THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Only two weeks more remain to the weary candidate.

Col. Spangler spoke to a large gathering, at Mahaffey, on Saturday evening.

Governor Hastings is stumping Illinois and Indiana for McKinley. He opened his tour at Chicago, and has spoken every night since.

The tabernacle will hardly be taken to Phillipsburg this fall. It is getting so cool that it is impossible to keep the structure comfortable.

Fanbles' great $5.00 values in clothes are exciting the attention of men who are wanting a good ready-to-wear suit at a price that is unusually low.

The Evangelicals will hold a chicken and waffle supper, on Friday and Saturday evenings, of this week, in the basement of the church, on Willowbank street. They will also have the best of ice cream and oysters. Go and help a good cause.

A man by the name of Barthus, at Mt. Eagle, has a pumpkin vine that grew two enormous pumpkins this year. One of them is 33 inches long, 50 inches in circumference, and weighs 87 lbs. The other weighs 90 lbs.

The up town merchant who can afford to employ a carrier boy who blows in seventy five cents on a single "round," down town, certainly can have no room for the assertion that certain branches of trade are not paying.

A company has been formed at Phillipsburg to mine the coal on the lands of the Steiner estate. A. W. Marks is president, Capt. C. W. Fryberger is secretary and treasurer, and W. G. Dunsmore is to be superintendent of the operations.

Some Bellefonte people got scared, on Saturday night, when the weather bureau signals read: "Look out for a terrific hurricane, approaching from the south Atlantic coast." Everyone who heard the reports ran home to close their windows, etc., but the storm, like the letter in the song, never came.

In last week's WATCHMAN it was announced that the tramps who had robbed the Snow Shoe post-office had been found guilty before the U. S. court in Williamsport, but it was not known then that Charles Gray, the only one of the four who wore a McKinley button, got the longest sentence. The judge sent him up for two years and two months.

Ralph Bingham, who is no longer the "Boy Orator," but one of the best impersonators and elocutionists on the American platform and a violinist of real genius, will give an entertainment in the Methodist church at this place on Monday, October 26th. The press notices of him are most flattering and his audiences are always delighted.

Centre county Pomona grange, No. 13, will meet in the hall of Progress grange, Centre Hall, at 10 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday, November 24th. This is the last meeting for 1896, and will embrace a large variety of business pertaining to the order in which all patrons are interested. All 4th degree members are entitled to be present and take part in the discussions.

Invitations are out for the marriage of James Reuben Rose, of Allegheny, and Miss Lulu Reid, of Connelville. The wedding is to take place on Wednesday, the 21st, at Connelville. Mr. Rose, who after his course at State College, was here for some time helping perfect his father's fuel gas machine, has many friends here who wish him well and congratulate Miss Reid.

A company for the manufacture of fire brick has been organized at Karthaus, Clearfield county. The officers are president, E. I. Gilliland; vice president, F. L. Coudreit; secretary, J. A. Heckendorn; treasurer, J. S. Brier and superintendent, J. A. Black. As all are reputable business men in that locality it is likely that they will make a success of the proposed enterprise. It has a capital of $10,000.

A man about 32 years of age, rather good looking, a dark mustache, five feet ten inches high and wearing a gray suit, imposed on the family of D. W. McCloskey, about 5 miles west of Romola, a few days ago. He professed to be out of a job and offered to work for them for his board until he could find work. They gave him an asylum for three days, then he slipped away in the night and a watch, two shirts, two pounds of bologna and a lantern went with him.

One week from to-day will be Arbor day. Will not our citizens and the Village Improvement Society waken up to their duty in this matter of tree planting. Our town is badly in need of them for many have died for want of care and attention and more have been ruthlessly cut or dug from the hillsides, leaving them bare, brown and barren. Consider the influence of trees upon springs and water courses, their influence upon climate and moisture, if you don't care for them as a thing of beauty, and then realize how few you are planting and how many you are using. The work should not be left to the school children or an occasional tree lover, but should be undertaken and pushed by every property owner in the town and county. If you don't love a tree for its beauty and shade, plant one for the coming generation or the adornment of your town.

