Company B, 5th Reg. N. G. P. will be inspected at the armory, in this place, next Monday evening, by the regular brigade inspection officer.
Harvey Weaver, a son of George Weaver, of Romola, was recently practicing the acrobatic feat of turning somersaults, when he broke both bones of one of his legs.
The family of Wm. B. Maitland will move to Sunbury next week. Bellefonte friends are genuinely sorry that better business prospects compel Mr. Maitland to leave Bellefonte.
Wm. Bilger, of Pleasant Gap, recently moved the heavy rake machine, the property of Wm. Jenkins, from the axe works at Axe Mann, to the Jenkins & Lingle foundry in this place.
A fancy ball was the delightful entertainment provided for a number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Joseph, at their home, corner of High and Spring streets, last Friday night.
Ed. J. Wolf, superintendent of the Centre Hall public schools, intends being a candidate for county superintendent. He is a graduate of Gettysburg college and theological seminary.
A sled load of friends from this place joined two other sleds that contained friends from the surrounding country in a jolly ride to the home of James Henderson, on Buffalo Run, last Friday night. Of course they all had a good time.
The Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church will give a social to the old members of that church this evening. It will be given in the chapel where music and refreshments will form part of the entertainment.
"Princess Bonnie" will be a really good show for Bellefonte and the opera house management should be encouraged in the effort that was made to get the company here. Good houses for good attractions means nothing but good attractions in the future.
The George L. Potter post, G. A. R., of Milesburg, visited Gregg post, of this place, on Saturday night, and a joint meeting was held. The Vets had quite a good time among themselves. It was learned at the meeting that the recent all-day festival netted Gregg post $78.78.
Isaac W. Raven, of Millheim, the man who was recently given the whole of the Millheim turnpike, for injuries sustained while driving over it two years ago, has just been appointed to a good position in the custom house at Oswego, N. Y. to which place he will move. It will be remembered that Mr. Raven sold his turnpike back to its original owners.
Ira D. Garman, a son of Daniel Garman of this place, has severed his connection with David F. Conover & Co., the Philadelphia jeweler, and has opened a store of his own, at 121 south 11th street, in that city. His cards announce his place well stocked with watches, clocks, diamonds and jewelry. Bellefonters in Philadelphia will find Richard always glad to see them.
Monday evening a merry party met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mos Mullen, on Bishop street, to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. They were married in Columbia, came direct to Bellefonte and went to housekeeping in their present home, which has been the scene of many pleasant parties but none of them as congenial or surprising as Monday night's. The surprisers were more surprised than the host and hostess, for some one had told Mrs. Mullen all about it. An excellent supper was served and a thoroughly good time enjoyed.

ONCE BELLEFONTE'S LEADING MERCHANT.—The remains of the late Adolph Loeb were brought to this place, Wednesday morning, and taken to the home of Mr. Wm. Grauer, on Spring street, where funeral services were held the same afternoon at 8 o'clock. Rabbi Gustave Levy, of Williamsport, officiated. Interment was made in the Hebrew cemetery and Bellefonte lodge, No. 268, F. and A. M., of which he was a member, conducted the services at the grave.
The funeral was largely attended, as Mr. Loeb was a very well known man in Bellefonte, having been, at one time, one of the leading merchants of the place.
Adolph Loeb was born at Danville, Nov. 29th, 1845. In 1861 he came to this place and entered the store of Isaac May and Marks B. Loeb, as a clerk. The following year he was taken into the partnership and later, when Marks B. Loeb retired, Simon Loeb entered the firm which was then known as Loeb May & Loeb. Then Mr. May retiring the business was continued under the firm name of S. & A. Loeb. About five years ago it was closed out and Mr. Loeb went to a hospital in Philadelphia to recover his shattered health. This hope was not realized, however, for after long years of suffering he has been released from the sad affliction that befall him. On Nov. 20th, 1872, he married Rosa Grauer, in Baltimore. To this union two children: Herbert, located now in Chicago; and Albert, employed at Punxsutawney, were born. Their mother survives with the boys.
The pall bearers were H. Sechler, Dr. A. Hibler, F. P. Green, Dr. J. H. Dobbin, John P. Harris, F. P. Blair, John Noll and J. Fearon Mann.
