THINGS ABOUT TOWN & COUNTY

—The Milesburg band is said to be in a flourishing condition.

—Mail-carrier Robert Woodring is ill and substitute Charles Wetzel has his route.

—Centre Hall grangers are contemplating the building of a new grange meeting hall.

—Mr. Frank M. Fisher has succeeded the late J. B. Burrell as postmaster at Penn Hall.

—Let there be a good turnout at the polls, next Tuesday, and Democrats will be elected everywhere.

—John Longwell, a son of Ed. Longwell, of Buffalo Run, has purchased Aikley's meat market, in Milesburg.

—John Gramley, of Penn Hall, has purchased a new threshing outfit and will be ready to serve the farmers next season.

—Ex-county treasurer Jas. Gramley expects to move from his present farm, near Hublersburg, to the vicinity of Rebersburg.

—Bellefonte's experience with one good Democratic poor-overseer should insure the election of another in the person of Thomas Moore.

—Agustus Heverly, of east Bishop street, is afflicted with diphtheria. The house had to be quarantined on Wednesday, but he is much improved now.

—Ed. Brown Jr., has gone into the cigar manufacturing business, having opened a store on Bishop street. "Brown Bears" will be his favorite brand.

—The home of C. P. Stonerode, at Milesburg, was ransacked by sneak-thieves, last Thursday night, who carried off two over-coats and a pair of gloves.

—Police men are driving all the tramps out of Bellefonte. If this good move is only continued after the election our people will have reason to be very thankful.

—Rev. C. C. Miller, pastor of the Bellefonte U. B. church, was surprised and delighted last Friday night, when his congregation gave a donation party for him.

—Mrs. Edward Cowdrick is still seriously ill at the home of her father Mr. Joseph Ross, near Pleasant Gap. Her ailment seems to baffle the skill of our best physicians.

—The Daily News is authority for the statement that a rich vein of gold bearing quartz has been found in this county. It is a great pity that the News didn't make this discovery before the last sale of government bonds.

—Patrick Gallagher, a brother of the late Daniel Gallagher who was killed on the railroad here last fall, was seriously injured, on Tuesday afternoon, by being hit in the back by a large stone at Morris' Pike quarries. The unfortunate man was taken to his home in Howard where he is recovering.

—J. Spigelmeyer, G. S. Frank, A. A. Frank and C. S. Musser are a party of Millheim gentlemen who have applied for a charter for a corporation to be known as the Millheim electric telephone company. The object is to connect a number of Pennsylvania towns that do not have telephone service now.

—In our obituary of the late Jacob Bartlett, last week, we inadvertently made the heading read "David" instead of Jacob, as it should have been. The notice, itself, must have discovered the mistake to all who read it, but lest there might have been some doubt as to the real decedent we make this announcement.

—The musical convention at Linden Hall this week is exciting unusual interest in that vicinity. On Tuesday night there were seventy-five vocalists in the class and more joined next day. The last concert will be given to-night when a great crowd is expected. Miss Whitley, the Millifinburg soprano, has captured everyone with her sweet voice.

—A peanut social was held at the home of L. T. Munson, on Allegheny street, on Monday evening. A number of peanuts were placed on a dish and then each person guessed as to the number of them. Miss Maitland won the prize, having guessed nearest to the correct number of 720. A silver offering was made for the benefit of St. John's P. E. church.

—A large party of young folks was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ceader, on South Allegheny street, last evening. The party was given in honor of Miss Susan Collins, of Philadelphia, who is visiting Miss Mary Ceader. Miss Collins is a daughter of Peter Collins, well-known in this place, and is a very charming girl. The party was one of the most notable social events that has taken place in the town for some time.

RACING WITH A FLOOD.—In one sense this might be considered a delusive caption for such an article, for when you have read it you will wonder where there is anything in it to liken to the now famous ride of the horseman who tried to warn Johnstown of her awful fate in 1889. Had you been in the WATCHMAN office, last Thursday night, you would have seen a really exciting race between a lot of compositors, pressmen and proof readers and a genuine Spring creek flood.

The heavy rain of Wednesday and Wednesday night caused the four inches of snow that had fallen the day before to melt very rapidly. The ground having been frozen did not absorb any of the water, the result being that all the small streams in the county became raging torrents and while some of them, notably Buffalo run, rose to within a few inches of the high water mark of 1889, Spring creek did not get quite so high, yet sufficient rise was registered to give us a real goy scare.

