THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

The first robin was seen here on Sunday.

Phillipsburg is after the location of a large fire brick works.

Over fourteen million feet of logs will be floated down Kettle creek this spring.

A new pool table adds to the attractiveness of the Wheelmen's club in this place.

The Bellefonte Central railroad is carrying passengers between Bellefonte and Coleville at a fare of five cents.

"The Dazzler," that farce-comedy that convulsed every one who saw it here last Fall, is booked for a return date on the 22nd inst.

The season of 1893 for the Tyrone River league base ball club ended last Friday morning when the last assessment was paid in and the last bill against the club liquidated.

Mrs. Ellen Friel, widow of the late Michael Friel, of Boggs township, has been granted a pension of eight dollars a month for herself and two dollars a month for her child.

Hastings already has one hundred delegates to the next Republican State convention instructed for him, leaving only thirty-three more who are needed to make his nomination sure.

Bellefonte is getting so thoroughly worked up on matters of religious interest that it seems every night of the week there is some kind of an entertainment or meeting to attend.

Rev. Wheeler, the Seventh day Adventist revivalist has left town for new fields of labor in Armstrong county. Notwithstanding the antagonism he succeeded in planting a mission here.

Robert McCalmont and his sister, Miss Jane, have moved from their recent home on Howard street to the Alexander house near their lime kilns. Mr. and Mrs. John Walker will reside with them.

Mr. Archibald Allison began work on his new house on Monday morning. It will occupy a site immediately between the homes of Mr. E. C. Humes and J. Fearon Mann, on Allegheny street.

With Saturday's issue the daily issue of the Keystone Gazette was discontinued. The company that bought that concern at the sheriff's sale, last Friday, having concluded that the daily was not a paying venture.

Mrs. John R. G. Robinson, a well known Phillipsburg woman, died in that place last Thursday evening, after a lingering illness. Her wedding was solemnized in this place in 1859. Mrs. George W. F. Gray, of Fillmore, is a sister of the deceased.

Miss Laura Hafer, the oldest daughter of Dr. A. W. Hafer, of this place, successfully passed her final examinations at the Philadelphia Dental College last week. She will practice her profession with her father, after graduation.

The entertainment at the Y. M. C. A., last Friday evening, which was gotten up by the membership committee, with the assistance of Gen. Sec. F. W. Cota was a decided success and the many present enjoyed the various numbers of the program.

Charles Keener, of Mt. Eagle, who was in the glove contest, at the recent athletic tournament in Lock Haven, which was stopped in the fourth round by the police, is dissatisfied that the judges should have declared the contest a draw. He is confident that he had the best of the bout and hopes to meet his adversary in a finish fight.

We are under obligations to J. Mitchell Gardner, the efficient book keeper of the Valentine iron company, for a unique paper weight. It is in the shape of a tiny pig made from the celebrated Nittany iron. The pig is a very real looking one except it is minus a tail, and Mitchell explains this freakish appearance by assuring everyone that the pig is sitting on its tail.

George Harman, the little boy who was so badly abused by his brutal parents came down from the poor house last Monday in company with poor over-seer McClure. He has nearly recovered and his sores are all healing nicely. The cut on his lip will be a scar for life and hair will not grow on more than half of the child's head, because of scars. He looked fat and happy.

The Bellefonte rifle and gun club held its regular weekly shoot, on Half-Moon hill, last Friday afternoon. Eighty-five live birds were used first, forty-two of them having dropped within bounds, then the sportsmen went to work killing clay pigeons. A large crowd witnessed the shoot. Messrs W. V. Hughes, of Williamsport, and Frank Warfield, Gen. freight agent of the C. R. R. of Pa. made the best scores.

THE REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.—On Tuesday the Republicans of the county met in convention in the court house in this place. A call had been sent out by chairman Wilbur F. Reeder for delegates from the various election precincts to attend for the purpose of choosing delegates to the Republican State convention to be held in May.

About three hundred people had gathered in the court house when chairman Reeder called the convention to order and the roll call revealed the fact that a fair percentage of the precincts in the county were represented. About the only thing the absent fellows had to regret, however, was the free dinner Hastings gave the delegates at the Bush House, for the work that had to be done had all been cut and dried long before the county contingency got to town and even Vic. Gray, the juvenile Phillipsburg politician who came to town in all the glory of an "Our Dan" hat, was forced to bow to the inevitable and acknowledge that he really didn't (?) want to be a delegate to the State convention, when he had all the delegates in the county, except those of his own home and Bellefonte.