Among the visiting friends and relatives in attendance were Harry Loeb, of Punxsutawney, Morris Loeb, of Mahanoy City, brothers of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. Drieffus, of Danville, the latter a sister; Moses Loeb, of DuBois; Mrs. Weinberg and Mrs. Millard Grauer, of Baltimore; and Mrs. Bloom, of Huntingdon.
A BELOVED WOMAN DEAD.—In the death of Mrs. Phillip W. Barnhart, which occurred at her home at Roland, last Friday night, there was a particularly sad visitation of Providence. Though she had reached her 74th year and had lived more than the average allotment to mortals the simplicity and sweetness of her pure maternal nature make her death all the sadder to those who are bereaved.
Her death was the result of a stroke of paralysis suffered about two years ago and followed, last summer, by another. She was a daughter of the late Joseph Leathers. Of her family of nine children—all are living except two; Mrs. Samuel Orris, of Milesburg, and Mrs. H. H. Harshberger, of this place, both whom died some time ago. The children who survive are: Joseph L., of Renovo, a baggagemaster on the P. & E. R. R.; Harry O., of Punxsutawney, baggagemaster on the Bell's Gap R. R.; James K., clerk in the first National bank of this place; Lucy and Amanda, both single and living at home; Alice, wife of Howard Hurd of Farrisville, and Laura, wife of J. C. Weaver, of Bellefonte.
Her life was one of christian womanhood and the example of it is seen in the family of exceptional children she raised. Mrs. Barnhart was a devout Methodist and was buried with the services of that church, at Curtin's Works, on Monday morning.
Captain T. S. McCahan died at his home at Birmingham, last Monday evening, with pneumonia. On Wednesday morning his widow died from the same cause. She had contracted pneumonia while nursing her husband.
R. H. Hardy, a Tyrone man, became insane, Wednesday morning, and ran out into the streets of that place with scarcely any clothing on. It was 3 o'clock in the morning and when a policeman tried to get him home he dealt him a blow that felled him to the ground. A physician coaxed him into the house later on.
Lucian Walker died at his home in Snow Shoe, on Tuesday, after a short illness with pneumonia. Deceased was 48 years old and leaves a widow with eight children. His death is a sad one under such circumstances. At one time he was a brakeman on the Snow Shoe railroad. His interment was made yesterday afternoon at Snow Shoe.
AN OLD RESIDENT OF HOWARD GONE.—At 9 o'clock Wednesday night Conrad Long, a well-known resident of Howard, died. His complaint was a general breaking down of the system, consequent upon being 78 years of age last August. Deceased leaves a widow with seven children, also four brothers and three sisters living. He was a very much respected old gentleman, a member of the Dankard church and will be buried from his late home tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

At the promising age of 20 years Howard B., a son of John J. Orndorf, of near Woodward, died, on Monday morning, with blood poisoning. Only a week previous he had sung at the services over constable Barnert's body and his death was never thought of then. Burial was made in the cemetery, at Woodward, on Wednesday afternoon.
Dr. J. G. Hartwick, who died in Clearfield, on Saturday, March 14th, in his 68th year, was a native of Centre county, having been a brother of Henry B. Hartwick, of State College. He was one of the best known physicians in Clearfield county and leaves a widow with two adult children.
Mrs. Sara Stover died at the home of her son, Oscar, in Boalsburg, on Sunday evening, with something like paralysis of the brain. She had been ill only a short time and was 70 years old. Her remains were interred on Tuesday. Rev. Black, of the Reformed church, having officiated.
A particularly distressing death was that of Miss Elizabeth Fisher, which occurred at the home of her mother, Mrs. C. P. W. Fisher, of Boalsburg, last Sunday morning, after a very short illness with peritonitis. She was 27 years old and a member of the Reformed church and was buried on Wednesday. She was a very charming girl whose death is a severe blow to the family.
Wm. Isbler, of Tusseyville, died suddenly while sitting at the dinner table in his home last Friday. Heart disease is assigned as the cause. It was a great shock to the community, as he had been in very good health up to the moment of his death. Deceased leaves a widow and family of children.
Mrs. Julian Fleming was found dead in bed at her home, in Centre Hall, last Saturday morning. Her death was very unexpected and is supposed to have been caused by heart disease. When the lady did not answer the call for breakfast a member of the family was sent up to see what was the matter and found her dead in bed. Her husband is a machinist and she leaves two boys to mourn with him. Burial was made, Tuesday afternoon, according to the rites of the Reformed church.
