Lucifer Match Inventor. It has been generally believed, and we gave the statement some years ago in the Leisure Hour, says the editor, that the invention of lucifer matches was due to Mr. now Sir Isaac Holden. M. P., who still survives as one of the oldest members of Parliament. This was in 1822, as we then said. In boyhood, before that time, a little bottle of phosphorus in a case was the ne plus ultra of invention, and was used instead of the ruder flint and steel with tinder, either for domestic purposes or for the superstitious feasts of schoolboys.

It turns out that the real inventor was John Walker, an apothecary of Stockton, two years earlier, in 1827. In a lecture in the Borough Hall of Stockton on "Methods of obtaining light and fire in all ages and among all nations," Mr. Parrott, the lecturer, exhibited the old shop book of Mr. Walker for lucifer matches, getting light by friction, was sold in April, 1827, to Mr. Hickson, a solicitor, for 1s. 3d. So important is the discovery deemed that an influential committee is formed to erect a statue to John Walker. Sir Isaac Holden is an honorary member of this Stockton committee, stating, when nominated, that he was not aware of the priority of invention. Other claims have been made in France and Germany, but the honor or good fortune certainly belongs to John Walker, who died in May, 1859, aged 52. It was the beginning of a most wonderful movement in history, art and commerce. Think of the superstitious awe with which not in Jerusalem alone, but throughout the nations who are ignorant of the invention, is hailed the "miraculous" light obtained from lucifer matches! How vast the wealth derived among civilized races from the manufacture of "safety matches" of all kinds! A memorial plate has meanwhile been fixed on the site of Mr. Walker's old shop in the High Street of Stockton.

Tea and Coffee Culture in Hawaii.

It is not generally known that the cultivation of tea and coffee in Hawaii is rapidly becoming a matter of importance to our American markets. Fine qualities of tea and coffee are being grown successfully and it may be expected in the near future that these islands will become an important source of supply. Both tea and coffee grow luxuriantly and both, it is noteworthy, are being prepared almost entirely by machinery, instead of by hand. This it is thought will compensate for the low wages paid to the pickers and other tea workers in China and enable Hawaii to rival the Chinese market prices. The tea, for example, is picked by machine, which gathers only the young and tender leaves and never makes the mistake of picking the tough leaves, however thick they may be. Next the leaves are withered, rolled and then packed without being touched by any hand.

In preparing the coffee berry for market there are also a number of ingenious and efficient machines which do the work much more cheaply and in a more uniform manner than it could be done by hand. The disk pulper and the Gordon pulper are principally used. Several of the Hawaiian coffee planters have erected extensive drying houses and a large crop this year may be readily prepared for market. The coffee plant grows luxuriantly on the island in almost every soil. Wild coffee has even been planted among the highlands and in the forests, in some cases at an elevation of over 2,000 feet, and gives an abundant crop. It is reported that this year a number of people are applying for land with the intention of raising tea and coffee and several large plantations are being equipped.

The Hot Wind.

Is Blizz for Weeks in Nebraska and Caused This Winter's Dearth. "The hot winds which cooked the crops of Kansas and Nebraska this summer," said the man from Iowa to a New York "Mail and Express" reporter "whisked over into our State one afternoon. From 1 o'clock until sundown a horrible oven heat had billowed down the streets of my village. The people closed the blinds and retreated to their cellars, but the scorching desert breath found them out through the stone walls and mortar.

"When I went outside I felt a stinging in my ears. My watch burned its way through my vest pocket like a brand. I could see the paint blisters rise on the weather boarding of the house and hear the rust rattling on the sheet iron roofs. The leaves of the few shade trees curled up and grew brown at the edges. But the corn on the outskirts of the town was a sight! It made me think of the seven blasted ears of Joseph's dream.

"That afternoon our chickens left the garden and came down and sat around the well curb. Only the turkeys could brave the heat and a battalion of them which was gleaming over in the hayfield reaped a fat harvest. The wind seemed to make the grasshoppers dizzy and listless, and they fell an easy prey to the platoon of hungry fowls.

"A cool breeze sprang up that night, and the next morning a dew was on the corn, so heavy that when it had dropped of the blades the ground underneath was fairly muddy. That saved our corn crop. In Kansas and Nebraska the hot wind kept up for weeks."

Salt, Tobacco and Postage Stamps.

Wherever one goes to Italy, whether through busy city thoroughfare, to quiet mountain hamlet, or along country highway, he is sure to see some shop which bears the notice, "Salt, Tobacco and Postage Stamps." This queer combination is explained when one learns that these three articles are revenue specialties that can be sold publicly by the holders of Government licenses only.