A. T. James, of Phillipsburg, was on the list for permanent chairman, and of course he was the unanimous choice, of the convention. Upon taking his chair he thanked every one for the honor conferred on him and proceeded to live up to the people with a little story, the point of which we have been hunting for ever since. The next thing in order was the election of two secretaries and a reading clerk. The cues were given and S. H. Bennisson, of Marion, F. H. Clemson, of Scotia, and Prof. John Hamilton, of State College, were unanimously chosen. The chairman then read the names of W. E. Irwin and D. H. Rhule, of Phillipsburg; W. F. Reeder and Dr. Geo. F. Harris, of Bellefonte, and Capt. J. A. Quigley, of Eagleville, whom Mr. Reeder had decided on as the proper fellows to have their names appear at the bottom of the string of resolutions he and Gen. Hastings had been preparing for several days. Of course they had to retire for a while, at least, and while they were out the names of ex-Governor Beaver and John P. Harris were placed in nomination for delegates to the State convention. They had no opposition and went through a sailing. Vic. Gray and Howard Holsworth, of Unionville, were overwhelmed with the honor of being alternates.

The work was all done then and a committee was dispatched to escort Hastings into the hall. He was waiting down along the street for his summons and before his entry the word was passed that a few cheers would be appropriate, so when the General's staid form was seen pushing through the door his followers howled like derbies. He responded with a set speech in which he vowed affiliation to almost every principle known to both parties since the time of their organization. He extolled "the sainted Lincoln, Garfield and Blaine," a proceeding which leads us to believe that Dan is on fairly good terms with St. Peter, else he would not be so well posted as to the whereabouts of that triumvirate of Republican exponents. Cheers were the principle things in his talk and during those of Col. Jas. P. Coburn, Gen. Beaver and John P. Harris.

Altogether the convention was as harmonious as could have been desired, but as there was nothing for the delegates to do but respond, "aye!" to all the motions put, there was very little danger of a clash. Then too the usually belligerent Phillipsburg contingent came over under those white hats which had lost all their ginger four years ago and they were meek as little Museses.

THE STARS AND STRIPES OVER TWO SCHOOLS.—Last Friday was an eventful day for camps 447 and 639, P. O. S. of A., of this place and the Valentine iron works, and the Coleville and Bush's Addition school children will remember it as the one on which the stars and stripes first floated over their school houses.

The members of these two camps of this patriotic order had worked until they were able to purchase two hand-some flags, then they decided to present them to the Coleville and Bush Addition schools. Accordingly both camps turned out in full regalia, on Friday afternoon, and to the lively strains of Joshua Foulk's martial band, marched to Bush's Addition, where a flag was presented to J. M. Leib, who on behalf of the school directors accepted it and presented it to J. H. Olliger, teacher. In a few graceful words he, in turn, presented it to his scholars and mid rousing cheers it was run up and flapped proudly in the breeze. John G. Love then made the speech of the day and then all formed in line and marched to Coleville where they were met by a delegation of scholars headed by the Coleville band. An enjoyable program was gone through with out there and a flag hoisted over the baby school, taught by Miss Barnhart, whereupon Mr. Love delivered another address and the ceremony ended.

Let the good work go on, members of the P. O. S. of A., until a flag floats over every school in the land.

C. I. Hood & Co, the manufacturers of Hood's sarsaparilla, evidently believe in advertising for it took two large mail cars, one day last week, to carry one batch of their circulars for central Pennsylvania.

The musicale by Meyer's orchestra and band in their room in the Centre county bank building, last night, was well attended and from an artistic standpoint was quite a success. These free concerts are destined to become very popular, and all who take part in them are deserving of much praise.

Jacob Wadlinger, a Houtzdale stone mason, committed suicide by hanging himself in the Leider Kranz club rooms in that place one day last week. The body was discovered on Wednesday, but the indications were to the effect that he had been dead for several days as he had been missing that long. The man's wife died several years ago and he left four small children. No cause has been assigned to the act.

We are pleased to note that his excellency, Governor Pattison, has appointed Col. Austin Curtin, of Roland; Gen. John L. Curtin and ex-Treasurer Charles Smith, of this place, all well known Grand Army men of this section, members of the Pennsylvania delegation to assist the Antietam battlefield commission in locating the positions of the organizations from this State in that battle so that they may be properly marked.