The remains of Mrs. Rachael Minkler were interred at Look Haven yesterday. Deceased was the mother of the late Girard Minkler, of this place, and left here some years ago to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Arvilla Bonnell, in Philadelphia, where she died on Tuesday.
Mrs. Sarah Lohr died at her home, in Centre Hall, Wednesday morning, after an illness that has extended over a period of fourteen years. She was about 68 years old and leaves a husband with two daughters and a son to mourn her demise. She had been bed-fast for three or four years. Funeral services will be held this morning.
Mrs. Catharine Miller, aged 67 years, died at her home in Coburn, last Monday morning. Deceased had been ill for some time with stomach troubles. Funeral on Wednesday afternoon.
—The Dayton, Ohio, Evening Press, in its issue of March 18th, announces the centennial census of that city to be 79,331. The announcement was made in the office of mayor C. G. McMillen who is very happy that his town has grown so large. In 1890 the population was 61,228.
Jennie Goldthwait was the bright, particular star whose petit figure and bewitching ways made the opera of "Princess Bonnie" so wonderfully successful when it ran so long at the Chestnut street opera house, in Philadelphia, two winters ago. She is still with the company and is the same pretty girl whose charming voice captivated everyone at that time. Don't miss the opera.
—Miss Ella J. Wilson, formerly of this place but who has been in Paw Paw, Ill., for nearly two years, was married, on March fourth to Frederick Osborne, of Osborne, Ill. We wish them only contentment and happiness and congratulate them both. Miss Ella is a splendid woman of the gracious and energetic kind, and although we have heard nothing more of Mr. Osborne than that he is a prosperous farmer we have so much respect for Miss Ella's judgment that we know he must be a mighty nice man.
—The other day a physically wrecked tramp asked officer Snyder to give him a night's lodging in the lock-up in Tyrore. The man was nearly broken down and gave his name as Timothy J. Lane, of Peabody, Mass. He said he is wanted in that place for highway robbery. Officer Snyder telegraphed to officers in Peabody and found out that the man's story is true and that a reward of $250 will be paid for him. Lane is anxious to give himself up and, having waived requisition formalities, will be taken back to undergo trial for his crime.

AN ELECTRIC GAS ENGINE.—Such a name doubtless sounds strange to you, yet it exactly describes the compact little two-horse-power engine that has just been completed by Jenkins & Lingle, at their shops in this place. At present it is a decided novelty because of the simplicity and originality of its construction, but if it meets with the reception that its undoubted practicability warrants it will prove as wonderful an invention as the Jenkins' upright helve hammer.
For some time this firm has been at work on the model of the engine we saw in operation on the floor of the machine shops, Tuesday evening. Though about completed now there are still a few finishing touches to be put on ere it will be ready for the market. The engine is a small, horizontal machine, covering a floor space of 3x8 feet and is about 3 feet in height. The energy that drives it is generated by the explosion of a jet of gasoline that is ignited by an electric spark. The electricity is supplied by an ordinary cell battery and an automatic breaking and completing of the circuit produces the spark simultaneously with the automatic liberation of the gasoline jet. The explosion that drives the engine. Its working power is regulated by a small governor, very like a pendulum, attached to the arm that releases the gasoline. By this device the amount of energy generated is dependent entirely upon the work the engine is doing.
The whole machine is so simple that it impresses one more as a pretty little toy than as an efficient engine that can be made to transmit any amount of horse power. Its utility has been made the highest because it can be operated with either gasoline or gas. The former can be had at any place so that the engine is not hampered by any conditions. Its estimated consumption of gas per horse-power is 1 cent per hour. This is the only expense attached to the operation of the engine. No other fuel is needed; no engineer, as everything is automatic, and a minimum of expense for repairs because of its simplicity. It is almost noiseless in its working and is altogether an excellent invention.
Jenkins & Lingle's new shops afford their facilities for manufacturing; that they have never had before and it is to be hoped that their business will soon get in such a condition as to warrant their employing all the men the plant will accommodate. In their hammer and this engine they have two machines that are unsurpassed in their particular fields of usefulness. The hammer is recognized all over the world as being the best tool of its kind on the market and with such the case we have often wondered why Bellefonters, who are continually running after "promoters" for untried enterprises, don't invest their money in this plant and push a thing the worth of which is undisputed.
