Stonewall Jackson.

In the December Century, Mr. George W. Cable, in an article on "The Gentle Side of Two Great Southerners," relates the following story of Stonewall Jackson which was told to Mr. Cable by Mr. George H. Moffatt, of "The Evening Telegram," of Portland Oregon. "Stonewall Jackson," he said, "openly deplored, as did so many other great leaders of the South, the institution of slavery. Yet he was firmly convinced that its existence was not only guaranteed by the national Constitution, but sanctioned by a divinely inspired scripture. I heard him say as much in the only political speech he ever made. It was at a meeting held in Lexington, Virginia, in the election campaign of 1860, his voice coming unexpectedly from a seat in the rear of the house, where he had risked in support of an aggressive resolution. He was then Major Jackson, a professor, as every one knows, in the Lexington Military Institute. He was a frequent visitor in the house, where as a college student, I boarded, and I had more than once heard him express in private conversation the same convictions which he, on that one occasion only declared in public.

"My acquaintance with him was only such as a boy of sixteen would have with a man of mature years. Our only point of intimate contact lay in the fact that I taught a class in the now famous colored Sunday school which he had organized in connection with the Presbyterian church of the town. But I believe this Sunday-school of negro children of which he was superintendent lay closer to his heart than any other object on earth except his home and family. In the war, though much under legal age, I became a private cavalryman. Sometimes I saw General Jackson. In August, 1862, the day before he met and drove back Pope's army in the battle of Cedar Run, I was riding down the road leading north from Orange Court-House, on my way from Brigade headquarters to join my regiment on the Kanawha, when I overtook a division of infantry on the march, going toward Culpeper. The active movements of our forces indicated the sharp work that was near at hand. When I reached the head of the column I found General Jackson, his cap drawn down over his forehead, riding alone and apparently buried in deep meditation of his strategic plans. I rode by with a silent salute, but he recognized me, called to me to halt, and, riding up by my side, began to talk about the colored Sunday school in Lexington. It was a great gratification to him, he said that the school was being kept up in his absence. So we parted, and he rode on to bloody victory.

"And once again it was the afternoon of the first day of the second Bull Run battle, and one of the most critical moments of Jackson's whole military career. He had come round through Thoroughfare Gap, putting the Bull Run Mountains and Pope's whole army between himself and Lee. Pope had turned, closed in upon him, and brought him to bay. The battle had been raging for hours, and though Longstreet had come to Jackson's aid, no one could yet say that Jackson's hard pressed left would not be overwhelmed. Our battalion of cavalry under Major Patrick had been halted near Groveton—almost in the center of the field of battle—and sharpshooters were deployed to meet the enemy, who were coming down the Warrenton pike. At this moment General Jackson rode up. There was hard fighting everywhere. He conversed for a few moments with Major Patrick, and then turned and spoke to me. He said that certain of our men on an eminence above the road were needlessly exposed, and bade me ride to them and call them in. I had started to obey, when he suddenly stopped me with—

"Oh! I had a letter a few days ago from Doctor White, and he tells me that our Sunday school is kept up."

"That was well. I went my way to execute his command, and he rode back to his infantry. I never saw him again."

So spoke my narrator, whom I thank again for allowing me the honor to tell the story after him.

Caused by Vaccination.

Death of a Little Girl of Lockjaw After Suffering Terribly.

Marjorie Woodruff, of Bellport, L. I. 5 years old, died of lockjaw last Saturday. Little Marjorie was vaccinated on Monday last. Her arm began to swell a few hours afterward and she was taken sick. On Wednesday her parents and the doctor believed her past all danger. Thanksgiving Day at the dinner table little Marjorie seemed one of the happiest of the circle. Her father had just pronounced the blessing when little Marjorie pressed her hands to her face and moaned.

Her startled parents questioned her as to what the trouble was. She pointed to her mouth, but could not talk plain enough to be understood. A physician was sent for and he pronounced it a case of genuine lockjaw caused principally from her sore arm. All that medical skill could do was done, but she gradually became exhausted and on Wednesday became unconscious dying at 4 o'clock.

A Robber in a Box.

Had Himself Shipped by Express, Thinking He Could Steal $100,000.