Europe's Finances.

Bankruptcy Was Thought to Threaten Several Nations Not Long Ago.

A dozen years ago it was freely prophesied on all sides that half the nations of Europe would find it impossible to support the tremendous strain of the game of international bluff which, in its more modern phases at any rate, arose out of the Franco-German war of 1870 and 1871. France, recovering with marvelous rapidity from what appeared at the time, and was doubtless intended to be, a crushing military and financial disaster, began to increase her armaments upon a scale before unparalleled; Germany, of course, had to follow suit, and what France and Germany did, Russia, Austria-Hungary, and Italy considered themselves bound to do also. Thus it was that France set the fashion of the huge ornaments which everybody said could not be borne for many years without nations either falling into bankruptcy or rushing into war.

So far events have entirely falsified the forecast. The arrangements are bigger and more costly than ever, and not only do the nations—with one exception—seem to be still at a safe distance from bankruptcy, but they appear to bear their enormous burdens more easily than they did a quarter of a century ago. The exception is Italy, which, curiously enough, is also the power which should decrease, at any rate her military, if not her naval strength, with the least danger to herself. With a population of about 32,000,000, Italy has funded and unfunded debts to the enormous total of £450,000,000, bearing an interest of £24,000,000 a year, and she spends over £16,000,000 a year on her army and navy, her total expenditure being about £75,000,000.

This gigantic debt, against which Italy struggles more pluckily than successfully, it really the weak link in the European "armor of peace," since a nation invariably chooses war rather than bankruptcy. Italy, in desperation, must strike the spark that would set Europe in a blaze, but, strange as it may appear, the other great powers appear to be bearing their colossal burdens more and more easily as time goes by. France, up to her ears in debt spends more on her army than any other nation save Britain, and almost as much on her navy as we do on ours. In addition to this, she flings her money away on all sorts of national luxuries, such as colonial enterprises, which nevertheless are no less costly. The interest on her debt is over £30,000,000 a year, and the debt goes on increasing, yet most of it is owed to herself, and in the stockings of her peasants, and France is anywhere but on the road to the bankruptcy court.

"Switch Annie Married."

MILWAUKEE, Wis., February 3.—Annie P. Grandtner, better known in railroad circles as "Switch Annie" is a bride. She was married on January 25 to Charles F. Green a yard foreman in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.

"Switch Annie is one of the most unique characters in the west. For years she enjoyed the reputation of being the only regularly employed woman switch tender in the country. She was in the service of the St. Paul road for about fifteen years and had charge of a set of the most complicated switches on the system, but never had an accident happen near her post of duty. She became a switch thrower by fate, succeeding to the position of her father, who was killed near the switches she tended. When a child she assisted her father at his work, and being left without means of support at his death she applied to the St. Paul company for work and was placed in charge of the switches. She is now about 32 years of age.

"Old Jennie," the camel that recently died at the Central Park N. Y., Menagerie recently, was fully 90 years old. She was imported from Central Asia by Hagenbeck for P. T. Barnum early in the fifties. Every summer since her arrival she had made a tour of the United States, and had been in nearly 10,000 street parades. This fact entitles "Old Jennie" to an obituary.

Remarkable Tremors.

On the Night of the Grecian Earthquake Shocks Were Felt Far Away.

Two very remarkable occurrences are connected with the earthquakes that destroyed a large portion of Thebes, in Greece, on the night of April 27 the year before last. At Birmingham a delicate pendulum, suspended for the purpose of recording earth tremors, exhibited marked disturbance about four minutes after the principal shock occurred at Thebes. The observers at Birmingham attributed the disturbance of their pendulum to the transference of the shock across Europe from Greece to England, the rate at which it traveled being about 110 miles a minute.

On the same night Dr. Gill, the British astronomer at the Cape of Good Hope, observed extraordinary undulations in the surface of the mercury was using to detect errors of level and which continued during half an hour. Dr. Gill thinks that these, like the tremors noticed at Birmingham, may have originated in the same disturbance of the earth's crust that produced the disaster at Thebes. Apparently, however, if the undulations were conveyed all the way from Greece to the southern end of Africa they came from a different shock from that which manifested its effects at Birmingham, for the undulations were noticed by Dr. Gill before that particular shock had been felt at Thebes.

These are by no means the first instances in which perceptible effects from earthquakes have been noticed hundreds and even thousands of miles from the focus of the shocks.

Table of Proportions.

