The Winds of Destiny.
 The young man who wants to make a success out of life needs simply to keep his eyes open as he journeys to discover certain truths. These truths if properly acted upon and utilized at the favorable moment will bring prosperity.
 One thing that we learn in life is this: While the work has a great many places, some of them exceedingly valuable, they all seem to be filled. There doesn't appear to be any vacancy, and the new comer wonders where he is going to obtain a foothold. But after a little while he discovers that nothing human is permanent. Change is the order of the day. Every day men die and somebody must step into the places they have left vacant. Or others become disabled by disease or enticed by age to such an extent that they can no longer do the work. Then, again, increase of population multiplies places.
 There is a gradual but certain advance all along the line. When one man who has been occupying a good place falls by the wayside, the next best qualified is usually given his place, while the man whose foot is on the first rung of the ladder advances a step. That is to say, he advances if he is qualified, but not otherwise. This is an important thought to keep in mind.
 Whatever may be true in physical life, it is unquestionably the fact in the business realm that the law of the survival of the fittest obtains. The man who wants an assistant is going to hire the very best man he can obtain for the price he is willing to pay. He wants no ignorant, no dullard, no slothful, but an active, energetic, intelligent helper who will take a genuine interest in the business.
 The world has a great many young men who are going to fail of success because they are unwilling to pay the price. They want to succeed, but are too lazy to put forth an effort in the right direction. They are all the time looking for jobs and never finding them while their quiet neighbor are hard at work. And they add to lowness by whining about their "bad luck" and all that, when they alone are the architects of their own ill fortune. —Tribune.

Street Car Politeness.
 A friend of mine was in a cable-car the other day. After taking his seat he presently began to be very uncomfortable. He tried to get up, but was amused at him, glances were leveled in his direction, girls giggled, elderly ladies drew their faces into a pucker, and the atmosphere of the place was as electric as the fluid which sent the car through space. After a short interval the puzzled gentleman discovered that it was not he who was the object of mirth to his comrades on the road, but a poor shy, blushing, tearful, trembling, frightened girl who was sitting by his side. She, poor child, was dressed in an oute fashion, which did not please the set of people in that conveyance, and, evidently, she had met with an accident, for her clothing was tumbled and torn, her face was bruised and cut, and one hand had been wrenched and seemed to be paining her very much. I can imagine nothing more brutally ill-treated and rudely ignorant and unfeeling than the behavior of those silly girls and boys, and still more silly grown up people in the car. Can you? The worst laughing at a child who had met with an accident on her wheel! One of the first rules to be adopted by a thoroughly polite person is this: Never show surprise, except of the genuinely gracious kind, the kind that expresses cordial interest and pleasure. Never laugh at an awkward predicament, at, for example, a fall, or a mistake made by another. Be careful never to pain any one, friend or stranger, by ridicule, or by thoughtlessly plain speaking. —From Harper's Round Table.

Sentenced by Justice Jerome.
 The Carter Medicine Company has been engaged for the last month in running down a gang in this city who have been making and selling a counterfeit of its trademark "Carter's Little Liver Pills." Notices have appeared of several arrests while the company has made. For a week past one of these cases has been on trial in the Court of Special Sessions, before Justice Jerome, Jacob and Hayes. The prisoner was Thomas B. Hughes, at No. 281 Tenth avenue. On Wednesday the prisoner was found guilty and sentenced to the month in the penitentiary. In delivering the sentence of the court, Presiding Justice Jerome said: "Hughes, the Court after a long and careful trial, has come reluctantly to the conclusion that you are a guilty man. The whole value of many of these articles lies in the trademark. Thousands and hundreds of thousands take these pills, and in placing them before the public. If the public cannot rely upon these articles, then a fraud is being practised upon them, and upon the proprietary rights of those persons who own trademarks. New York is a great commercial city and trademarks are as important to this city as integrity is to a coiner. This is a class of cases which this Court does not look upon with any leniency at all. The sentence of the Court is that you be confined in the penitentiary for a term of three months."
 The Justice also intimated that but for the prisoner's previous record and the fact that he had been in jail for some time the sentence would have been much heavier.