THEIR BEER WILL SOON BE ON THE MARKET.—Peter Jackson, Louis Doll, Richard Dalling and John Brown are the four men who are busy as nailers improving the old Haas brewery at Boopsburg and brewing the finest, purest beer ever turned out at that place.
They have been at work for months cleaning it up and putting in new appliances with which to improve the plant and by brewing three days a week they have a fairly good stock awaiting the time when sales are begun. The beer is in the best of condition and Mr. Jackson, the boss brewer, who has been in the business for years, assures us that it is fine.
The new firm intends doing everything to keep the beer up to a high standard of excellence and purity. It will be their principal effort to maintain all of the output of the brewery at an even standard, so that the Boopsburg beer will be known by its taste at all times.
Consumers of the beverage should patronize our home brewery, for in doing so they not only support a local enterprise, but add materially to their healthfulness by the use of a beer that is known to be pure.
A LABEL CASE ON HAND.—At the instance of editor Fred Kurtz, of Centre Hall, sheriff John P. Condo went down to Lewisburg, on Monday, and arrested Benj. K. Focht and A. D. Miller, editor and owner of the Lewisburg Saturday News. The charge against them, being criminal libel, both gave bail in the sum of $1,000 for their appearance at court here.
The libel was the outcome of a bitter fight which Focht has been carrying on with Will Kurtz, who recently purchased the Lewisburg Journal. Legitimate journalistic controversy drifted into filthy personal attacks which culminated, on Saturday, when the News, by innuendo, accused Fred Kurtz, his father, of having confessed a straw judgment of $1,200. This has been resented by Mr. Kurtz and the suit has been brought for criminal libel.
After sheriff Condo served his warrant on the men it was found that it had been irregular, so constable Montgomery went down again on Wednesday and went through another form so that there would be no technical loop hole through which the libelers could escape.

—Sportmen who are looking forward to the opening of the trout season should go to Garman's, next Wednesday evening, and hear the song "the biggest fish I ever caught was the one that got away." Lots of fellows will be singing it about the 15th of next month.
—"Princess Bonnie," at Garman's next Wednesday night, should attract a great crowd to that play-house. A cleaner, prettier more tuneful opera has seldom, if ever, been heard. The chorus with this company is large and well trained. The leading people are the same artists who made it so successful in Philadelphia and New York, with the exception that Eleanor Mayo Elverson is not with the company. The leading lady is quite as successful in handling the role as Mrs. Elverson was and the opera has lost nothing of its interest through the marriage of the girl who made her debut as an opera singer with this company. The story is a pretty one of a lost Princess picked up by an old light house keeper.
—The Phillipsburg Journal wonders why no more has ever been made to erect a monument to the soldiers of the war who went out from Centre county. It is no wonder the Journal is at a loss to comprehend such apparent lack of homage on the part of our people. No county in the State sent out more men who became illustrious by virtue of heroic and brilliant deeds than Centre and it is high time that something, that will testify our appreciation of such valor to coming generations, be done.
THEY HAVE BEEN CAUGHT.—Several weeks ago the WATCHMAN published an account of the looting of a lumber camp, near Port Matilda, in what is known as "California hollow." It was the cabin in which Gilbert Eller and a party of men lived, while getting out railroad ties. During their absence on Sunday the place was robbed of clothing, tools and provisions. This happened on Feb. 16th. For some time there was nothing done to discover the thieves, but suspicion finally pointed to Samuel Lutz, a young man aged 21 years, and William Fink, aged 43, who were engaged in the tie business near Warriors-mark.
Tuesday constable Martin Cowher with several others, went over to the cabin occupied by Walk and Fink, but found no one at home. The cabin was entered and part of the stolen goods recovered. The men identified three saws three blankets, a saw set, hat, lantern, pair of gloves, and a pair of mittens and several other articles as belonging to them and which were stolen the night their cabin had been robbed. Walk was soon put under arrest and was brought to Bellefonte, on Tuesday evening, in the custody of J. G. Woodring, who had been deputized by constable Cowher. A search was then made for Fink who was found at a house. In some way or other he had cut himself and was unable to come along on Tuesday, but was brought down here Wednesday night. Both men assert their innocence.
NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.