- One teaspoonful salt to a quart soup. One teaspoonful salt to two quarts flour. One teaspoonful extract to a plain loaf cake. One teaspoonful soda to a pint sour milk. One teaspoonful soda to a cupful of molasses. Three teaspoonfuls baking powder to a quart flour. One scant cupful of liquid to a full cupful of flour for batters. One scant cupful of liquid to three full cupfuls of flour for bread. One scant cupful of liquid to two full cupfuls of flour for mince. One quart of water to each pound of meat and bone for soup stock. One-half cupful of yeast or one-fourth cake compressed yeast to a pint liquid. Four peppercorns, four cloves, a teaspoonful mixed herbs for each quart of water for soup stock.—New York Journal.

Now It's Different.

Why a Pretty Young Typewriter Married Her Employer. A very pretty young girl was sitting in a Colerain Avenue car the other day. At a corner there jumped in a young man, evidently a bill collector on his rounds. "Why, Nellie!" said he, "where have you been so long?" "Hiboo!" said Nellie demurely. "Thought you was hammering same old typewriter for Plunk & Plunk." "Well, I ain't." "What are you doing?" "I'm married." "Married!" exclaimed the youth. "Gee whiz! Who'd you marry?" "Mr. Horace Plunk." "The face of the youth grew blank. "I can't see what you married him for." Nellie blushed and then dimpled into an amused smile. "I got tired having him dictate to me,"—Cincinnati Tribune.

He Hears With his Fingers.

James, the 10 year old son of John Hartman, a farmer south of this city, had spinal meningitis one year ago and was left practically deaf. Several months ago he happened to place his hand on his mother's throat while she was talking and found he could understand everything she said. He experimented with others and found that the sense of touch in his case would make up for the deficiency in hearing. He cultivated it and now is able to hold conversation by placing his hand upon the throat of those he is talking with. He places the ball of the fingers upon the larynx and understands perfectly.—Anderson (Ind.) Dispatch.

Earthquakes in Mexico.

St. Louis, Jan. 31.—A special from the city of Mexico says that since the great earthquake shock of Nov. 22, 1894, which caused the loss of fifteen lives in that city and destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of property, a reign of terror has prevailed in the towns of Jamiltepec and Tuxtepec in the State of Oaxaca, where there are from six to eight small shocks a day. The church and houses are a heap of ruins, and the inhabitants have nearly all fled to neighboring hamlets. On Tuesday night between 8:45 and 9 o'clock earthquake shocks were felt in many places in the State of Oaxaca.

Now Is the Time.

The benefit to be derived from a good medicine in early spring is undoubted, but many people neglect taking any until the approach of warmer weather, when they will like a tender flower in a hot sun. Something must be done to purify the blood, overcome that tired feeling and give necessary strength. Vacation is earnestly longed for, but many weeks, perhaps months, must elapse before rest can be indulged in. To impart strength and to give a feeling of health and vigor throughout the system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems perfectly adapted to overcome that prostration caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system it purifies and renovates the blood.

"THERE IS DANGER IN DELAY."—Since 1891 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I had long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, Late Major U. S. Vol. and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ely's Cream Balm has completely cured me of catarrh when everything else failed. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Alfred W. Stevens, Caldwell, Ohio. Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

A Des Moines woman who has been troubled with frequent colds, concluded to try an old remedy in a new way, and accordingly took a table-spoonful (four times the usual dose) of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy just before going to bed. The next morning she found that her cold had almost entirely disappeared. During the day she took a few doses of the remedy (one teaspoonful at a time) and at night again took a table-spoonful before going to bed, and on the following morning awoke free from all symptoms of the cold. Since then she has, on several occasions, used this remedy in like manner, with the same good results, and is much elated over her discovery of so quick a way of curing a cold. For sale by F. P. SCROFULA IN THE EYES.

TROUBLED WITH CHOKING SPELLS AND NIGHT SWEATS. DYSPEPSIA AND OTHER AILMENTS CURED BY HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

"I have been troubled with scrofula in the eyes, and had tried several physicians but found no cure. My wife, seeing an advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the newspaper, persuaded me to try it. I had a choking in my breast and was troubled with night sweats; I ALSO HAD DYSPEPSIA in a very severe form. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla two weeks, I noted that I was not bothered with the choking spells. The perspiration became less and I was not troubled so severely with dyspepsia. I have now taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and find that I am relieved entirely. There has not been any return of my trouble since I first commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA CURES I advise any one who is troubled similarly to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. I shall never be without it as long as I can keep a supply with me. I shall do all I can to make known its medicinal merits." WILLIAM L. FAYNE, Berryville, Virginia.
