Then come mahogany corner cheval wardrobes, mahogany bureaus, mahogany easy chairs, mahogany bed room chairs, mahogany rocking chairs, mahogany tables, mahogany clothes poles, mahogany dress-ing tables, mahogany three-fold dress-ing glass—wherein the guest sees himself three ways at once and no questions asked—mahogany chiffonier, and much more, but all inmahogany.

A MOORISH STUDY.

After dismissing Louis XV. Custodian Delaney substitutes a Moorish study in his list, and curtains galore, in all the bursting importance of Morocco and Singapore yellow, hang everywhere tractors get through. Here's a bay window curtain at $385 with an over drapery at $445, the drapery very rakish as a study in things Moorish, the curtains rather Louis Quinze in their damask fringe. The farmers will be delighted with Custodian Delaney's suggestions on curtains and draperies, just as delighted as the Governor is with his owledge of Moorish studies. Then one tumbles over other curtains in rich nfusion, for the Custodian has been prodigal in window curtains as the proprietor of a Turkish harem would be. Portieres; cushions, pillows, lambra quins, Conla silk mohair rugs, Hyderabad druggets, Smyrna rugs, Angora mats—this list is like the contents of some overworked country store.

The Wilton carpets come $2.25 and emount to 695 yards. That show what a nice big house the Governor's mansion has grown to be since Pattison left it, when 235 yards were enough, and not Wilton, either. It requires twelve Grand Rapids sweepers at $4.50 each to keep them cleanly looking, if not clean, as the Governor's receptions will grow larger in a Presidential year.

THE GOVERNOR'S LIBRARY. What these deputations and conferences will arrive at by way of opinion on the new library Custodian Delaney intends to provide the Governor with is, as a matter of fact, unknown. The members in the coming and anticipated dep-wealth, the American Statesmen's series McMaster's History of the People of the United States and Green's History of the English People. Having been in Oklahoma, naturally enough Custodian Delaney appreciates Guizot's France, so he includes that, and along with Bea-conlights of History and Freeman's Great Britain and Greater Greece they take up an attractive nook on the Moorish book shelves. There are other volumes-Nicolay's Lincoln, the Memoir Grant, Sherman and Sheridan : Shakespeare, in undressed sheep, something quite new; Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, Coates' Encyclopædia, Appleton's Encyclopæedia of American Biography and Gopsill's Philadelphia Directory, marble edge. The library is a venture, of course, and while other Governors were never so favored the present Governor will doubtless be happy over the acquirement. THE SILVERWARE.

Where so many things figure, as they necessarily must in the proper furnishing of the Executive Mansion in Custodian Delaney's view, the item of silver for the dining room appears small, but to provide the proper sets of spoons, sagar holders, butter dishes, berry lowls, cutlery, pitchers, and so on, an expenditure of $596.50 will be made, and the articles are solid silver, not

This silver will be used in a dining room furnished in cherry, as that wood is near enough to mahogany to pass like it and yet be bright and cheerful. A cherry extension table at $150, another at $100, a cherry china closet, 5 feet 11 inches by 4 feet 11 inches, at $200; cherry window grilles, and cherry arched grilles, make a perfect peach of a dining room, as all future banqueters will concede. Two magnificent chime clocks, that play tunes, display dates, and run chronometers, are among the telling features of the mansion. The new Governor's mansion promises a revelation in the beautiful before Custodian Delaney gets through that will surprise the State, and the Executive Building, on Capitol Hill, will in like manner become luxurious and profuse in oriental grandeur. Mr. Delaney's contract system is yet to be told about. This narrative is even more entertaining than the bill of particulars on the Governor's residence, and the award of contracts and successful bidders is for future chapters .- from Phila. Times.

"Do you love me?" said the paper oag to the sugar. "I'm wrapped up in you," replied the sugar.

"You sweet thing !" murmured the paper bag.

bers in the coming and anticipated deputations may read or may not read. They may have an interest in the $200 cabinet or they may not. All literature is not under key and Custodian Delaney appreciates the matter so well that for the first time in the history of the State—a State that has had twenty-one separate and distinct Governors—a library is to be provided at an expense of $600, a sum modest enough in itself when the character of the selections is known.

These selections are subject to change, but as the list stands at present with Porter & Coates, which firm has the contract to furnish this new State library, the Governor may enjoy what Custodian Delaney puts on the shelves for his pleasure and profit. For instance Bulwer's works in forty volumes, at $80 are about equal with Fennimore Coops.
