HUMAN NATURE.

Before I learned the way to swim I guess 'most ev'ry day uster tumble overboard When I'd go near the bay.

'N so they told me, "Learn to swim, Or likely you'll be drowned, 'N some day, washed up on the beach, Your body will be found."

So I commenced to 'n learned to swim,' Just like a silly dunce, For, now I can't git drowned nohow, I ain't fell over once !-Boston Traveller.

Whenever a woodpecker is heard tapping on a tree, it is the deathknell of the larvae of some destructive insect. Yet it is not an uncommon thing to see the very person for whom this bird is industriously at work following with his gun the bird's red head from tree to tree until the opportunity comes from him to send a load of shot into the unsuspecting feathered philanthropist. It is a pet belief among farmers that the woodpecker kills the tree it works on, and that he is working for that very purpose. It is a fact that the common little sapsucker does injure trees, but the woodpecker never does. Quite the contrary. The white breasted nut hatch and the little gray creeper-so generally confounded with the sapsucker-live exclusively on tree insects, yet the nut hatch is in bad repute among many farmers because they believe it kills their bees.

> A GREAT DISCOVERY .- In these days of gunpowder, dynamite, giant powder, and the like, tremendous explosions are no rarity, but the greatest explosion of modern times is, without doubt, that of the "old school" idea that Consumption is incurable. Thousands of lives have been sacrificed to this mistaken notion. Modern research has established the fact that Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs, and that there is one remedy which will positively eradicate it from the system-Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Of course, there were in the olden times many who would have pronounced modern explosives instruments of witchcraft; but there are fortunately, few to-day who do not acknowledge that the "Golden Medical Discovery" is the one sovereign remedy for all scrofulous diseases, and Consumption is one of them,