OMAHA.—Wells, Fargo & Co. have just discovered what they think was a bold and unique scheme to rob their car of $100,000 Saturday. The money was shipped to Sheridan, Wyo., and in the same car an unknown person shipped a mysterious looking box to Sheridan by express. The morning after its arrival at Sheridan the box was found empty, with the lid broken from the interior.

It is thought the box contained the robber, who was to break out en route and secure the money. The plan, the officers think, miscarried because much baggage was piled on the mysterious box, rendering the efforts of the supposed robber to free himself useless.

Barlequing the Tariff.

The very latest Pennsylvania industry to sound the alarm against tariff revision is—of all things in the world—the petroleum industry. Notwithstanding that they have Brother Shibley not look after their interests in the House, not to mention Daltzell and Stone and others, the oil producers are in a terrible taking at the idea of being left without protection against the paper oil of Europe, and Messrs. Lee and Emery are going down to Washington to see about it themselves.

This is the very barlequing of "protection," and unless Messrs. Lee and Emery are quite deficient in the sense of humor, it is hard to resist the belief that their agitation is a joke. The oil men certainly get their raw material with about as little labor as goes to the production of any valuable commodity whatever. They sink a well in the ground, and drawing out the oil, allow it to flow in pipes to the refineries, even to the seaboard, where that which is not required for home consumption is put in ships and sent to every part of the world. The official statistics give the entire production of petroleum in the United States in 1892 as 50,000,000 barrels, of a value of $30,000,000. In the same year the exports of petroleum and its products were some 18,000,000 barrels, of a value of $42,000,000. There were no imports at all. And these men think a ten per cent. tariff is what they need!

American petroleum goes all over the world, because it is the best and cheapest. It is sold by the tens of millions of gallons in Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy; in India, China and Japan; in South America, in Australia; it is even sold in Russia, whence our oil men profess to fear competition at home. No doubt the export trade would be more profitable if our system of commercial exchanges with foreign countries was more liberal, as the Wilson bill proposes to make it; but even with this disadvantage, American petroleum has distanced all competition. The presence or absence of a duty on imports of petroleum and its products is about as influential as the proverbial fly on the chariot wheel.

The Grip Epidemic.

Apropos of the present grip epidemic a few suggestions by Dr. Cyrus Edson, New York's noted health commissioner, may not be amiss. Dr. Edson suggests that in order to prevent the grip every effort should be made by each individual avoiding all exposure and all excesses, as well as unnecessary worry, to keep well fed and well protected by warm clothing. These are simple little precautions which everyone may easily observe.

Dr. Edson says the malady is of three kinds, one is catarrhal only, and effects the air passages. Another begins with headache, chills and fever, and the severe bone pains known in small pox. The back aches and so does every joint. Sometimes the neck is stiff also. The worst form combines the features of the other two. Although not so dangerous as the old familiar type of grip with which we have been visited the past few years, the disease is quite severe and is more infectious. The attacks are almost as sudden as a stroke of paralysis. There come rather severe pains through the body. The prostration is so great that the sufferer is unable to stand. The disease usually occurs, preceded by colds, and the seat of inflammation is the eyes and throat. The lungs become involved unless great care be taken.

A correspondent in an exchange suggests the following precautionary advice with respect to guarding off the malady. He says: "I have found on former occasions that quinine taken morning and evening, in moderate doses, had the effect of warding off the malady, and has since been found to lose faith in it. Two pills, two grains, each, taken morning and evening, is the quantity."

Rough on Moody if He Loses.

The chances are that the Mt. Hernon school corporation, which D. L. Moody is the working head will have to pay damages amounting to possibly $20,000. The boys' schools at Mt. Hernon are in the town of Gill. The schools for girls, the churches, stores, etc., of Northfield, where Mr. Moody makes his home are on the opposite side of the Connecticut river. There is no boarding and the crossing is usually made in a ferry boat run by a strand wire. The boat was operated by a relation of Mr. Moody and the young man was also employed in some way by the school trustees. Something like two years ago a young man by the name of Kirk E. Nims and a young woman named Miss Holden were passengers to cross the river. The large boat could not be run owing to the ice in the river and a small row boat was taken, but as it was overturned by the lack of skill on the part of the employee who was rowing it, by allowing the boat to run upon the wire with which the larger boat was operated. The small boat was overturned, the employee swam to the shore while the two passengers went down the icy river for several miles, holding their hands over the overturned boat. The employee of the ferry took another boat and after a chase of several miles, succeeded in saving the lives of both passengers. Miss Holden died a few months later, as alleged from the shock and chill. Suit was brought before Judge Hopkins to recover damages for Nims, but on a question of law the jury was instructed to return a verdict for the defendants without trial. The supreme court has now overruled this decision and new suits are being brought for Nims and the heirs of Miss Holden.