AN ENCOURAGING DEMONSTRATION FOR SILVER.—Wednesday night was anything but a satisfactory one for the silverites of Bellefonte, but notwithstanding the rain an old fashioned crowd came to the county seat to help the rally for Bryan and free silver.

It had been billed that Hon. Geo. A. Jenks, of Brookville, one of the oldest and best known Democrats in the State, and Col. J. L. Spangler would address the meeting in the court house and that building was crowded when ex-county chairman J. C. Meyer called the gathering to order.

Special trains were run over the Bellefonte Central and Central rail-road of Penna., and the way Ferguson, College, Patton, Benner, Walker and Marion townships turned out told all too plainly that the silver sentiment in those districts is not a mere fad, but a reality that will prove its substantiality on November 3rd. There were a hundred enthusiasts from Ferguson. They boarded the special at Pine Grove crossing and Bloomsdorf, and were joined at the College by ninety more, with the excellent band that has not deteriorated one jot since it carried off second prize in the tournament of the bands of Centre and Clinton counties. It was a jolly crowd on that train and they made things lively. Upon arrival here the band headed them and they marched to the court house amid the blaze of fire works and lusty cheers for Bryan.

The delegation from Marion and Walker numbered one hundred. They did not have a band, but were none the less sincere in their determination to let the world know where they stand in the great struggle for a money which will rest as easy in their hands as in those of the bankers and stock gamblers. At the court house another demonstration was being prepared. The junior Bryan and Sewall free silver club, in full regalia, with bicycle corps, and four boys carrying a litter on which master Earl Achenbach was perched in significance of "the dollar of our daddies," was forming. The Undine band headed them when they swung into line and were followed by the College band. The parade covered three squares and was a decidedly pretty spectacle. They were cheered all along the line and enthusiasm reached the pitch that made political spirits run nearly as high as they did in the great marching campaign in 1880. The parade was dispersed at the court house and a large portion of the crowd was unable to get in to hear the speeches.

After calling the meeting to order Mr. Meyer proposed its organization by the election of a president. C. M. Bower Esq. was the unanimous choice. When he took the platform he thanked the audience for the honor conferred on him and then the following vice presidents were elected: S. Peck, H. S. Shaffer, J. C. Sauer, Chas. E. Decker, W. H. Fry, Joseph Dunkle, Benjamin Gentzel, G. H. Leyman, Haupt Leathers, Ed. Roop, I. J. Driess, Amos Garbick, H. J. Rothrock, Charles Whitmer.

Col. J. L. Spangler was called for and his appearance was greeted with prolonged cheers. The Colonel made one of his characteristic speeches, chuck full of vim and leaving no bridges behind him in his advocacy of the cause of silver. During the course of his remarks he took occasion to explain why certain untruthful charges are being circulated about him in his relations to the coal region, a full account and denial of which we publish on the fourth page of this issue.

The Hon. George A. Jenks followed Mr. Spangler. It had been years since this noted Democrat talked to a Centre county audience, but with the advance of age he has lost none of the force that has characterized him in all of his brilliant career. In a most pleasing and convincing argumentation he presented the truths of the silver cause and, coming from such an one, they carried conviction to every listener. The meeting was a great success, when the condition of the weather and the fact that a great meeting had been held in Phillipsburg the night before and the ox roast at Millheim yesterday were considered. If it indicates anything, it points to a great triumph for silver in Centre county.

A SKIN GAME TO CATCH DAIRYMEN.—It seems that every class of business men must be made the object of swindlers at one time or another. One of the latest schemes is calculated to catch creamery and dairymen.

Secretary Edge, of the state department of agriculture, calls attention to the fraud and it is hoped will save many from being fleeced. He reports that an article is being offered for sale in various parts of the State, guaranteeing to increase the amount of butter which may be made from a given amount of milk or cream. In one case the mixture is guaranteed to make two pounds of butter from one pound and one quart of sweet milk; in another it is guaranteed to make an equal amount of butter from one quart of milk and enough cream to make one pound of butter.

In every case thus far in which these compounds have been examined by the department it has been found that alum and acetic acid enter largely into them to produce the result claimed for the mixture. Either of these ingredients, the secretary states, has the power of coagulating or thickening the cheesy matter of the milk and cream in mixing it with the butter produced from the fat; consequently the mixture produced is neither butter nor cheese, but it is simply a mixture of the two, and not marketable as butter. The department is considering the propriety of proceeding against those who sell these mixtures.