The fact that the press rooms of this office are only three feet above low water mark makes a flood a very serious problem to confront. Aside from the filthy deposit of mud that is left all over fine machines and floors by the receding waters there is the danger of having the regular edition of the paper held back. Such a thing as the WATCHMAN being behind time is considered an unpardonable offense here and yet the danger of such a thing is just what caused the race last Thursday evening.

The water had been rising all morning until at noon it was only seven inches below the floors. As the WATCHMAN had to be pressed that night it became a grave question as to what was the best thing to do: Hurry up and get it on before the water should get in on the presses or hold it until the flood would recede. The latter plan seemed impracticable, as the former did foreshadow, but because we feared the weather favored a long flood we decided to try the race ahead of it.

Everything was hustled through as fast as possible, the forms were closed, made up and put on the press by 6 o'clock, but not before the angry swish of the muddy water was heard now and then against the floor. The stream had swelled until miniature fountains spouted through every crevice and already a little dark pool could be seen curling about the base of the heavy cutting machine. All the while the big press was turning out papers as fast as they could be fed into it and every employee of the office was on the qui vive. The press could have been operated even after two inches of water covered the floors, but the flood saw itself beaten by 8 o'clock and began to recede, leaving us disappointed, but very much delighted that we didn't have half a dozen or more fields to shovel out the next day.

THE CAT WAS SQUALLED.—A very amusing incident happened out at the club house of the Valentine iron company, one night during the fore part of the week, in which a large pet tom-cat was put through considerable pain.

Mr. Thomas has a habit, very common among others of his family, of sitting on the sill just outside the kitchen window. Whether the sash is up or not makes little difference to him and, cold or warm, he manages to spend a few hours in that retreat every day.

The particular window for which this particular cat has a banking happens to have very heavy wooden shutters which are propped open during the day. But things were different the other night.

Putting softly to himself and doubtless wondering when he was going to be called in out of the wind-storm Monday night this cat waited patiently on his window seat. Shutters were slamming, windows were rattling and there seemed to be war among the elements. All was still about that kitchen window, until a sudden squall, that in its fury seemed determined to pass the great stone house unbroken, swept around the corner and sent the shutters of tom's window shut with a bang that was deafening.

Sad, wasn't it? No doubt you have concluded that he was smashed instantly. Don't jump at conclusions, it is a bad practice. That cat was knocked clear through a large pane of glass and lighted on all fours in the middle of the kitchen. His flight was broken by two crocks and a coffee pot which were also broken, but tom suffered not.

After shaking a few of the kinks out of his tail he bounded out of the house and was not seen again until two nights later, when he turned up in his accustomed seat on the window.

It hardly seems possible that with such a little fall of snow there should be any public highways blocked. There are, however, a number of roads in Centre county that have been impassable all week, owing to drifted snow. We have a personal knowledge of one in which we came very near sticking while on sleigh riding Monday night. The high winds dried the snow out and drifted it in nearly all roads running north and south.

—The oil prospecting well at Dent's run is down 1,600 feet.

—John Reish, a young farmer in the vicinity of Old Fort, will take charge of the National hotel, in Millheim, on April 1st.

—The Rev. John Hewitt, one time rector of St. John's Episcopal church of this place, has resigned his charge of the parish at Lincoln, Neb. and is now located at Columbus, Ohio.

—The Mapleton sand works, destroyed by fire on Dec. 8th, 1895, have been rebuilt and will be run night and day to catch up to orders. It took just twenty-nine days to rebuild the plant.

—Irene Kremer, the 17 year old daughter of Monroe Kremer, of Aaronsburg, died with consumption on Tuesday morning and was buried in the Lutheran cemetery yesterday afternoon.

—The Altoona, Clearfield & Northern branch of the Pennsylvania railroad is reported to be buried under eight feet of snow, at portions in the mountains, and traffic is suspended. The high winds have blown all the cuts full of snow.

—The Addison society of the Academy will give a reproduction of the United States Senate next Friday afternoon. It will undoubtedly be an interesting occasion. Friends of the Academy who would like to be present at that time will be welcome.

