THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

NO PAPER NEXT WEEK.—According to our regular custom no paper will be issued from this office next week.

Aaronburg has an epidemic of measles.

The work of paving Front street in Philipsburg was begun on Monday.

Millheim, Mill Hill and Osceola Mills are all going to have big times on the 4th.

Ira C. Mitchell Esq., of this place, will be the 4th of July orator at Millheim.

Decker's saw mill, in George's valley, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night.

The change in the weather here on Wednesday was very noticeable. The thermometer dropped about 10°.

While examining a small revolver last Monday Randall Musser, of Millheim, shot himself through the hand.

The prohibition party in this county will hold its convention in the court house on Tuesday, July 24th.

The Wagner mill property was to have been sold on Saturday, but as no purchasers were present the sale was deferred.

It is certainly John Queer Miles now. You ought to see how funny the county treasurer looks without those whiskers.

A marked improvement in the appearance of north Allegheny street has been made by the sodding in front of the Dart properties.

The estimated cost of the coal strike thus far is $1,500,000 to the operators, $500,000 to the miners and $1,500,000 to the railroads.

The reformed congregation at Centre Hall is preparing to build a new church. Lots in Wolf's grove have been purchased for a site.

Hay making is on in full force in this county and a great many grain fields will be ready for the harvester in a few days. The grass crop is light.

Mary, the bright little six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Connolly, recently met with the misfortune of falling down stairs and breaking her arm.

On Sunday night dogs killed two large brood sows owned by Isaac Haupt of this place. They were in a field on his mountain farm in Benner township. Some time ago dogs killed twelve sheep for him.

Mr. C. H. Murray, of Centre Hall, has registered to read law with Messrs. Beaver & Dale of this place. He is a graduate of Princeton and until recently has been doing reportorial work on New York newspapers.

A special train will leave Coburn at 11 o'clock on the night of July 4th and run clear through to Bellefonte. This will enable those living en route to spend the entire day at Millheim, where a big time is advertised.

The reception given by Miss Minnie Brew to her dancing class, last Friday evening, was a delightful success. Many invited friends were present to enjoy the excellent music which Stopper & Fisk's orchestra furnished for dancing.

An embryo strike at the chain works Monday morning was soon settled by Mr. Frank McCoy's increasing the scale per hundred links to 6 cents, the same as it had been before the last out was made. The men went to work as usual Tuesday morning.

Coal reports show a falling off of nearly sixty thousand tons a week this year as compared with shipments over the Beech Creek railroad from the Clearfield region during the same period last. The Pennsylvania's tonnage from the same region has fallen seventy thousand tons.

The Bellefonte Academy ball team went to Lock Haven on Saturday to play a game with the Normal school nine of that place. Owing to the rain only six innings were played, the score resulting in favor of the home team 12 to 0. The Academy boys were no match for the Normalites.

Crop reports throughout the county are to the effect that everything will be good excepting the corn and hay. The continued cold wet weather in the spring has made the grass very backward, while the heavy rains of the past few weeks have washed much of the corn out. The fruit prospects are very good.

A WRITER WHOM YOU ALL KNOW

WELL.—Among the biographies of a number of the veteran editors of the State, as they appeared in the Sunday issue of the Philadelphia Times, we noticed that of a man who once delighted the readers of the WATCHMAN with his versatility. In years gone by the name of Joe W. Furey was almost a household word in Centre county and now that he is ill and will probably never write for another newspaper we know that you will all be interested in learning something of his past. The Times says:

"About everybody worth knowing in central Pennsylvania has a speaking acquaintance, if nothing more, with Editor Joe W. Furey, who has been identified with journalism in that section of the State throughout a number of years, and who has given to the Lock Haven Democrat an excellent position in interior journalism."

