

The Pennsylvania Populists are talking of nominating Leonard Rhone, of Centre Hall, as their candidate for Governor.

To-morrow W. B. Stewart, a Tyrore dealer will give away one hundred and fifty pairs of shoes to needy Tyrore boys and girls.

Dr. D. S. Monroe, of Altoona, presiding elder, will conduct services in the Methodist church here Sunday. He will preach at the morning service.

The lecture on the funny side of soldier life by Rev. M. L. Ganoe, in the opera house, on Tuesday evening, was very poorly attended, but those who were there enjoyed the tales of the minister who was not yet out of his teens, but wore the blue with distinguishing merit.

The annual High school oratorical contest will take place in Garman's opera house on next Friday evening, May 4th. The prize of $15 in gold, offered by W. Fred Reynolds will be contested for by the speakers and a pleasant evening's entertainment is guaranteed to all. An admission of ten cents will be charged to defray opera house expenses and contribute to the school library fund.

INJURED BY A BARBED WIRE FENCE.
On last Friday George Neff, of Liberty township, had to shoot one of his most valuable horses. It had become entangled in a barb wire fence and was so badly injured that shooting was necessary to end its sufferings.

Ephraim Fisher, who farms the Armore farm just east of town, recently had a horse permanently maimed by being torn in a barbed fence.

ANGLERS AND THEIR SPORT.—It has now been nearly two weeks since the enthusiastic follower of Izaak Walton, with rod and tackle, found himself along his favorite stream impatiently waiting the first bite of the first trout of the season. It seems with the growing scarcity of the speckled beauties there is a growing pentitude of devotees of the rod and line. Every year the number increases and fishing becomes more truly sport. For as the streams are annually veritably stripped of their piscatorial habitants it is little else than genuine sport to fish for trout.

In years gone by it was not at all an unusual thing for a man to take an ordinary pole, with the cheapest kind of a hook without trol, and catch more trout in a day in any of our mountain streams, than he could carry home. In truth we have record from the diary of Hon. J. H. Holt's father, that while he was working on a well, in 1820, near Salt Works—now Salt Lick, Clearfield Co.—the men stopped one morning and went trout fishing. In a few hours they had caught more, in weight, than they could carry. Such is not the trouble, now-a-days. If a person is able to hook several pounds, after a hard days work with the most improved tackle, and appetizing bait, he has done well.

Though the streams are all pretty well fished out, we still see nice baskets full of trout occasionally and within the past week hundreds have been caught from Spring Creek and Logans branch that measured considerably more than eleven inches. Such catches must eventually deplete these streams unless something is done to replenish them. The Pennsylvania Fish Commission has done much in recent years to make this condition of things possible by the replenishing of fished-out streams. Recently it sent its car out from the Corry hatchery loaded with 193,000 young trout for distribution, divided as follows among the various counties: Westmoreland, 32,000; Cambria, 45,000; Huntingdon, 8,000; Blair, 6,000; Jefferson, 7,000; Clearfield, 66,000; Centre, 6,000; Warren, 12,000 and Crawford, 12,000. The Allentown hatchery has done its share toward restocking the streams of the eastern counties.

The game laws also provide that the catching of speckled trout, except by rod, hook and line at any time, is illegal. Fishing in newly stocked streams is also prohibited, as is the taking of any trout under five inches long. Should the angler hook any such he is required to put them back in the water or subject himself to a $20 penalty.

Many persons do not know the law on the question of "stocked streams" so we take the liberty of publishing the following from an exchange, bearing directly on the question. "Most of the streams in this vicinity have been stocked by the state fishery commission, and portions of the streams into which the spawn has been put are claimed 'private streams' by the persons through whose land the water flows. In accordance with an opinion recently handed down in the Supreme Court by Judge Sterrett, streams are not private unless the fish are propagated, which means that screens must be used in the stream.

In the first place the spawn must be kept separate, then the small fish are put into another screen cell, and so on until they are large enough to take care of themselves. Even then they are to be kept within a larger screen cell of the party who raises them until they are private as is within the screens placed there by the owner.

The case in question was Benecoter vs. Long, Luzerne county. A continuous stream divided the land of these men. The plaintiff put a lot of small trout into the stream, and when they had become large enough the defendant fished them out. Suit was brought and the plaintiff said it was a private stream as the dividing line ran more than half way across the stream. It was shown that the plaintiff did not propagate the fish, but merely put them into the stream to get along as best they could. No stream is private unless the propagation is carried on as previously stated. A pond surrounded by the owner's land, without any continuous flow, can be called a private pond.

Judge Sterrett in the syllabus of the case says: "If the waters of a pond cover a large surface of land, and a person whose lands are covered only by a part of the water, places fish therein for the purpose of propagation, the pond does not thereby become a private pond, within the meaning of the act of June 3, 1878. Neither is a notice that all persons are hereby notified not to trespass on these lands or fish in this pond, under the penalty of the law, a sufficient notice under the act of June 3, 1878; either to strangers or to neighbors."

He continues that: "The mere placing of fish in a pond, without any improvement whatever for the propagation of game fish, is insufficient to place the pond within the protection of the act of June 3, 1878."

Fine Grove Mentions.
Mrs. S. A. Young of Bellefonte, Sundayed with relatives in our town. She is still the same jolly woman as of yore and looks as though town life agreed with her.

From present indications an abundant harvest of grain and hay may be expected and if the prices will only grow with the crops our farmers will every day bless the beautiful sunshine and warm breezes that we are being favored with.