—St. Matthew's new Catholic church, built in Tyrone at a cost of $35,000, was dedicated, Sunday, with impressive services. Rev. James Ryan, of Dunkirk, preached the sermon. Rev. M. J. Wertz, of Carnegie, Pa., was the celebrant. There were thirteen altar boys and eighteen in the choir.

—The schedule of base ball games to be played by Princeton this season does not include one with State. It is to be hoped that the teams will get together. Their ten-inning game last season was such a surprise to the orange and black that it is just possible they will try to "freeze" such a strong team as is sent out by "a smaller college."

—The people of Huntingdon are disappointed at the action of the department in deciding to hold a division encampment of the National Guard this year instead of regimental encampments. They had hoped that if an order would be issued for the latter they would secure the 5th Reg. encampment for that town during the borough centennial to be celebrated in the summer.

—Tyrone and Altoona are now connected by the Phoenix telephone company that is springing up to rival the Bell system. Competition is the life of trade, of course, but the excellence of the Bell service, both local and long distance, is so much appreciated by the public that there will be little encouragement for embryo systems with indifferent service and limited points with which communication can be had.

—The Adelphi club of The Pennsylvania State College will entertain at the University Inn, on Monday evening. The patronesses will be: Mrs. George W. Atherton, Mrs. W. P. Reader, Mrs. G. G. Pond, Mrs. Wm. Thompson, Jr., Mrs. John I. Thompson, Mrs. R. M. Foster and Mrs. J. L. Spangler. The club committee comprises Messrs. H. A. Lardner, J. M. Wolfe, T. R. Bayer, B. F. Fisher, Jr., W. W. Greenland, Jr., R. F. Kelker, Jr., and C. E. Scott. Neff's Altoona orchestra will furnish the music.

—There are several itinerant roof menders and slaters in town this week making repairs on a number of buildings. While we do not presume to say that every property holder has not a perfect right to employ those whom he prefers, we do think that home mechanics, thoroughly competent to do the work, should have the preference. There are men in Bellefonte who live here, pay taxes here, spend their money here and pay rent for their places of business who have every right to ask why they are passed over and their proper work given to travelers who have no interest here further than to pick up what money they can.

—The veteran prisoner's association of Centre county, composing all union soldiers who were prisoners at any time during the war, met in Gregg post rooms, in this place, Saturday afternoon and reorganized and infuse new life into an organization that has been dormant since its inception about three years ago. Luncheon was served to the ex-soldiers at noon and while the score or more who sat about the table in the post dining room were enjoying the dainties served by Mrs. Frank Wallace, of Milesburg, and Mrs. D. M. Glenn and Miss Caroline Bayard, of this place, many reminiscences of southern prison life were heard. The object of the organization is to petition Congress for a special appropriation with which to remunerate all prisoners of war for the time they served.

THE END OF COURT BUSINESS.—At the time the WATCHMAN went to press last week the case of Thos. Barnes vs L. C. Brinton was on trial. The jury returned a verdict Friday morning. This suit grew out of the dissolution of the partnership of Brinton, Duncan & Barnes, of Philipsburg, on a $3,000 note given by Mr. Brinton to the firm of Brinton, Duncan & Barnes. Verdict on Saturday morning in favor of the defendant.

Other cases were taken up and disposed of as follows by the court during the sessions that were held on Friday and Saturday.

Simon Wilson and Bcn. S. Wilson trading as Wilson & Co. vs Robert Brandman and Sands Gilford, trading as Brandman & Gilford, plea attachment is assumptit. Continued.

Wm. H. Taylor, trading as William Taylor & Co. vs William Parker, plea assumptit. Voluntary non suit.

W. Fred Reynolds vs Margaret C. Brockerhoff, Andrew Brockerhoff and Henry W. Brockerhoff, plea trespass. Continued.

A. G. Curtin, C. M. Bower, and Robert McCalmont vs Joseph L. Neff and Joseph L. Neff, administrator of, of Mary Neff, deceased, plea scire facias sur judgment, No. 173, November term, 1890. Verdict in favor of the plaintiffs for $1402.50.

Thomas Watson vs J. Miles Green, administrator of, of John Watson, deceased, plea scire facias sur judgment, No. 92, August term, 1891. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $1,366.

McClain & Cooke, use of Thomas Watson, vs J. Miles Green, administrator of, of John Watson, deceased, plea scire facias sur judgment, No. 183, November term, 1892. Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $230.25.

