Peanut Politics and Business

We hear a good deal these days about peanut politics, but as the people have had a surfeit lately of all kinds of the latter article something about peanut business will probably prove more in their line of interest just now. The national Department of Agriculture issues quite a number of documents, some of a fearful and wonderful character walking dictionary and encyclopedia and which it requires a man to be a combined to get the best of, but it got right down to the plain people when it sent forth its bulletin about the ever-popular and omnipresent peanut. From this document we glean that there are 88,000,000 pounds of this delightful companion of man's hours of idleness and pleasure produced annually in these great United States. At the same time 400,000,000 pounds are shipped from Asia to Europe, while 100,000,000 more pounds are produced in other localities. While other countries surpass us in production, yet America is the true empire of the peanut, for here we eat 7-10 of the product, valued at $10,000,000 and devote only 3-10 to less noble purposes than man's pleasure, and abroad most of the supply is used for the manufacture of olive oil and soap, the balance going to fatten cattle, sheep and hogs. This probably explains the reason why, while our people are so confessedly superior to those of Europe, the latter turns out varieties of hogs, etc. which we do not equal.

The peanut, we are further informed, contains three times as much nutritive matter as an equal weight of veal, beef, peas, potatoes, rye, flour or rice. Certainly the extra amount of chewing it takes prepares one to believe this statement, which will be gratifying news to many who will learn that while they have thought they were simply amusing themselves by disposing inwardly of the kernels and outwardly of the shucks they have in reality been nourishing their constitutions into the healthful energetic vigor so characteristic of the Yankee make-up. Hereafter we cannot fail to look with greater respect upon the festive peanut when we know it is not only the solace of our lighter hours, but one of the mainstays of our physical being and capable if need be of constituting an entire bill of wholesome fare for the most hungry at a price within reach of all.

Elastic Hotel Bills.

How Drummers May Beat a Tattoo on Their Employers' Bank Account.

"How much shall I make out your bill for?" inquired the country hotel clerk, as the guest was leaving.

"Make it out for what I owe," replied the man, a little surprised.

"The bill is $6," continued the clerk, with an ingratiating smile, "but I'd just as soon make it out for $9 or $10. It's all the same to us."

"Perhaps it is," the puzzled guest exclaimed, "but it isn't to me. Why should I pay $9 or $10 when my bill is $6?"

"Aren't you a drummer?" the clerk suddenly demanded.

"Certainly not." There was a pause, and then the guest suddenly demanded:—

"What's all this business about fake bills, anyway?"

"We always make out bills to suit for drummers," explained the clerk, "so's they can come out even on their expense accounts. A traveling man who pays us $6 can get a receipt for $10 if he likes, and when he settles with his employer he shows them the receipted bill and pockets the difference. I thought you were a drummer."

"I'm not," replied the guest, "but I know a good many drummers. In fact, I employ about a hundred, and I notice that when they come to this town they always stop at this hotel. I observe, also, that it's a $2 joint and that I'm always charged $3.50. Never mind, though, I'll lay for the next man who stops here."

And as he went out the clerk looked as if he thought he had put his foot right in it and the foot was held there.

Killing the Wrong Birds.

Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller, an intelligent New York woman whose studies of birds and bird life have made her an authority on the subject, declared in a "talk" a few days ago that certain species of birds which farmers delight in killing are really their best friends in destroying cankerworms and other insects which, if not kept in check, would impair the fruit and other crops.

The moral of Mrs. Miller's observation is that much of the legislation enacted in deference to the wishes or supposed interests of the farmers has been a cruel and costly blunder. While this is undoubtedly true, there is equal room for the opinion that feminine vanity has been as much to blame as agricultural ignorance for the ruthless destruction of the feathered benefactors. Be this as it may, however, Mrs. Miller is doing good service to the farmers now in vindicating the character of the slandered and slaughtered birds; and the service might be rendered more effective if she could be induced to extend her "bird talks" to some of the Legislatures.

