TWO LITTLE STOCKINGS.

Two little stockings hung side by side, Close to the fireplace broad and wide.

One Christmas Eve.

Disguised as a Beggar, the Christ Child seeks shelter - A German Legend.

Here is a Christmas story that has been told the little children in Germany for many hundreds of years.

But the little child seemed to have no home and wandered on from street to street.

Again and again the little child rapped softly at door or window pane.

He soon reached the end of the street and went straight up to the window from which the light was streaming.

closer to the window pane. So sweet seemed the mother and so loving the children that he took courage and tapped gently, very gently, on the door.

The child ran to the door and threw it wide open. The mother saw the little stranger, cold and shivering, clothed in rags, and his little feet almost bare.

They turned and looked at the spot where the little wanderer was. His ragged clothes had changed to garments white and beautiful.

The little room seemed to grow larger, the roof of the low house to expand and rise until it reached the sky.

With a sweet smile the child looked upon them for a moment and then slowly rose and floated through the air, higher even than the clouds themselves.

Again the Christmas-tide is here with its beautiful story, older than the story of the cross, and as dear to the heart of the Christian believer.

Back into the dark street he went. Coming to another happy home, where he heard the song and laughter of merry children, he climbed up the broad steps and gently tapped on the door.

Money in the Mouth

It is Dangerous as Well as Dirty to put Coins Between the Lips.

"Did you notice that?" asked Dr. J. J. Clarke, of San Francisco, of a fellow traveler on a Sutter street car.

"What he drew attention to was a Chinese passenger, who, when asked for his fare, took a nickel from the interior of his left ear and gave it to the conductor.

"A queer place for carrying money," He said. "I know of many old places that people carry money in, but that is the oddest."

"It was with a view of drawing your attention to a dangerous practice that I asked you to look at that Chinaman," said the doctor, and then he nudged me to look in the direction of a well-dressed lady who had a moment before taken her seat and was fumbling in her purse for her fare.

"Did it ever occur to you that the practice is a dangerous one and the source of more disease than many people imagine? Does that lady know where the coin was before she placed it in her mouth? It may not have been in the ear of her Chinese laundryman or cook, or it may not have been in the pocket of some individual afflicted with a contagious disease?

"The practice," added the doctor with some vehemence, "is not only dangerous, but it is positively disgusting, and I cannot understand why so many ladies are given to it."

Why they should be well wrapped and dainty. Each year the festive season is more and more exacting in the daintiness of Christmas packages and the "whity-brown paper parcels" that gave delight in Dickens' books are gone beyond recall.

Gifts are more strongly individualized and made characteristic of the giver if apt quotations or original witticisms are inscribed in some unique way on the packages, inside or out, and after the narrow ribbons are wound about them and tied it gives a very original look to the packages.

People are coming to believe more in the value of first impressions and they wish their gifts to appear to the eye of the receiver with a pleasurable anticipation of the package's contents.

Books admit of being very cleverly wrapped, and of giving some outward and visible sign of their inward and spiritual grace—all depends upon the sender.

CATARH IN THE HEAD.—Is due to impure blood and cannot be cured with local applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured hundreds of cases of catarrh because it purifies the blood and in this way removes the cause of the disease.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with every one who tries them.

Refused the Wrong Beggar. "I never refuse the plea of a beggar," says a leading member of Congress.

"Once upon a time I was in St. Louis on business. It was winter, and you know how cold that town can be when it tries hard. I was out on the street at 11 o'clock one bitter night when a chap struck me for a dime.

"There was a big snow storm that night, and next morning they found him in a drift, frozen stark and stiff. I saw the body and recognized it. The pale face was pinched and drawn with hunger and suffering, and the eyes were as wide open as yours—great big blue eyes, sunken back in their sockets, and staring at me in an awful way.

A Story from Real Life. Gotlieb Eckman, the homeless old man, who was found sick and helpless in Finckes' stable, in Allegheny, last October, with his face and body gnawed by rats, died in the Allegheny city home on Friday the 18th.

Eckman, who was 61 years old, was a Swiss, but lived in this country more than 25 years. At one time he was a prosperous watchmaker, but continued sickness and the death of his family made him an outcast.

The FACT THAT DOCTORS—Frequently advise change of air and climate to those suffering from catarrh is proof that catarrh is a local and climatic disease. Therefore, unless you can leave home and business, you should use Ely's Cream Balm.
