CHILDREN.

Come to me, O ye children.

For I hear you at play,
And the questions that perplexed me
Have vanished quite away.

That look toward the sun, Where thoughts are singing swallows And the brooks of morning run.

In your hearts are the birds and the sur shine, In your thoughts the brooklets flow, But in mine is the wind of autumn And the first fall of snow.

Ah. what would the world be to us If the children were no more?
We should dread the desert behind us
Worse than the dark before.

What the leaves are to the forest, With light and air for food, Ere their sweet and tender juices Have been hardened into wood,

That to the world are children.
Through them it feels the glow
Of a brighter and sunnier climate
Than reaches the trunks below.

Come to me, O ye children, And whisper in my ear What the birds and winds are singing In your sunny atmosphere. For what are all our contrivings

And the wisdom of our books
When compared with young caresses
And the gladness of your looks? Ye are better than all the ballads That ever were sung or said,

For ye are living poems,

And all the rest are dead. —Longfellow

Comfort no Longer a Consideration From the Tyrone Times.

Time works many changes. Twenty years ago boys, and especially country boys, would not think of going to school in winter unless they had a first-class pair of stogy boots, extra heavy and double soled. A boy in shoes was considered a freak. Now booted boys, with their pantaloons stuffed down in their boots, are the curiosity, and the sleek urchin in knickerbock ers, wearing a collar, a flaming tie, a small piece of flannel called a cap on the back of his head is the proper thing. Truly time works many changes.

A KEY FOUND .- My neighbor B. has found a key-a key to health it is, says he. If he is troubled with lassitude, constipation, biliousness, sick or ner-vous headache, cold feet, chilly sensations, fullness at the stomach, or any takes Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are so small, so easy to take, so prompt and thorough in their operations and cost so little that they are sure to grow in favor with all who use them. In glass vials, 25 cents.