Mr. Furey has always been a bright, versatile and vigorous writer, dealing with subjects as he found them, and holding fast to an opinion with a tenacity and aggressive power that has made him one of the best-known writers of the day. His first connection with printing began May 12, 1855, at Jersey Shore, Lycoming county, in the office of the Republican. Notwithstanding the fact that the Republican bore the same name as the new party then just merging into notice under the leadership of Fremont, it was nevertheless a Democratic paper owned by R. & F. A. Baker, and the former was at that time treasurer of Lycoming county. Both have long since passed away, the former at the age of 90 years. The latter was a gallant soldier in the Union army during the rebellion, and afterward became an inmate of the soldiers' home at Erie.

From Jersey Shore Editor Furey migrated to Decatur, Morgan county, Ala., where he became editor of the North Alabama Times, owned by Alexander McCarthy, his uncle. He remained there a period of eighteen months, returning north in the fall of 1860. At that time political matters had grown decidedly hot. It was at this time that he entered the office of the DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN, at Bellefonte, and in 1864 and 1865 he worked at the case in the office of the Washington Globe.

Mr. Furey left Washington two or three days before the assassination of President Lincoln and on his arrival at Harrisburg found that P. Gray Meek, editor of the WATCHMAN, at Bellefonte, had been arrested and imprisoned for what was then defined as treason—as if the pleasant and fearless gentleman, now proprietor of the port of Philadelphia and still proprietor of the WATCHMAN, could be guilty of such unpatriotic action. At Harrisburg Editor Furey found Judge Strohecker, a good old German citizen of Penn's valley, Centre county, and together they were given permission to visit the imprisoned editor which imprisonment Meek afterwards dignified by a five-column article in the WATCHMAN, entitled "Five Days in the Service."

Mr. Furey, on his return to Bellefonte, took charge of the WATCHMAN and was connected with Mr. Meek in the editorial work of the WATCHMAN for nearly twenty years. He was also connected with the Lycoming Standard, at Williamsport, in 1873, and in the year 1867 and 1868 he was one of the editors of the Clinton Democrat, in Lock Haven succeeding Henry L. Dieffenbach, now of Philadelphia, a widely known and talented writer.

Mr. Furey's love for Bellefonte again attached him there, until in 1887, when he returned to Lock Haven and assumed editorial charge of the Democrat. Three years ago he was attacked by erysipelas and became so nervous that through the kindness of many friends he was sent to the hospital at Clifton Springs, New York, and has since been out of the harness. Mr. Furey is a writer of much merit and has contributed a number of excellent poems to the literature of the day."

TWO STABLES BURNED.—At five o'clock last Saturday morning fire was discovered in the hay loft of Judge A. O. Furst's barn on the rear of his Linn street property. The building being frame was wrapped in flames before a general alarm was sounded and by the time the fire department got on the ground it was beyond saving. There was no water in the pipes on Curtin street and the Undines only succeeded in reaching the flames with their stream after their engine had been put to work. The Logans were unable to get a stream on because of a broken plug on Linn street. The fire spread from the Furst stable to that owned by Wm. Maitland, just across the alley and it was almost totally destroyed.

Everything was gotten out of Furst's stable except a little calf. Mr. Maitland lost about two loads of hay in his. Both were partially insured. The condition in which the firemen found the water service on Saturday morning was certainly very discreditable to some one, let the blame attach where it will. There is no use in talking about such economy. Suppose it had been windy when that fire broke out there is no telling what the result would have been.

Mill Hall is going to have a big time on the Fourth of July.

The Lock Haven Democrat says there have been 150 cases of scarlet fever at Karthouse since last November.

Edna Gingery, a six year old Mill Hall girl, poked a cherry seed into her ear last Friday and on Monday a physician put her under the influence of ether while he removed it.

The First National bank at Lock Haven paid out $5,150 to graduates of the Normal school on Wednesday. The State pays each graduate $50 upon completion of the required course.

Secretary of War Daniel Lamont will send a United States engineer to make a survey of the river at Lock Haven and Williamsport to report the best way of protecting those towns from high water.