For the lover of the sailor hat there is shown a hat which will not find much favor with women in general. The crown is sort of a stove pipe arrangement, being 6 inches high, while the brim is not more than 2 or 2½ inches wide. They are shown in black, brown and blue, but are not the least bit pretentious, and unless the good dame finds another, sailor hats will not be worn this year as they have been previous years.

Mexico and Guatemala have ceased to shake their fists at each other and are now shaking hands across the boundary line. This is the neighborly way of settling a fence quarrel, and is much more satisfactory than calling on a third neighbor to act as a mutual friend.

The Largest Fresh Water Lake.

Is Lake Superior the largest fresh water lake in the world? Most geographers and other people certainly believe it is, and almost every authoritative book says so. There are a very few geographers, however, who say they do not know, and think the question had better be kept open until we have more exact knowledge of Victoria Nyanza, the largest African lake. The celebrated geographer Reclus seems, prematurely, to have awarded the first place to the Nyanza, for he computes its area at 83,900 square kilometres, while he gives the area of Lake Superior at 81,000.

Several of our best sources of information agree in giving the area of Lake Superior at 81,200 square miles, and of Victoria Nyanza at about 30,000 square miles. The fact is that these great lakes are nearly equal in size, and we cannot tell exactly how they compare, because our information about Victoria Nyanza is still very imperfect.

About two years ago Dr. Baumann discovered, on the southeast coast of the lake, a deep bay that no one had heard of before, and which is just beginning to appear on the maps. He was five days walking around the shores of this indentation, which is now known as Baumann Gulf. A while before this discovery, Father Schynze surveyed the southwest prolongation of the lake, which M. Stanley did not discover during his voyage of eighty days around its shores. These two discoveries have added many square miles which are not included in the estimates here given of the lake's area; and the shores of the lake are still so inadequately explored and surveyed that hundreds of square miles are likely yet to be added to or subtracted from our present computations of the area. Meanwhile Lake Chad, on the edge of the Sahara, may continue to stand off at the one side and smile at the pretensions of both these rivals for first place. In the rainy season this lake loses all semblance of its former self and spreads over a vast area, until it covers more ground than the vaunted Lake Superior itself. It is spread over very thin, to be sure; but it is all Lake Chad, and if its outlines, when at their largest, were correctly mapped, the lake would look very imposing; but Chad, on these occasions, like beauty, is only skin deep.

A Remarkable Capture.

On a recent Sunday afternoon while Messrs. David Keogh and Andrew Yeckley, of Gallitzin, were crossing Luke mountain, near Lloydsville, they were attacked by a huge female bear. The two men, although taken by surprise, made a brave fight, well knowing their lives were at stake, and finally succeeded in gaining the mastery. It was a desperate struggle as the torn clothes and lacerated flesh well testified. The bear was of extraordinary size, and upon examination it was found that the ears of the bear was marked in a peculiar manner, the right one being branded with a V and the left having three holes punctured in it. They paid no particular attention to this, and, after binding up each other's wounds as well as they could, were about to resume their interrupted journey, when they heard a muffled growling issuing from a neighboring thicket. They at once determined to investigate and proceeded with extreme caution toward the spot from which the subdued sounds emanated. A few steps more and lying on the ground all huddled together, they saw four little cubs. They were as playful as kittens, and at the risk of securing a few slight scratches were picked up and taken home.

Saturday a telegram came from Geneva, Ohio, from a representative of Walter L. Main's show. He had heard of the capture and the marks found on the ears of the mother bear were identical with those of the huge grizzly that escaped from the wreck at Vai, near Tyrore, in May, 1893. It will be remembered that at the time of this wreck among the animals that escaped was this large bear.—Ebensburg Herald.

"Blixton has spent a fortune on his daughter's voice."

"Yes, but he's repaid for it all."

"You have heard, her then?"

"No, she has lost her voice entirely."

"Wiggles—'Where did you get your cold?'"

"Waggles—'What difference does that make? What I want to know is where I am going to get rid of it.'"

"Don't the soprano have a better showing than any one else in the choir?" asked Fitzgozber. "I don't know," mused Philgitt; "they all have the same chants, it seems to me."

Experience Teaches.

A young man who was ambitious to get an education, but lacked the money to pay his expenses in college consulted the late Judge—as to what course he had better adopt.

