The Art of Kleptomania.

How an Alienist of High Repute Paid Dearly for

Not so many moons ago there lived in Turin a physician noted far and wide as a specialist in brain diseases. Men and women from all ends of the earth came to him with their troubles and ailments, with lost memories, hallucinations, and mental vagaries as varied as the materia medica or the penal code. Uniformly courteous and graceful of manner, he afforded them such assistance of consolation as his skill of sympathy prescribed, and waxed rich and popular as his fame expanded. With the development of fortune, for his fees were in proportion to his prominence, he cultivated a pleasing taste for those precious relies of antiquity in which millionairs alone are privileged to indulge. He had in his library a collection of costly objects of art —invaluable coins, rare jewels, costly statuetts, inimitable trifles chased by the chisels of great artisans of antiquity. The fame of his treasures was loud in the world's ears with the note of his skill, and among collections his was as great a name to conjure with as among alienists.

One day there came to the residence of Dr. A. an American gentleman of dignified address and that portliness of mien which vice.

address and that portfiless of linear which is presumed to reflect lofty position and wealth. Admitted to the great man's office, the visitor introduced himself as a banker who had come all the way from Chicago to consult him about the condition of his wife. At considerable length he explained her misfortune—she was a klep-tomaniae. His life was a burden to him, following her from store to store, continually guarding her reputation against the encroachments of her fingers. Though it had cost him thousands his wife knew nothing, suspected nothing of her own weakness. Nor should she ever know if he could prevent it. To consult Dr. A. they had come thousands of miles, and on his skill and learning the hopes of the husband were pinned. The great physician asked a few questions and expressed deep interest in the case, and demanded that "If I have brought her to consult you as a physiit I'll take her to call on you as a collector of antiquities. She is deeply interested in ancient jewelry, and the ostensible object of our visit will be to discuss archeological remains. Do not be disconcerted, however if during the interview you find her pilfering, slipping your relies and coins into her umbrella or pockets. That is the ailment, and, of course, whatever she takes will be returned to you at once. My references are So and So, bankers." This with much dignity and the production of documents. Dr. A. much flattered, made the appointment and bowed his patient to the door. Next day the unhappy husband and a stylish and handsome young woman presented themselves at the physician's residence. They were formally ushered into the library, where the gems of the great man's collecwas turned at once on the objects of art, and Dr. A. with wonderful subtilty, conversed on antiquities while obtaining material for his diagnosis. He brought out Thursday afternoon Rev. J. C.