Clearfield had a light fall of snow on last Wednesday night.

There are five cases of diphtheria and three cases of scarlet fever in Lock Haven.

The Globe warns the public to beware of fakes in its advertisement this week.

There is a four foot flood on the river at Lock Haven as a result of the constant rain on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Among the 511 students who are attending the West Chester Normal school this term are two from this county: Lillian Glossner, of Blanchard, and George Glenn, of Shingletown.

Miss Jane Guyer, aged 82 years, died at the home of her brother Caleb, in Tyrone, on Sunday morning. She was a sister of the late Rev. George Guyer, well known in this county.

Cora McCormick and Harriet Maurer, two Tyrone girls, rode to this place and returned on Saturday. Quite a long ride and considerably further than any runs attempted by Bellefonte wheel-women.

NOT A HIGH VALUE OF LIFE.—There was a murder at Snow Shoe, on Sunday. One Hungarian killed another and to show the estimate the authorities out there placed on the dead "dago" they telephoned in here to know if they would get paid if they went to catch the murderer.

In justice to the officers of the law in the vicinity where the murder was committed we feel bound to state that constables have been meeting with what they claim is very skippy treatment in all parts of the State, and are loath to do anything unless they are sure the law will sustain their claim for payment.

In a case like this, however, it seems very strange that when a human life had been taken no effort was made to apprehend the guilty one until a question of pay had been settled.

THE THIRD VICTORY.—The Pennsylvania State College foot ball eleven won their third consecutive victory, on Beaver field, last Saturday afternoon, when Dickinson went down by the score of 8 to 0.

The visitors proved more than a surprise to the home team by playing all around them in the first half and so successful were their rushes through State's line that the ball was once within two feet of her goal line. There State took a decided brace and saved herself, but Hayes deserves nearly all the credit for having prevented the score. He is a new man who has been put at full back since Joe Thompson went out of the game with a broken ankle, last Wednesday. He will likely be a fixture. His punting was superb and he got into the plays with a daring and a purpose that ought to prove a "line" to some of the others on the team.

In the second half the lecture that Dr. Newton, State's trainer, had read his men, proved of some use and two touchdowns resulted before time had been called. Neither one resulted in a goal. The team will practice until the 24th when they go to Princeton. The following Saturday Bucknell will be played at Williamsport.

THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD IN SESSION.—The annual session of the Synod of the Presbyterian church of Pennsylvania and West Virginia convened in the Presbyterian church, in this place, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. There were about two-thirds of the 210 delegated members present at the opening session, but later trains during the day brought many more, so that by evening there was almost a full representation of the body.

Synod began in prayer, led by Dr. S. A. Martin, President of Wilson college, Chambersburg. No. 1 hymn was then sung and the scripture lesson was read from the Acts of the Apostles. Following this Rev. Dr. John E. Stockton, of Erie, past Moderator of the body, delivered his sermon. It was based on the text found in Acts 8: 13, "Then Philip opened his mouth and preached unto them, Jesus." It is said by many of the visiting ministers to have been one of the deepest sermons, from a theological standpoint, that has ever been delivered before that Synod. At the conclusion of the sermon Synod adjourned until 2 o'clock. Immediately upon convening after dinner the election of a moderator was declared in order. Rev. Dr. William Laurie, of Bellefonte, had been prominent in the talk of a suitable presiding officer and while he would have appreciated such an honor he felt that his position as pastor of the entertaining church made it impossible for him to go into the contest with propriety. In a neat word of thanks for any friendship manifested in the suggestion he declined to permit the use of his name. Then Dr. Loyal Y. Graham, of Philadelphia, was unanimously chosen. Two secretaries were selected and the committee on synodical sustentation took up the rest of the afternoon in the reading and discussion of its report.

This work of the Synod is among its largest labors. During 1895 there was expended in this work about $30,000, aiding over one hundred ministers and a like number of churches. The amount of money expended was even less than the demand, and the committee for 1896 undertook to increase the contributions one half. The report showed that it had only partially succeeded. There was a general meeting in the church last evening in support of this branch of the work, when a very lengthy discussion was entered into by the delegates.