Our friend and patron, J. C. Meyer, of Bellefonte, is an aspirant for the office of State Senator, from this district, succeeding Senator Meek, whose term will soon expire. Mr. Meyer is not only one of the most popular residents of Centre county, but is a progressive young man who possesses the necessary qualifications to fill the position most creditably. His presence in the State Senate would reflect credit on the district.—Phillipsburg Ledger.

On last Saturday evening, Rev. W. A. Houck, for five years pastor of the M. E. church, of this place, gave a dinner to the official boards of his congregation. Among the gentlemen present, were M. W. Cowdick, John Olewinski, C. C. Shuey, H. H. Harsberger, H. H. Schreyer, G. W. Reese, W. I. Fleming, Joseph Twitnair, Joel Johnson, Wilbur Twitnair, James B. Strohm, Dr. J. E. Ward, James Ryan, Levi Whippo, William Straub, Steel Hunter and Andrew Bell. Other guests were Chaplain C. C. McCabe, of New York; Supt. S. S. Blair, of Tyrone; Major McCauley, of Chester; Mr. North, of Mifflin; State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Hurlburt and Mayor R. A. Cassidy, of Canton, Ohio. The dinner was served at 5 o'clock, and is said to have been a delightful affair.

All the services in the Methodist church on Sunday had crowded attendances. It was the regular mission day for that congregation and in order to better the collection the pastor, Mr. Houck, had Chaplain McCabe, secretary of the board of Home and Foreign Missions, of New York city, here to conduct the services. The morning exercises were held at the usual hour and when the Chaplain began his sermon the church was crowded with people; his able discourse having its reward in a collection of over three hundred dollars. He conducted the Sunday school exercises in the afternoon, when another two hundred were added to the morning sum, and the evening contribution for the great work of Methodist missions carried the total to seven hundred and four dollars.

A party of nine tramps were discussing the business situation of the country, near the water tank, on the main line of the Pennsylvania rail-road, just east of Tyrone, last Thursday evening. During the debate one of them said: "If Cleveland had stayed at home and attended to his business instead of going off to shoot for ducks, there might be some hope for better times." This angered William Jones, a bum of the Democratic persuasion and he poured hot shot into the crowd until the Republican defamers found they would have to make their fists count for what their tongues lacked. A free fight ensued, in which Jones and John McKamma were shot three times and pounded most mercilessly. The mob dragged Jones' body across the rails of the track and fled, but trainmen found him and sent both to the Altoona hospital.

Deaths of the Week.

ROBERT J. HAYNES.—Most sudden and unexpected was the death of Robert J. Haynes, which occurred at his home in Snow Shoe, last Saturday morning, at eleven o'clock. Friday he complained of indigestion; but Saturday morning he was so much better that he insisted on his wife coming to Bellefonte as she had planned to do. And it was just after leaving Dr. Thompson's drug store, where she had had some medicine put up for him, that she was telephoned of his death. He was sitting talking to Mr. Geo. Boak, when suddenly, without a word or an indication of pain, he closed his eyes on the mystery of life to open them on the mystery of death.

Of one of the oldest and most influential Quaker families of Philadelphia, he was born in Georgetown, District of Columbia, 62 years ago. While a mere boy he came to Centre county to hunt and fish and was so enamored with the mountains and people that as soon as he had finished school, he came back to stay. First as a merchant at Howard, then for years a hotel keeper at Karbaus Clearfield Co., afterwards proprietor of the Mountain House at Snow Shoe, and on his retirement from active business in '79 was chosen Justice of the Peace, which office he held at the time of his death. No man was ever kinder, more considerate or generous than Robert J. Haynes, indeed he was the balancing wheel for the whole community in which he lived. With a pleasing personality and a mind as liberal as the mountains, on which he loved to hunt and fish, were broad, he was liked and respected by young and old, rich and poor.

His wife, Miss Martha Watson, for whom his affection and devotion was often remarked upon, two sons William and James and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Pyle of Colorado Springs, Colo., survive him.

The pall bearers at his funeral, Tuesday afternoon, were: George B. Boak, Jas. H. Thompson, John G. Uzzie, Col. E. Pie, Robert Gilliland, James F. Marsteller, John F. Potter, A. J. Cook, Cameron Boak and Theo. A. Boak, and more than four hundred people were taken by a special train from Snow Shoe to Moshannon where he was buried by the side of his dead children.

