

HISTORY AND AIMS OF ARBOR DAY.

As next Friday will be the first one of the two days which his excellency Gov. Pattison, has set aside during this month on which he urges the good people of this Commonwealth to observe as Arbor day, with an aim toward reforesting our State, we thought a brief history of the day a timely subject.

It is stated that on January 4, 1872, the Hon. J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska City, now Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, introduced a resolution at the meeting of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, which was unanimously adopted, setting apart the 10th of April as a day consecrated to tree planting in that State, and offering a special premium for the proper planting of the largest number of trees.

Arbor day is now observed in nearly all our States and Territories. In most of them it is established by law either by act of the legislature or proclamation of the Governor, or both combined.

In Pennsylvania Arbor day was first observed in 1887, and according to Superintendent Higbee fully one hundred thousand trees and vines were planted by the school children on that occasion.

Resolved, That the Governor of this State be requested to appoint annually a day to be designated as Arbor day in Pennsylvania, and to recommend by proclamation to the people on the days named for the planting of trees and shrubbery in the public school grounds and along the public highways throughout the State.

LOVE IS LORD.

Probus, sub-rod, southward going, Left with pallid, paleless, shrouded; Love, no more his warm bestowing; Let my life cold, drar, beclouded.

Now the sun, with warm advances, Into earth new life infuses; And in me thy sunny glances Wake to life the sleeping muses.

Every muse obeys Apollo, Love is lord of every action; To the verge of space I follow, Drawn by love's divine attraction.
