Improvident Young Men.
That extravagance is one of the most dangerous weaknesses of the age goes without saying. Children of this generation are more impressively taught by example or precept to spend money than to save it. There are very few young men, or old men for that matter, who make more money than they spend. There are thousands who earn far less than they consume. One's wages under habits of improvidence may be $30, $50 or $150 monthly or weekly, and the result is the same at the end of the year. Perhaps in a majority of cases the annual result is 0, or even in a growing burden of indebtedness. The most popular young men are generally those who lavish their earnings freely upon friends and fellows. A youth of this kind is considered "whole souled" by the admirers who smoke or drink at his expense, and "nice" by giddy young women who enjoy his presents, refreshments and carriages. Such a youth holds his reputation for generosity above all other pleasures and prizes and may really have a heart as soft as his head. The boy who holds on to a share of his money is less popular than the spendthrift. He is, in fact, very apt to be considered selfish and stingy. The truth is that both are selfish to an extent, the chief difference being that the selfishness of one leads him to the factory and the other to the bar. The provision of the other leads him to save his money. Each expects his reward. One is arranging for something substantial in the future. The other enjoying his champagne as he goes. His wine will soon give out. He will then find that extravagance is folly itself. Unless he learns before the hardening of habits with advance of years he will be unfortunate and unsuccessful, because no one can teach an old dog new tricks. Excessive selfishness is a very mean and unprofitable trait. Stinginess is not even a good policy. These, however, are no weaker, perhaps are less dangerous, than extravagance. Providence is not the word. Young men should be more provident. They save too little of what they make, and float along on a shoreless, hopeless sea, when a few hundred dollars saved by them in the beginning might have secured for them success and safety. When it is natural and proper for young people to enjoy the sweets of existence, to be gay and happy while they may, it is also necessary for them to begin early to build for the future, and to keep an eye on some peaceful port where they may find comfort and rest in the future. In the schools of economy are learned lessons that last one for a lifetime. So it is in the school of extravagance. Have we not entirely too many schools of the latter kind in our rapid and speculative civilization? What can be expected of the large class of young men now growing up with out any adequate idea of the value of a dollar?—Galveston News.

"FREE TO CUSTOMERS."
"Glass of water, messenger calls, use of soap and towel, use of comb and brush, use of newspapers, use of pen and ink and lead pencils, use of porter, use of matches."
"Silver changed for bills and bills changed for silver, children and baggage cared for, storage for parcels, umbrellas, clothing, cans, lights for cigars, cigarettes and pipes, string and paper, packages tied up, street car information, political, religious, medical and theatrical advice, seats while waiting for cars, correct day and date of month. No thanks expected."
"If you are not satisfied with what you get, inform the man in charge, and your business will be suspended until your wishes are gratified."—Philadelphia Call.

Keep Away from the Bears.
Probably the most exciting event that has taken place in Fionesta, in Fionesta county, in years, occurred on the Bridge street corner about nine o'clock Saturday morning. A pair of strolling Italians, who were accompanied by a performing bear, arrived at the place mentioned, and were about to begin their performance. A large crowd of little folks had gathered about the trio, when, without cause or provocation, the bear made a lunge in the direction of several little girls standing on the sidewalk and grabbed Genevieve, the seven year old daughter of A. M. Doubt, giving her a severe squeeze and made efforts to bite her, but in this he was frustrated, as for some time he had been excitedly quickly drew a large crowd of citizens, headed by the infuriated father of the little one, and the men and bear were driven from the town. The child was not seriously injured but as might be expected was frightened almost into convulsions.
Who Can Solve the Problem.
A woman took a basket of eggs to the city for sale. Upon being asked how many she had, she replied: If I take the eggs out of the basket two at a time I have one egg left. If I take them out three at a time I have one left. If I take them out four at a time I have one left. If I take them out five at a time I have one left. If I take them out six at a time I have one left, but if I take them out seven at a time I have none left in the basket. How many eggs had she in the basket?
A Wedding Ring in a Potato.
Five years ago Mrs. John Pippert, of Middletown, Pa., lost her wedding ring by throwing it into some dish water in the garden. The other day Mrs. Pippert dug some potatoes in her garden, and while peeling them for supper she struck something hard in one, and to her astonishment on cutting into the potato she found her lost wedding ring.

Warning to John Bull.
President Cleveland Believes the Boundary Dispute of Great Britain With Venezuela is Merely a Pretext to Extend English Territory in South America, and Secretary Olney, It Is Said, Will Notify the British Government That It Must Arbitrate the Case or Keep Home Yet—Another Diplomatic Case That England Is Fighting Shy Of.

Secretary Olney declines to state whether he has prepared instructions for Ambassador Bayard in the matter of the territorial dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain. As it is undoubtedly the purpose of the administration to make a very strong foreign policy, it is quite probable that Secretary Olney is about to take a firm stand on this question.

Whether the instructions to Bayard will be strong as to assert that the United States will never consent to British occupation of the Venezuelan territory, which Great Britain now claims belongs to British Guiana, is not known, but it is undoubtedly correct that the administration is determined that Great Britain shall not extend this territory without protest on our part.

A report from a reliable source says that Secretary Olney will decline in the most positive language that the United States will never consent to British occupation of the disputed territory in Venezuela unless that nation's right thereto is first determined by arbitration.

Secretary Olney, it is said, declares it to be the belief of the United States government that the territorial claims which Great Britain has set up in Venezuela are an attempt to seize territory to which she has no legal right.