MRS. J. J. LINGLE DEAD.—The death of Elizabeth, relict of the late Joseph J. Lingle, occurred at her late home on North Spring street, on last Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. She had been ill for a long time and her death had been expected for some days. She was one of Bellefonte's oldest as well as most esteemed residents, having been born April 4th, 1815, and had resided here, since 1873. Five children, Mrs. W. W. Montgomery, of Bellefonte; Wickliffe Lingle, of Phillipsburg; J. Howard, of this place, Frank I., of Phillipsburg, and Mrs. Ed. F. Garman, of Bellefonte, survive her death. Two preceded both parents to the grave. They were Harvey, who was killed in the war, and the late L. C. Lingle, of Phillipsburg.

Deceased was a Miss Elizabeth A. Harvey, a sister of H. L. Harvey, Esq. formerly of Boggs township, and was born in the Buffalo Run valley about seven miles from this place. In 1833 she connected herself with the Disciple church and lived the life of a consistent member. She was married to her late husband on August 5th, 1835. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

J. M. THOMPSON.—After an illness of almost a decade the life of J. M. Thompson ended at his late home, at State College, on Sunday evening about 9:30 o'clock. Ever since moving from his former home, at Spruce Creek, where he conducted a general merchandise business, to State College, which was over eight years ago, he had suffered with consumption and at times it seemed he would have to succumb to the wasting ravages of that fell disease, but he fought for the life that was so dear to him and survived until Sunday.

Deceased was a staunch Republican and a member of the Presbyterian church. He had filled the office of Justice of the Peace for a number of years and was well liked in the community in which he lived. He was about 48 years old and leaves two sons and two daughters, his wife having preceded him to the grave about a year ago.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning and interment was made at the Branch.

DANIEL HINES.—On last Sunday morning aged Daniel Hines, who for years had lived with his son, John, in Spring township, two miles east of this place, suddenly expired. He had reached his ninety-first year, but gave every evidence of living well on to the Century mark when an affection of the heart snapped the vital cord and the well known old gentleman was a corpse. Funeral services were held in the Catholic church on Tuesday morning.

CATHARINE MOYER.—The death of this venerable lady occurred at the home of her brother, John Moyer, near Penn Hall, last Saturday morning. She had reached her 87th year and the funeral was held at the Salem Reformed church, on Wednesday, the services being conducted by Rev. D. M. Wolf.

The Clinton county jail is entirely empty. Not a prisoner is confined therein.

We have an excellent account of the Farmer's Institute, recently held at Unionville, lying on our desk, which we cannot publish because we do not know the name of its author. A strict ruling of the office forbids our publishing anonymous communications and we must therefore leave it unpublished. The many friends of ex-Register John Rupp and his estimable family will regret to learn that they have concluded to move from this place to their former home at Oak Hall and just as soon as some needful repairs are made they will take their departure. During their residence here they have made friends of everyone and Bellefonte will be truly sorry to lose such desirable people.

THE GAZETTE OFFICE SOLD BY THE SHERIFF.—The printing establishment in this place, from which the daily and weekly Keystone Gazette have been issued for nearly ten years was sold under the Sheriff's hammer last Friday afternoon. The place was sold on different executions and was purchased by attorney John M. Dale for $2,375. He does not know exactly what he will do with the plant, but the paper will be continued until he finds some purchaser.

The house and barn on the old Gates farm, on Dix Run, above Unionville, were totally destroyed by fire on Wednesday night about two o'clock. Miles Taylor was the owner and occupant of the place and loses his new household goods, and everything but his stock. A. J. Griest held the insurance policies as security on a loan, so Mr. Taylor loses everything. Mr. Griest's loss is about $1,100. The fire was of incendiary origin.

MUST HAVE EXACT FARE.—The supreme court of New York has decided that passengers on a street car are required to pay the right fare and making change is a courtesy on the part of the company and not an obligation. A passenger presented a five dollar bill in payment of fare. The conductor could not make the change. The passenger demanded the return of his bill, but the conductor would not part with it, and instructed the passenger to call at the company's office for the change. The passenger had the conductor arrested for larceny. On this point the judge decided as above.—Exchange.

The same decision may hold good regarding travelers on turnpikes. They often give the toll keeper bills of large denomination, which they know cannot be changed, simply to defraud the pike of its toll. The law holds that the traveler must present the exact fare.
