS. NO BENEFIT. COMPLETELY CURED

IN 3 MONTHS BY CUTICURA.

Cuticura has been a blessing to me. My ba-by was about four weeks old, when she first got iczema. It was on her head and all over her body, which was raw as a piece of meat. I doctored for six months with three doctors here, and she still kept getting worse. A lady friend of mine advised me to get Cuticura Rem-edies. They proved to be just as good as you recommended. Baby was six months old when I began to use Cuticura Remedies, and in three months' time she was cured. She is fif-teen months old now, and is well and hearty. I am very thankful. MRS. RICHARD CROMPTON, West Middlesex, Mercer Co., Pa.

There is more remedial power to one of your cakes of Cuticura Soap than there is to some of the three-dollar treatments of these dermatol-ogists for the acne, fleshworms, etc. It has, cured me of the above effection, and I think it Newspapers are not to copy this rdverstisement without the express order of HARPER & BROTHERS of Philadephila and Pittsburg. We are prepared to offer better bargains in the future than we have done in the past and we want everyone to see our goods and get prices for when you do this, out of self defense you will buy. Our profits are not large, but by selling lots of goods we can afford to live in Bellefonte. We are not indulging in idle philaathropy. It is purely business. We are not making much, but trade is growing and that is what we are interested in now. Profits will take care of themselves.

It has been added to my factory and will be used exclu-sively for the sale of harness, being the first exclusive salesroom ever used in this town, as heretofore the custom has been to sell goods in the room in which they were made. This elegant room has been refitted and furnished with glass cases in which the harness can be nicely displayed and still kept away from heat and dust, the enemies of long wear in lestner. Our factory now occupies a room 16x74 teet and the store 20x60 added makes it the largest establishment of its kind outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

-The past season witnessed the harvesting of corn by machinery, and the market for binder twine has been en. larged. In addition to the corn har. vester is another machine, which not only husks the corn, but cuts up the stalks at the same time. While corn is sure to be cheaper in future, there will be less waste of the fodder.

-To keep cabbage so as to have them convenient for use during the winter, a grower suggests as follows : Cut off the stalks and pack the heads in a clean barrel, filling in with dry, clean sawdust, as the cabbages are put in, until the barrel is full, leaving a good layer of sawdust on top. Set the barrel in the barn or under shelter, but not in a damp celler. They may freeze, but it will do them no harm.

-Waste places can be advantageously used for trees. When a farmer has too much land, and does not care to sell, he should not allow it to grow up in any sort of wood that may take possession, but plow the land and put out young forest trees, in rows, and cultivate them the first year or two. Black walnut and other valuable trees may be grown. It is a process that more than pays the interest on the land, and the field may be used for cattle pasture a portion of the time.

-The low price of wheat is due largely to the ease with which it is produced compared with a quarter of a century ago. A boy can now sit on a seat and do the work which formerly required a dozen men to perform. Improved machinery has made it possible to produce more wheat than formerly and at less cost. Farmers should diversify their crops whenever possible, and endeavor to grow something that will give a greater return than wheat. We have many climates and soils, and there are greater opportunities for the future than may be apparent.

-How many farmers go to the expense of overhauling the manure heap, yet it is a necessity; for down in the centre of the heap, and near the bottom is heat sufficient to permit of fermentation of the materials, while near the top the heap is cold and solid. When the time comes for spreading this manure, one portion will be coarse and useless, while the other will be fine and well rotted. To properly manage the heap it must be overhauled several times, the coarser material placed below and mixed with fresh manure and liquids in order to reduce it. Every hour's work on the manure heap is well-bestowed, as the farmer can bring the materials to a condition ready for the immediate use of the crop, thus saving time in the spring, as the manure not rotten now must first rot in the field before the plants can utilize it. Not once or twice, but a dozen times, if necessary, should the manure heap be handled during the winter, so as to make as much preparation for spring as rossible.