Phillipsburg Journal says "The Beech creek road is preparing for the end of the strike. Empty cars fill almost every switch along the road, and the engines are ready to have their fires lighted at any time."

The Lock Haven ball players got mad at manager McNeerney on Monday night and deposed him. Though they have not been paid salaries regularly they intend to run the season through on their own hook.

Dr. A. W. Hafer, who was married to Mrs. Laura Tressler Hess, on last Wednesday at her brother's in Osceola, brought his bride home Thursday evening and is now receiving the congratulations and good wishes of his friends.

We notice by the Clearfield papers that Bob Larimer, an old type of this office who has taken to the grocery business in preference to dying at his case, is the owner of a blooded colt. Bob must be putting a heap of sand in his sugar (?) if he can sport fast horses this soon.

The annual convention of the camps of P. O. S. of A. of Clinton, Lycoming Centre, Clearfield, Elk, Jefferson, Cameron and Blair counties will be held this year at Emporium on July 3rd and 4th. George H. Harmon, camp 639 of this place, is treasurer of the reunion association.

The man who read the head line of an article in the Lock Haven Democrat as follows: "Ten car loads of Poles arrived for the new street railway," and kicked because the contractors were going to employ foreigners, was away off. 'Tis true that a portion of the foreign labor in this country is made up of Poles, but these were wooden poles to run the wires on.

Sheriff Condo received a telegram Wednesday afternoon that the authorities in Somerset county had Rudy Watkins, the Watkins Glenn convict, in jail out there and be went after the wily old scallawag the same evening. He returned with the prisoner yesterday. Watkins skipped away from court here the day he was to have been sentenced for adultery and larceny.

At the band contest at DuBois Thursday prizes were won by the following bands: The first prize of $150 was awarded to Reynoldsville Keystone band, they having scored 50 points. Prize No. 2, $75 went to Phillipsburg, 51 1/2 points. Prize No. 3, $40 to Houtzdale, on 45 points. Prize No. 4, $25, to Prescottville, on 43 points. Prize No. 5, $10 to Emporium. The points were on attack, tone, time, tune, ensemble and finish, ten points being possible on each.

At a meeting of delegates representing the miners of the Altoona district held in Altoona, on Tuesday afternoon, it was decided that the men should go to work at the rate of 40 cts. net or 45 cts. per gross ton. The question as to whether work should be resumed at those figures was debated all afternoon and late into the night. President McBride, of the National association was there. During the meeting a telegram was received from Bell, Lewis & Yates stating that their offer to pay those prices was still good. Work has been resumed in most of the mines where the operators are willing to pay the new scale.

EWING POSTLETHWAITE.—Mr. J. Morrison Ewing, of Mill Hall, Pa., and Miss Laura J. Postlethwaite, of Altoona, a sister of Mr. E. T. Postlethwaite, of the Pennsylvania railroad, were quietly married on Tuesday afternoon, June 12th, at Mr. Postlethwaite's residence on Walnut avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. William A. Patton, pastor of the Wayne Presbyterian church. Only the members of the families were present.

The bride was clad in white silk crepe, trimmed with lace, and carried bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie B. Postlethwaite, who wore white swiss with yellow roses. Mr. W. W. Postlethwaite, a nephew, was the best man.—Pittsburgh Ledger.

A NOTED INVENTOR IS DEAD.—After an illness that extended over most of the past winter Bernard Lauth, Esq., of Howard, died on Monday evening shortly before nine o'clock. He was in his seventy-third year and his peaceful death marked the end of a life that had known hardships as well as the luxury in which it closed. The ingenious brain that worked out the many devices in iron manufacture and the man who possessed it were honors to Centre county that will long hold a place in her galaxy of noted men.

HIS BIOGRAPHY.