The judge had once been in the same predicament and had undergone many hardships while fitting himself for the eminent position he occupied, consequently he was speaking from experience when replying to his young friend's inquiries.

"Would you advise me to go into debt to get an education the young man asked.

"Well that depends on the line of conduct you are disposed to pursue. Would you honestly pay back every cent of money you borrowed to pay for your education?"

"Certainly I would do that even if I had to work as a hodcarrier to earn the money."

"Then I would advise you to borrow the money."

"What course would you advise me to take in college?"

"Oh, that is a matter of indifference."

"I beg pardon."

"It really doesn't matter what course you take in college. If you go into debt to get an education you will get the chief part of it while struggling to get out of it again."

The free fight that occurred in the Nebraska Senate will not increase the respect in which Legislatures are held by the people. The disturbance was precipitated by a Senator refusing to obey the rules of the Senate and attacking the sergeant-at-arms when carrying out the instructions of the presiding officer. It is not an edifying sight to see a man elected to help make laws for a State thrown to the floor and part of his patriarchal beard torn out before he is brought to a frame of mind subdued enough to behave himself. That the man is a Populist in politics is natural enough and that his Populist colleagues should rush to his rescue is easily understood also. Nevertheless the affair is a shame to Nebraska, which is growing old enough as a State to be beyond such Legislative rows. But the affair in the Indiana Legislature shows that wisdom does not always come with age.

The man who said "Let me write the headlines and I care not who writes the editorials" was pretty well posted on the general powers and influence of a newspaper. A few little black letters at the top can make the most passive article appear as aggressive as a bull dog, and a fierce editorial, bristling all over with two-edged thrusts can have the cutting and stinging taken out of it by the funny man who adjusts the caput on the article to which it refers. In fact, in these busy times, a great many newspaper readers content themselves with a perusal of the headlines only, which are supposed to embody the chief points in the matter to which they are attached, and therefore it is from the headlines that their chief impressions are derived.

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they know. Jonathan Kenison of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a poor German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine and to his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by F. P. Green.

The Chicago Herald gives credit to women intellectually more than to any other great newspaper in America. The gifted Mrs. Margaret Sullivan is one of its editorial writers, and its New York correspondent is a woman, too, Mrs. Edith Sessions Tupper. May every one of the Chicago Herald's owners become millionaires from the earnings of that paper.

Spring time is when nearly everyone feels the need of some blood purifying, strength invigorating and health producing medicine. The real merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the reason of its widespread popularity. Its unequalled success is its best recommendation. The whole system is susceptible to the most good from a medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla taken at this time, and we would lay special stress upon the time and remedy, for history has it recorded that delays are dangerous. The remarkable success achieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla and the many words of praise it has received, make it worthy of your confidence. We ask you to give this medicine a trial.

"NOTHING VENTURE, NOTHING HAVE."—Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mon., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement, "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mon.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and is worth its weight in gold. I can use Ely's Cream Balm with safety and it does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

A skiff containing five men was overturned in the Monongahela river, at Pittsburg, and John Brotia and Thomas Grogan were drowned.

The gloomy fears and the weariness of soul, of which so many complain, would disappear if the blood were made more healthy before it reaches the brain. Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies and vitalizes the blood, and thus conduces to health of body and mind.

An Argument.

Mamma—"Now, Andrew, you mustn't eat that candy, because it will destroy your appetite for dinner."

Andrew—"I don't think so, mamma."

"Why don't you think so, dear?"

"Because, mamma, I haven't got a bit of appetite just now."

—Mrs. Sniffwell—"Why, Bridget, you have been eating onions!"

Bridget—"Shure, mum, you're a moind-reader."

Medical.

It is a necessity because the tonic of winter air is gone, and milder weather, increased moisture, accumulated impurities in the blood and debilitated condition of the body, open the way for that tired feeling, nervous troubles, and other ills. The skin, mucous membrane and the various organs strive in vain to relieve the impure current of life. They all welcome HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

"A year ago last spring I had a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism which confined me to my bed for six weeks.
