Bellefonte, Pa., Dec. 13, 1895.

Mrs. Thatcher's Good Fortune. Warren County Woman Falls Heir to a

of a grrnd-parent, at Mt. Bethel, Pa., Mrs. Peter W. Thatcher, of Washington, has fallen heir to an estate valued at $17,000. Charles G. Dilts, who was raised in this place, upon returning from the war met Miss Catherine Zellinger, of Williamsburg, Pa., and in 1874 they were married. A year later a daughter was born. Mr. Dilts was a minister, and located in Oswego, N. Y., where, in 1876, his wife died. Mr. Dilts gave his child to its mother's parents, and fourteen months later he married again, his bride being Miss Alice Cartright, of Stroudsburg, Pa. She became greatly attached to Mr. Dilts' daughter, and wanted to take her from the grandparents, who, however, would not listen to such a proposition.

One day the father and his wife visited the Zellinger homestead with a covered wagon, and saw the child playing in the yard. They caught her and drove off, closely pursued by the grandfather, who finally overtook them. An altercation took place, resulting in the father obtaining possession of the child. Some years ago, while upon a visit to his brother-in-law, Peter W. Thatcher, in Washington, Mr. Dilts told him of his daughter's true parentage.

A singular epoch in the whole affair occurred nearly two years ago when Mr. Thatcher married for his second wife the daughter of Mr. Dilts, who had then grown to be 18 years of age. In conversation with his bride the other day, Mr. Thatcher told her that the woman whom she called mother was her stepmother. His wife expressed great sur-prise, but recalled occurrences of her childhood. She then remembered living with two old people, and being taken away from them in a covered wagon. A few days ago, while in Stroudsburg, Mr. Thatcher made inquiries, and finally located the Zellinger family seven miles from that place. He showed the old pictures of his wife and her father, and the scene which followed is indescriable. The old lady called the whole family in, and hugged one after another. Mr. Zellinger died two years ago, leaving Mrs. Dilts' share of the estate to his granddaughter, now Mrs. Thatcher, providing she was alive and could be found.

Helen Keller, the blind and deaf girl whose education has been followed with so much interest, has come to New York to pass the winter. She is attending the Wright-Hamason school for giving oral instructions to the deaf, where last winter she made such progress that she is looking forward to the time when she can enter college. She has not only improved in her enuncia-tion, but she has also reached a stage where those who talk to her speak as they would to anyone else. She hears them through her fingers. When she goes to college she will probably have to be accompanied by some one who will repeat to her what is said in class and lecture rooms. For her studies text books with raised letters will be necessary in some subjects, but in others she will be able to absorb the ideas through repetition, aided by her mar-velous mental acuteness. Miss Keller hears through her fingers by placing them on the lips, face and throat of the person speaking to her.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Returning to Old Customs.

California has gone cack to the mule teams for the transportation of freight, just as in the old days before railroads were built. A regular line of big wagons, with six mule teams, between Stockton and Fresno, has just been started, and it will connect at Stockton with steamer to and from Francisco. The line has been started in opposition to the Southern Pacific railway, with the object of forcing down the rates. The experiment was made once before, and successfully. The mule teams, in connection with the steamers, can carry sugar, for instance, from San Fresno for $3 a ton less than the railway charges, and it is believed that a similar saving can be made on other freight. The merchants in the valley towns are interested in the project, and say that it is an even thing for their interests whether even thing for their interests whether the railroad cuts down its rates or their freight is in future handled by mule are the only ones who are absolutely

"The Sunday Headache." According to human nature explained, the "Sunday headache," the regular stereotyped excuse for not attending church on Sundy morning, is not altogether an imaginary affliction instituted by the selfish propensities to appease the demands of conscience. It is, rather, often the result of the additional Sunday morning nap in an un-ventilated bedroom, where the oxygen has been completely exhausted during the night, so that the extra hour's rest is really an hour more in the stupefying poisonous gas .- New York Times.

No Play About That.

An East End little boy came in with his clothes torn, his hair full of dust and his face bearing unmistakable marks of a face to face conflict. "Oh, Willie, Willie!" exclaimed his mother; you have disobeyed me again. How often have I told you not to play with that wicked Stapleford boy? "Mamma," said Willie wiping the blood from his nose, "do I look as though I had been playing with anybody ?"-

Hunters Who Have Had Great Luck.

Robert Mann, residing along Marsh creek, near Beech Creek, has won for himself the reputation of killing one of the largest deer in that vicinity. He sighted the animal on Panther run, shot him and was surprised to find it a buck with twenty-three points on the prongs. It weighed between 240 and 250 pounds. The dimensions were as follows: Length of antlers 26 inches, spread 16 inches; longest prong 11 inches; circumference of horns at head 61 inches; circumference at broadest point 81 inches; number of prongs on right antler 12, number of prongs on left antler 11; weight of nead with horns 15 pounds; weight of deer 238 pounds.

For over a year the mighty nimrods of Beech Creek township have anxiously been awaiting the opportunity of capturing what was called the "bull of the woods," which animal had often been seen but which had safely escaped the many shots that had been sent after him. It remained for Robert Gunsallus to bring the animal down, which he did several days ago. It weighed 225 pounds.

Ed. S. Mobley, of Beech Creek town. ship, also killed a buck that weighed

-Back of all the news we get from Turkey there must be an immense amount of intrigue going on between the representatives of the great powers. Someone has the private entrance to the back stairs of the sultan's palace, which may account for the varying stories we get from day to day of reforms proposed and abandoned. The powers demanded that war vessels representing each should enter the Dardanelles and virtually command Constantinople. At first this was agreed to, but after days of pulling and hauling it has been abandoned on the pretense that it would so inflame the Mohammedan population that they would throw off the sultan's control and still further complicate matters. The "Sick Man" is a very difficult subject to handle. Nothing will surprise the world in the way of news from Turk ey. The sultan's overthrow and murder are as likely as any other event. We don't hear much of what Russia is doing, but probably it has a very big finger in the pie. While there is no question of the horrible murders of Armenians, variously stated as high as 15,000, yet there is much of this done to inflame the Christian world, and has its political complexion as well as any other. The Greek Christians have been famous for ages for their masterly of all the arts of political intrigue. They are cunning, unscrupulous and treacherous. Taken all together, Moslem and Greek, affairs at the east of Europe are in a wonderfully mixed up condition. The unexpected is sure to happen if there is anything remaining in the chapter of the unex-

The Rio Made rira, one of the confluents of the Amazon entering the main stream about 100 miles below Manaos, is navigable almost to the extreme southern part of Bolivia; the Rio Negro can float a good sized vessel into Columbia, while smaller boats by passing through the famous bifurcation known as the Brazo Casiquiare can proceed from the Rio Negro into the Orinoco. According to the Boston Globe the A. P. A.'s dictate the Republican municipal nominations in most of the cities of Massachusetts. Instead of moving in secret, they do not hesitate to make public boast of their power. In cities, on the other hand, in which a large foreign born element is attached to the Republican party the A. But everywhere they are in alliance, open or secret, with the Republican party, since no other par ty gives their spirit of Nativism and encouragement or anyhope of power and spoils to their organization.

> The more we read of foot ball "as she is played," the more thoroughly are we convinced that the game is sorely in need of reformation. A game that requires the constant attention of a physician to reduce dislocations and pump the wind into a slugger who has been knocked out is simply brutal. Its devotees call it a scientific game, but it is difficult to see where science comes in when the winning side conquers by sheer brute force. That such contests should be countenanced by institutions for higher education is one of the marvels of an enlightened age.
