Lost Cause of Greece.

BOYD A. MUSSER

HUGH S. TAYLOR,

The cause of Greece appears almost hopeless in the face of the recent disaster she people of such high sensibilities the masses globe and it is lamentable that internasubstantial service in her extremity. If retary Long, of the navy, followed close on the great powers of the world would the ex-President's heels. awaken to the cries of humanity and help the Hellenes, in their valiant struggle in a carriage with General Porter and against the Turkish butcherers, and not be Mayor Strong. His reception was flatterrestrained by that sordid greed for territory | ing in the extreme and he bowed repeated that cries: Hands off, until the fast approaching day when the Ottoman empire mayor, and the open barouche in which shall crumble and fall and you shall have they were seated drew up in the centre of your portion! there might be something to the plaza, where it took its place at the go down in history that would illumine head of the line. Man's injustice to man finds a most forcible illustration in the discontent that is said to prevail in Athens, where the bit- parted by the Twenty-fourth street enterest denunciations of the royal family are being made. It was almost hoping against hope that Greece would be victorious, but she has not, and the Sultan of Turkey has practically vindicated, as such vindications go, his actions in the merciless butchery of first to enter the stand. He leaned on the christians. Upon the escutcheons of stronger and professedly more enlightened nations there will be a stain for not having interfered and blotted out his infidelity forever.

-County chairman HUGH S. TAY-LOR has called a meeting of the county committee for Monday, May 3rd. It is to be hoped that there will be a full turnout of precinct chairmen on that day, as nothing is so enervating to successful political organization as apathy on the part of its leaders. While it might appear to some that there is little use in stirring up for all that will be in the balance next fall such a view is truly a most unfortunate one. The Democratic party of Centre. county should be on the alert at all times. Every minute it should be wide awake and doing something to strengthen itself. It is only by success in small campaigns that greater achievements are made and now that the utter failure of Republicanism is beginning to effect the stomachs and backs of the masses, Democracy should not fail to grasp the opportunity that presents itself. Let us get together in firmer, more aggressive, more determined unity than ever. Our cause is right, right is might and might ing of heaven on the ceremonies. Many will prevail.

-In another column of this issue we publish an article that should prove interesting to pensioners and soldiers in general. It is over the signature of MATT SAVAGE, whose success in the pension business has been almost phenomenal, and it is understood that Congressman ARNOLD has very kindly consented to aid in securing all the rights of the ex-soldiers in the dis-

THE IMMORTAL GRANT.

There was a Great Pageant in Honor of a Great Hero.-All the States Were There.-And With Then Men Who Wore the Gray Took Part in the Ceremonies.-The Land and Sea Display.

NEW YORK, April 27.-When the sun rose over fair Manhattan on this day of days in her history of patriotic pageants, he found a cloudless dome awaiting him. The prayers of a million or more had been answered and a storm seemed impossible. The ceremonies proper began at sunrise, when, from the tall flagpole near the tomb was flung the immense American flag furnished by the Daughters of the Revolution. There it will fly night and day, in fair weather and foul, until the winds have worn it away and the suns have faded its has met in arms and as is natural with a colors. The military escort included geant and ten men of troop A. In the meantime the diplomats had detrance, leaving the way clear for the Grant family, the cabinet and others.

The Grants left the hotel by the Fifth Grant, and the others followed. Altogether they occupied eight carriages.

The initial step in the parade was made

The President, with bared head, was the arm of Mayor Strong, who kept his hat on. The President was loudly cheered, as was also ex-President Cleveland, who appeared with ex-Secretary Tracy. Mr. Cleveland and President McKinley shook hands with each other as soon as they met. The two then conversed for a moment.

waiting for the ceremonies on the stand to commence, President McKinley, vice President Hobart, and ex-President Cleveland had their photographs taken in a group. The exercises commenced with the singing of "America." A solemn silence then fell on the dense crowd as the venerable Bishop John P. Newman invoked the blessof the people joined in the "Our Father which concluded the bishop's prayer.

General Horace Porter, president of the Grant monument association, then delivered the oration of the day.

Mayor Strong responded in accepting the monument on behalf of the city: After prolonged cheering President Mc-Kinley, on behalf of the nation spoke. Fellow Citizens: A great life dedicated to the welfare of the nation; here finds its earthly coronation. Even if this day lacked the impressiveness of ceremony and was devoid of pageantry, it would still be memorable, because it is the anniversary of the birth of one of the most famous and best-beloved of American soldiers.

All the foregoing was done at the tomb stayed on the platform after the President of General Grant. The ceremonies were of the most impressive order. The description of the land and navy parade follows

The veteran Merritt led the first division, and the natty West Pointers called forth salvos of cheers as they followed. New York's famons Seventh was no more heartily cheered than was Maryland's superb Fifth, while the solid ranks of Pennsylvania sons, led by Governor Hastings, had the same showered upon them that greeted the guardsmen from New Jersey, Ohio and Massachusetts.

Of the naval part of the demonstration the grand division lay at anchor in the river in sight of the tomb, while the merchant marine division was located in the lower bay, awaiting the word at 2 o'clock for the start of the head of the column. The general division was under the command of Rear Admiral Francis H. Bunce, U. S. N., and staff. The anchored vessels were the New York (flagship), Massachusetts Columbia, Maine, Texas, Indiana, Raleigh, Amphitrite and Terror.

modore. Rear Admiral Osborn, with the America for a flagship, was in command of the whole. The signal "dress up" was the first manœuver of the day, and the nimble stars were upon every yard and rigging in a trice. Strings of flags were run up from the stern to the masts and down again to the bow. The United States ensign flew at the stern of all our warships, and at the fore of all the foreign vessels. The American warships headed the line, which was made up with the flagship New York at the head. Of the foreign warships H. M. S. Talbot was given the position of honor, her commander, Captain E. Gamble, being the senior officer. The dispatch boat Dolphin lay off above the warships, decked profusely in bunting. She was to carry the President later, when he reviewed the naval parade.

An interesting feature was the parade of the merchant marine, which was divided into four divisions.
