A Deputation to Secure It For Tyrone Called at the Post Office Department Wednesday

WASHINGTON, July 18 .- W. Fisk Conrad, postmaster at Tyrone and Hon. C. S. Jones, accompanied by Congress man Hicks, visited the postoffice de partment this afternoon and had a conference with the first assistant postmaster general concerning the establishing of free mail delivery at Tyrone. The policy of the postoffice department does not seem to favor free delivery, as expressed by General Jones. except in cities of not less than 20,000 inhabitants Mr. Conrad presented the claims of Tyrone in a very forcible manner and insisted that, as the office at Ty rone had for two successive years brought itself within the requirements of the law authorizing free delivery, its postal receipts exceeding $10,000 per year, he claimed the duty of the department was very clear.

Postmaster Jones made the same claim last year, but was refused on account of lack of sufficient appropriation. The postmaster general did not decline to establish free delivery, but intimated to Mr. Conrad that he would prefer an expression of the people on the subject by petition, after which he would make a decision. The party, after paying their respects to Postmas- the bridge in tact to the turn, a half ter General Bissell, called upon Senator Quay and Hon. James Kerr, clerk of the house, and these gentlemen were also enlisted in procuring for Tyrone its right under the law, and, in case free delivery is established, the probabilities would be that the postoffice at | irons. East Tyrone would be discontinued.

THE CASE OF GEORGE POTTER .-Last week we published the gist of a rumor that was afloat to the effect that George Potter, a son of John F. Potter, Esq., of Milesburg, had been found, with his throat cut from ear to ear, in a wood near Olean, N. Y. Fearing lest the report was untrue we did not give a full account of the case, which the following letter from Mr. Potter, himself, will now explain :

MILESBURG, July 15, 1894. Mr. George Meek, Bellefonte, Pa.

My Dear Sir :- In regard to many inquries relating to my son George about whether or nct he was the person killed at Olean, N. Y. would say that I am not yet prepared to tell. I was summoned home from Penns valley, on Thursday afternoon, and learned the fact that my son George was missing from his boarding place in Cross Forks, Potter Co. Pa. The folowing item had been cut from a paper pub lished at Coudersport, Potter Co.

"The dead and decomposed body of an un-"known man was found in the woods about a "mile south of Olean N. Y., Sunday afternoon. "The throat was cut from ear to ear and a "bloody razor was found about 40 feet from the

BRYAN-BARGER.-At Howard, Pa., July 12, 1894, by Rev. N. B. Smith, Mr. James I. Bryan to Miss Melissa Barger both of Boggs township, Centre Co., Pa.

Mrs. Esther Gordon

On Friday morning, of May 18, Mrs. Gordon he aged mother of J. B. Gordon was discovered in her bed wrapped in the sleep that knows no waking. While she had been quite feeble for some time and suffered with the infirmities subject to old age still her sudden de parture was entirely unexpected. The funeral was held Monday morning. Rev. C. Mills conducted the services after which the re mains were laid to rest by the side of her life companion who had preceded her by several vears.

Esther Hoover Gordon was born in Centre county, Pa., August 15th 1805 and died May 18 1894 aged 89 years 6 months and 3 days. She was married to John Gordon June 23, 1825 They lived in Pennsylvania until '68 when they moved to Minnesota where they lived un til June 1886, at that time they moved to Stoc ton, Kansas, making their home with their nome with their son Bush as he is generally called. Her husband died in Febuary, 1889, at the age of 90 years and 2 months. They were the parents of 14 children, 3 of whom are liv ing. Her's was one of those rare natures that inspired love in all who came with in the sphere of its influence, though so very old she never became childish but retained her faculities to the last and was a constant reade of good books and papers. Her husband was a Democrat and was a subscriber for the WATCHMAN for many years she was one of 17 children all living to be old but two dying in infancy Jacob and Joseph Hoover. She was born and raised in Bald Eagle Valley near Unionville short on rainfall and poorly prepared to and was great great grandmother of eight children, little Elsie Petters of Unionvilles being one. Her connection was the Hoovers Fishers and Ways of Bald Eagle valley.

-----The settlement of the much talked of water question is very simple. Let there be larger mains laid to supply the town and then there will be no trouble from the people who live on the hills and can't get water more than half the time. There is plenty of water in the spring for all and when people pay taxes for it it is quite natural that they should want it and have it too. Belle fonte is growing and it is ridiculous to think that the mains that supplied the town twenty years ago are large elegant work. The residence designs enough to do it now.

Mr. George Snyder, of Bellefonte, got the knives and forks, No. 6 drawing them, and Ambrose Holter drew the spoons, No. 28 being the lucky number. The gross receipts were a few cents less than $83.00 which will make the net amount about $56--. When the company was formed there were about twenty-five members, but when the festival work was to be done there were only about half a dozen of them to be found. At about 7.30 o'clock the Co. had a parade, which was led by the band followed by the company with the two hose carts and 700 feet of hose.

I hope to be able to make furthyears ago since they left this place, and er investigation soon. the character of this book gives abundant evidence of exceptional progress and success in their profession. An examination of the many designs of residences, business and public buildings, churches, schools ect., many of which have been erected during the past three years, shows that they are doing some illustrated are especially noticeable and beautiful. Their good proportions and the harmonious arrangement of porch and roof lines, gives them that truly noble architectural character in which dignity may be found even for the most modest building. On the first twenty pages appears several articles written by the Beezer Bros. pertaining to architec. ture and building materials. The reading matter accompanying the designs is well written, and interesting as well as instructive.

To any one having in contemplation the erection of a building, whether for residence or business purposes, and whether of modest or assuming proportions, this book of Beezer Bros. would be a veritable treasure, because of the ideas suggested and information given, and doubtless many, into whose hands it falls, will consider themselves under great obligations to the enterprising publishers.

If, as indications seem to point, the body was that of George Potter the question at once arises. How did he get to that place, and was he murdered or was it a suicide ? There was every appearance of his getting along nicely. He was liked by his employers, was making considerable money and had little reason for taking his own life.