WAS IT MURDER OR SUICIDE?—Joseph Garbor was shot and killed about a mile above Clarence, on the Beech Creek railroad, near Snow Shoe, at 4 o'clock last Sunday evening. Andrew Flaxzo, a fellow Slav has disappeared. A third Slav, the only witness of the shooting, is unable to tell whether it was murder or accident. The dead man has been buried, the rains have washed his life blood from the bushes about the spot where he fell and district attorney Singer has nothing more than the story of a foreigner on which to unravel a mystery.

Last Sunday afternoon, after a party of eight Slavonian miners at Sugar Camp, near Snow Shoe, had gotten outside of as many gallons of beer, Andrew Flaxzo, who has been at the camp only a month, called his friend, Joseph Garbor, who has lived in the region for years and bore a good reputation, aside and talked with him. Flaxzo then secured a shot gun and Garbor put his ammunition in his pocket. They called a third companion and started for the woods. All the men were good friends and boarded at the same shanty. Flaxzo was about forty rods ahead of the other two, when he turned and asked for some ammunition to load the gun. After loading he started off again and was considerably in the lead when the new powder house of the Lehigh company was reached. There Garbor called to him to come back, but he would go in another direction. He turned and advanced to within 10 feet of Garbor, without saying a word, and threw the gun to his shoulder. There was a loud report and Garbor fell dead. A heavy charge of b b shot had plowed a hole through his left shoulder and neck. The jugular vein was torn off and the man lay on the ground, his life blood spurting in every direction.

As soon as Flaxzo had realized what he had done he dropped the gun and, looking at his companion, said: "Jesus, Mary, what have I done?" He fled from the scene, but did not return to his own shanty. He went to another shanty and changed his hat and coat, then he took three shirts and disappeared.

There is a very marked difference of opinion as to the killing. The two men are known to have been fast friends ever since they met. There was not a quarrel. But then, why did Flaxzo run away? Possibly it is because he, being ignorant of our laws, did not know that if he was innocent it would have been his best plan to have remained. Then again, it is said that his victim belonged to a secret order among his fellows and that possibly Flaxzo feared an avenger. At all events he ran away and no trace of him has been found. He is six feet or more tall, 26 years old, and is rather a fine looking fellow.

The gun that was used has now a second human victim. About five years ago some Hunts out there were shooting mark, on Sunday, and after one of them had missed a hat, that was being used for a mark, one of his companions turned up his body and cried: "Here, hit this." The marksman threw the gun to his shoulder, in a joke, but the quick jerk he gave it sent it off and the human target had actually been hit. Some think that Flaxzo's shot was the same kind, that he had no intention of shooting his companion.

MISS PARRY, THE FAITH HEALER ARRESTED.—There was a little flurry in this place, on Saturday, when it became known that Dr. A. Hibler, acting for the board of censors of the county medical society had made information against Rebecca Parry, the christian scientist.

Miss Parry has been located in this place for some time and has been carrying on what she professes to be a system for healing human ailments by faith. It is claimed by believers in her work that she has been successful in several cases in the town and it is a well known fact that several people, who had been chronic invalids before her advent, have discarded their doctors and are now apparently in the best of health and spirits.

It was the dismissal of the doctors that has set them to wondering what right such a practitioner has to set up against them, after they have complied with the costly requirements of law, in such cases.

Miss Parry was summoned to appear before justice Keichline, on Saturday morning, and did so. For some reason the case was then postponed until afternoon. At 3 o'clock quite a party assembled in the justice's office to hear the proceedings. They were very tame, however, as the defendant denied that she practiced medicine and produced witnesses to prove that she performed cures solely by faith. The case was dismissed, though it will be revived if two similar cases, that are now being tried in the eastern part of the State, are successful.

Miss Parry's last patient was Maud Meyer, the little daughter of Mr. W. T. Meyer, of this place. She was suffering with enlargement of the glands of the neck and underwent several operations for their removal. As fast as they were taken out, new and larger growths would appear so that physicians gave the case up and Miss Parry took charge of her. The latter claims to have prolonged the little girl's life by several months, and is confident that at two stages in her illness she had the disease under control, but that some slight indiscretion on the part of the patient undid the good effect.

