FARM NOTES.

-Keep the farm work well up, and give the boys Saturday afternoon for recreation.

-The great secret of easy cultivation of corn is to have the ground mellow and to get the start of the weeds.

-Eggs are cheap now, but considering the fact that the hens can pick up nearly all of their food the eggs cost but very lit-tle, being nearly all profit.

-A hog will feed upon almost anything if he has the opportunity, and is spurred on by hunger, but the best growth and the best meat are procured by laying out his rations systematically.

—An old cow may be giving as good re-sults as one that as younger, and if so she should be retained as long as she can con-tinue profitable, as she will not bring as good a price for beef as a heifer. Old cows are also more manageable, and that is a very important matter in considering the merits of a cow merits of a cow.

-If the soil requires nitrogen the cheapest mode of securing it is to grow clover ; but a farmer should not wait before supplying nitrogen to his soil. The clover may be ready next season, but it will pay to use nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia to get the desired results this sea-

-About two ounces of linseed meal added to the food of a horse once a day will cost but little and greatly add to the condition of the animal in assisting to regulate the bowels and improve the coat. It is "inconsidered the best of all remedies for "hide bound," and is highly relished by all classes of stock.

-We should keep our hog pens clean of not only the visible dirt, but should des-troy any vermin or seeds of disease which may have lodged there. A hog will wallow in filth, but his health is better if he has clean quarters. A free use of white-wash and carbolic acid will go far toward increasing the profit.

-The science of feeding is much better understood than it was a generation ago, but there is still room for considerable im-provement. Ten head of young cattle, well fed and comfortably kept, will bring a better return than 20 left to shift for thousand the start the start the start themselves ; but caution against the other extreme, lest we interfere with digestion and appetite.

-While the horses are young make it a constant effort to teach them to be rapid walkers ; there is no better way to increase their capacity for work. See that they have a change of food occasionally ; they should not have an exclusive corn diet after they get at the heavy spring work ; and give them something better than a hard floor to sleep upon. Something can be gained with a small walkers ; there is no better way to increase

Something can be gained with a small strawberry patch by turning the runners into the rows instead of allowing them to grow out into the paths. When the young plants of this year are kept clean and the soil loose the runners will quickly take root, and, hence, plenty of fertilizer should be given so as to enable the runners to grow rapidly without depending upon the parent for subsistence.

for subsistence. -Do not neglect to grow a crop of car-rots. There is nothing more highly rel-ished by cows and horses than carrots, and they can be kept over winter with less it are authorized to announce A. R.