Bernard Lauth, late proprietor of Howard Iron Works, was born in the province of Alsace (since the Franco-German war included in the German Empire) on the 23d of August, 1820. He is lineally descended from Dr. William Laud, Archbishop of Canterbury (1633) who was beheaded (Jan. 10, 1645) by an arbitrary decree of Parliament during the troubled times of the latter years of the reign of Charles I. Archbishop Laud's widow, with eleven sons, migrated to Alsace, and the name of the family, through the idiom of the German language, was changed to that of Lauth.

The grandfather and grandmother of Bernard Lauth, with his father and mother, emigrated to America, arriving in Pittsburgh in the spring of 1831. Bernard, not having completed his eleventh year, went to work in Dr. Peter Schoenberger's iron-works at one dollar a week. He remained at Schoenberger's works for seven years, and was then employed as boss roller at Hoke & Hartman's, on the east side of the river.

Mr. Lauth was married in 1840 to Miss Elizabeth Wilhelm, and remained in charge at Hoke & Hartman's until 1844. In 1847, Mr. Lauth went into business for himself at Zanesville, Ohio, and in company with others built a rolling-mill. He was there a little over five years, when he removed to East Birmingham, Pittsburg, and built a rolling-mill in connection with his brother on the site of an orchard. This enterprise developed into the immense "American Iron-Works" of Jones & Laughlin, which employs thirty-five hundred men, the firm being Jones & Lauth until Mr. Lauth retired. While thus engaged (in 1857) he made his invention for the manufacture of cold-rolled shafting. The one-half of the shafting used in the great Centennial buildings at Philadelphia, in 1876 was rolled at these works.

Mr. Lauth sold his right to Jones & Laughlin for one hundred thousand dollars, and then went to England. While there he made his second important invention. Lauth's three high plate rolls. He had his family with him in Europe for four years, in order to give his children a good education. Mr. Lauth's third invention was a continuous mill for rolling plates, of every description, for hoops, bands, etc.

His fourth invention, made in 1866, was for straightening and angling beam-iron mostly cold. On his return from Europe, Mr. Lauth engaged in business at Reading, Pa., where he built a mill for rolling sheets and plates, which was finished just as the war closed. From Reading he removed to Howard in September, 1871. The works at Howard were very much dilapidated when he took hold of them, and he remodeled and renewed them almost entirely, built new and handsome dwellings, erected a beautiful Catholic chapel, and with a new rolling-mill erected in 1882, had one of the best iron-works in Centre county until he retired from active work.

He leaves a wife and seven children: B. C. Lauth, of Philadelphia; Jno. N., of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. S. Comerford, of Howard; Mrs. W. G. Comerford, of York; Mrs. D. P. Greth, of Reading; Mrs. William Wilhelm, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. S. C. Burnside, of Howard Twp. Sixteen grand children and five great grand children survive.

Funeral services were held yesterday morning, when special trains over the B. & E. V. were run for the accommodation of many who attended from a distance.

The pall bearers were Balser Weber, Howard; John G. Love, and John P. Harris, Bellefonte; Wm. A. Simpson, and Joseph Candor, Lock Haven; Alex Hamilton, Johnstown; S. S. Blair, Tyrone and John Fritz, Bethlehem.

The carriers were Messrs John Loder, John Heverly, Jas. Wyble, J. L. Dehaas, A. Weber, H. C. Holter, Wm. N. Neff and Sam'l Shay.

How "Doc." MET HIS DEATH.—The Lewistown Free Press publishes the following particulars concerning the death of T. D. McAllister, which we mentioned last week.

"Between 11 and 12 o'clock on Monday night T. D. McAllister, familiarly known as 'Doc,' whose home was at Bellefonte, was out along the track of the Sunbury & Lewistown railroad, at the eastern end of that part known as 'the trestle,' just outside of town, when an engine going out on the road struck him, knocking him off the highest part of the bridge (crossing the creek), hurling him down to the wagon road below, a distance of more than 40 feet. An examination of his injuries by Dr. Harshbarger, who arrived at the borough station shortly after the man was brought in, showed that five ribs were smashed, this skull fractured in four places, and other hurts—the wonder being that he was not killed instantly. He was removed to the Miller House, where he expired at 20 minutes before four Tuesday morning.