This thing of faith curing is not a new experience to Bellefonters. There have been a number of christian scientists here at different times in the past and while there has been considerable talk about their work we are unable to view them as any other than harmless.

SWEET POTATOES.—Will receive a car of fine sweet potatoes to-day. Price per barrel, of three bushels, $1.25.

J. D. SOURBECK.

Lyon & Co's new advertisement in this issue will be likely to prove very satisfactory reading to the purchasing public. That well-known firm make a general statement of the many great bargains they are offering and invite the public to take advantage of them. They can do no more. They have the goods, they make the lowest prices, now the people should buy where they can buy the best.

REV. GRANT HAS BEEN MOVED.—Rev. H. A. Grant, who has been pastor of the A. M. E. church, in this place, for the past two years has been moved by the conference of his church, that just closed its session at Washington, Pa. and will be sent to Scranton. Rev. C. N. Woodsen has been appointed to come to Bellefonte. Rev. Grant was an exceptionally intelligent colored man and his departure from Bellefonte will be regretted.

A FAIR FOR CENTRE AND CLINTON COUNTIES.—On Wednesday the following anonymous communication was received at this office, bearing a Lock Haven post mark.

What do the progressive farmers and business men of Centre county say to electing delegates to confer with delegates from Clinton county on organizing a union fair to be centrally located. Considering the resources of two counties and the excellent accommodations for travel, there is no question but that this project would be a success. What do you say?

What do you think of the idea? Whose ever suggestion it is, it is a very good one and liable to find favor with people in this section.

Here is the chance for the committee that was appointed last year to consider a reorganization of the fair association. If possible for Centre and Clinton counties to unite on such a project it would assume very extensive proportions.

We ought to have a fair. What do you think of the union plan?

A WELL KNOWN OLD RESIDENT GONE.—There are few people in Bellefonte who did not know the late Isaac Haupt and his acquaintances were not limited to the town in which he has spent the last thirty nine years, for all through Clearfield county merchants will hear of his death and remember him well, by the cigar and tinware trade he did with them before he gave up the road.

Isaac C. Haupt was born in Irish valley, Northumberland county, Oct. 17th, 1831. He was quite young when he married Catharine B. Albert, at Lewisburg, and was only twenty-six when he came to this place. Success was his at first and he became owner of considerable property in Bellefonte. The block in which the Republican office is now located, the valuable property fronting on High and Thomas streets, and a mountain farm near Perdue's were all the result of his thrift. At various times he carried on the hardware business, the manufacture of cigars, and the growth of fruit and produce. The condition of business became such that he couldn't begin to realize on his properties anything near what he had put into them and old age and a worked out constitution found him in such straits that nearly all of his savings had to be sacrificed.

A year or more ago stomach trouble began to worry him and add to the depressing effects that his financial losses had on him. Sluffing of the brain set in. He was taken out to the home of his son Theodore, near Roopsburg, and, after having been confined to bed for six weeks, he died on Tuesday.

He was the father of nine children, seven of whom are living: Mrs. Rosella J. Metcalf, Marlboro, N. H.; Mrs. Armina E. McClelland, of Bellefonte; John A., of Tyrone; Theodore B., and Isaac N., Wilbur W., and George Edward, all of Bellefonte. Mrs. Haupt survives also. Two daughters are dead.

Deceased was a member of the Methodist church and was zealous in his attendance thereof, he was also a member of the I. O. O. F. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, p. m.

News Purely Personal.

—Irv. Drees, the man who look# after the Pennsy's interests at Lemont, came down to town, Wednesday evening, to attend the big meeting, of course, but looking as solemn as if he intended paining himself off as a Presbyterian preacher in attendance at the Synod.

—Mrs. Thomas Shaugensy, wife of Bellefonte's superintendent of highways, with her son Thomas, are in Philadelphia, on account of the death of a sister-in-law. While away Tom will enter a hospital and undergo an operation for the improvement of his eyes, which have been troubling him for some time.

