Two Murderers Meet Their Fate.

Frenzied Over His Loses, Farmer Baker Takes Sudden Vengeance-He Had Lost his All-Young Wife and little Babe Killed by two Bru tal Negro Ruffians .- Terrible Struggle in the Little Cottage Near Franklin Park.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. March 1 .- A quadruple killing, most horrible in its details, was committed near the little village of Franklin Park, aboutsix miles from this chy at an early hour this morning. The scene of the tragedy was the farmnouse of Moore Baker, about one mile west of Franklin Park. in Somerset county. The wife and 15-months old child of Mr. Baker were butchered by two negro burglars, who almost immediately met death at the hands of the frenzied husband and fath-

Moore Baker is a young man of 25, son of John J. Baker, one of the most prosperous farmers in Somerset. Two years ago Mr. Baker married the daughter of Andrew J. Evans, a neighbor, and began tarming for himself. He had erected a cozy little cottage, furnished it nicely and was prospering in business. Filteen months ago a blue-eved girl baby came to gladden the hearts of its parents and a happier family could not be found in the length and breadth of the State.

ROBBERY THE MOTIVE.

A few weeks ago Mr. Baker traded a team of mules, receiving $200 in money. This money he kept in his possession. Yesterday atternoon he employed for a tew hours a negro named Henry Baker, who lived but a short distance away, and whose character was none of the best. In the course of the atternoon the negro asked his employer to loan him $2. Mr. Baker replied in a chaffing way.  [1 you change a $100 bill I will lend it to you," at the same time displaying a note of that determination. The negro said he had never seen that much money before and the matter dropped, Mr. Baker thinking no more about it.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning Henry Baker and another negro named Willard Thompson came to the house. They removed their shoes, leaving them upon a side porch. Then prying open an outside cellar door they entered the house. Thompson carried an axe. Forcing open the inside cellar door they stealthily ascended to the room upon the second floor where Mr. and Mrs. Moore Baker were sleeping with the babe in a crib at the side of

MOTHER AND BABE KILLED.

Noiseless as were their movements their presence awakened Mrs. Baker, who uttered a scream. It was the last sound she ever uttered. The sharp ax in the hands of Thompson descended upon her head, the blade being buried to the helve by the force of the blow. and she sank upon the pillow liteless. A second blow crushed out the life of the sleeping baby, who had not even been awakened.

Moore Baker was aroused by his wite's scream and, springing from the bed, grappled with Henry Baker, who who was nearest him. This man was made of weaker stuff than his comrade for he broke away and ran into an adjoining room. Moore Baker then sprang at Thompson, who struck at him with the ax which had already done such fatal work. The blow fell short, the corner of the blade just cutting the skin upon his forehead.

VENGEANCE SWIFT AND SURE.

Then followed a terrific struggle for ossession of the ax. From the bed to the door they wrestled, but Moore Baker was endowed with the strength of desperation and finally secured posses sion of the weapon. Then he rained blow upon blow on the skull of his adversary until the negro dropped at his feet lifeless.

Dropping the ax, Moore Baker seized his shot gun, which was standing in a corner and which had fortunately escaped the notice of the negroes. Raising both hammers, he ordered Henry Baker to emerge from the adjoining room. As the terrified negro hastened to obey he was met in the doorway by a heavy charge of shot which struck him full in the left eye, making a hole two inches in diameter and killing him instanly.

His two assailants being dead, Mr. Baker hastened to his wife and child, only to find that they, too, were beyond all aid. Each had received but one blow, but that blow had been dealt with a murderous hand and death in each instance had been immediate. Almost crazed with grief and weak from his superhuman struggles, Mr. Baker finally made his way to the residence of his father, a quarter of a mile away, and told his story.

VIEWING THE AWFUL SPECTACLE. After daylight the news seemed to fly throughout the neighborhood and when "The Press" representative reached the scene at 10 o'clock the farm yard was filled with vehicles and visitors were constantly pouring in. The reporter was taken to the room where the tragedy occurred. It looked like the interior of a slaughter house. In the doorway leading from the hall lay Thompson. He was dressed in coarse clothing and was in his stocking ducing wages of his coal miners from 15 feet. His head was cut and gashed a!most to pieces.

Upon the bed lay the body of the head. The tatal blow had fallen upon the front of the skull and had cloven sylvania must be wild for starvation deep into the brain. Death had evidently been instantaneous. The brain was exposed and the pillow and bed clothing were saturated with blood.

murdered babe. It lay diagonally across the crib, partly on its tace, while in the back of the head was the gaping wound made by the murderous hand of the assassin. Death had apparently been instantaneous in its case, and the expression of its face was as peaceful as though it were quietly sleeping.

A passage leads from near the head of the crib to the room in which the negro Henry Baker had taken refuge. Inside this passage and near the doorway of the other room lay the body of the other negro in the spot where he had fallen, when Moore's finger had pressed the trigger. A gaping hole where the eye had once been showed how true was the aim.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE. The inquest was held this morning and the jury found that Moore Baker had committed justifiable homicide in killing the two negroes.

Useful Hints.

When oiled walnut furniture begins to grow dingy it can be made to look as fresh as new by re-oiling, Linseed, or even olive oil, may be used, but pure, good kerosene oil is much the best. Rub it well in with a soft woolen rag and polish with clean dry flannel.

A colorless cement is made by dissolving a half ounce of gum arabic in a wine glass of boiling water, adding plaster of paris to form a thick paste. Use at once, applying with a thick brush.

Ink stains on silver can be removed by mixing a little chloride of lime to a paste with water and covering the spots with it. They will quickly disappear, and the paste should be washed off and the article wiped dry.

Don't Put It Off.-The necessity of a spring medicine is universally admitted. This is the best time of year in which to purify the blood, to restore the lost appetite, and to build up the entire system as the body is now peculiarly susceptible to benefit from medicine. The great popularity attained by Hood's Sarsaparilla, owing to its real merit and its remarkable success, has established it as the very best medicine to take in the It cures scrofula, salt rheum, and all humors, biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, kidney and liver complaints, catarrh, and all affections caused or promoted by low state of the system or impure blood. THEY WANT THE BEST .- "The people of this vicinity insist on having Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and do not want any other," says John V. Bishop, of Portland Mills, Indiana. That is right. They know it to be superior to any other for colds, and as a preventive and cure for croup, and why should they not insist upon having it. 50 cent bottles for sale by F. Potts