—What an immensity the post office business of the country has become. It is stated that the people of the United States use on an average 12,000,000 postage stamps of all kinds each and every day of the year, or a total of about 4,800,000,000 per annum. Such figures make it almost difficult to grasp the magnitude of the postal service.

Forests and Rainfall.
 Anything that Prof. J. T. Rothrock says is very interesting to the people of Pennsylvania who know him so well and esteem him so highly, not only for his qualifications as a man but also for his unquestioned genius as a philosopher. Quite recently he delivered an address before the Connecticut State Board of Agriculture on "A Century of American Lumbering," in which he advanced some new ideas which are worth presenting. They are at war with certain old-time theories and this is what attracts attention. The WATCHMAN regrets that it has not the space to give the full report. It can only offer the opening portion of the address, which is local in its significance as well as instructive.
 Prof. Rothrock said: "I do not believe that our forests add a particle to the rainfall of the country. Let me be very plain on this point. If they do not have been proven. I do know this, that I make the statement on the basis of statistics taken from the largest engineering experience in this country and in the Old World that four-fifths of the water which falls in a forest area is taken up by the ground, and that four-fifths of the water that falls on a cleared area runs off, I am taking the largest average, and am not talking about a particular area. Taking the average over the whole country, and from engineering statistics derived from the Old World, the above statements are verified.
 "When we remove the forests from the hillsides we do not simply deprive ourselves of the lumber, which is bad enough, but other serious consequences follow. Now these facts can be seen in a thing. In the first place, if four-fifths of the water that falls in a heavy shower runs off the ground, you will have a freshet. I had a remarkable illustration of this during the past year. I was traveling through a county that had been cleared. The river was more than half full, and in order to cross I had to pass in one place for nearly a mile where the water was four feet deep. It had been raining for two days. I passed through the town of Wilks-Barre into the mountain beyond and came to a region from which the trees had been cleared, but on which there was a dense growth of underbrush. It rained for three days more, and when I turned to retrace my steps I expected to find the roads impassable. They were not, however, and I found that I was able to get along without any serious difficulty. In the one case I had gone through a valley, where the water had been pouring down from the naked hillsides and had turned the North branch of the Susquehanna river into a raging torrent. In the other I had been in a woodland, where the ground had taken up the rain.
 The Dandelion.
 The dandelion belongs to the largest, oldest and most widely diffused order of plants. While other orders of plants have died out and become mere fossils remains in the rocks this order has survived the geological changes of many different periods on account of its power of adapting itself to those changes. And those changes in their turn have only made it better suited for all the varied soils and climates of the earth at the present day.
 We find members of this order in every part of the globe, in places as far apart from each other as they can be. It is the prevailing and dominant order of vegetable life, the most highly finished and the most successful family of plants. And the dandelion is one of the most perfect forms belonging to it. It is the head and crown of the vegetable kingdom, as man is the head and crown of the animal creation, and it is curious how the highest type of plant always is found only where man, the highest type of animal life is found, and where he dwells or cultivates the soil. It is never found apart from him. It follows him wherever he goes—to America, Australia and New Zealand, and there in the new home he becomes a silent but eloquent reminder of the dear old land he may never see again. —New York Times.

A Catskill Hotel Man.
 (From Catskill N. R., Recorder.)
 Mr. Joseph McGiffert, one of our prominent hotel proprietors, has reason to extol the merits of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. In speaking of it he said: "I was all run down from kidney and liver trouble, three physicians treated me but I grew worse. A friend said to me, 'Why don't you take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy?' It cured me." So I began its use the result was I gained daily, and in a little while I was sound and well again. I suppose I have recommended it to a hundred or more of my summer boarders, and in every instance it has done them good."