—Samuel F. Poorman, one of Bogg's township's substantial farmers, was in town, on Wednesday, making arrangements for the sale of his farm stock and implements. His sale is scheduled for Thursday, November 5th, and he intends selling some fine horses and cattle. Mr. Poorman owns a team of young sorrels, that are beautifully mated drivers, and they will go under the hammer, along with the other things.

—Harry L. Hutchison, passenger agent at the Pennsylvania railroad office in this place, returned from a western trip, on Monday. He left home five weeks ago to visit friends in Illinois, Kansas and other western States, but when he got out there he decided to go farther and finally rounded up at Portland, Oregon. While at Butte, the great Rocky mountain mining city, he ran into a snow storm and says it was very cold. Harry reports that there is nothing but silver talked in the regions he visited.

—Mr. H. A. Snyder, of Blanchard, was in town, on Wednesday, closing up his accounts as administrator of the Markle estate. It has been a number of years since the matter was given into his hands, but conditions of such a nature arose that it was impossible to settle the estate until Tuesday. He is glad that it is finally done, and we can attest to its having been done right, for Mr. Snyder is a man who can be wholly relied upon in any position of trust. He is suffering, just now, with a felon on his thumb.

A PHYSICIAN'S DEATH.—Dr. Samuel Foster Lytle died at his home, in Phillipsburg, last Friday afternoon; a very unexpected and untimely death. He was one of the foremost physicians of that town and though not enjoying the best of health during the last few years he had attended to his practice, as usual, and even on the day he died he had visited a patient. Shortly afterwards he was attacked with a severe pain in his head, something like nausea. Hurrying home a physician was summoned, but he went into a stupor and died a few hours later.

Samuel Foster Lytle, son of Griffith and Susan Lytle, was born in Harris township, this county, on October 14th, 1851. His early education was secured in the public schools and at the Pennsylvania State College. After reading medicine with Dr. J. Y. Dale, of Lemont, he went to the Bellevue hospital medical college of New York. He graduated from that institution in 1875. Soon after he located in Phillipsburg, where he was in active practice up to the time of his death.

Deceased married Nannie Crissman, of Phillipsburg, on August 28th, 1879. She survives him. Four brothers and three sisters are also living. Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon.

WHAT REV. HICKS HAS TO SAY ABOUT THE STORMS.—"My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm waves to cross the continent from October 1st to 5th, and 7th to 11th. The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 12th, cross the west of Rockies country by close of 13th, great central valleys 14th to 16th, eastern States 18th. The warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 12th, great central valleys 11th, eastern States 16th. The cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 15th, great central valleys 17th, eastern States 19th.

The notable feature of this disturbance will be the cool wave to cross the continent from the 15th to the 19th. It will be a cold wave and will cause much snow and freezing in the northern latitudes, and killing frosts in the northern parts of the cotton belt. This disturbance will also bring the heaviest rains of the month to the southern States and inaugurate the coolest week of the month."

FOOT BALL AT HECLA PARK.—The enclosing fence has been completed about the new athletic field at Hecla park and the foot ball season will be opened there, tomorrow, by a spirited game between the Phillipsburg team and the Bellefonte Academy team.

Last season these eleven played a very exciting contest in which the academicians were victorious by the score of 10 to 0. There is every reason to believe that a much more interesting game will be played to-morrow.

The railroad company has made the low rate of 40 cents for the round trip, including admission to the game. Besides the interest of the opening of the new grounds the Coleville band will be there to give concerts during the afternoon.

The foot ball special will leave the station, at the foot of Lamb street, at 1:30. Remember that to-morrow will be the day and that the round trip fare will be only 40 cents.

HEAVY WORK ON A SAW MILL.—The Clearfield Raftsmen's Journal tells of the following heavy work that was recently done on a saw mill at La Jose.

"The best cut of lumber ever made by any saw mill of its class in this county was made on the La Jose mill, of the Clearfield Lumber Co., Ltd., on Oct. 9th, 1896, when they cut more than 125,000 feet in one day, much of it small sizes as evidenced by the fact that there were 5,000 pieces 2x4 made in the day's work."

It is a remarkable performance in view of the fact that the logs cut averaged eight logs to the 1,000 feet."