About three weeks since the deceased, who was of a roving disposition and known in many towns in this State and elsewhere, came to this place and, being an expert workman, was employed in the tailoring establishment of Geo. S. Hafly."

T. Clayton Brown has sold his novelty store in this place to a Huntingdon merchant. The stock was moved to Huntingdon.

All of Bellefonte's leading business houses will be closed all day on the Fourth. Proprietors and clerks, alike, will take a day of rest.

Tomorrow evening the Epworth league of the Bellefonte Methodist church will hold a festival in the room, in the McLain block, next door to this office.

LOST.—A silver belt buckle attached to a blue ribbon belt, somewhere on west High street, on Tuesday evening. The buckle was engraved with the initials "E. B. M." The finder will be suitably rewarded by returning same to this office.

DIED NEAR PITTSBURG.—A former resident of this county died suddenly on Sunday morning at Wilmerding, near Pittsburg. He had been suffering for some time with a complication of diseases, but it was not until peritonitis set in that death made a speedy end of his trouble. Robert T. Elder, deceased was born in Half Moon valley, near Stormstown, June 6, 1854, and early in life moved to Altoona, where he worked in the rail-road shops. Thence he moved to Pittsburg and from there he went to Mexico where he became master mechanic of the Mexican National railroad. The later years of his life were spent at Wilmerding in the employ of the Westinghouse air brake company.

CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES AT WEAVER.—Sunday, June 24th, the M. E. Sabbath school had a red letter day in its history as a school, under the leadership of its efficient Supt. William Carson. At 2:30 p. m. the services began with a crowded house. The decorations were beautiful, recitations good, singing melodious and Messrs Harry and Epley Gentzel and Harry Kline, members of the Zion brass band added very much to the success of the occasion by lending a helping hand in improving the music. Although it seemed to be almost boiling hot in the church, still every body appeared happy and looked and listened as if they enjoyed the exercises.

CHILDREN'S DAY SERVICES AT HOWARD.—The children's day services, held in the Evangelical church at Howard, on last Sabbath evening were a grand success, extensive preparations in training and drilling the scholars of the school and the church were made. "The Open Door" program prepared by the church for the services was used and proved to be a very impressive and beautiful service. "The Open Door," handsomely trimmed, was placed in the centre of the platform, in the back ground was a large pyramid of flowers with a silver cross and crown above it, and the motto in letters of spruce, "The Open Door." The young ladies and gentlemen and all the children who participated in these exercises, cannot be commended too highly for the way in which they acquitted themselves. In connection with "The Open Door" program, which was entirely scriptural, therefore so deeply impressive, a number of miscellaneous exercises were rendered. The "Children's Meetings," an exercise in which all the children of the primary class took part, was very pleasing to all, and the duets sang by the little girls were also greatly enjoyed. The choir, under the leadership of Prof. Z. L. Weirick, was indeed very good.

An old fashioned well placed at one end of the platform was a very unique affair. An exercise entitled "The wells of salvation" was used in which all the young ladies dipped water from the well before reciting their parts, it was beautifully carried out both in letter and spirit. This service was pronounced by many to have been one of the most successful children's day services ever held in Howard.

News Purely Personal.

—Banker George W. Jackson returned from a pleasure trip east yesterday morning.

—Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tipton, of this place, spent Sunday with Mrs. Tipton's parents in Tyrone.

—Among those from here who went down to look on at the State convention were Ellis L. Orris, N. B. Spangler, J. C. Meyer and Aaron Williams.

—Miss Mary Schroder, of Mechanicsburg, who had been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bullock, on north Allegheny street, went home on Saturday.