—Miss Elizabeth McKibben, of Spring street, has gone to Lima, Ohio, to visit friends.
—Mrs. J. B. Polegore, on her way from Lewisport to Williamsport to attend conference, tarried in town for a few days this week the guest of her niece Miss Devling.
—Mrs. Catharine Humes and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth, came home last night, from Philadelphia where Miss Humes has been seriously ill for weeks. They have taken Mrs. Tate's house, on Spring street, where they will go to house keeping in a few weeks.
—Aaron Lutz came down from his home near Houserville, on Tuesday, to tell us that he is going to move again. Well, not for that purpose, alone, but to attend to other business as well. Aaron is going to locate near Linden Hall this time.
—Burdine Butler, of Howard, was in town yesterday. He says this weather is a little hard on candidates, but as Burdine looks healthy as a pine knot we imagine he has a lap or two on the weaker fellows who are training with him.
—Rev. J. W. Rue and H. H. Harshberger are in Williamsport attending the Methodist conference now in session in that city with Bishop Vincent presiding. Mr. Rue is a uniting worker and he certainly ought to be gratified with the report he has for conference.
—Samuel Brugger, of Unionville, spent a few hours in town, on Tuesday. Mr. Brugger is one of the foremost civil engineers in Central Pennsylvania and takes a great deal of pleasure in dabbling in geology. In truth his research in this line is his principal pastime now-a-days.
—Jake Truby, of Phillipsburg, was in town on Wednesday, lifting the license, for his hotel in Phillipsburg. It was the last day on which the license could be issued. While here Mr. Truby announced that he would not be a candidate for congressional honors in this district.
—P. E. Meyer, Harris township's aspirant for commissionership, spent Wednesday night in this place getting closer to old friends and making new ones wherever possible. Of course there is always an inclination to make sport at the expense of a candidate, but they have a good time all the same, during their visit over the county and get acquainted with hosts of nice people they never heard of before.
—Willowbank street's popular grocer and all-around favorite dropped in to say a few encouraging words yesterday morning, but notwithstanding the contagious nature of such good fellowship we couldn't feel as jolly as he looked, because we are living in awful dread of another flood. Our visitor was Mr. John Roundtree, but then there is hardly any use of telling you that because you had all guessed it before.

THE LATEST SWindle.—Says an exchange is the one worked on the honest farmers and country store keepers. The swindler claims to be a treasury detective looking for counterfeit coin. He asks the farmers and storekeepers to submit their coin for his inspection. He puts on the silver dollars a chemical solution which turns them black, declares them spurious, and takes them with him. He also warns his victims that they are liable for arrest for having counterfeit money in their possession, and causes them to keep very quiet about the matter, thus helping him along in his work of bunco.
THANK YOU, MR. BAILEY.—The Magnet is nothing, if not truthful, hence we appreciate the little compliment it paid us, in its Wednesday's issue, in the following:
The DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN has not only added a fine newspaper press to its equipment but it is also making some important changes to the paper itself. We shall look forward to it eagerly, because the WATCHMAN, typographically, has always been a credit to the journalism of this place.
PASSENGER RATES REDUCED.—The Central railroad company of Pennsylvania has reduced the passenger rates from Bellefonte and intermediate points to Phillipsburg and stations west of Phillipsburg, including Clearfield. Good service added to the fact that there are no tedious waits at transfer points has made this line between Bellefonte and Phillipsburg the popular route. It is not the most direct road to Phillipsburg, but by reason of close connections it is the shortest in point of time by more than one hour.
WALKER TOWNSHIP LOST ITS CASE.—In the case of the overseers of the poor of Spring township versus the overseers of Walker township, regarding the support of certain paupers, the Superior court, on Wednesday, affirmed the finding of the common pleas court which was in favor of Spring township.
MARRIAGE LICENSES.—Following is the list of marriage licenses granted by orphans' court clerk, G. W. Rumberger, during the past week:
John W. Ilgen, of Spring Mills, and Emma R. Breon, of Sober.
W. P. Rothrock, of Sparrows Point, Md., and M. Elizabeth Garner, of State College.
Franklin T. Whitehill, of Lemont, and Maud Riley, of Boalsburg.
Clarence C. Isenburg, of Phillipsburg, and Clara E. Frank, Point Look Out.
William J. Lambert, of Bellefonte, and Stella Tate, of Spring Twp.