DECLARATIONS BY OLNEY.
The Secretary, it is claimed, will submit the following declarations:
First—If the quarrel with Venezuela is an ordinary boundary dispute, having its origin in faulty descriptions, imperfect surveys, or other misunderstandings, a refusal to arbitrate the same is contrary to the precedents set by Great Britain herself and contrary to the practice of all civilized nations.
Second—If, on the other hand, as appears to be the case, and as is the belief of the President of the United States, the dispute as to the location of a boundary line is a mere disguise under which Great Britain is attempting by superior force to extend her territory in America, this is directly violate of the Monroe doctrine, and will never be submitted to the United States.

ANOTHER DIPLOMATIC QUESTION.
Secretary Olney has another diplomatic question with Great Britain, which he wished to submit to arbitration, but, like the Venezuela affair, the British foreign office shows no inclination to adopt this means of "clearing the incident." It involves the right of an American named William Webster to a large tract of land in the island of New Zealand, which, he asserts, was confiscated by the British government on its assuming control of the island.

Webster a number of years ago secured possession of thousands of acres of valuable land through an arrangement with the native government, and, it is said, made a large sum of money out of it. Great Britain, on annexing the island, seized all of this land, with the exception of some 2,500 acres, which it permitted Webster to retain. To regain his lost possessions Webster has appealed to the State Department for assistance.

Lord Rosebery promised to examine into the claim, but informed the department that the would be guided by the report of the Government of New Zealand. This report is believed to have been made in accordance with suggestions given by the British foreign office. Mr. Olney has been led to believe that England does not favor arbitration.

Regulated by a Hat.
Control of the Warmth and Ventilation of Congressional Halls.
One solitary human hair seems a very small thing, but, says the New York World, it is the most important part of an important machine in the capitol at Washington. This machine warms and ventilates the house, the senate and the various committee rooms, and runs several electric dynamos. Its most curious feature is the appliance for telling the proper temperature of the air in the building. A dial arranged like a clock marks degrees from 0 to 100. 0 means perfectly dry air, 100 saturated air, i. e., air carrying all the moisture it will hold.

Human hair absorbs moisture like a sponge, becoming shorter when it is wet, in the same way. The hair here is six inches long. The difference in length between it when wet and when dry stands for the 100 degrees of moisture on the dial, and as the moisture of the hair varies the point on the dial moves. According to the necessity more steam is thrown in or steam is allowed to escape, the atmosphere being in this way regulated and kept at a healthy point.

Miles Assumes Command.
The Army's New Chief Arrives in Washington with Part of His Staff.
General Miles arrived in Washington from New York Saturday afternoon. He was accompanied by Mrs. Miles and Colonel Breck and Captain Michler, of his staff. Adjutant General Ruggier met General Miles at the station and accompanied him to the War Department. He paid a formal call on Secretary Lamont, lasting a few minutes, and then replying to his head quarters issued his first official order as follows:—
Headquarters of the Army,
Washington, Oct. 5, 1895.
General Orders No. 54.—
By direction of the President, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the army of the United States.
NELSON A. MILES,
Major General.
General Miles will make his home at the Arlington for the present.

WORTHY YOUR CONFIDENCE.—The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

Pennsylvania at Atlanta.
Preparations are being made for Pennsylvania Day at Atlanta, and as it looks now the State will make a good show at the Exposition. Owing to delay at the start, the State Building was not ready at the opening of the Exposition, but the Commission has done some active work and the people of the State will not have occasion to feel ashamed of the display of our natural and industrial resources. At a meeting of the Executive Committee to-day a program was mapped out for Pennsylvania Day, which will be the 14th of November. The day before the State's monuments on the Chickamauga field will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

—No mystery about it. When the Shakers offered some time ago to give away a bottle of their Digestive Cordial to any one who might call at their New York office, there was a great rush and a great many people thought they were crazy.

Subsequent events prove it to have been a very clever advertising transaction, for although they gave away thousands of bottles, and it was in the end profitable; nearly every one that took a free bottle came back for more and paid for it with pleasure, saying they had derived better results from its use than from any other medicine they had ever used.

There is nothing so uniformly successful in the treatment of stomach troubles as the Shaker Digestive Cordial and what is better than all, it relieves at once.

Laxol, the new form of Castor Oil is so palatable that the children lick the spoon clean.

—A Perry grocer advertises that any man who takes two drinks of whiskey a day for a year, at a cost of ten cents each, can have for the same money at his store, 30 sacks of flour, 229 pounds of granulated sugar, 72 pounds of good coffee and save $2.50 as a premium for the exchange. This is something for you drinkers to think about.

No Wonder!
"Teeth he still did grind
And grimly gnash."—Spencer.
For he suffered all the agonizing tortures of dyspepsia. In the morning his eyes were dim and bloodshot, a horrible nausea was experienced, food was to him revolting and yet a gnawing craving for food pervaded his whole system. His heart palpitated violently after the least exertion. Hope had nearly left him when he read of the marvelous cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. He hurried to the drug store, bought a bottle and the effects were so satisfactory that he now gnashes his teeth when he thinks of the agonies he might have prevented, had he used "G. M. D."

WHAT EVERYBODY SAYS ABOUT BRANDY.—That the wines and brandy of the Speer N. J. Wine Co., Passaic N. J., are leading all others in public favor. Their wines are unexcelled in delicacy of flavor, and are pronounced by the most capable judges to be the best in the market. For pure grape brandy their "Old Climax," vintage of 1876, is admittedly the best to be had and more reliable than French brandies. Druggists sell it.

It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit.
The thousands of people whom it has raised from disease and despair to happiness and health, are the strongest and best advertisements Hood's Sarsaparilla has. No other preparation in existence has such a record of wonderful cures.
This is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale, and requires for its production the largest laboratory in the world.