In political circles there has been a good deal of speculation over the candidacy of Hon. John T. McCormick for a renomination for the Legislative race. Notwithstanding he has several letters from friends all over the county and from many who were not his friends in his last campaign, urging him to be a candidate, he has positively declined to enter his name.

John is a democrat but not in the sense of a third term and therefore he is not going to enter the race at all. Walter E. Meek, the early part of the week accompanied by his bright seven year old son Alden Rhodes made a short visit to his broad and fertile acres at Fairbrook. Mr. Meek just returned from Philadelphia where he was attending the trial pending between Maria Meek and the G. Y. Meek heirs which was tried before the Supreme court last week.

Walter who is one of Houtzdale's enterprising and successful merchants and coal operators, is a most pleasant and affable man, one who is able to make friends and keep them.

Wm. H. Smith, Esq., with his bride of three days tarried over Sunday at the Smith home on Main St., where the newly wedded couple received many good wishes and congratulations. The bride Miss Annie Wagner, well known here, is a lady of culture and refinement and is well calculated to make a home of joy and sunshine. William is a hustler from away back and has plenty of energy and pluck to make life and his business a success. The happy couple will immediately go to housekeeping at Spring Mills, where Mr. Smith is in business and the WATCHMAN sincerely hopes that their present bright prospects may materialize into realisms.

The long looked for railroad now looks like a certainty. On the 1st inst. the President of the Bellefonte Central accompanied by Supt. Thomas and some of the board of directors passed over the proposed route to the site where the depot will likely be built. They were met by the committee and a number of citizens who on discussing the prospects of the enterprise, found the officials not only interested but determined that the road should be built if the right way was secured. Now many of our citizens have done everything in their power to secure this privilege and while some of our progressive enterprising farmers have nobly aided and encouraged the building of the road, others, who are back numbers of their day and generation not only refuse to help along the good cause but positively object to the fore sight of their neighbors. The people of the upper end of Penna Valley and Spruce Creek Valley, two of the most fertile plains in Pennsylvania, have been isolated from the world long enough and now when they have the opportunity to be connected with markets and minds, we hope they will put aside all narrow-minded penuriousness and get at the work with a will.

Impressions on the Fly.
READERS—Is it not delightful to break away from the cares of every-day life and run away, and for a time forget yourself in a whirl of excitement? That is what we have done—we two travelers.

Having been whirled away through mountains, across rivers, over valleys and through cities, until at last here we are at Atlantic City, and of course the first thing in order is gathering shells. To do this, the first thing is to go down on the beach when the tide is out. The second, is to get utterly bewildered by the number, variety and beauty of the shells. The third, is to make an indiscriminate scramble for everything in sight; until you have just a little more to carry than you are able to manage. By this time you see a shell so much rarer than those you have already gathered, that you throw away the result of an hour's hard work to make room for the last valuable find, just as we carelessly throw away the results of years of toil for something new and dazzling, or throw aside the acquaintances of years when a new favorite appears. But remember that the order of things described here, is not unbroken. There are the breakers rolling, not far from you, and occasionally one of them, angered, by your presumption, makes a rush at you; causing you to retreat in great haste, your skirts quickly gathered from about your feet with very little regard to grace or dignity.

Please remember also that while you are thus playing fast and loose with the ocean the sun is shining down upon you, giving you a lovely black and tan complexion. When you have thus amused yourself until you are tired you sit down on the nice clean sand and watch the waves playing with the sands and shells, just as the fates play with the lives of men and women, throwing them as drift upon the shores of time or carrying them away into the Eternal unknown. M. V. THOMAS.

In Memoriam.

Resolutions of respect toward Mrs. Mollie Miller by camp 447 P. O. S. of A.

Mrs. Mollie Miller was born June the 18th, 1868, and died April the 15th, 1894; aged 25 years 9 months and 20 days.

Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, WHEREAS, it has pleased God in his All-wise Providence to remove the companion of our much and highly esteemed brother, Lewis Miller, from our midst be it

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. Furthermore be it

Resolved, That our flag be draped for the period of 30 days in respect for Mrs. Lewis Miller. Furthermore be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be placed on the minutes of W. C. 447 P. O. S. of A. and that they be printed in two of the county papers and in the Camp News, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband. By order of W. C. 447 P. O. S. of A.

Zeb. W. Bathurst, Committee. S. M. Hall, John Tate.

Mrs. Nora Woodring.

Wife of John Woodring, departed this life on Thursday, April 13th, 1894. Aged 24 years, 5 months and eleven days. She was a daughter of John Beckwith, of Taylor township and bore her great suffering with Christian fortitude. God, in his wisdom, saw fit to remove from her husband a dear, loving wife and she has left behind many friends to mourn her loss but we live in a world where solemn shadows are continually falling upon our path. Shadows that teach us the insecurity of all temporal blessings and warn us that there is no abiding stay for any of us on this earth. We have the blessed satisfaction of knowing that death cannot enter that sphere to which the departed are removed. So let hope and faith mingle with the bereaved husband and friends. Grieve not, dear sister is at rest and only waiting to meet us in a world of happiness, where we will know her still better, where there is no sorrow or pain and we must look to God in Heaven for our safety so we can meet her there.

Rev. Sarvis, of the M. E. church, had charge of the funeral services and laid her remains to rest on Saturday afternoon in the Mount Pleasant cemetery to await the resurrection of the just.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the Bellefonte P. O., April 16th, 1894. S. J. Allen, Kate Gaughan, Mrs. D. W. Boyer, Lillian Kane, Jno. S. Brihant, Jas. S. Mitchell, Mrs. H. Clemans, Geo. Shearer.

When called for please say advertised.

J. A. FIEDLER, P. M.
