Here Are Some Hints for Your Holiday

Needles Should Be Flying.—Pretty Bits in the Line of Fall Fancy Work. Bag for Buttons and Papers, Letters and Spools.

"If you want to look right sew your buttons on tight" is the motto painted in water colors on a novel button bag that is being finished for the holidays. The main part of this bag is one-half yard of two-inch ribbon, and its construction is quite simple. Fold the ribbon in half and in the fold place a spool of patent shoe thread; above it on the silk lightly mark a line in order that when a row of machine stitching is run across the spool will be held in place, but not so tightly that the thread cannot be unwound. Above the thread pocket made a similar pocket for the paper of needles, then one for the scissors, and above this join the sides of the ribbon to form a small bag. Turn down the rough edges of the ribbon and make a liam street, Williamsport, Pa. narrow easing in which a small cord is to be run. This, not only draws up the little button bag, but serves to hang up the en-To the back of the bag attach six buttonholed leaves of white flannel for the needle book. The motto can first be outlined on the ribbon with a soft pencil red and olive green make a very dainty, pretty bag.

Papers that accumulate in odd corners are often a source of despair to the thrifty housewife, and I am sure that such a newspaper case as I saw yesterday would be of greater use, as it is large enough to hold a quantity of papers. It is quite decorative, and one might be put in every bedroom, as well as in the library or sitting room. To make such a case, a yard of fancy matting in rich deep colors, is required. The selvedged edges form the sides: the rough edges are somewhat difficult to manage and the best way is to turn them down and fasten them along at reguintervals with patent brass fasteners, clenching them on the wrong side. Trim off the ends of the straw neatly. Turn up the lower end and tack it to the back with twine and a carpet needle, and finish the sides with large bows of satin ribbon, attaching two big brass rings at the top, by which to hang up the case. Decorate the front with a bunch of dried grasses or work "Papers" across it with heavy worsted.

A piece of satin 15 inches wide and 10 TO THE GOOD OF ITS PEOPLE AND GLAD inches deep forms a charming sewing bag. This is to be folded in half and sewed up the side and bottom. The portion forming the top is cut to fashion four tabs two and a half inches in depth. The bag is lined throughout with silk or satin, forming a sort of binding at the top of the tabs, and is drawn up by ribbon drawn through a casing. The sides are trimmed by bows of ribbon and frills of lace, and on the front is embroidered the initial of the person for whom the bag is intended, surrounded by an Empire wreath. This bag develops prettily in black and blue satin, with "bis-

A handsome case for a writing pad is of white linen, mounted on a pasteboard foundation, 12 by 8 inches. The front is daintily decorated with pink clover done in water colors, and a pink moire holds the pad to the cover, which has a bow at the top to correspond. Attached to the upper and under sides are loops of leather for holding pen and pencil and for holding the covers together.

A pretty hanging letter holder is useful for the desk, and is easily made, the back is cut from cardboard, fancifully shaped and covered with plain silk, elaborately embroidered with flowers in embroidery silk. To this section is attached a pocket of bright figured silk, gathered near the the top to form a frill, and finished at the bottom with silk tassels. The holder is ornamented at top and sides by bows and ends of wide satin or silk ribbon.

At the matinee the other day I noticed a dainty trifle that contributed to the comfort of its pretty owner, who kept in it her operaglasses, vinaigrette, handkerchief, coin purse and bonboniere. looked closely at the bag, and will tell you how it was made. The bottom was a circle of pale green brocade, about five inches in diameter. The sides, of velvet, measured about 13 inches in depth and about 21 in width. These were pleated on the circles, the two ends joined up and the top was turned over three inches to form a frill. Below this was a casing, through which was run velvet ribbon one inch in width, to draw up the bag. Decorating the sides and concealing the openings, where the drawing strings came out, were two bows of wider ribbon, and over the velvet point d'esprit lace was arranged, in double box pleats, the upper edge tacked to the velvet to keep it in an upright position. The bag was lined with pale green China silk, and the Frenchy decoration put on as a finishing touch was a spray of pink chrysanthemums.

The Gulf Stream.

Remarking upon some of the geographical charts now available to the student of physical science, it is pointed out by a writer that elsewhere in the world there is not so majestic a flow of water as the gulf stream, a remarkable body having its headquarters in the gulf of Mexico, from thence flowing northeasterly along the shores of the United States to the banks of Newfoundland. Then, rushing across the Atlantic ocean to the British isles, it is divided into two currents, one flowing northward to the Atlantic ocean, the other southward to the Azores, and the velocity of this immense flow being also more rapid than that of the Mississippi at New Orleans or even of the Amazon at 100 miles above its mouth. Phenomenal, too, is the fact that, although its bed and banks are cold water, yet the vast stream is very warm, and so great is the absence of affinity or commingling between these waters that their line of junction is distinctly visible to the eye. Further, the waters of this wonderful stream do not in any part of their course touch the bottom of the sea. They are de-fended at the bottom and sides by what has been termed a trough of cold water, one of the best nonconductors. Consequently very little heat is lost, and the warm water is carried thousands of miles, losing only four degrees of heat on the journey from the gulf of Mexico to the Beet Sugar Factory Started.

The Wisconsin Sugar Beet refinery, the only establishment of this kind in the northwest, has opened its doors for the manufacture of sugar from 10,000 acres of sugar beets grown from a carload of seeds imported from France by Waukesha county farmers. The beets are being delivered at the rate of 1,500 wagon loads per week, and the outcome of the experiment is awaited with interest by growers and dealers of Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Kansas.

BELLEFONTE ALIVE.

When you know a good thing tell it.

It will not lessen its goodness.
But will degood to others.
If you've been cured, tell it.
There's more misery just like it.
Waiting to find out how.
There are lots of lame backs in Bellefonte.
It's a bust place and backs are used.
There's urinary troubles to a large extent.
Ever notice how many people over forty complain?

The kidneys are the cause; not the colds. Keep them in shape and life is life. You can do it easily and pleasantly. No nauseating disturbances.

No effect except on the kidneys. But that effect is quick and permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills do perfect work.

Boan's Ridney Pills do perfect work.

Bellefonte is full of their praises.

Mr. Geo. Gross of Water street states:—"I have had kidney and bladder trouble for ten years. About that time I hurt the lower part of my back and while I am not certain that was the real cause of my complaint, I do know that it has been growing worse and worse year after year. Talk about suffering. If you want backache and stitches and sharp shooting pains that I believe would cause death if protracted, just get a good dose of kidney complaint. And if that was not enough for any ordinary man to put up with frequent urination with a burning or scalding sensation accompanying it was added to torment the existence out of me. It seemed as if I never would get rid of it and I don't believe I ever would if I had not got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Green's drug store. The old Quaker remedy cured me, at least I have had no return of my old complaint and I hope I never will. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and take great pleasure in doing so for I know if other men try them, afflicted like I was, they will obtain the same results."