—Hon. John M. Greer and wife, of Butler, spent Sunday, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Harris, on Linn street. Mr. Greer is on the bench in the 17th judicial district.

—Among the visitors to Bellefonte on Tuesday we noticed Judge James Smith, of Lock Haven. He was being shown around the town by J. Kyle McFarlane. Kyle was taking much pride in exhibiting a specimen of the new pressed brick now being made at Mill Hall.

—Among the well known Bellefonters who attended the State convention, on Wednesday, were S. A. McQuestion, A. S. Garman and J. C. Meyer Esq. Harry McGirk, the prominent young Democrat of College township, went down on Tuesday to take A. C. Thompson's place in the convention and Cyrus Brungart, of Millheim, was as an alternate also.

A GREAT DAY AT THE PARK.—Hoping that those of our readers who can make it convenient have already made up their minds to spend the Fourth at Hunter's park, we simply want to give you a last idea of what kind of entertainment can be expected.

The prizes that have been stuck up everywhere call it "field sports" and there may be some of you who don't understand what that means. It is simply this. All the athletes in this community will meet at the park and run, jump, walk, ride bicycles, indulge in three-legged, sack races, and tub races for a long list of trophies which Bellefonte merchants have kindly presented to be contested for. Besides these events there will be a game of ball between Bellefonte and Milesburg, Meyer's band will furnish music at the pavilion and both dinner and supper will be served.

As it is the Y. M. C. A.'s undertaking you can rely on it that everything will be done in a pleasant way and if you attend you will certainly enjoy the trip to the pretty resort.

The prizes and their donors are as follows: An oak rocking chair, donated by E. C. Rowe; pocket knife, Jas. Harris & Co.; silver calendar, F. Potts Green; fly rod, Zeller & Son; bicycle shoes, Louis Doll; tennis shoes, Joseph Bros.; rug, H. H. Schreyer; slippers, A. C. Mingle; gold pen, H. Y. Stutz; silver match box, F. G. Richard; silver cup, F. P. Blair & Co.; Sweater, Montgomery & Co.; Grant's portrait framed, S. H. Williams; traveler's case, Krumrine Bros.; gold cuff buttons, W. T. Achenbach; one dozen photos, H. B. Shaeffer; one dozen photos, J. A. Finkbinder; razor, McKee & Bro.; umbrella stand, W. H. Wilkinson; alarm clock, F. Galbraith; paper rack, F. E. Nagney; album, W. T. Meyer; lap robe, James Schofield.

WHO WAS IT THAT THUS DISGRACED US.—Conductor L. A. Haupt was given no little trouble on the valley train coming from Bellefonte last Thursday evening. Two girls whose conduct indicated unbecomingness of reputation and two young boys belonging to Co. B. held high carnival in one of the coaches. They behaved so badly that the conductor was obliged to separate them by driving the embryo soldiers back into the car to which they belonged, that respectable people might not be grossly offended.

One of the members of Co. B. Bellefonte, and a girl, presumably from the same town, made an undignified exhibition of themselves here last evening by trading headgear and parading Pennsylvania army regiments like "Silly Billy and his sister Sue."—Tyrone Times.

The United collieries operators at Houtzdale offered their men fifty cents a gross ton to resume work last Monday.

For engineer's supplies, water gas and steam fittings, iron pumps, terra cotta pipe, garden hose, hose repairs, spray nozzles, lawn sprinklers, lawn mowers, gas and oil heater, stoves and ranges, call on R. J. Schad & Bro., No. 6 North Allegheny street, Bellefonte, Pa. 39 248t

We have added to our stock of mens goods—a line of ladies' shirt waists—chemisettes and neck wear, and later (in the season approaching) a line of ladies' wear—that will be a great boon to the female portion of Bellefonte and country friends. We hope to represent a large firm in something that will be very choice. Watch—for this latest announcement. MONTGOMERY & CO. Clothing & Hats.