JOHN WENSEL SR., DEAD.—After a life of 73 years, part of which being that of a pioneer in the locality in which he died, John Wensel Sr., a respected resident of Romola, died on Tuesday last week and was buried Friday. Since retiring from farming he had lived with his children and the later years of his life marked an increased zeal in christian faith with which he became inspired in early life.

Old age was the cause of his death. Interment was made in the Reformed cemetery at Romola. Catharine, John, Mary, Margaret, William, Lizzie, Nancy and David are the children who survive.

Deceased came to this country from Germany fifty years ago and settled near about where his death occurred.

A BALL AT SNOW SHOE.—Uzzie's hall at Snow Shoe will be the scene of a grand ball and musicale, on Monday evening, Feb. 17th, when the Undine band of this place, accompanied by a number of clever specialty men, will visit that town. During the day the band will give several concerts and another in the evening. The Undine orchestra will play for the dance.

By way of a side attraction Wm. Dersline, Wm. P. Slack, Frank Taylor, Fred Smith and Louis Doll Jr., will introduce some pleasing novelties in dancing and instrumental music.

MUSICAL CONVENTION AT Mt. EAGLE.—Beginning on the afternoon of February 17th, next Monday, J. E. Johnson will conduct a musical convention in the new Christian church at Mt. Eagle. It will conclude the following Saturday evening with a grand concert. All that is needed to make it a great success is plenty of people and if the residents of that community want to have a good time there will be a large attendance.

ARE YOU GOING?—Next Sunday evening, Feb. 16th, the Presbyterian church choir will render a service of song. During the services a number of solos and duets will be sung by different members of the choir. Lovers of good music should avail themselves of this opportunity, as it promises to excel all former attempts of the kind. Dr. Laurie will talk briefly on church music.

DO NOT FAIL TO READ THIS.—Dr. Salm will make his regular visit, as usual, at the Brockerhoff house, on Saturday, Feb. 22nd. Consultation free.

—The new Philipsburg furniture manufacturing company, that is to be, has applied for a charter.

—An eight hundred pound bell will soon be placed in the belfry of the new Disciple church at Mill Hall.

—The storm early Monday morning blew a new house, owned by Willis Legg, in Lock Haven, clear over on its side. The building was about ready for the roof.

—A Central Pennsylvania base ball league was organized at Williamsport, Tuesday evening, Senovo, Williamsport, Lock Haven, Sunbury and Shamokin were represented.

—The firm of Taylor & Bock, coal dealers on Willowbank street, was dissolved by mutual consent on Saturday. William Beck retiring to leave Robert Taylor continue the business.

—I. S. Barrett and the Hungarian, whose injury we gave an account of in our last week's issue, have recovered so far that it is now thought that they will live. They are two of the men who jumped from a run-away engine on the Eddy Lick run lumber railroad, near Beech Creek.

—It is a matter of much gratification to the many friends of John Beezer to know that he is recovering from a dangerous illness with inflammatory rheumatism. It was thought that he could not recover, but a marked change in his condition, within the past few days, is very encouraging to the patient nurses at his home in the Lyon's building.

—Daniel Strayer, aged 70 years, 3 months and 19 days, died at his home in Lock Haven, last Monday afternoon, after more than a year's illness with heart disease. He was born at Rebersburg, in this county, where he was a carriage builder until fourteen years ago when he moved to Lock Haven to follow the business of huckstering. Deceased leaves a widow, six daughters and four sons, among the latter being Mr. John Strayer, of north Thomas street, this place.

—While John Wensel, Jr. of Romola, was preparing to go to the home of David Robb to help him thresh he met with a very serious accident. It occurred last Monday morning in this way. He had just gotten in to his carry-all and gave his son the lines with which to hold the horse until he could fix the robes. The horse gave a sudden jerk and Mr. Wensel fell out. His right arm was broken and it is feared he suffered internal injuries. As the gentleman is 55 years old the accident is a serious one to him.

News Purely Personal.

—Ex-Senator Jos. M. Woods, of Lewistown, was a Bellefonte visitor on Wednesday night. He had business of a legal nature in town.

—Prof. M. C. Ihseng, who is head of the school of mines and mining at the Pennsylvania State College, spent part of yesterday in town.

