Paints.

THE BEST INVESTMENT—in real estate is to keep buildings well painted. Paint protects the house and saves repairs. You sometimes want to sell—many a good house has remained unsold for want of a paint. The rule should be, though, "the best paint or none."

STRICTLY PURE... WHITE LEAD

You cannot afford to use cheap paint. To be sure of getting Strictly Pure White Lead look at the brand; any of these are safe: "ARMSTRONG & McKELVY," "BEYMER-BAUMANN," "DAVIS-CHAMBERS," "FAINVESTOCK." For Color—National Lead & Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors. These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead. A good many thousand dollars have been saved property-owners by having our book on painting and coloring read. Send us a postal card and get both free.

Mamma Eaten This Day.

By the People of Arabia and Persia in Considerable Quantities.

In some of the Eastern countries, notably Arabia and Persia, a mamma answering closely to that mentioned in the Scriptures is still naturally produced in considerable quantity. It comes from the tender branches of the tamarisk, and is known to the Persians by the name of "tamarsk honey." It consists of tear-like drops which exude in consequence of the puncture of an insect, during the month of June and July. In the cool of the morning it is found solidified, and the congealed tears may be shaken from the limbs. That, in fact, is one of the methods of gathering mamma. Herodotus alludes to the same nutritious product, so that there is no doubt it has been known in those regions from the earliest ages. It is easy to see how it might be produced in wonderful quantities without any special manifestation of the supernatural. It is a sweetish substance, pleasant to the taste, and highly nutritive.

Some students of the Bible have supposed the mamma there mentioned to have been a fungous growth; but while the explanation would be a natural one, the modification which it would require is an unnecessary one. There are numerous interesting things, nevertheless, about the various kinds of fungi which modern experimentation has decided to be edible; and not only that, but highly palatable and nutritive. What country boy of an imaginative nature but has frolicked in mimic warfare with imaginary foes, getting the smoke for his artillery and infantry from the numerous "puff balls" which a convenient pasture afforded, while his own lung power furnished the "crash and roar and cheer" for the inspiring contest! Yet science has demonstrated that these very puff-balls were once good to eat—in fact, capable of furnishing the most dainty refreshment.

Improved Passenger Service.

There is now in operation on the Beech Creek Railroad, a most excellent through car service from all points on their line to Philadelphia and intermediate points on the Phila. & Reading Railroad. The through car makes connections in Philadelphia, at the Reading Terminal station, with the famous two-hour train of the Phila. & Reading Railroad, between that city and New York. They also have a similar first class service, returning from Philadelphia; the train leaving the Reading Terminal in that city at 11.30 p. m., with through Pullman Buffet Sleeping car attached to Clefeld.

Going to Philadelphia, this train leaves Mill Hall at 9.52 p. m., arriving at Philadelphia at 7.12 a. m. Returning, the through car arrives at Mill Hall at 8.16. Direct connection is made at Hill Hall, with trains to and from Bellefonte. This through service also opens up another route to Harrisburg. As passengers leaving this city at 8.30 p. m., can reach Harrisburg at 7.00 a. m.

The Beech Creek Railroad also have another very accommodating feature, that will be appreciated by the traveling public. Mileage books issued by that Company, are accepted for passage on the entire Reading System, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad and the Central R. R. of Penn. If issued to each individual, they will be accepted for passage by any member of the holder's family, or when purchased by a firm, the ticket can be used by any member or employee of the firm.

The Progressive Peanut.

It Is a Very Valuable Article of Commerce Over in France.

According to the United States Consul at Marseilles, the democratic and popular peanut, which cheers, but does not inebriate, performs quite a number of valuable roles in thrifty and ingenious France. "The best nuts," he says, "yield about 50 per cent of oil in weight at the first crushing, and from 12 to 13 at the second. The oil is worth in Marseilles from nearly $9 to over $18 per quintal. The oil is largely devoted to the manufacture of white soap. It is also used as food, principally, however, on salads and as one of the constituents of margarine. A third use of the oil is for illumination purposes. It is reported to be a very good illuminating fluid. The crushed meal is used as a food for stock and also for fertilizing. The shells are no market value."

About 300,000,000 pounds of peanuts were imported into France last year from Spain, India, Argentina and South Africa. They sold in the Marseilles market for, from $2.90 to $6.37 per quintal of 22½ pounds. The peanut does not hold up its head as high as wheat or put on as many airs, but its versatility seems to be far greater, and some of our Southern grain-growers might find it profitable to give the lowly 'goober' a little more prominence in their agricultural operations.

Not Surprising.

A young woman, lately returned from Europe, was talking with a friend about her experiences. If she is correctly reported by the Boston Transcript it must be admitted that a foreign tour is not of necessity a liberal education.

She was telling about the wonderful smoothness and pleasantness of the homeward voyage.

"It is a little surprising that you should have had clear weather and and nothing else," remarked her friend, who felt obliged to say something.

"Not at all, answered the young lady. 'I was told that the captain swept the sky with his telescope the first thing every morning.'"

Fortunate for Once.

For once it is fortunate for the Chinese that they have such large territorial possessions. It gives them room to retreat.

Making Men Better.

Man is many sided. It is his strange, complex nature that makes it so difficult to directly help him, and oblige the majority of reformers after various ineffective efforts to give up the attempt.