OUT IN A BLIZZARD.—Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia and he lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. For sale by F. Polis Green.

Organized Christian effort is the only hope of our Republic. Let Christians of every section, in city or country come bravely to the front and declare themselves in favor of clean candidates at the primaries, and support none others by their ballots at the polls.—Rams Horn.

TWO LIVES SAVED.—Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors that she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally healthy. It is such results, of which there are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at C. M. Parrish's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.

IN PLAIN ENGLISH.—Unquestionably considered of incalculable consequence in correcting all constitutional contaminations, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Can conscientiously commend it to careful consideration, confident of its competency in all controllable chronic complaints. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the result of much research and wide experience, by a practical physician of world-renown; its formula embraces the most potent restoratives of the whole vegetable kingdom. It is especially recommended for all blood disorders—dyspepsia, liver and kidney complaints, scrofula, salt-rheum, catarrh and consumption—in its early stages—insuring relief and cure in all cases!

The Oldest Lunatic.

As a general thing lunatics do not live very long. There is, however, one notable exception. The oldest lunatic on record is Time out of mind.—Texas Siftings.

A TIMELY BIT OF ADVICE.—In these times of grip and pneumonia it is of great importance that we should know where to look for a safe and sure remedy. A slight cold may become a serious one, the scarcely noticeable pain in the chest is too often the forerunner of pneumonia. The first cough may lead to consumption (a cough is always dangerous). Never neglect a cold or cough for even one day, but get at once, as a safe and sure remedy, Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure, which is recommended on all sides. It should be kept in the house regularly to avoid delay when needed. It is sold at all the drug stores.

Philanthropy.

"Why did you give that waiter so large a fee? The meal was bad and the service execrable." "A know it. I wanted to enable the poor fellow to go somewhere else for his own luncheon."—Harper's Bazar.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. Having tried a number of remedies advertised as "sure cures" without obtaining any relief. I had resolved never to take any other patent medicines, when a friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm. I did so with great reluctance, but can now testify that after using it for six weeks I am cured myself. It is a most agreeable remedy—a valuable Balm.—Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand Avenue Brooklyn.

PUT UP AND PUT DOWN.—I want a word to rhyme with ills. I have it now: I'll put down pills. Excuse me, though—than put down pills, I'd rather suffer some big ills. To put down the old fashioned, huge, bitter pills, that griped so and made such disturbance internally is more than a wise man will do. He will not put up with such unnecessary suffering. He uses Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. As a Liver Pill, they are unequalled. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. Put up in vials, hermetically sealed, hence always fresh and reliable, which is not true of the large pills in wood or pasteboard boxes. As a gentle laxative, only one Pellet for a dose. Three to four of these tiny, sugar-coated granules act pleasantly and painlessly as a cathartic.

Just So.

"Clocks have faces and hands," he was saying. "Now, why don't they have eyes and see?" "They do," she said in a hollow whisper. "Haven't you heard of the old clock on the stave?"—Detroit Free Press.

Dyspepsia's victims find prompt and permanent relief in Hood's Sarsaparilla, which tones the stomach and creates an appetite.

Medical.

POSITIVE PROOF OF THE POWER OF HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA AS A BLOOD PURIFIER CURES THE SEVERAL CASES OF SCROFULA.

No form of scrofula is more dreaded, more tenacious or more difficult to cure than goitre, or swellings in the neck, often growing to enormous running sores. The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures this severest form of Scrofula, absolutely proves its great merit as a blood purifier. Read this: "Garnerville, N. Y., April 17, 1893. "C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell: Mother has derived such marvellous benefits from Hood's Sarsaparilla that she wants me to write about it. A year ago the grip left her with

Then her neck began to swell and became very unsightly, she could not keep anything on her stomach; she was rapidly running down, and we were very anxious about her. We read of a case of goitre cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and she decided to try this medicine. Before she had taken one bottle the swelling began to decrease; she continued with the medicine and has continued to improve till she is as