—Miss Katharine Gilliland, of Oak Hall, was in town between trains on Wednesday. She was on her way home from a visit to Tyrone friends.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Harris, of north Spring street, left for a four month's trip to California, on Wednesday. They will go out via Washington, and New Orleans and return by another route.

—Miss Katharine Harris and Blanche Hayes are visiting at the home of Governor and Mrs. Hastings in Harrisburg. A German and several other social events have been announced to be given in their honor.

—Mr. Charles Schreyer, of Chicago, spent Sunday in town, the guest of his brother Harry. Mr. Schreyer is connected with the Chicago and North Western railroad with headquarters in the Windy city.

—J. W. Hafer, who has lately disposed of his hotel at Osceola, is in town visiting his sister, Mrs. Tate, of Coleville. He is a brother of Dr. A. W. Hafer, of this place, and sold out because there was so little money in the hotel business just now.

—The pleasant daughter of Mr. Emil Migg, of Philipsburg, Clearfield county, was a caller Wednesday evening. Mr. Migg has been a reader of the WATCHMAN for years and though we rarely get to see him his account here is always gilt-edged.

—James W. Beck, of Jacksonville, who contemplates giving up farming in the spring, was in town yesterday making arrangements for the sale of his stock, which is advertised in another column. Mr. Beck is an all-around Democrat and a good fellow.

—Wm. B. Thomas, of Milesburg, who stands next to agent John I. Foster, of the Pennsy, at this place, was running around our streets yesterday trying to catch a worse cold than he had. When asked if the Daily News was dry, saying things up down at their station, he took a good laugh.

—Al Neubauer, head clerk at the Brockerhoff house, left for his old home in Erie last night and will be gone for some time. Just for fear his brother, who is a successful hotel man up there, wouldn't be on the lookout for him he mailed a large placard to him on which, in large red letters, was printed the word "coming."

—George W. Weaver and D. B. DeLong, two men universally respected in the vicinity of Romola, where they live, and after all what more could a man desire than to have the esteem of his neighbors, were in town together on Tuesday. They both dropped in to call for a few moments and we profited in several ways by their visit.

—Mr. J. S. Moyer, of Penn Hall, was in town, Wednesday, and dropped in to place his father, J. Moyer Esq., right on our books. Mr. Moyer was thinking seriously of being as aspirant for one of the county offices, but has decided to leave his friend, A. R. Alexander, have an undisputed field in Penn township. Mr. Moyer is a very pleasant gentleman and is one of the kind of Democrats the party can't have too many of.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—Following is the list of marriage licenses granted by orphans' court clerk, G. W. Rumberger, during the past week:

Sherman Bennett, of Union township, and Ellen Emeel, of Spring Twp. Walter J. Stine and Myrtle L. Dick, both of Potter Twp.

James C. Shaffer and Lottie Williams, both of Marthas.

James Lewis and Ida Lafey, both of Hawk Run, Clearfield Co., Pa.

J. E. Watkins and Sadie M. Hartman, both of Millheim.

Martin Janeski and Teresa Papcun, both of Clarence, Centre county.

J. A. Corman, of Miles township, and Susan A. Hosterman, of Aaronsburg.

LOPERS CAUGHT.—Two months ago Lena Flora Straw left a husband and a good home in Lock Haven to go to Williamsport to purchase goods for the holiday trade. Instead of doing as she told her husband she went to Tyrone and there met Joseph Salvistro, an Italian of whom she had become enamored. She had taken $800 in cash and two notes for the amount of $102 each with which to keep the wolf from her dago's door.

Together they traveled to Cincinnati where they remained until Wednesday when they were arrested. Mr. Straw says he will leave them go if they return his money.

—To fill in a dull season with big cash values—suits made to order $15.00 $18.00 and $20.00, pantaloons $5.00 Come early.

Pure Ice.

The Pennsylvania State College, Department of Chemistry.

G. G. Pond, Professor, State College, Centre Co., Pa., Feb. 14, 1896.

Messrs. GARRICK & TATE, Bellefonte, Pa.

Gentlemen:—I have carefully analyzed the sample of your ice which you brought to this laboratory Jan. 30th, for this purpose, and find that it is very pure, and free from sewage or other contamination. The analysis shows this ice to be, in my opinion, better than the average quality of river or lake ice.

Yours very truly, G. G. POND.