Contentment a Rare Thing. Contentment with one's lot, the enjoyment to the full of one's privileges, without so striving for other things that one misses the pleasure of the present, is so rare a thing that the simple record of the life of a satisfied man would be taken as a huge joke—an exaggerated romance. I have read of such a man, and he seemed to me more than ordinarily wise. He was bookkeeper in a large business house. One day his employer called him into his private office, and said: "How long have you been with us?" "Twenty-two years," was the answer. "You have been very faithful. And your salary?" "Is quite sufficient, sir," answered the bookkeeper. The employer continued: "This business is getting too much for me; my health is breaking; so I have determined to promote you to a junior partnership, and double your salary. If you do, I'll resign promptly." "Why, man, you must be crazy; this is one of the largest houses in the city." "Pardon me," said the bookkeeper. "I believe you have been in the business 24 years. Your head is gray; your health is broken; you can't sleep; you have no time to give to your family; you are a wreck. It is true you have made large money, but you don't know how to enjoy it. I have been your bookkeeper on a salary that enables me to own my little home, to give my children good education and spend my evenings with them. And now, sir, I absolutely refuse to take your rheumatism and sleeplessness and your worry for a little more money that I don't especially need."

A. Conan Doyle.

The Well Known English Novelist Who is Visiting This Country.

A. Conan Doyle, the English novelist, who is visiting this country, is the son of Charles Doyle, an artist of wide reputation. When a boy of six, the former went to Stonyhurst college and remained there seven years. After studying in Germany, he went to Edinburgh and took a regular course in medicine. But this did not cure of him his literary tendencies, although his first efforts met with but scanty success. Mr. Doyle is famous as the author of "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," "The White Company," "Micheal Clarke," "The Refugees," and many detective tales. His style is vigorous rather than subtle, broad rather than fine. Mr. Doyle is noted not only for his writings, but for his business. He has a well knit athletic body, supported by a pair of powerful legs, and towers an inch above six feet in height. He weighs about 225 pounds, which is all bone and muscle.

The Duke and the Chimney Sweeps.

There is a story told of the Duke of Northumberland, who in spite of his vast wealth, is very unaffected and simple in his life. Whenever he travels on a railway he usually takes a third-class ticket, to the indignation of the railway officials. Upon a day they determined to break him off this frugal habit, and they filled his compartment with sweeps who carried bags of soot. When the Duke arrived at his destination he took the sweeps to the booking office and bought them each a first-class ticket back again, and put one in each first-class carriage sack and all. —Memphis Commercial Appeal.

World's Fair Coins Become Current.

The Chicago souvenir coin of the great World's Fair is to become a current half dollar. It was supposed at one time that these coins would command fancy prices as souvenirs. This expectation was not realized. The whole issue authorized by congress would have been turned over to the World's Fair managers but for their violation of the agreement which has made a condition of gift in respect to opening the fair on Sunday. In consequence of this breach of agreement $1,795,980 in souvenir halves remained in the treasury at the close of the fair. A demand having recently sprung up for them at their face value Secretary Cartle to-day issuing an order to the sub-treasuries directing them to pay out the demand silver coins at the same ratio as the legalized half dollars of the United States, namely at par with gold.

Sheridan's Shoes.

He Put Them on His Desk, but a Friend Removes Them.

A Mexican, an intimate friend of General Sheridan, one day calling on the commander at his office in Washington, found him at his desk, his feet increased in slippers and his shoes demographically placed on top of the desk. While the general was apparently absorbed in some writing the Mexican gentleman, who thought some servant had left the warrior's shoes in the wrong place, gently deposited the shoes on the floor.

The next day the Mexican called on Sheridan and found him at his desk, shoes on top as before. The polite resident of the tropics began once more removing the shoes to the floor, when all at once Sheridan roared out: "Don't do that again, sir! I will make you ridiculous, sir!" "I beg your pardon, general; but how have I made you ridiculous?" "Why, sir," said Sheridan, still annoyed, "yesterday, sir, I went out to walk after you had called on me. I noticed a gentleman looking at me intently. Soon he addressed me, saying, 'Excuse me, general; but aren't you afraid of catching cold?' 'Why, sir, no; not that I am aware of. What is the matter, sir?' 'Well,' said the gentleman, 'it is damp, and you are going about in your slippers.' I tell you, sir, I was near to sneezing his Mexican friend, 'you made me ridiculous.' It is my habit, sir, to put my shoes on my desk, for I cannot fail to see them; so I may not forget to put them on; and, confound it, sir, you come around here with your notions of propriety, and send me around town in my slippers, sir."

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A tooth-ache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. HEART AND LUNGS

TROUBLED WITH A SEVERE COUGH AND OFTEN RAISED BLOOD.

GOOD HEALTH, EAT, SLEEP AND DRINK WELL SINCE TAKING HOOD'S.

During the winter and spring of 1893, I was troubled very much with my heart and lungs, I had a very severe cough and frequently raised blood. I did not think I should live to enjoy the summer season. My husband became completely discouraged. Our family doctor said he could do nothing more. It happened that one of Hood's advertising papers was left at our house, and after reading it I decided to GIVE THE MEDICINE A TRIAL. I felt that Hood's Sarsaparilla would help me and I was willing to give it a trial, for I wanted very much to live to see my daughter grow to womanhood. To satisfy me, my husband, humored me in my belief that Hood's Sarsaparilla would cure me. I had every wish gratified, and I cannot begin to tell all my sufferings. Soon after commencing to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the severe pains left my lungs, and I found rest such as I had never expected. In a short time, I could eat drink and sleep well. My family were very thankful for the medicine which had done me so much good. Since my recovery I have attended to the household duties, and yet do not feel HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA CURES
