THE CLOSING YEAR.

Faster than petals fall on windy days
From ruined roses,
Hope after hope falls fluttering and decays,
Ere the year closes,

For little hopes, that open but to die,
And little pleasures,
Divide the long, sad year, that labors by,
Into short measures.

Yea, let them go! our day-lived hopes are not
The life we cherish;
Love lies, till disappointments are forgot,
And sorrows perish.

On withered boughs, where still the old leaf clings,
New leaves come nearer:
And in the heart, where hope hangs faded, springs
No new endeavor.

Compulsory Education.

It is announced from Harrisburg that at least two gentlemen are ready to introduce bills providing for compulsory education in this commonwealth. This is in line with public expectation. And it is reasonably certain that one of these bills, or a modification thereof, will become law before the roses bloom.

Representative John Farr, of Lackawanna county, who was the author of the act which passed both branches of the legislation at the last session, only to fall beneath the veto of Governor Pattison, has a new one ready. It seems to be a very moderate measure, as it simply provides that each child between the ages of 8 and 12 years must be given at least sixteen weeks instruction annually in the ordinary English branches.

Representative Seyfert has also prepared a bill, somewhat more drastic in its provisions. It makes it the business of the state to provide for the education of every child between the ages of 8 and 15 years, and it makes it the duty of parents of children within the prescribed ages to see that they are under instruction either at home or in a public or private school, for five months in each year.

The Tribune would not favor the adoption of any extreme measure, although it is convinced that the legislature should forthwith provide for the compulsory education of all children of school age, who are capable of receiving instruction. Perhaps the law should not prescribe a longer annual term than sixteen weeks, but we think the age limit in Mr. Fow's bill is too low. Fifteen years, as fixed by Mr. Seyfert, is more reasonable.

Whatever may be the final form of the statue it should provide for its own enforcement. Every real parental right should be zealously guarded. The parent should have full liberty of choice concerning the method of education to be employed. No distinction should be made between the public, the private, the parochial school. Those who preferred to have the education of their children attended to at home should not be interfered with. But the state should provide for such oversight as will make it somebody's specific business to see whether or not the children are actually being educated, and it should provide for the exemplary punishment of those who undertake to violate or evade the law.

As has been said again and again in these columns those who argue that compulsory education arbitrarily interferes with a parental right do not take a proper view of the matter. Parents have fewer rights than responsibilities. The fact that they are responsible for the advent into this world of an immortal spirit should sober them. Unfortunately thousands of fathers and mothers are unfit for parenthood. It is the duty of the state to interfere on behalf of their unfortunate children.

Does the man who sits down to write a jeremiad against compulsory education, as contemplated in this commonwealth, reflect that if his parents had been like the thousands whom it is intended to reach by law, he would be unable to write his article, simply because he would'nt know one letter of the alphabet from another? Would he be willing to surrender his ability to read and write? Suppose his parents had neglected to send him to school, would he not feel that they had done him a grievous wrong? Surely he would be justified therein.

Why, it ought to be clear to everybody that it is the child who is brutally deprived of his right to knowledge by the carelessness, the softness on the mercenary desires of the parent who provides no education. The child is at the mercy of the parent. No matter how much he might yearn for an education, it is possible, under existing laws in this state, to bring him up in absolute ignorance of the alphabet. The result must be very injurious to him. It is also likely to hurt the state, for an ignorant electorate is a constant danger. Both for the child's sake and for its own the state should provide compulsory education.

It is true that mere secular knowledge is not a guarantee of good character. It will be well for the commonwealth to engraft upon its present school system the industrial system. That ought to be done as speedily and as widely as possible. But the ignoramus is always at the mercy of the trained sharper, and at best he walks in darkness that is apt to be fatal to himself and dangerous to the state.—Altoona Tribune.

Scarlet Fever at Beaver.

BEAVER, Pa. Jan. 6.—Owing to the prevalence of scarlet fever in this town the board of education has decided to continue the Christmas vacation of the public schools one week longer, and will not resume to-morrow, as was intended. Several new cases of the fever are reported, and one of the patients has died. Every precaution is being taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

Doubtless.