On last Sunday General Schofield retired from the command of the United States Army by reason of having reached the age limit of sixty-four years. General Schofield is one of the last survivors of the great commanders who won fame on the battle fields of the war of the rebellion. He was an active participant in the siege of Vicksburg, the capture of Atlanta, the battle of Nashville and the March of Sherman to the Sea. General Nelson A. Miles, the renowned Indian fighter, will succeed to the command of the army.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers recently performed a great deed of charity, although it was not designed as a charity being nothing more nor less than an advertising scheme. It however resulted in great good just the same. They gave away 1,000 bottles of their Digestive Cordial to those suffering from stomach derangements.
 It was so effective in curing those who used the remedy that they were led in their praises of it and in consequence a large demand for the cordial was at once created.
 The druggists of this town have little books that tell all about it. Digestive Cordial creates an appetite, aids digestion and brings about a rapid increase in flesh and strength.
 —Col. W. L. Kellogg, of the Fifth United States Infantry, stationed at Fort McPherson, near Atlanta, has offered, through Mrs. Louie M. Gordon, to give a complimentary special dress parade of the regiment in honor of the International League of Press Clubs, which will hold a congress in Atlanta during the Cotton States and International Exposition. Besides the Fifth Infantry, Governor Hastings of Pennsylvania and his entire staff will be in line. The parade will be given on the 14th of November.
 THE HECTIC FLUSH! —
 "When his thin cheek assumed a deadly hue,
 And all the rose to one spot withdrew;
 More fixed and deeper than the maiden blush."
 That terrible sign of consumption comes like a warning signal. Let no one disregard it. If they do, then day by day consumption will gain a firmer hold, until its victim lies numbered with the dead. For all diseases and weaknesses of the lungs, bronchitis, asthma (coughs and kindred ailments) Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a sovereign remedy.
 —Within the last sixteen months the price of glazed kid has risen 15 to 30 per cent. Cow hide and sole leather in many instances gone up 100 per cent. Very few tannery employes have learned of the increased value of their product through having their wages raised. The leather trust which is capitalized at $120,000,000 and owns four-fifths of the tanneries is the principal beneficiary. The prices of shoes have been advanced by manufacturers 10 to 30 cents a pair.
 N. Y. BOARD OF HEALTH ON WINE.
 —Dr. James of the New York Board of Health says:
 "I take great pleasure in testifying to the superior qualities of the Port Wine produced by Alfred Speer of New Jersey. After a prolonged trial I recommend it as a superior wine for the sick and debilitated."
 It is kept in casks to a great age before bottling, and though higher in price is far superior and more reliable than other wines.
 —The iron business goes booming along with a rush that is little less than astonishing. Even old, worn-out ramshackle mills at Pittsburg are being made ready for operation. The demand for iron seems to justify unusual activity; but some conservative operators think the present get is too fast.
 —WHERE DID I GET THIS DREADFUL COUGH?—No matter; the great question is, How shall I get rid of it? Use the Pineola Balsam, a soothing combination of the remedies nature has put in the pine and other balsamic trees. It cures the inflammation and tickling in the throat, and prevents the spread of the disease to the lungs. Ely's Pineola Balsam is strongly recommended in cases of asthma. Twenty-five cents is the price. Tell the neighbors about it.
 When Utah becomes one of the galaxy of States, she will have about 250,000 people. For territories have entered the Union with as much population, and few have been denied admission to Statehood as long.
 PAIN IN THE BACK AND SIDE.—"I had not been feeling well for some time. I had constant pain in my right side and back. I have taken two boxes of Hood's Pills and they have left me so that I am now feeling much better." H. E. Williams, 1713 Marshall St., Philadelphia, Pa.

REAL MERIT
 Is the characteristic of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is manifested every day in the remarkable cures this medicine accomplishes. Druggists say: "When we sell a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla to a new customer we are sure to see him back in a few weeks after more, proving that the good results from a trial bottle warrant continuing its use. This positive merit."
HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA
 possesses by virtue of the Peculiar Combination of Proportions and Process used in its preparation, and by which all the remedial value of the ingredients used is retained. Hood's Sarsaparilla is thus Peculiar to itself and absolutely unequalled in its powers as a blood purifier, and as a tonic for building up the weak and weary, and giving strength to the nerves.