The Armenian Massacre.

A Letter From a Reliable Source Says That 15,000 Men, Women and Children Were Slaughtered.

A letter just received from a point near the seat of the recent outrages in Eastern Turkey places the number of slaughtered Armenians at fully 15,000. It is written by a man in whom the highest confidence is placed, and portions of the letter are too horrible to repeat.

In part the letter states: "The Armenians, oppressed by Kurds and Turks, said, 'We cannot pay taxes to both the Kurds and the government' Plundered and oppressed by the Kurds they resisted them and some were killed. Then false reports were sent to Constantinople that the Armenians were in rebellion. Orders were sent to the Mushir at Erzengan to exterminate them. The order, read before the army collected in haste from all the chief tribes in Eastern Turkey, was: 'Whoever spares men, women or children is disloyal.' The region was surrounded by soldiers, and 20,000 Kurds are also said to have been massed there. Then they advanced upon the centre, driving in the people like a flock of sheep, and continued thus to advance for days.

"No quarter was given; no mercy shown. Men, women and children were shot down or butchered like sheep. Probably when they were set upon in this way some tried to save their lives and resisted in self-defense. Many were slain. The most probable estimate is 15,000 killed and 35 villages plundered, razed and burned. A priest was taken to the roof of his church and hacked to pieces and the edifice set on fire. A large number of women and girls collected in a church were kept for days, the sport of soldiers, and then murdered. It is said the number was so large that the blood flowed out of the church door.

"The soldiers contended over a beautiful girl they wanted to save, but she too, was killed. As a confirmation of the reports, the other day several hundred soldiers were returning from the seat of war, and one was heard to say that he alone, with his own hand, had killed thirty women."

——It is now estimated that over 100,000,000 bushels of the wheat crop of 1894 will be fed to hogs and other stock by the farmers. Wheat fed to stock is worth to the farmer sixty-five cents per bushel, and on land that will produce twenty bushels to the acre is a more profitable crop than corn. The discoveryof this new way of disyosing of surplus wheat has brought joy to the farmer and grief to the railroad companies, whose tonnage has been reduced by the difference between carrying the raw material in the shape of wheat and the finished product in the shape of fattened swine and beeves.

——The great De Lesseps Panama ditch is said to be a melancholy wreck. The wharves are falling into the water and acres of machinery are rusting to dissolution. On the isthmus are nearly 1,000 miles of steel track with locomotives and thousands of dump carts, now half hidden in the tropical growth. Seventy-six great steam shovels stand stand side by side in the excavation buried in luxuriant vegetation.

——Life is misery to many people who have the taint of scrofula in their blood. The agonies caused by the dreadful running sores and other manifestations of this disease are beyond description. There is no other remedy equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, salt rheum and every form of blood disease. It is reasonably sure to benefit all who give it a fair trial.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

——Ex-Secretary Stephen B. Elkins is probably justified in looking around for a house in Washington to occupy after he is elected United States senator from West Virginia. He will make a suitable addition to the American house of lords. One of the main considerations for election to that body now is wealth, and, as Mr. Elkins has the reputation of being a millionaire, he is duly qualified. There is no doubt of the willingness of the Republican members of the West Virginia legislature to be satisfied with the size of his purse.

——Carlton Cornwell, foreman of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it affected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy, I can recommend to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. P. Green.

——Shopper (at the bargain counter.)—"Are these handkerchiefs all linen?"

Clerk—"They was when they were put there, but I think from the way that you are pulling and handling them that when you leave they will be pretty well wooled."

——That slight cold, of which you think so little, may lead to serious trouble with the lungs. Avoid this result by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the best known remedy for colds, coughs, catarrh, bronchitis, incipient consumption, and all other throat and lung disease.

——"Talk is cheap," observed the man who believes in proverbs.

"Hump!" replied the man who doesn't.

"That remark shows that you never hired a lawyer or rented a telephone."
